COOLIDGE CHECKS 'DRAFT' BY REFUSAL OF WYOMING PLEA

State Committee Is Told He "Must Decline" to Grant Request That He Run.

REPLY MADE BY SECRETARY

Indirect Letter Is Regarded as Notice to Party Leaders of Determined Position.

FESS TAKES IT AS FINAL

He Thinks Response to Formal Resolution Means President Would Reject Nomination.

By RICHARD V. OULAHAN.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—President Coolidge has applied the brakes a little harder to the "draft Coolidge" movement by sending a laconic message through his Secretary to the Republican State Central Committee of Wyoming that he "must decline" to grant its request that he run for President again.

The request was contained in a resolution adopted by the Wyoming Committee on March 10. It is not without significance that the text of the indirect response of the President, dated yesterday, was given out by the White House this evening.

The Wyoming Committee said in its resolution that "the general good of the people of these United States would be enhanced by a continuation of the Administration of Calvin Coolidge," and called on the President to "waive his personal preference and continue for an additional four years that leadership which has brought honor and prosperity to this country."

Letter to Wyoming Committee.

The response sent in behalf of the President to Chairman Hinkle of the Wyoming Committee reads as follows:

The White House,
Washington,
March 20, 1928.

My dear Mr. Hinkle—

The President has received your letter of the 17th, enclosing a copy of the resolution adopted by the Republican State Committee of Wyoming on March 10. While he, of course, very greatly appreciates and thanks you for the expressions of confidence, the President directs me to say that he must decline to grant the request of the committee.

Sincerely yours,
EVERETT SANDERS,
Secretary to the President.

Hon. L. C. Hinkle, Chairman, Republican State Central Committee, Cheyenne, Wyo.

Among the few in political circles who knew of this message tonight there was a disposition at first to attribute little importance to it. It was regarded as adding practically nothing to Mr. Coolidge's "I do not choose to run for President in 1928," given out at Rapid City, S. D., on Aug. 2 last, and his more definite declaration to the same effect contained in a speech to the Republican National Committee in Washington on Dec. 6.

But more thought devoted to the matter seems to have brought the conviction to some politicians and political observers that this latest utterance on the subject from the White House has considerable bearing on the present situation in the Republican Party with reference to choosing a candidate for President this year.

Seen as "Notice" to Leaders.

One shade of opinion was that the President desired, in answering the Wyoming resolution, to serve notice on Messrs. Hilles, Morris and other leaders of the "draft Coolidge" group that he was not in sympathy with their movement.

To those who hold that view significance is attached to the fact that the President did not respond directly to the appeal of his Wyoming party admirers. Instead, he sent an indirect answer through his secretary, thus, it is argued, indicating that he had said his last word about not choosing to run when he spoke to the National Committee last December, and did not believe that the situation required any repetition on his part.

Another shade of opinion obtainable tonight is somewhat akin to this, in that it construes the President's declination of the Wyoming invitation to change his mind as a definite announcement that he is entirely out of the running.

It is contended in this connection that if the President had any reservation concerning his two declarations on the subject, he would have contented himself at the most with having his secretary merely acknowledge the receipt of the importunate resolution without committing himself in the least.

Method of Informing Country.

The fact that the President caused his Secretary's answer to be given to newspapers soon after it was sent is being interpreted as meaning that Mr. Coolidge was anxious to have the country know that he still was adhering to his "I do not choose" principle, without dignifying the Wyoming resolution by a direct response.

At any rate there appears to be a feeling here that the President's latest utterance on the subject will afford no comfort to the "draft Coo-

Ameer Gets Thrill Seeing London From Plane; He Is First Royal Personage to Fly Over City

Copyright, 1928, by The New York Times Company.
By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, March 21.—Ameer Amanullah flew over London today, gaining not only the "greatest thrill the West has yet given me," but the added distinction of being the first royal personage to view the British Empire's capital from the air. Thus Britain's Oriental visitor, the absolute monarch of Afghanistan, did what no Western ruler has dared to do in England.

When he emerged from the plane at Croydon after the aerial sightseeing tour, he was radiant and smiling, and he said:

"The experience has delighted me."

Flying in a giant three-engined Imperial Airways liner, the Afghan King saw London in all its vastness stretched beneath him. The sky was a dull gray, but visibility was fairly good. As he flew along at an altitude of about 2,000 feet, he first passed over the industrial suburbs of South London and then circled over the Tower of London. Then the King, who had been sitting at the second window from the front, crossed the cabin to look out on the other side.

He gave an exclamation of delight, for there below was Buckingham Palace, where he was received with so much pomp and stately ceremony last week. The Houses of Parliament, the Thames bridges and finally Croydon Airdrome passed beneath.

Then the plane made a perfect landing and the Ameer stepped out.

Seventeen passengers, mostly members of the Ameer's suite, rode with him on this twentieth-century magic carpet. At first it seemed that there would be trouble over royal Afghan etiquette, for the Ameer was placed in the second seat, which meant that two of his subjects would have to turn their backs to him. That would have been a flagrant breach of the amenities. The tangle finally was adjusted by making the two in front sit backward facing the Ameer, who continued to enjoy the best view from the second window.

All the others in the plane stuffed cotton wool into their ears to keep out the sound of the motor, but Amanullah put on earphones instead so that he could listen to the pilot sending wireless messages to Croydon and receiving answers from the ground.

Once before the Ameer had been up in a military plane, but never in a giant airplane.

How quickly the Ameer is progressing in English was indicated when he arrived at the airdrome and greeted Sir Samuel Hoare, Secretary of State for Air.

"How do you do?" the Ameer said. It was the first English sentence he has been heard to utter since his arrival here.

PUBLIC BUYS HEAVILY IN SOARING MARKET

Flood of Orders From All Over the Country Sends Stocks Up 2 to 17 Points.

Exceeds 3,000,000-Mark for Ninth Day in Succession—Times Average at New Mark.

The flame of speculative excitement which appears to be sweeping the country from coast to coast, concentrated on a dozen or more favored stocks, mounted higher and higher yesterday. It recorded the ninth consecutive five-hour day on which the Stock Exchange turnover has been in excess of 3,000,000 shares and it brought advances ranging from 2 to 17 points to a short list of securities which have caught the public's fancy as speculative media. The turnover was the third heaviest in history.

The steady flow of new orders for stocks, insistent and impressive and apparently backed by virtually unlimited capital, pushed the average of fifty representative stocks on the Exchange yesterday to the unprecedented height of 189.96. This top figure, the highest since records have been maintained, represented an average advance of these fifty stocks of 1.52 for the day. Twenty-five representative industrial issues gained 2.67, also reaching a new peak, and twenty-five railroad shares, of the same sort, gained .37. Sales on the Stock Exchange aggregated 3,817,900 shares and from present indications last week's tremendous total of 20,476,450 shares, turned over in six days of hectic trading, will be broken by this week's total.

Steel and Motors Lead.

The twin industrial giants, United States Steel common and General Motors, were the real leaders. The former, usually a slow and sedate mover, took on some of the attributes of its boisterous neighbor, Radio, and added four points net. General Motors gained 4¾. Both gains were established under such a tremendous volume of trading as to leave Wall Street observers gasping at the Midas-like wealth involved. Five-thousand-share blocks appeared frequently on the tape, and many of the single transactions involved more than a million dollars.

The Street, as well as the country, appears to have cast completely into the discard all factors which under ordinary circumstances would bring market unsettlement. These include a volume of general business moderately below last year, sharper competition among corporations engaged in identical lines, freight car loads which are running consistently below last year, increases in unemployment at many centres and other indicators of barometric value. Rather, closest attention is being paid only to the state of the money market. With money in such quantities rolling into Wall Street every day, the market is lashed to fresh endeavors and the march up the ladder of fluctuations is consistent and steady, with only momentary interruptions.

Call Money Rate Lower.

Yesterday the call money rate was 4¼ per cent., the lowest since March 9. It represented an easing of one-fourth of 1 per cent. and was caused by a fresh influx of funds seeking employment. Under ordinary conditions a large part of these funds would be tied up in commercial investments, in payrolls and materials in various states of manufacture. Under present conditions, both because of their own affluence and because of rather quiet conditions in many lines, corporations generally are seeking less money from banks than is usually the case. A surplus, therefore, has accumulated, and as this backs up in the thousands of banks throughout the country it is forwarded to New York for temporary employment in a vehicle which is safe and from which withdrawal may be made at a moment's notice—a call loan on Stock Exchange collateral.

There is another and more important factor in the market's flare-up. It is the extent of public participation. It is true that in most cases, particularly in such stocks as Steel, Radio, General Motors and other "blue chips" pools have started them going, but it has been the enthusi-

COOLIDGE PRESENTS MEDAL TO LINDBERGH

He Bestows on Airman for Paris Flight Congressional Award, Highest Nation Can Give.

FLIER HOST IN AIR TO 100

Urges on Committees of Congress Higher Rank for Army Airmen to Improve Service.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, who has been many times decorated in this and foreign lands for his memorable flight across the Atlantic in May, received today from President Coolidge the Congressional Medal of Honor, the highest award of the American Government in recognition of a noteworthy deed.

Less than fifteen minutes were required for the ceremonies, which took place in the White House grounds at noon and were witnessed by a large audience, including notables and numerous visitors to Washington, many of whom had never seen the "Lone Eagle" before.

The exercises were exceedingly simple, consisting only of the reading by President Coolidge of the citation for the medal as outlined in the act of Congress bestowing it.

Just ten months ago Colonel Lindbergh hopped off from New York in the Spirit of St. Louis on his non-stop flight to Paris.

The President presented the medal to the flier in the name of Congress. First he read the act and afterward congratulated Colonel Lndbergh simply.

Act Awarding the Medal.

The full text of the act is as follows:

"An act authorizing the President of the United States to present in the name of Congress a medal of honor to Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh.

"Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America, in Congress assembled,

"That the President of the United States be, and he is hereby authorized to present in the name of Congress, a medal of honor to Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, United States Army Air Corps Reserve, for displaying heroic courage and skill as a navigator, at the risk of his life, by his non-stop flight in his plane, the Spirit of St. Louis, from New York City to Paris, France, on May 20, 1927, by which he not only achieved the greatest individual triumph of any American citizen, but demonstrated that travel across the ocean by aircraft was possible."

After he had placed about the shoulders of Colonel Lindbergh the blue ribbon of the medal, the President, in concluding the ceremonies, said:

"I offer you my heartiest congratulations."

Notables at Ceremony.

Those who witnessed the presentation included Vice President Dawes, Speaker Longworth; the majority and minority leaders in the Senate and House, Senators Curtis and Joseph T. Robinson, and Representatives Tilson and Garrett, respectively; Secretary of War Davis, Secretary Wilbur, Postmaster Gen-

4-YEAR TERM BILL IS KILLED IN SENATE; SMITH'S MOTIVE HIT

Republican Leaders Refuse to Heed Views of Wickersham, Davis and Whitman.

CALL MEASURE POLITICAL

Presidential Campaign Brought Into Debate by Senator Fearon.

REACTION IS PREDICTED

Sheridan Declares the Effect of Republicans' Step Will Be Seen In Next Election.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 21.—In the face of contrary advice from the former State leader of their own party, ex-Governor Charles S. Whitman; the former Republican Attorney General of the United States, George W. Wickersham, and the last Democratic candidate for the Presidency, John W. Davis, all of whom were members of the commission which reorganized the State Government, the Republicans in the Senate today killed the four-year Gubernatorial term proposal.

A roll call on the motion to discharge the Judiciary Committee from consideration of the bill brought a straight party vote, the motion losing, 26 to 24.

The three members of the Reorganization Commission had written letters in accordance with the plea of Governor Smith that they restate the recommendation of the commission on the four-year term.

Urge Resubmission to People.

They wrote to Senate Leader John Knight and Speaker Joseph A. McGinnies of the Assembly that the vote last Fall on the proposal, with its provision for elections in Presidential years, was not a fair test of the popular attitude on the lengthened term and urged the submission in the form supported by Governor Smith, with election in non-Presidential years.

When the Governor's long campaign came to a showdown on the floor of the Senate, however, the Republican opposition had not yielded. During the height of an acrimonious debate Speaker McGinnies occupied a seat next to Senator Knight and both remained unperturbed as Senator Thomas I. Sheridan, Democrat, of New York City, shook his finger at them and served this warning:

"Two men who are not enrolled Democrats, the majority leaders of this Legislature, have done the most for the Democratic Party. You are continuing your record. You have now simply to wait for the next election. Then you will get the reaction from the Governor's appeal."

Stand on Former Referendum.

Senator Knight and Senator George R. Fearon, Republican, of Syracuse, arguing that the referendum last year had shown the people to be against any four-year term, taunted the minority with what they called the "insignificant response" to the Governor's plea for pressure on the Legislature from the State at large.

Governor Smith, his advisers and his political aspirations were brought into the debate as Senator Fearon went on to assert that both the Republicans and the Democrats, led by "their candidate for the Presidency," knew that the four-year term was entirely a political matter.

Politics in the proposal could not be avoided, he insisted, since the up-State Republican vote fell off to 50 or 60 per cent. in non-Presidential years, while the metropolitan Democratic vote remained at virtually 100 per cent.

"When there is no reason you give us vehemence;" answered Senator Sheridan. "Never mind about Presidential aspirations. The fact is that last Fall Senator Knight said the four-year term was necessary for governmental efficiency and now he won't have it. It is the old situation where the Republicans won't do anything that by the wildest imagination might reflect any glory on the Governor."

Assemblyman Maurice Bloch, Democratic leader, will move discharge on the bill in the lower house tomorrow and the same fate is anticipated.

Prince of Wales Somersaults From Horse In Race, Landing on His Feet Uninjured

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, March 21.—After several successful cross-country races in the past few weeks, the Prince of Wales was catapulted over his horse's head today in the Welsh Guards' Inter-Regimental Challenge Cup Race at Ripsley. He landed on his feet uninjured, but the fall was so peculiar that for a moment there was much alarm for his safety.

The royal rider was leading after the seventh fence when his horse floundered in crossing a small stream. The Prince kept the saddle and was trying to steady the horse when the bridle reins broke in his hands.

Thrown high over the horse's head, the Prince turned a complete somersault and landed in the soft clay on the bank.

As the other riders came thundering behind him, the Prince ran swiftly out of the way, smiling as they flashed past him.

"It's all right, carry on," he shouted, then walked to the road and was driven back in an automobile to the starting point.

OIL COMMITTEE OFFERS TO HEAR FALL, BUT HE BALKS PLAN, PREFERRING COURT; STORM IN SENATE OVER SLAP AT SMITH

ROBINSON FACES HOT FIRE

DEMOCRATS ARE AROUSED

CITES INDIANA INDICTMENTS

Smith Reply Is 'Quite Complete,' Says Nye—Misinformed by a Republican Here.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—The Teapot Dome boiled in the Senate again this afternoon when Senator Robinson of Indiana made a second attack on Governor Smith of New York because eight years ago the Governor had named Harry F. Sinclair a member of the New York Racing Commission. In a voice pitched in a loud and high key the Indiana Senator sought to make it appear that Sinclair had been an important member of Governor Smith's administration.

In the half hour that the debate lasted Mr. Robinson was under the constant fire of Democrats and not one of his Republican colleagues came to his aid.

It was revealed today that Senator Nye of North Dakota, who had stated he was told that Sinclair had contributed liberally to Governor Smith's campaign in 1920, obtained his information in a letter from a prominent New York Republican, written on the stationery of the Republican Club.

Senator Nye stated that the Governor's denial that Sinclair had contributed to his campaign was "quite complete."

It may be that the writer of the letter will be subpoenaed by the Senate Oil Committee and asked to give the source of his information and in the event he has no sources to disclose what person or persons, if any, suggested writing the letter received by Senator Nye.

Senator Heflin in his most heated moments has never quite reached the frenzied altitudes to which Mr. Robinson ascended today in his second effort to discredit the Governor of New York. Time and again the Democrats interrupted him to ask pointed questions as to Republican political conditions past and present in Indiana or since the beginning of the Ku Klux Klan régime that has played so important a part in the politics of that State.

Avalanche of Sarcasm.

Near the end of his attack on Governor Smith, Senator Robinson, to use the words of Senator Caraway of Arkansas, got himself "into an awful mess." Referring to Governor Smith and Mr. Sinclair, the Indianan used the expression "birds of a feather flock together." This brought an avalanche of sarcasm from the Democrats.

That the Democrats would reply to him was evidenced before Robinson concluded, and the man selected for the task was Harrison of Mississippi, who in biting tones named some of the men who he said had been or still are political and personal intimates of the Indiana Senator.

Those he named included D. C. Stephenson, ex-Dragon of the Indiana Klan, now serving a life term in the penitentiary for murder; ex-Governor McCray, recently paroled from the Federal prison in Atlanta; Edward Jackson, the present Governor who when arraigned on an indictment charging fraud and corruption had pleaded, said Senator Harrison, the statute of limitations.

After each of these names Harrison quoted Robinson's words, "birds of a feather."

The gallerier were in an uproar during the debate, and no matter how hard the Vice President banged for order, he could not get it. It was a scene the like of which has seldom been staged in the Senate. Robinson's colleagues, including Senator Watson on the Republican side, sat silent. Not one offered to extend a helping hand as Democrat after Democrat arose to challenge the accuracy of Robinson's statements or retort with stinging irony.

While Harrison was speaking Robinson's face was a study. To the galleries it seemed as if he was stunned by the fierceness of the Mississippian's onslaught.

Nye Will Write to Governor.

As the facts involving the attack on Governor Smith began to leak out today Senator Nye, Chairman of the committee investigating the Continental Trading Company angle of the oil scandal, made it known that he would write a letter to Governor Smith setting forth the matter as it came to the attention of the North Dakotan.

A letter was received by Senator Nye on Thursday. It was written on the stationery of the Republican Club, New York City and the name signed to it was that of a man quite well known in Republican organiza-

Court Upholds Seizure of $100,000 from Blackmer; Sustains Contempt Action Against Missing Oil Man

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—Harry M. Blackmer, missing witness in the Teapot Dome oil case, today lost his fight before the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia to prevent the confiscation by the Government of $100,000 of his property for failure to return to this country to testify, and at the same time Justice Frederick L. Siddons of that court upheld the validity of the Walsh act of July 3, 1926, which was passed to enable the Government to deal more effectively with fugitive witnesses.

The Court held that the Government has the power to take the property of Blackmer, as an absent witness, who has refused to return to this country to testify.

Justice Siddons today overruled a motion to dismiss the contempt proceedings against Blackmer. The motion was grounded on the contention that the Walsh act was invalid. Justice Siddons, in a memorandum opinion, holds that the act is valid. This means that the contempt case must be tried on its merits and that, theoretically, Mr. Blackmer must come before the bar of the court for trial. He will not appear, however, as his counsel have already notified the Court that he has no intention of leaving France, where he now resides.

Questions of law involved in the contempt case were settled by the opinion. There now remains the questions of fact, and for all practical purposes these have been settled as Blackmer did actually refuse to obey the summons to appear as a Government witness.

Commenting upon the case Justice Siddons said:

"It appears clear that the allegiance of a citizen of the United States, though actually living in a foreign jurisdiction, includes the duty of obedience to the laws of the sovereignty to which the allegiance is due. Indeed, without such obedience such allegiance would be but an empty name."

FINDS NO OIL BONDS IN HARDING ESTATE

Newspaper Man Absolves the Late President After Search of Marion Records.

ALL THE SECURITIES TRACED

Numbers Do Not Correspond With Any of Those Held by the Continental.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, March 21.—The St. Louis Post-Dispatch today published the following story written by a staff correspondent of The Post-Dispatch from Marion, Ohio:

"An inspection of the records of the estate of President Harding, which the correspondent was permitted to make today, established that he possessed none of the Continental Trading Company's Liberty bonds, with some of which Harry F. Sinclair accomplished his lease of the Teapot Dome oil reserve. Senator Nye, Chairman of the Senate Teapot Dome Committee, announced in Washington Monday that the committee would search for Continental bonds in the estate of the late President.

"Ledgers kept by C. D. Schaffner, executor of the estates of both President and Mrs. Harding, show that President Harding possessed $182,750 worth of Liberty bonds and that Mrs. Harding possessed $83,300 worth of Liberty bonds. These bonds bought by the Continental company in the promotion of the Teapot Dome deal were of the First Liberty bonds, issued in 1917, and were all of $1,000 denomination.

"President Harding possessed $41,000 worth of the first loan bonds, but none was of a $1,000 denomination and their serial numbers did not correspond with the serial numbers of any of the Continental bonds, for which the Senate Committee is searching. Two of Mr. Harding's first loan bonds were for $500 each, six were for $5,000 each, and one was for $10,000. Mrs. Harding had none of the $1,000 first loan bonds.

Estate Records Complete.

"The records of the Harding estates are unusually complete and minute. Schaffner, who rose from a post of messenger boy for the Marion County Bank, in which Mr. Harding was a stockholder, to its head, was a methodical executor as a result of his long bank training, and his records show every bond of the estate, the serial numbers, their origin where possible and disposition.

"Schaffner was discharged as executor in 1925 and some of the papers of the estates, such as canceled checks, have been turned over to Dr. G. T. Harding, the President's father. However, Schaffner said today that it was his recollection that for every one of the numerous liberty bonds in the estate, there was a canceled check, showing that the President paid cash from his own personal funds.

"The total of bonds in President Harding's estate was approximately $250,000. The difference between that sum and the $182,750 of Liberty bonds was chiefly in other Federal Government bonds and war savings certificates.

"Nearly the whole of Mrs. Harding's $300,000 estate was in bonds. Those not Liberty bonds were chiefly municipal bonds of Marion and surrounding Ohio cities.

"Nor does it appear that the Senate Committee, if it chooses now to pursue its search for bonds in the sale by President Harding of The Marion Star in 1923 would be any more successful in finding any Sin-

DEAL WITH UPHAM DENIED BY MARSH

Ex-Democratic Treasurer Denounces as 'Baseless' Story of Hiding Party Contributions.

GOT NO CONTINENTAL BONDS

Witness Tells Senators He Did Not Receive E. L. Doheny's Gift to Party Deficit.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—No Continental Trading Company bonds nor any of its money was applied to paying off the 1920 deficit, or any other deficit of the National Democratic Committee, Wilbur W. Marsh of Waterloo, Iowa, declared today. Mr. Marsh, who from December, 1916, to January, 1924, was Treasurer of the party, testified before the Senate committee investigating the Continental company's activities in the Teapot Dome scandal.

Mr. Marsh also denounced as "baseless" statements that he and the late Fred W. Upham of Chicago, the Treasurer in 1920 of the Republican National Committee, had entered into an agreement not to file reports of contributions to party deficits received in the years immediately preceding the national conventions in 1924.

In Chicago last week while testifying before a subcommittee of the Senate Committee Irl G. Hipsley and A. V. Leonard, who were Secretaries of the late Mr. Upham, declared that an agreement had existed between Mr. Upham and Mr. Marsh; that the two men were close friends, and were often in communication by telephone. Mr. Hipsley said that at least on one occasion Mr. Marsh had met Mr. Upham in the latter's offices. Hipsley said he knew it was Marsh at the other end of the wire because Mr. Upham would say, "Hello, Marsh."

Marsh Brings His Records.

Mr. Marsh was the only witness today.

"Do you recall," Senator Walsh asked, "reports dealing with contributions you filed in pursuance of the law?"

"Prior to and after each election," replied Mr. Marsh, "we filed reports as to all receipts and expenditures. The report for 1924 was handled by my successor."

"Some evidence was given in Chicago," said Senator Walsh, "to the effect that an understanding or agreement between yourself and Mr. Upham had existed in relation to the filing of reports?"

"There never was any such agreement, never any understanding," Mr. Marsh replied. "After the 1920 convention, I went home on a stretcher. I was about finished. After 1920, I was Treasurer only in name, the finance records being handled by clerks in my office, and in the national headquarters of the committee.

"I want to say," he continued, "that my relations with Mr. Upham were cordial and friendly. But I never was in his office in my life. Our meetings were casual always. All Democratic contributions are of record and have been from the beginning. None of them have been destroyed. There were no contributions we were not willing to make public. I have with me a complete record of the 1923 contributions."

This was the year that Sinclair contributed so heavily to the Republican deficit of the 1920 campaign.

"Were there, in 1923, any unusual contributions?" Senator Nye asked.

NYE GETS FALL'S REFUSAL

Ex-Secretary Indicates He Wants No Visit From Senators.

CALLS THEIR IDEA UNFAIR

He Had Previously Been Quoted as Willing to "Tell All" About the Oil Leases.

INVITATION WIRED TO HIM

Doctors Assert He Could Not Stand Trip From El Paso to Washington.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—Senators directing the oil inquiry had visions late this afternoon of at last getting ex-Secretary Albert B. Fall's story of Teapot Dome and the Continental Trading Company, subjects on which his lips have been sealed. Their expectations were based on newspaper reports from El Paso, where Fall is living, that he had declared he was ready to "tell all."

But late tonight these hopes were dashed. The ex-Secretary sent word to the committee from El Paso that he preferred to testify in court and not before a Senate subcommittee which waited word from him to go to the Texas city.

Some early statements of the Secretary were published saying he was willing to divulge facts of the oil leases the Senate Committee dispatched a telegram to him saying the committee was ready to hear his story.

Senator Nye, Chairman of the committee, received a telegram late tonight from Fall, expressing the opinion that the telling of his story would more properly belong to court action.

Just what course the committee will pursue was not revealed tonight. Senator Nye announced receipt of the telegram from the former cabinet officer, but declined to comment on it or speculate as to what action the committee might decide upon.

Text of Fall's Telegram.

The text of the telegram follows:

El Paso, Texas, March 21.

Hon. Gerald P. Nye,
Sir:

You are, of course, thoroughly informed of proceedings now pending in the District Supreme Court at Washington, D. C., and doubtless know that an application for a continuance on my behalf is now pending. Referring to this matter I made a statement quoted by you in the telegram from you of this date.

Depositions of witnesses have been made in this criminal case. I stated that I was ready to have my deposition taken here in any manner requested by the court and that I desired the whole truth to be told and would offer no objections to any questions that might be propounded to me touching any phase of this entire matter.

I know nothing whatsoever of the Continental Oil Company or any of its actions except as I have heard them testified to in court or read them in the newspapers of the country. I have no knowledge whatsoever of Mr. Sinclair's contributions to any campaign fund except as hearsay.

I know of the matters concerning the three naval oil reservoirs and, of course, I know more or less of the financial transactions recently testified to by Mr. Everhart concerning the Three Rivers ranch property. What I meant to say, I mean now to say, is that I am perfectly willing to testify to all matters within my knowledge upon the subjects indicated.

With respect to your committee and the Senate, I may state now positively, despite what is known as the McLean letter dictated by me and addressed to the committee, I was ready and willing later to give all information in my possession to the committee, but by the terms of Senate Resolution No. 54 I regarded myself as having been convicted by the Senate and a committee, and feared that testimony given by me before the committee and not under the protection of a Court would have tended to convict me is a judicial farce.

Thinks It Better to Wait.

My understanding of the law has been and is that with my co-defendant, Mr. Sinclair, can propound interrogatories and the Government cross-interrogations in the judicial proceedings pending and use my answers as if I were present in court. Do you not think it best to await, temporarily, the Court's action in the premises?

I stated in a written communication to Senator Walsh at Palm Beach, that I might have something further to say at a future day upon the subject of this investigation. May I now be allowed respectfully to request that if at any time after considering the matter suggested, the committee decides to interrogate me, that Sena-

Very respectfully,

ALBERT B. FALL.

The committee's decision to send a subcommittee to El Paso, from where, according to his doctors, Fall is in no physical condition to travel, was reached in executive session late this afternoon. Immediately after adjournment, Senator Nye telegraphed to Mr. Fall as follows:

Washington, D. C., March 21.

Albert B. Fall,
El Paso, Texas.

Newspaper reports current here quote you as indicating a desire to testify concerning matters under inquiry by the Committee on Public Lands and Surveys concerning naval oil leases and Continental Trading Company. Purported interviews with you quotes following paragraph:

"I want the public to know my story. I want to tell the whole story and not just part of it. I will make no objection to giving an answer to any question the Government may care to ask me."

Subcommittee will proceed to El Paso at once to take your testimony if you are ready and willing to testify. Please wire collect.

Fall Explains Statements.

By The Associated Press.

EL PASO, Texas, March 21.—Ex-Secretary Albert B. Fall, in a statement tonight which followed others made earlier in the day, said the plan advanced by the Teapot Dome investigators to send a subcommittee to El Paso to hear his story of the oil leasing seemed an "improper and unfair" procedure.

"The honorable Senators," he said, "can travel over the country as they wish, but getting me to testify before matters connected with the trial are settled is something different."

Mr. Fall's physicians declare he is too ill to appear for his trial with Harry F. Sinclair in Washington, April 2.

Declaring he was "willing to tell all" at the proper time and the proper place, the former Secretary asserted that "due regard must be paid to legal procedure." Personally, he added, the time for telling the story could not come too soon for him.

Undue importance has been assumed from newspaper reports saying he wanted "to tell all," Mr. Fall said.

"It seems to me it would be improper and unfair for me to give testimony before a committee asking questions of every sort, accompanied by newspaper men ready to spread it to the world," he declared. "I am willing to 'tell all,' but in the proper way."

He would prefer above all, he continued, to give his evidence in open court, but as that was impossible, he said, he believed the only recourse was in a deposition. His physician's presence would be desirable at the time, so as "not to delay matters," he said.

Referring to a continuance of the reopening of the oil lease case sought by his attorneys, Mr. Fall said Sinclair, his codefendant, had concurred in the request.

"Should a continuance be granted and it appear that the matter was likely to drag for a long time, or even indefinitely," he explained, "then I would be willing to testify before the subcommittee, the committee or anybody in the world."

Mr. Fall said he resented a little the suggestion that testifying before a Senate subcommittee would carry immunity under a law recently passed by Congress.

"I do not want immunity," he said, forcefully; "I want a fair trial and all the facts known. I want to clear myself before the people. At no time, under no circumstances, will I ask for immunity for anything I have done."

Through his wife, the ex-secretary made a statement earlier in the day.

"Mr. Fall is ready to testify whenever his health will permit," Mrs. Fall said. "If he isn't able to go to Washington for the trial scheduled April 2, and his testimony is desired, he is willing that it be taken here."

When interviewed last night, Fall said his side of the story had never been told and that he had always been willing, but had never received the chance to testify.

"I am not only willing, but anxious to testify," he said. "I am not afraid of the facts. They will bear out my acts."

UTILITIES 'SLUSH FUND' CHARGED BY JOHNSON

Senator Says Corporations Plan Dollar Gifts—Walsh Sees Professors 'Subsidized.'

WASHINGTON, March 21 (AP).—The assertion that efforts have been made to collect a "slush fund" to influence public utilities legislation which he said would "beggar" anything of its kind ever disclosed in the history of the country was made in the Senate today by Senator Johnson, Republican, of California.

At the same time Senator Walsh, Democrat, of Montana, charged that public utilities associations were "subsidizing lecturers and professors in colleges to instil in the minds of the youth of the land their peculiar views of public questions."

Senator Johnson read a photostatic copy of a letter which he said had been broadcast by Newton W. Harrison, President of the National Association of Owners of Railway and Public Securities, to holders of such securities, urging them to unite for protection "against unsound public discussion and unwise legislation" and to contribute $1 to that end.

The California Senator declared that if every stenographer, clerk and employe of corporations who had purchased a share of stock in them would make a contribution, the collection would rival any fund ever collected.

The remarks of both Johnson and Walsh were an outgrowth of the recent move by the Montana Senator to have a Senate committe investigate the financing of public utilities.

Mr. Walsh had read into the record an editorial from The St. Louis Star which he asserted disclosed that public utilities associations last year spent $1,000,000 for "educational purposes." He declared that those who helped to put up the money were careful, conservative business men who expected to get results.

BORAH GETS $110 MORE.

He Now Has $3,700 in Party Fund to Repay Sinclair.

WASHINGTON, March 21 (AP).—Contributions of $110 to the "Sinclair repudiation fund" were received today by Senator Borah.

Mr. Borah now has received about $3,700 in cash in answer to his appeal to Republicans to return the $160,000 contribution of Harry F. Sinclair to the Republican 1920 campaign deficit. He did not make public the names of the donors.

FINDS NO OIL BONDS IN HARDING ESTATE

clair connection than it would be in the personal estate of Harding. Chairman Nye has announced that the committee would inquire into that transaction.

Terms of Paper Sale.

"The records of the sale of the newspaper are quite as clear as those of the personal Harding estate. The price paid by the Brush-Moore syndicate was approximately $480,000.

"The ownership of 605 of the 800 shares of the stock of the paper brought Mr. Harding $163,000 in cash, $100,000 of 6 per cent. preferred stock and a ten-year contract for his editorial services, amounting to $100,000. Mr. Harding received $50,000 cash as a down payment. He deposited the money to his personal account and immediately checked on it for the purchase of a $50,000 bond of the Fourth Liberty loan, through the Riggs National Bank of Washington.

"Schaffner, the executor, still possesses that bond, though not as executor, but only as a friend of the President's father, to whom the President bequeathed that sum. Dr. Hardin now is in California and Schaffner forwards the interest on the bond to him.

"The only other bonds involved in the sale of The Marion Star constituted a surplus of $160,000 accumulated over a period of years from profits and which Mr. Harding expected to use in building a new plant for his newspaper. When the sale took place that surplus was disbursed to Mr. Harding and the other owners, chiefly employes, and Mrs. Harding.

"That fund was chiefly in bonds, of which $120,000 were in Liberty bonds. None were first Liberty bonds. Mr. Harding received $97,500 of the bonds in this fund. Those that were Liberty bonds appear in the total given upon his personal estate ledger."

NO BAN LIKELY HERE ON SINCLAIR HORSES

The Jockey Club to Meet Today, but Action Such as Taken in Maryland Is Doubted.

SALE OF STABLE SCOUTED

Trainer and Manager Discount Reports—Turfmen Line Up Behind Oil Man.

The Jockey Club, under whose jurisdiction the important race tracks in this State are conducted, will meet this afternoon at its offices, 250 Park Avenue, but it is highly improbable that this body will take any action regarding the acceptance or refusal of any entries that may be made by Harry F. Sinclair, owner of the famous Rancocas Stable, whose entries have officially been barred by the Maryland State Racing Commission on tracks in that State because of his connection with the Teapot Dome oil case.

Sam C. Hildreth, veteran trainer of the Sinclair horses, was reached by telephone at Sinclair's Rancocas Farm, near Jobstown, N. J., last evening and asked to confirm or deny a statement that Mr. Sinclair, whose racing establishment is valued at close to $2,000,000, had opened negotiations to sell to Hildreth. Frank Hacket, Hildreth's agent and superintendent of the Rancocas Farm, also was reached by telephone. Both declined to be quoted directly, but both discounted the report of such a sale.

Mr. Sinclair could not be reached either at his office in this city or at the Rancocas Farm, where it was reported he had gone.

Attorney Has No Statement.

Martin W. Littleton, Sinclair's attorney, declared last night that there was no statement to make regarding the action taken by the Maryland State Racing Commission.

Algernon Daingerfeld, Assistant Secretary of The Jockey Club, declared that whether The Jockey Club would take cognisance of the ruling of the Maryland officials was problematical.

"We have received no official announcement from the Maryland Racing Commission and if it comes the matter will be presented to the stewards at their regular March meeting tomorrow," said Mr. Daingerfield.

"The stewards of The Jockey Club alone could act in the matter. They make suspensions in all cases involving anything connected with the turf under the jurisdiction of The Jockey Club."

Daingerfield, amplifying his first statement, pointed out that there was a working agreement between the Maryland State Racing Commission and The Jockey Club as well as with other ruling bodies in various States, but only as regards fraud or untoward practices in connection with racing and suspension of jockeys for foul riding.

Turfmen Back Sinclair.

Among turfmen in this city yesterday it was the general opinion that Sinclair would not sell his racing stable, either to Hildreth or any one else. Horsemen declared that they considered the action of the Maryland officials ridiculous, pointing out that it was the first time in the history of the turf in this country, so far as they could recall, where so prominent an owner as Sinclair had been barred from [illegible] was in Maryland, and all of them quickly lined up behind Sinclair and against the action of the Maryland officials.

The barring of Sinclair's horses in Maryland will not be a severe blow to the racing campaign of the Rancocas Farm, though it will keep Mowlee, Sublevado and Nassak out of the $50,000 Preakness Stakes, to be run at Pimlico on May 11. As a matter of fact, the Rancocas Stable has raced only infrequently in Maryland and had only two horses running there last year.

Governor Ritchie Supports Ban.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 21 (AP).—Supporting the action of the Maryland Racing Commission in barring the horses of Harry F. Sinclair, Governor Ritchie announced tonight that he believed it was the commission's duty to "keep racing on a clean and high plane" in the State, despite criticisms which may arise from the move.

BALDWIN TELLS STORY OF HERO 'CHARLIE'

Thrills London Audience and Millions of Radio Listeners With Episode of War.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, March 21.—England tomorrow will ring with the exploit of "Charlie," an unnamed British hero of the great war whom Premier Baldwin immortalized tonight at a banquet to sailors at the Mansion House.

The Prince of Wales was there, fresh and sparkling after his riding mishap, in his new capacity of Master of the Merchant Navy. He made a characteristically witty speech, but it was left on this occasion to the Premier to grip the imagination of these master mariners and millions of British people listening over the radio.

"My story of merchant sailors' courage and endurance in the great war," said Mr. Baldwin, "is about a trawler working in the North Sea patrol and hearing gunfire went to investigate. They sighted two light cruisers and, being a British trawler, attacked. The cruisers paid a tribute to our men by firing two broadsides and left the trawler to sink.

"The only man uninjured was the skipper. His mate—only known by the name of Charlie—was still alive pinned beneath a twelve-pounder gun. The skipper raised the gun, using tackle from a rigging, and carried Charlie to the boat alongside. The lashings were cut just before the trawler sank as the remainder of the crew were dead or dying.

"These two were rescued and Charlie sent to Chatham Hospital for an operation, spent six months on his back. He was invalided with a disability pension. He went straight home to Fleetwood and was met at the railway station by his wife.

"Before he left the station—there was a northwest gale blowing—he heard the life-boat called by gunfire. He was a member of the life-boat crew before the war. He pushed his kitbag into his wife's hands, took his usual place in the lifeboat and helped to rescue a schooner's crew before he went home to supper.

"Let us not forget Mrs. Charlie. As the kitbag was pushed into her hands, in her husband's words she 'said nowt.'

"I do not know Charlie's other name. I do not know if he is living. But if he is listening tonight I would like to tell him that every man here doffs his hat to him."

WILBUR SAYS COOLIDGE SAW ARMS BAN LETTER

Tells House Committee Cabinet Approved His Opposition to the Burton Resolution.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—The views of Secretary Wilbur in opposition to the Burton proposal to prohibit shipment of war munitions to belligerents, as contained in a letter addressed to Chairman Butler of the House Naval Committee, were considered by President Coolidge and his Cabinet before they were given to the public, it was revealed today.

During discussion of the subject before the House Foreign Affairs Committee today Secretary Wilbur was bombarded with questions bearing on his letter and it was clearly indicated that committeemen were incensed over the army and navy opposition to the Burton resolution.

Mr. Butler explained that Representative Andrew, Republican, of Massachusetts, a member of the Naval Committee, sought his views on the Burton prohibition and that thereupon he directed the Navy General Board to prepare the navy's side of the case. The document was prepared and its contents discussed at a Cabinet meeting, after which copies were sent to both Mr. Butler and Mr. Andrew.

Another reference was made to the publication of the letter in Washington dispatches to THE NEW YORK TIMES prior to its consideration by the Foreign Affairs Committee.

"I did not make the letter public, and the record should be corrected on that point," Mr. Wilbur declared.

Mr. Porter asserted that the failure of the army and navy to place their opposition to the resolution before the Foreign Affairs Committee amounted to a rebuke of the committee.

"I do not know who was responsible for giving out the statements, but I do know it was a mistake," he said.

RENT BILL ACCORD REACHED IN ALBANY

Compromise to Be Passed Today Extends Emergency Law for Some Apartments.

JURY TRIAL BILL PASSES

New Saratoga Bath Measure Goes to Governor—Assembly Passes 102 in 110 Minutes.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 21.—Emergency rent law extension will be the most important topic to be dealt with by the Legislature during the closing hours of the present session tomorrow.

Agreement on the proposed legislation was reached today at a conference of legislative leaders and the sponsors of the bills, which will be pressed to final passage under an emergency message from Governor Smith.

Among the seventeen measures introduced to prolong the life of the emergency rent statutes for another year, a bill sponsored by Assemblyman Abraham Grenthal of Manhattan has been chosen to be enacted into law. It was amended in the Rules Committee of the Assembly this evening and reported for tomorrow's calendar.

In the meantime the Senate Cities Committee has reported the Rent law extension measure sponsored by Senator John J. Dunnigan of the Bronx, which is now identical with the Grenthal bill.

Application of the Bill.

The policy agreed upon provides for continued operation of the emergency statutes in relation to apartments renting at a monthly rate of $15 a room or less for six months, until Dec. 1 this year, and in relation to apartments where the rooms rent at a monthly rate of $10 or less for a year from June 1 this year, when, in the absence of any new legislation, these statutes would have lapsed.

A companion measure continues the discretionary power of Judges to grant a stay of six months to tenants against whom landlords have brought dispossess proceedings on the ground that they have failed to consent to increases in rent.

While Governor Smith consented to send in emergency messages to make possible the passage of these two bills, he made it perfectly clear that he was doing so without prejudice to his action on the measures when they come before him for veto or approval.

It is generally expected, however, that the Governor will approve the bills despite the fact that his State Housing Commission reported against extension of the emergency statutes beyond June.

Quick Work Passing Bills.

Both John Knight, Senate leader, and Speaker McGinnies have declared that they expected to bring the legislative labors to a comparatively early close tomorrow. At the end of the Senate and Assembly sessions today the calendars had been virtually cleared of all measures except the few reported from the several standing committees today. Others may be reported and passed under emergency messages tomorrow.

It took brisk work to accomplish this result. The Assembly session today was comparatively short, but it set a new record for speed in putting through bills. It passed 102 bills in 110 minutes.

The Senate held an all-day session at which 125 bills received final action. A few were defeated.

Perhaps the most important measure passed by the Legislature today was the Downing-Hofstadter bill to regulate grade-crossing elimination in New York City, embodying provisions which the city authorities hold will give it a stronger hand in dealing with the New York Central Railroad for elimination of the "Death Avenue" line.

Other Crossing Bills Passed.

The bill sponsored by Assemblyman Samuel H. Hofstadter, Republican, of Manhattan, when passed by the House, was rushed over to the Senate, where the Senate sponsor, Bernard Downing, minority leader, had it substituted for his own bill. It passed without a murmur.

The Senate reconsidered today the vote by which it defeated yesterday the proposed constitutional amendment, one of the Baumes Commission series, which would permit defendants in criminal cases to waive jury trial except in capital cases. The proposed amendment was adopted by a straight party vote of 27 to 24, all the Democrats voting against it. It must win the approval of the Legislature next year before it can be submitted to the voters.

The victory was attained through two Republican Senators, James L. Whitley of Monroe and Perley A. Pitcher of Jefferson, changing their votes of yesterday.

Police Pay Vote Assured.

The bill providing for a referendum in New York City at the general election this year on a proposal to increase the salary of first-grade policemen and firemen from $2,500 to $3,000 was passed in the Senate by a unanimous vote, the Governor having sent in a certificate of necessity, as well as an emergency message.

The Rules Committees of the Assembly reported the bill favorably this evening and it will be passed in the House tomorrow.

The Senate passed and sent to the Governor a bill introduced by Assemblyman Meyer Alterman of Manhattan, limiting to 750 the maximum number of voters in any election district in New York City. Approval of this bill by the Governor, it is held, will make it impossible for New York to reap the full savings expected from the introduction of voting machines.

Two bills giving cities power to issue terminable permits for operation of street railways and buses were passed by the Senate without a murmur, although the New York City Administration has opposed them.

The bills reserve to the Transit Commission the fixing of rates. The New York City authorities have maintained that the city should exercise this right through contracts with the corporations.

The Assembly passed and sent to the Governor the Brown bill, appropriating $775,000 for rebuilding the Lincoln Baths at Saratoga Springs, recently destroyed by fire. The bill was recommended by the Governor.

The Mastick bill, providing for a comprehensive plan by the Port of New York Authority to solve the suburban transit problem, went through in the Senate yesterday without any objection from the Democratic side of the House. It is generally expected that it will receive the approval of Governor Smith if the Assembly concurs in the action of the Senate unless objections are raised on grounds not yet advanced for its defeat.

CITY OFFICIALS CONDEMN BILL.

Protest Against Passage of Mastick Measure by Senate.

Alarmed by word received here that the Senate had passed the Mastick bill, which they had considered "dead" in committee, city officials said last night that it was a bold attempt to usurp the control of New York City transit now reposing in State commissions. John H. Delaney, Chairman of the Board of Transportation, and Corporation Counsel George P. Nicholson, when informed by their Albany representatives of the bill's passage by the Senate, registered their protests immediately in messages to Albany.

Corporation Counsel Nicholson, in a telegram sent to Assistant Corporation Counsel Caughlan urging opposition to passage of the measure by the Assembly, declared that "this is a bold attempt on the part of the Port of New York Authority to take the control of the transit situation in the Port of New York District from the State of New York commissions now having regulatory powers and control over the same."

It was learned last night that the Board of Transportation would, at a meeting today, consider the formal adoption of three new transit routes to pre-empt Second, Fifth and Madison Avenues, in order to forestall their seizure by the Port of New York Authority should the Mastick bill be passed into law. These are the only longitudinal routes, it was said yesterday, which could be incorporated by the Port Authority into any comprehensive plan which it might devise under the sweeping powers conferred by the Mastick measure.

PORTO RICO ASKS INQUIRY.

Legislature Wants Congress to Act —Plans Reply to Coolidge.

Copyright, 1928, by The New York Times Company.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, March 21.—The drafting of a reply to President Coolidge's letter to Governor Towner definitely and exclusively was placed today in the hands of Senator Barcelo and José Tous Soto, Speaker of the House, by action of both houses of the Legislature. A resolution was passed entrusting them "with such reply as it is urgent and proper to make to said letter."

The Legislature also wants Congress through a committee to investigate here, by public hearings or otherwise, the political, economical and social conditions of the island, with a view to obtaining all the facts so that "justice" may be done to the island.

The resolution also asks Congress to extend the present session of the island Legislature so that it can assist the requested committee in its work.

MORE WOMEN BACK HOOVER

Group Here Increases, While Jersey Leaders Organize.

Alderman Ruth Pratt, Chairman of the Hoover-for-President Women's Committee, announced yesterday that 130 more women have enrolled as members of the organization. Mrs. Pratt said that she was surprised to find that a very large percentage of Republican women favor the nomination of Mr. Hoover. This was particularly true among business and professional women, she said.

About sixty women Republican leaders from various sections of New Jersey met at the Robert Treat Hotel, Newark, yesterday to form another organization in behalf of Mr. Hoover. Mrs. W. Reynolds Baker of Madison, Republican National Committeewoman, presided and addresses were made by former Assemblywoman Miss Margaretta Fort of Llewellyn Park and Mrs. Lewis S. Thompson, former Republican National Committeewoman.

STORM IN SENATE OVER GOV. SMITH

tion circles in New York City. The writer asserted, it is said, that Sinclair's alleged contributions to the Smith campaigns would warrant investigation.

A short time after he received the letter Senator Nye came into the Senate Chamber. He had not revealed the fact that such a letter had been received. He had been in his seat but a short time when Robinson arose and demanded that Governor Smith be summoned to Washington to "explain his relations with Harry F. Sinclair."

Robinson said it was his understanding that Sinclair had been a liberal contributor to the Smith campaign of 1920. Senator Nye did not deny today that it was a coincidence that Robinson got his information seemingly at the same time that it came to him on the letterhead of the Republican Club. Nye declared he had never intended, and insisted that he never did in any way impugn the integrity of Governor Smith. Nye, referring to the incident, said he was puzzled as to whether or not he was the victim of a "plant."

"At any rate," he said, "I shall write to the man who signed the letter and also to Governor Smith and after that I will make the correspondence public."

Smith Letter Widely Discussed.

The Smith letter to Senator Nye, in which the Governor denounced the attempt to connect him with the Sinclair political contributions as "demagogic slander," was the talk today of political Washington as well as much of it that is non-political. When the Senate met at noon word had gone out that one of the New York Senators would ask that the letter be printed in the Congressional Record.

All eyes were on Copeland and Wagner when Vice President Dawes called the Senate to order. Senator Copeland was on his feet. Without comment he asked that the letter go into the Record. There was no objection. As he sat down, Robinson of Indiana obtained recognition.

"I do not know how the Governor of New York feels about this matter except what I have read in the newspapers," said Senator Robinson. "He seems much exercised, and he is not so calm and careful in the choice of his language as a great statesman ought to be. I understand he is a candidate for President and I am wondering, if one of his temperament was in the White House, what kind of language he would use in dealing with the people of this country and with the foreign nations of the world. It looks as though there might be warfare on all hands and trouble from the beginning."

His questions on Thursday, in which was suggested the summoning of Governor Smith, were all harmless, said Senator Robinson.

"I might observe," interrupted Senator Wheeler of Montana, "that probably Governor Smith did not want to take Sinclair away from the Republicans."

"I have never understood," Robinson replied, "that Sinclair was ever a member of a Republican Administration and he was a member of a Democratic Administration."

Retort From Barkley.

"Will the Senator say that Sinclair has never dealt with a Republican Administration?" inquired Senator Barkley of Kentucky.

"Sinclair dealt with everybody, with Republicans and with Democrats," answered Robinson. "Men like Sinclair do not confine their activities to either party. I might observe that three Democratic members left the Cabinet of the last Administration to take employment under Doheny, and Doheny and Sinclair rest in the same bed and they have a lot of Democrats in it with them."

Mr. Robinson mentioned that in 1920 Doheny's name was placed in nomination for Vice President on the Democratic ticket; that McAdoo and the late Franklin K. Lane had been employed by the Doheny interests after they resigned from President Wilson's Cabinet.

Senator Tydings of Maryland interrupted:

"Assuming," he said, "that Governor Smith did appoint Sinclair at a time when none of these facts had been developed and at a time when he had a right to believe he was a man of some reputation, does the Senator, under such circumstances, mean to contend that Governor Smith was corrupt, or that he shielded a criminal?"

"I want the country to draw its own conclusions. I am stating some facts, that is all," replied Senator Robinson.

"Is the Senator aware of the fact," asked Senator Copeland, "that the distinguished General James W. Wadsworth Sr., the father of our distinguished ex-colleague, was appointed at the same time? Does the Senator make the same reflections on General Wadsworth?"

"Of course not," Senator Robinson answered, "for that was an excellent appointment. I suppose Governor Smith has made some good appointments. I am speaking of the Sinclair appointment, which stinks to heaven, in my judgment."

Asks Why Smith Kept Sinclair.

Mr. Robinson recalled that Governor Smith had first named Sinclair for the unexpired term and subsequently for the full term.

"According to my figures," he said, "Sinclair resigned one month before the full term expired, which was late in 1925. Now I wonder why he was retained during all those years? Through all this discussion of the Sinclair matter and the Doheny trouble and of the Teapot Dome racket he still continued to be a member of the Administration of Governor Smith of New York.

"The Governor of New York never did fire Mr. Sinclair. He finally resigned on his own account. No wonder Governor Smith feels badly this morning. But he should blame himself and his associations. 'Birds of a feather will flock together.'"

"In connection with 'birds of a feather flocking together,' is it not true," Senator Harrison asked, "that the Mayor of Indianapolis, of the Senator's own party, as well as the Chairman of the Republican Campaign Committee of Indiana, as well as the Chairman of the Campaign Committee of Marion County, and four Councilmen in the City of Indianapolis, all members of the Senator's own party, all 'birds of the same feather,' are either in the penitentiary or now under indictment in the State of Indiana?"

"I do not think the statement is true, but if it were none of them is a candidate for President," Mr. Robinson answered.

Harrison Refers to Bonds.

"Of course," said Senator Harrison, "the letter from Governor Smith answers conclusively the wild insinuations of the Senator from Indiana, and it seems and will seem to the country that it comes in poor grace from the Senator from Indiana to make these wild insinuations.

"Of course, the Senator is coming up for re-election and he may have a hard fight. The former Chairman of the Republican National Campaign Committee has been an influential political character in the State of Indiana and the Senate is familiar with the expose in regard to the Liberty bonds that were peddled by Chairman Hays.

"Evidently the Senator believes he must play his small part in bringing to his aid the influence, if not the bonds of Mr. Hays in Indiana in the coming election."

Senator Copeland made a few remarks.

"The Governor," he said, "has a temperament that would make him resist any attempt to bribe or corrupt him. He has a temperament which would guarantee to this country an undefiled and undefilable public official. I need not multiply words. The Governor has spoken for himself and very conclusively."

That was the end of the debate and the Senate proceeded with the regular order of business which was the thigratory bird bill.

Smith Retorts Briefly to Nye.

ALBANY, March 21 (AP).—The statement by Senator Nye of North Dakota that Governor Smith's denial that Harry F. Sinclair had contributed to his campaign fund was "quite complete" was the subject of brief comment by Governor Smith today.

"Senator Nye," the Governor said, "should not have said anything on a matter as important as this until he had looked up the record."

DEAL WITH UPHAM DENIED BY MARSH

Party Received No Liberty Bonds.

Senator Nye inquired if any Liberty bonds, or the proceeds of such bonds, had been applied to the wiping out of the National Committee debts. Mr. Marsh replied that no bonds had figured in the financing of the National Democratic organization.

"Just how intimate were you with Mr. Upham?" Senator Nye asked.

"It was a casual acquaintance," Mr. Marsh replied. "I never was in Upham's office in my life. I never had an appointment with Upham in my life. I have no recollection of ever having talked over the telephone with him."

"How frequently did you encounter him in 1923?"

"I have no recollection of having seen him in 1923. I looked on Upham as a man who could find money anywhere. We were paupers."

"Yes," remarked Senator Nye, "it has been disclosed that he was extremely fortunate in finding money."

Mr. Marsh, answering another question by Senator Nye, said that all records of the Democratic National Committee are intact. All of them, he added, are in national headquarters here in Washington.

Does Not Recall Doheny Gift.

Mr. Marsh placed the net deficit of the Democratic Party after the 1920 campaign at $300,000 to $315,000, representing borrowed money, open accounts and other debts. In 1923 it was about $200,000, of which about half was inherited from the previous campaign. In January, 1924, when he resigned, the deficit was about $175,000, he said.

When asked about E. L. Doheny's contribution in 1920, Mr. Marsh said he had not handled it. Doheny testified four years ago that he gave $75,000. George White, the 1920 Chairman, challenged this statement, however, and said the total of Doheny's contribution was between $94,000 and $35,000.

"I do not recall Doheny giving us anything, but if he did it is on file as required by law," Mr. Marsh declared.

Senator Walsh explained that the records show the Doheny contribution was made to Mr. White. There is no record that Sinclair gave the Democrats anything for their national campaign in 1920, or any campaign subsequent to that year.

When asked if H. M. Blackmer, one of the self-exiled oil men, had subscribed toward the Democratic deficit or to other funds, Mr. Marsh replied that he never heard of Blackmer until his name was brought out in connection with the oil lease prosecution.

CAPITOL IS CROWDED TO HEAR LINDBERGH

Committee Has to Close Doors to Keep Throng From Barring Out Eager Senators.

HE URGES ARMY AIR PAY RISE

Tells House Body Higher Rank Would Improve Morale—Civil Jobs Taking Army Men.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh spoke before the Military Committees of the Senate and the House today in support of pending bills that propose higher pay for men and officers who undergo the hazards of service in the Army Air Corps.

His presence attracted large crowds, and tourists particularly were anxious to get a close-up of the famous airman.

The "Lone Eagle" appeared first before the Senate committee, which had to close its doors and meet in executive session to avoid a jam that threatened to crowd out Senators as eager as the general public to see Colonel Lindbergh.

When the Colonel reached the tiny room used by the House committee, whither he was followed by a crowd, he found the place packed to the doors. The aviator was cheered again and again and interruptions were frequent as Capitol attachés sought to quiet the throng around the door.

Colonel Lindbergh was introduced by Representative Furlow, Republican, of Minnesota, author of the bill that gives the Army Air Corps a separate promotion list in the military establishment.

The flier made it clear that he was present to support the principle of the Furlow bill, but that it was not his intention to back any particular measure among the several pending.

His statement follows in part:

"It is my understanding that there are under consideration in Congress legislative proposals intended to increase the efficiency of the Army Air Corps and directly affecting the commissioned personnel of that important branch.

"It is obvious that rank should be an emblem of command and responsibility as well as reward for service. It has been my observation that officers of the Army Air Corps in many cases have rank quite junior to that expected in the positions they hold.

"Adequate reward is necessary to attract and hold the type of officer needed. Especially is this true in the present stage of the rapid growth of the aeronautic industry, which, doubtless, will offer attractive connections to experienced pilots and administrators. Several have already sought civil positions.

"Undoubtedly morale would be greatly enhanced if officers could see a brighter future in service. I believe our air forces should constitute a first line of defense.

"The expectancy of life for the flying officers is far less than in other occupations; the rate of attrition is high; the strain on the physical resistance from combat flying is excessive, the period of greatest flying efficiency is limited; responsibilities of air officers are heavy; promotion for a larger proportion appears to have stagnated—these observations have led me to believe the problem of the air officers is special and requires consideration by itself."

He also said that the great handicap in commercial aviation was lack of trained pilots. Any method to train pilots for commercial service would be of great value, he thought.

Major Herbert Dargue, who commanded the Army Pan-American Good-Will Flight Tour last year, who came to the committee room with Colonel Lindbergh, remained with him and the committee for a short time in executive session going over the Furlow and other bills.

LINDBERGH TO GET LUXURIOUS PLANE

Even the Motor of Craft Being Built for Him Will Shine With Nickel Trimmings.

Details of the new airplane being built for Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh by the Mahoney Aircraft Company were told yesterday by William Mankey, chief engineer of the company. The Mahoney company designed and constructed Lindbergh's transatlantic airplane, the Spirit of St. Louis. The new plane, although not built for long-distance flying, will be one of the best equipped and most luxurious small cabin monoplanes ever turned out. Even the motor will have nickel trimmings.

The plane will be ready April 1. It will be just five years ago in April that Lindbergh, then an obscure mechanic, bought a discarded army "Jenny" with an OX motor for $500 and started on a career of barnstorming. It was in that Jenny that he made his first solo flight, never having had any solo instruction. This April Lindbergh will take up his new airplane, virtually a gift from his admirers, and test it himself, as he tested the Spirit of St. Louis when it first came out of the shop. No other person has ever flown the Spirit of St. Louis and it is not probable that he will permit any one else to test his new plane.

The new plane will look very much like the Ryan broughams, which were modeled after the Spirit of St. Louis for passenger service. It will carry three passengers besides Colonel Lindbergh, so that hereafter he will be able to take his friends up in his own airplane. There is excellent vision for the pilot, as the cockpit in this ship is well forward, with no large tank to block the view. The seats are deep-cushioned leather chairs in which not only the passengers but Lindbergh himself will be able to rest comfortably. Lindbergh's only concession to comfort in the Spirit of St. Louis was an air cushion which he used in the pilot's seat after his return from France.

Conforms to His Own Plans.

The new plane has been built according to Lindbergh's plans, based on his long flying experience. He has said since his famous flight that he felt his plane could be greatly improved in performance with a few changes, and these have to some extent been embodied in the new ship. It has a slightly higher speed and greater manoeuvrability than the first ship, which was designed merely for straight, long-distance flying.

The wing span is 46 feet, the same as that of the Spirit of St. Louis. The length of the fuselage is 27 feet 9 inches; the weight: empty, 2,050 pounds; pay load, 1,000 pounds; wing area, 319 square feet. The maximum speed is 126 miles an hour and the landing speed 49 miles an hour. The gross weight of the plane is 3,600 pounds; useful load, 1,550 pounds; gasoline capacity, 115 gallons; oil capacity, 5 gallons. The stabilizer area is 26 feet and fin area 4 feet. The surface ceiling is 16,000 feet.

The aileron and tail surfaces have been somewhat increased to give the better manouverability, and especially designed tail skid is being used. Lindbergh has been unfortunate this Winter with tail skids, having broken two or three, and undoubtedly has definite ideas on how they should be improved.

The plane will be powered with a Wright Whirlwind 220-horsepower motor, such as was installed on the Spirit of St. Louis, but it is a particularly well-finished motor, all the visible parts except the cylinder heads, the cylinders and the crankcase being covered with nickel. The rocker arm covers, the push rod housings, the studs and bolts and other small parts shine like silver. It is probably the most beautiful motor ever built.

The motor has been presented to Lindbergh by the Wright Aeronautical Corporation. On one of his visits to the Wright plant at Paterson the motor was offered to him, and he said he would be very glad to have it. At that time the nickel trimmings were not discussed, but having decided to give the motor the company decided to make it as handsome as possible. It was shipped to St. Louis to the office there of the Mahoney Aircraft Company, about two weeks ago and is probably now on its way to San Diego for installation.

Special Set of Instruments.

The interior finish of the plane is as nearly perfect as it can be made. Even the instrument board is of mehogany, with a special set of instruments presented to Colonel Lindbergh by the Pioneer Instrument Company, which made the instruments used on his first flight. It was Lindbergh's transatlantic flight, coming after Byrd's flight to the North Pole, which showed the value of the earth inductor compass. On the board will be two new instruments, a flight indicator, which is a combination of bank and turn indicator, and an approved new design earth inductor compass.

Lindbergh will not have to get out of his plane to start his motor by spinning the propeller, as he had to do on many occasions with the Spirit of St. Louis, when mechanics could not start it for him. The engine will be fitted with an electric inertia starter, so that the motor may be started from the cockpit. Landing lights will also be streamlined into the leading edge of the wing to aid in landing at night, and landing parachute flares, to be released by pulling a lever, will be carried in the fuselage. In an emergency landing at night these flares light up the country for a great distance and are indispensable in avoiding a crash on difficult ground.

eral New, Secretary Hoover, W. P. McCracken, Assistant Secretary of Commerce for Aviation; Major General Charles P. Summerall, Chief of Staff of the army; Rear Admiral Charles F. Hughes, chief of naval operations; Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics of the navy, and Edward P. Warner, Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Aeronautics.

Although the ceremonies did not begin until noon, the public began to assemble at the White House by 9 o'clock, and long before the hour set for the presentation, a large crowd had gathered.

Following the ceremonies, Colonel Lindbergh hurried to a waiting automobile and drove away.

A few moments before the White House ceremony, at the office of the Secretary of War, Colonel Lindbergh was presented by Mr. Davis with a Livre d'Or and a special medal from the Ligue Aeronautique of France.

The Livre d'Or is a handsomely bound volume recording Colonel Lindbergh's transatlantic flight May 20 and 21, 1927. It contains many signatures and the following address:

"La Ligue Aeronautique de France felt that the best way to render homage to a hero who personifies the spirit of youth was to make him feel the enthusiastic heartbeats which his exploit has occasioned among the youth of the nation.

"The league has requested its scholar groups to participate in the offering of a modest souvenir. The children of these groups are not rich, and, to the heart of a hero, the most precious testimonial of their admiration will certainly be the signatures, sometimes painfully made, into which they have tried to put all the fervor of their emotion."

The specially designed medal is in the form of a small silver plaque depicting the aviator's dream of his now famous flight and it's realization as a result of the advance of science.

Lindbergh Takes Up 100.

At Bolling Field this afternoon Colonel Lindbergh in twelve flights took up more than 100 persons, including members of Congress, their families and friends. More than 160 have been taken up by him in the past two days as part of his plan to encourage the country to be "air-minded." Mr. MacCracken estimated today that as many more want to go up and that it will take tomorrow and Friday to complete the list.

Similar flights by Colonel Lindbergh will be made tomorrow morning and afternoon.

ENDURANCE FLIER DOWN.

Light Plane Record Is Claimed for Gene Shanks of St. Paul.

ST. PAUL, Minn., March 21 (AP).—A broken gas feed line, the bane of airmen, ended Gene Shank's effort to establish new endurance records early today after his 90-horsepower biplane had been in the air 12 hours and 38 minutes.

Although Shanks fell short of the solo flight mark of 33½ hours held by Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, the refueling mark of 37½ hours and the world's endurance record of 52½ hours, one record for his class of plane was urged for him.

AMERICAN IS COUNSEL FOR BRITISH OFFICERS

Day Kimball to Defend Dewar and Daniel in Gibraltar Courts-Martial.

Copyright, 1928, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, March 21.—An American barrister, Day Kimball, has been briefed to act as "prisoner's friend" or counsel for Captain Dewar and Commander Daniel at the courts-martial to be held at Gibraltar in connection with the recent events on the battleship Royal Oak.

Mr. Kimball served as an officer in the United States cavalry during the war and at one time was Assistant Attorney General of Massachusetts. He was called to the English bar about two years ago. This is the first big case in which he has been briefed.

He, Dewar and Daniel will leave for Gibraltar Friday. The two officers will be tried separately and the proceedings are likely to be protracted and sensational. Rear Admiral Collard, whose alleged attitude toward the officers led to their request for courts-martial, will be the chief witness.

The Admiralty, it is understood, is deeply concerned about the outcome of the affair. According to its information, the charges are of a trivial nature and over personal differences, which, it is maintained, could easily have been adjusted by Sir Roger Keyes, commander-in-chief in the Mediterranean, without recourse to a court. The anxiety is lest these charges will be made to appear ridiculous and a cause for laughter in the eyes of the rest of the world.

Moreover, it is feared that Captain Dewar, who is regarded here as an idealist, and Commander Daniel, in order to substantiate their charges, will feel compelled to call as witnesses on their behalf members of the crew from the lower deck to give evidence against the Rear Admiral, and this, it is felt, would be subversive of discipline in the navy.

Urges Hudson Pollution Control.

An agreement between New York and New Jersey for the control of pollution in the Hudson River and New York Bay was urged last night in an address over Station WABC by Galen O. Hutchison, secretary of the Passaic Chapter of the Izaak Walton League of America. The talk was one of a weekly series by the League, which is conducting a campaign to eliminate waterway pollution.

SMITH GAINS STATES AGAINST HIM IN 1924

84 NOW PLEDGED TO HIM

Territorial Delegations to Give Smith 17 More Than Before, Friends Here Declare.

A partial check-up by Governor Smith's friends of the Governor's position in the pre-convention Presidential campaign as compared with 1924 indicates a decided advance, it was said yesterday. Most of the delegates thus far committed to New York's Governor are from States which either gave him no support or only partial support in 1924.

With North Dakota's ten delegates pledged to Smith on Tuesday, the total now selected for him is eighty-four. Arizona's Democratic convention is expected on Monday to choose six Smith delegates.

Arizona was the one State outside of the home State of Senator James A. Reed of Missouri that was considered likely to select a delegation for Reed. Advices to the Smith camp yesterday indicated, however, that the Smith faction, under the leadership of Judge Samuel H. White, would win easily in the convention on Monday at Phoenix. It is understood that Judge White will be authorized to read a message from Smith's New York friends at the convention.

The Democratic State Committee meets in Arkansas today to select that State's fourteen delegates. The latest word received here is that the delegates will be pledged to Senator Robinson as a favorite son candidate. There also the Smith forces expect to get a delegation which will swing to the New York Governor as soon as the convention passes the favorite son stage.

Among the States thus far pledged to Smith a few show decided gains for Smith over four years ago. Idaho was against the Governor in 1924, but the State's eight delegates have been instructed for him this year. North Dakota's ten delegates are a complete gain as are South Dakota's ten who will be for Smith, it is expected, the State convention having endorsed his candidacy.

The territories represent a gain of seventeen. In 1924 Alaska and the Philippines gave Smith three votes each and Hawaii gave him one. This year the Smith forces claim six each from those three and from the District of Columbia. In place of Michigan's eleven votes, they count on thirty the Governor being unopposed in that State so far.

Louisiana's twenty delegates have been instructed for Smith. In 1924 that State voted for Robinson on early ballots and for Davis later. There were some Smith supporters in the Louisiana delegation in 1924, but they were bound by the unit rule. This year the anti-Smith delegates are in the minority and will be bound for him by the unit rule.

BREWER SLAYER SENTENCED

Mexican Gets Four Years' Penal Servitude for Killing American.

MEXICO CITY, March 21.—The United States Embassy has received official notice from the Consul at the city of Guadalajara that Xavier Diaz, convicted of the murder last June of Arthur Brewer, an American citizen, has finally been sentenced to four years' penal servitude. Although officially nothing may be said regarding the sentence, it will probably mean that Diaz will be deported to the penal settlement of Islas Marias.

Diaz entered the office of Mr. Brewer, a former Boston man and Harvard football captain, and shot him without warning. No action was taken by the police to arrest Diaz until three months later, while the trial dragged until February and sentence was delayed till today.

LEAKS BEFORE DAM BREAK.

Los Angeles Engineer Tells of Signs of Trouble.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 21 (AP).—A Coroner's Jury today heard from the lips of the man who built the St. Francis Dam how a silent warning came from the reservoir itself eleven hours before the concrete structure collapsed and dealt death in little Santa Clara River Valley.

The warning was in muddy waters that trickled from the 185-foot retaining wall, indicating, according to the engineer, that conditions were "bad, very bad" and that there was a leak through the earth about the structure.

It was William Mulholland, chief engineer of Los Angeles city's Department of Water and Power who gave the testimony. He wept as he testified.

4-YEAR TERM BILL IS KILLED IN SENATE

Governor Charles S. Whitman and John W. Davis, members of the Hughes Commission on the Reorganization of the State Government, endorsing the four-year gubernatorial term. The letters were written to Senate Leader John Knight and Speaker Joseph A. McGinnies of the Assembly and copies were sent to the Governor.

Henry Harper Benedict of 5 East Seventy-fifth Street, New York City, who wrote that he had been a Republican since 1856, also sent to the Governor a copy of a letter endorsing the four-year term he had sent to the Republican leaders in the Legislature.

The letter from Mr. Davis was as follows:

My Dear Sir: As a member of the committee appointed by yourselves on State reorganization in 1925, I feel that I may write you without impertinence on the subject of the proposed constitutional amendment setting up a four-year term for the Governor and other elective State officers. The arguments in favor of such an amendment are so well known to you that I need not repeat them. The only question open at the moment is whether or not the election for Governor should or should not be held in the same year as that for President.

I feel deeply that the defeat of the amendment proposed at the last election cannot fairly be treated as a final disposition of the question, and that the people of the State are entitled to an opportunity to approve or reject an amendment providing for a State election in the off year. I earnestly hope that it may be the pleasure of your two houses to take such action as will set forward this much needed reform.

I am very respectfully yours,
JOHN W. DAVIS.

In his letter to the legislators Mr. Wickersham wrote:

"I think I am correct in saying that the members of the commission, in general, if not unanimously, were of the opinion that the scheme of reorganization of the State government would be incomplete until the term of the Governor was extended from two to four years.

"This amendment was submitted to the people in November, 1927, and was defeated by a vote of 1,256,157 against the amendment and 578,969 in favor of it. This, of course, was a conclusive defeat of the amendment as submitted. It is certainly an open question whether or not this result was caused by the provision which brought the election of the Governor into the Presidential election years and it seems to be a reasonable request on the part of the Governor and one certainly in line with the views of the members of the State Reorganization Commission that the people should have an opportunity to vote upon the proposition to increase the term of the Governor to four years, his election to be in a year other than the Presidential election.

"I am strongly of the opinion that the extension of the term of the Governor to four years is necessary to the completion of the reorganization of the State Government and that it is of more importance to the Republican Party to complete this reorganization than to retain the election of the Governor in the Presidential years. I therefore, most respectfully urge you to use your influence in securing the passage of the resolution to submit that matter to the people at the coming election next Fall."

M'ANDREW OUSTED BY CHICAGO BOARD

In Dismissing School Head the Board Appeals to Nation on Peril of King George.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, March 21.—With an appeal to the nation that they be taken seriously in their war on King George and "treason-tainted textbooks" the Chicago Board of Education today, by a vote of 3 to 2, found William McAndrew guilty of insubordination and conduct unbecoming his office and removed him from the Superintendency of Schools. Mr. McAndrew's term as Superintendent expired on Jan. 3, but he had been under suspension since Aug. 29, 1927.

The eight Thompson trustees who voted McAndrew's ouster included J. Lewis Coats, President of the board. The two dissenting votes were cast by Mrs. Helen Heffernan and James Mullenbach. Dr. Otto L. Schmidt, prevented by illness from attending the session, asserted tonight that he would have noted "not guilty" on the charges.

Petition for a review will be filed in the Circuit or Superior Court as soon as the 6,000 pages of testimony and evidence are examined, Angus Roy Shannon, attorney for Mr. McAndrew declared last night. Neither McAndrew, who is en route to the Pacific Coast on a speaking tour, nor his counsel was present when the verdict was submitted.

Those charges, which occupied the major portion of the twenty-seven sessions of the trial, were appended in a resolution declaring that the record of the McAndrew trial "reveals perversions, distortions, libels and insults which the new school of historians, supported by Superintendent McAndrews, have injected into the American textbooks."

"In the course of the trial," the resolution goes on, "proof has been made of what William Hale Thompson originally brought to the attention of the public—evidence that there is an organized pro-British anti-American propaganda of stupendous proportions in our country with deep ramifications extending to and through schools, colleges and other educational institutions."

This propaganda is traceable to the English-speaking Union, the Cecil Rhodes Scholarship Foundation and the Andrew Carnegie Foundation, the resolution asserts. The report closes with a recommendation that the school boards of the nation "investigate the textbooks under their jurisdiction to the end that treason-tainted textbooks and those responsible for them may be eliminated from the public school systems of the country."

THIRTEEN SKI TOURISTS PERISH IN AVALANCHE

Swept 1,000 Feet Down Austrian Mountainside—Four Others Escape.

Copyright, 1928, by The New York Times Company.
By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, March 21.—A single avalanche of snow thundering down Sonnblick Mountain near Salzburg, Austria, today snuffed out the lives of thirteen ski tourists and imperiled those of four others. As the group of seventeen, all members of a Vienna workers' sporting society known as "The Friends of Nature," were rounding the point of a mountain known as Golm-Salgurn the snow, weakened, it is thought, by a warm south wind which has been blowing over Western Austria for the past twenty-four hours, gave way beneath them, precipitating all headlong down the mountainside.

Thirteen were either killed almost instantly or buried by the outer edge of the snow mass when it came to rest nearly one thousand feet down the mountainside. The other four were able to extricate themselves and stagger to the nearest refuge hut, where they announced the fate of their comrades by telephoning to the nearest rescue centre.

Within a few moments four rescue expeditions from Rauris, Boeckstein, Gastein and Nassfeld were rushing with first aid toward the spot. The Nassfeld group, composed of pupils of the Gendarmerie Ski School, under the leadership of Colonel Bilgeri, risked their own lives by forcing their way through a snowstorm and a wind which was almost a gale and over terrain where small avalanches often occur.

Charge Navy Husband Hit Her.

A suit by Mrs. Ruth Spencer for a separation from Lieutenant Arthur P. Spencer, U. S. N., attached to the battleship Idaho, came before Supreme Court Justice Mahoney yesterday when the Court directed that the papers be served on Lieutenant Spencer by mail, at San Pedro, Cal., where he is on duty. Mrs. Spencer alleged that her husband "paraded with one Laura Hogue" at San Pedro and told the plaintiff that he had no further use for her, and that he intended to divorce her and marry Miss Hogue. She also charged that Lieutenant Spencer struck her and threatened to kill her. They were married in Jersey City in 1910.

GENEVA, March 21.—Under the influence of Lord Cushendun's great speech yesterday the Disarmament Commission today continued active warfare against the Russian proposals. Although no delegate attempted a set oration—after Lord Cushendun that would have been like dancing after Pavlova—many speakers of various nations unqualifiedly denounced M. Litvinov's draft convention as impossible at the present time.

A speech by Hugh S. Gibson naturally got the greatest attention, especially as it had been suggested that the American envoy did not intend to make any reply to M. Litvinov's special plea for American support. Mr. Gibson went even further than Lord Cushendun inasmuch as he recommended that the Russian plan be disposed of once for all at the present session and not be allowed to hamper the labors of future gatherings. In League circles his speech is regarded as more closely than any previous American pronouncement aligning American policy with that of the League.

Gibson Warmly Congratulated.

The American Chairman was the recipient of almost as much congratulation as was Lord Cushendun yesterday when it was admitted that the Briton's onslaught came just in the nick of time to save the commission from a serious predicament, for had the members continued the policy of grim silence against M. Litvinov's sneering demands for immediate action, the public reaction might have been unfavorable.

At present M. Litvinov, still reeling from the effects of Lord Cushendun's tremendous battering, has asked until tomorrow afternoon before attempting to reply.

Concerning that reply, the feeling is growing in important quarters that after denouncing the "capitalist nations" and their entire works and paying his final respects, or disrespects, to the League of Nations, the Soviet Chairman may lead his delegation from the room and back to Russia. In the present state of feeling such action would occasion no great regret. It is now felt by many that a mistake was made in inviting Russia to become a member of the commission.

M. Litvinov's excuse for not speaking today also aroused the ire of several delegates, notably Mr. Gibson, for he asserted that he had dinner engagements both last night and tonight, and so was unable to work on his speech. The other delegates feel that a dinner party is not sufficiently important to retard the commission's program—even for a Commissar of the People.

Excepting Russia, Germany and Turkey the heads of all the delegations have openly congratulated Lord Cushendun for yesterday's work. The general expression is that such a terrible flagellation of another nation and that nation's policies probably never before has been administered in a public debate.

"In the days before the League it would have been enough to go to war about," was the way one member expressed his opinion.

Mr. Gibson highly lauded the speech, comparing it with the orations of Cicero in its masterly handling of innuendo—Lord Cushendun brought in the entire list of what he considers the Soviet shortcomings without once making a charge direct.

Count von Bernstorff "deplored" the speech, as was to be expected. He declared that Lord Cushendun had misinterpreted his own previous speech—he asserts that he agreed with M. Litvinov "only in principle"—but that any reply that was to be made now could only come from the Soviet envoy.

Gibson Makes American Plan Clear.

Mr. Gibson's speech, in which he also did not mince his words, was particularly clear concerning M. Litvinov's reference to Secretary Kellogg's plan. The American Chairman said:

"In the opinion of one of the delegations sincerity, consistency and logic should impel a country which had proposed a multilateral compact against war to support the proposals now before us for immediate complete disarmament.

"I do not feel warranted in taking up the commission's time on this point. However, in order not to leave room for misunderstanding I venture to say that it is precisely on the grounds of sincerity, consistency and logic that my Government supports the idea of a multilateral compact renouncing war as an instrument of national policy and at the same time finds itself unable to support drastic proposals for immediate complete disarmament, which we do not believe are calculated to achieve their avowed purpose."

Mr. Gibson thought that no delegate should seek the excuse that he had not had time to study the Russian proposals and therefore refer them to a subcommittee.

"It has never been the practice of our commission," he went on, "to assign committees to study proposals or refer them back to Governments for examination if in the first general discussion it was evident that they were not acceptable in principle. I see no reason in the present instance for deviation from this sound practice.

"The American delegation would not feel justified in asking for delay in order that further detailed study could be given to these proposals. We feel that we have only one problem—to find and follow the path best calculated to lead us to a conclusion of our labors. We are not justified in unduly delaying our efforts to embark upon another task which we honestly believe cannot facilitate the reduction or limitation of armaments.

"For our present purpose it would seem sufficient to point out that the proposals are not only a radical departure from the work we have been engaged upon so far, but are totally irreconcilable with the draft which is the basis of our discussions."

Following the session, Count von Bernstorff intimated that he might ask Mr. Gibson several questions from the floor, seeking clarification of Mr. Kellogg's proposals. The American Chairman at once sought out the German envoy and made clear that any such explaining would come from Washington if Washington deemed it necessary and that he did not consider it had anything to do with the present meeting.

Twenty-two Countries Lined Up.

GENEVA, March 21 (AP).—Twenty-two of the twenty-five countries represented on the Preparatory Committee for a Disarmament Conference are lined up tonight against the Soviet plan for immediate complete disarmament.

Hugh S. Gibson, the United States; Commandant David Whitmarsh, Cuba; Baron Rolin Jacquemyns, Belgium; Jonkeer Rutgers, Holland; E. Heening, Sweden; M. Sokal, Poland, and M. Markovitch, Yugoslavia, added their criticisms to those of yesterday, making the Russian defeat overwhelming.

Baron Rolin Jacquemyns made the greatest stir when, looking straight at M. Litvinov, he cried:

"An olive branch is brandished over our heads in such a way as to resemble a cudgel rather than an emblem of peace. Hatred of our civilization is behind this project."

He demanded that the Soviet project be "purely and simply" rejected.

Commandant Whitmarsh reminded M. Litvinov that modern arms, such as he wishes to suppress, were not always the favorite weapons in warfare.

"The people of Cuba," he said, "in their long struggle for independence used a simple machete. That is what other peoples would do when determined to fight if unable to procure modern weapons."

Question Asked in Commons.

LONDON, March 21 (AP).—Sir Austen Chamberlain, Foreign Secretary, when asked in the House of Commons today if the British delegation at Geneva had received any instructions regarding the Soviet disarmament proposals, replied that the head of the British delegation to the Preparatory Commission had been instructed to cooperate with his colleagues to secure a full examination of the proposals.

"And the House will notice from this morning's papers," added the Minister, "that he is carrying out his instructions with great skill and ability."

PARIS, March 21 (Canadian Press Cable).—The French press, apart from the Communist paper Humanité, which hails Lord Cushendun as the mouthpiece of the Imperialists, have joined in choruses of approval of Lord Cushendun's destruction of the Soviet edifice of total disarmament.

The Oeuvre says: "Litvinoff heard some pretty hard truths. May he profit thereby."

The Petit Parisien believes that Britain has obtained great political and moral success which will win for her the gratitude of the smaller nations.

The Figaro thinks Lord Cushendun did justice to the extravagance of the Russian proposals.

The Matin says that, thanks to the brilliant anyalsis of Lord Cushendun, the artifices of the Soviet have been demolished piece by piece.

MISS JOHNSON BEGINS AIR SURVEY AT BERLIN

She and Mrs. Wanner Fly From Bremen—Will Study Europe's Plane Services.

BERLIN, March 21.—Two pretty American women arrived in Berlin this evening by airplane from Bremen on the first lap of a series of flights that will take them to nearly every European capital within the next month. They are Miss Mildred Johnson and Mrs. Estel Wanner, who came to Europe to study air traffic and picked Berlin for their flights.

Both expressed enthusiasm over their flight from Bremen, especially the second lap, from Hanover, in a three-motor ten-passenger Junkers plane. As soon as they alighted they were surrounded by newspaper men, who were curious to know why America should send the gentler sex to investigate air lines.

After a few minutes' conversation these men announced that they were convinced of the efficiency of the American business woman, having had their questions answered in a manner allowing no doubt of the pair's knowledge of the subject of their visit.

All attempts to get the Americans to discuss powder-puffs and lipsticks failed utterly. Nor did they want to tell the stories of their lives. Instead of answering questions they poured inquiries out on all sides and made copious notes on how the Tempelhof flying field is managed. The Lufthansa has taken the Americans under its wings and has assured them every assistance in carrying out their program.

However, just as they were leaving the flying field, after seeing a plane making a night landing, both chorused: "Is the main shopping street far from our hotel?"

Just why Miss Johnson and Mrs. Wanner were not permitted to fly from the steamer Columbus to Bremen from the English Channel has never been clearly explained. Lufthansa officials say they did not consider the project sufficiently safe and the Wolff Agency offers a long explanation which does not explain anything.

Stresemann Proposes That Germans Go to Polls in April.

BERLIN, March 21.—Foreign Minister Stresemann wants the Reichstag elections held in April instead of May, he stated tonight in a speech before representatives of the German press.

The Minister's argument was that a long campaign only tends to confuse workers and keep them away from the polls. According to his opinion, a battle of two or three weeks' duration is entirely sufficient for the discussion of all issues.

There is little prospect that his suggestion will be carried out, because Chancellor Marx in a conference with party leaders declared this afternoon that the election would take place either on May 13 or 20.

TREATY NOW LIKELY BY FRANCE AND ITALY

Mussolini Adopts a Conciliatory Attitude in Negotiations to End Disputes.

HOPE OF BIG DEVELOPMENTS

British Aim of Accord Among All Mediterranean Nations Yet May Be Attained.

PARIS, March 21.—Significant and important developments are growing out of the conversations which have begun between Rome and Paris and at last there appears to be a good chance of bringing to an end the tension between Italy and France which has been one of the disagreeable factors in European politics since Premier Mussolini undertook to mark out Italy's place in the sun.

The Italian dictator now seems entirely disposed to make a treaty of friendship with France, including provisions for the arbitration, under League of Nations supervision, of all issues which may arise between the two countries. Since France is willing in principle to make such treaties with all nations one has a reasonable prospect of the consummation of such a compact between the two Latin nations whose Mediterranean policies have so often been judged to sow seeds of trouble.

Mussolini Is Conciliatory.

It is known in diplomatic quarters that far from the blustering manner he has so often shown, Premier Mussolini is exhibiting a great deal of moderation and conciliation. It is understood here that the Roman boss is even willing to make an alliance with France, but in her position in Europe France could scarcely be expected to be avid about that proposal. It was answered by a reminder that France is basing her policy on the League of Nations covenant and that her policy at the present time is pointed toward an arbitration compact rather than an alliance with Mussolini.

It is said that Premier Mussolini appreciated the reply and shows a desire to make a treaty smoothing out the differences in French and Italian policy not only on the Mediterranean but elsewhere in Europe. If this does not mean that the Italian Dictator is tired of his efforts to build up Balkan machine difficulties, what does it mean? Of course, it is not so long since Mussolini wished to make an alliance with Germany, which did not meet with much encouragement from Dr. Stresemann, who is not addicted to overlove for the chief of the Italian Government.

But notwithstanding that, the fact that Premier Mussolini is showing himself fairly affable toward the French is of no small importance, especially in view of Sir Austen Chamberlain's dream of working out a general Mediterranean arrangement among all the nations bordering on that sea. Italy has stood as the difficult party, and if now she can reach a good agreement with the French, a compact should be open on the lines of the plan of the British Foreign Secretary.

If Mussolini is really ready not only to quit monkeying with the Balkan nations, but to adopt a conservative attitude regarding his Mediterranean claims, the result must be good. It does not entirely change matters to say that Mussolini is influenced, perhaps, by the alleged growing coolness of England.

Dictator Not Successful Abroad.

The Italian Dictator, despite his success at home, has been notably unable to export himself, largely because of the idea that no one knows just where he is going and what he might do. If after his prospects of obtaining concessions at the Tangier Conference now in session in Paris he succeeds in reassuring his European neighbors of his gentle intentions in foreign policy by a reasonable treaty with France, he may succeed in vastly enlarging what has in recent years been the rather circumscribed rôle Italy has played as a world power.

Now Mussolini is said to have shown a desire to consummate a treaty with France quickly. To this desire the French have replied that a treaty of amity and arbitration would be on a surer basis if the two countries before making it straightened out pending questions, especially those concerning Northern Africa. There are two in particular.

First, Italy was promised in 1915 by England and France certain rectifications in her favor of the frontier in Tripoli. England has made concessions but France has not. The French are willing to give Italy some additional territory, but not precisely the territory Mussolini has been asking.

The second point relates to the Italian population in Tunis. Here the Italians have 110,000 against the French 75,000. Rome insists that her colonists remain Italian citizens, whereas the French are inclined to wish all inhabitants in the protectorate to become French citizens. Although this claim is based on no clearly defined right in the protectorate arrangement, it has been recognized by England, which agrees that English subjects permanently established in the territory shall become French.

In support of his point of view Premier Mussolini has completed Fascist organizations among the Italian populations, which program has caused some embarrassment to the French Administration. Perhaps the French are willing to make some concessions, as for instance that Italians become French citizens only after thirty years, or some such provision which may conserve the French principle and at the same time give some satisfaction to Mussolini.

It is probable that conversations on these two points have already begun between Premier Mussolini and M. de Beaumarchais, the French Ambassador in Rome. When they have been solved a way will appear open for making a treaty bringing France and Italy into much better relations. The prospects are that a successful end of the negotiations will increase the political power of France in Europe.

TOKIO, March 21.—The Noda striker's action in attempting to make a direct appeal to the Emperor yesterday has created an emotional situation in which it seems that the dispute, which has now lasted 187 days, may be settled. The news of the incident created an immense sensation in the small town of Noda, which has been living an abnormal life the past six months.

The Prefectural Governor and the police chief have left for Tokio to tender their resignations. The President of the Soy Brewery Company visited the prefectural offices and said that as an atonement for the offense of his workmen he was ready to accept any suggestion the Governor offered for the settlement of the strike.

The strikers held a meeting to consider the incident and were deeply moved. All present pledged themselves anew to repeat their comrade's attempt.

Officials of the Labor and Capital Harmonization Society of Tokio have approached the Federation of Labor with peace proposals, and conferences are proceeding in which the Prefectural Governor is participating.

The Emperor did not hear of the incident until today when a formal report was presented to him.

British Conservative Fails to Get Assurance That England Will Not Oppose It.

LONDON, March 21 (Canadian Press Cable).—In connection with the trouble in Western Samoa, Major Patrick Bernard Malone, Conservative M. P. for the South Tottenham division of Middlesex, asked in the House of Commons today for assurance that, when the report on the matter was submitted to the Mandates Commission at Geneva, the British representative would not oppose the hearing of the arguments of the Mau (League of Samoa) for self-government, as well as New Zealand's side of the case.

Sir Austen Chamberlain, Foreign Secretary, replied that the constitution governing the Mandates Commission expressly provided that the members should be selected on personal grounds and not hold any office which might put them in the position of direct dependence upon their Governments.

Overpopulation and Premature Interments Prompt Cremation Drive.

BRUSSELS, March 21.—Belgium, which has the greatest population to the square mile of any European country, 658, compared with 361 for Great Britain, 348 for Germany and 187 for France, may discard the custom of burying the dead and adopt compulsory cremation, if a campaign started in Antwerp and spreading to other Belgian cities proves successful.

It is pointed out that, because of the smallness of the country and its overpopulation, cemeteries take up enormous areas of valuable land. Moreover, under the present system many premature burials occur, since frequently no doctor is called to certify to death, village priests being empowered to sign the certificate. Today when a Belgian dies, leaving a wish to be cremated, the body must be sent to Paris. This is a costly procedure, since a tax must be paid to every commune through which the body passes.

BERLIN, March 21.—Eleven men were instantly killed and seven severely injured this morning at the Friedlaender mine, near Liebenwerda, when a violent storm blew down scaffolding erected for the construction of a moving bridge or crane to transport mine refuse to a briquettes factory of the Bubiag company.

A gale raging for several days had badly shaken the scaffold. As the wind velocity increased today the foreman recognized the danger and shouted a warning to the workers. It was too late, however. A moment later the structure collapsed, burying the men in the debris.

Rescue work proved extremely difficult. The dead and the wounded could be removed from the wreckage only after three or four hours of hard work. Several of the injured are in a precarious state and will probably not survive.

WOMEN M. P.'S WANT ENLARGED BOUDOIR

Have Their Eyes on Two Comfortable Lounges and Male Members Are Alarmed.

OLD PREROGATIVES TOTTER

Lady Astor and Miss Wilkinson Even Seek to Breach Ramparts of Diplomatic Service.

By ALLEN RAYMOND.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, March 21.—The House of Commons, generally considered here one of the best men's clubs on earth, is seriously perturbed by feminine insurgency. It looks as if the complacent male—whether Labor or Conservative—is going to be chased out of one of his most comfortable smoking rooms so that lady members can have an enlarged boudoir.

This prospect is agitating the lobbies and restaurant in the Mother of Parliaments this evening far more than an academic debate on whether socialism is a menace or a hope which occupied a large part of today's session.

It all started with an article Miss Ellen Wilkinson, M. P., wrote to The Evening Standard calling public attention to the fact that there is only one clothes hook, one twelve-inch square mirror and a small, illy ventilated sitting room for eight women M. P.'s whereas the men members have numerous swagger retiring rooms with such luxuries as baths.

Find Women Are United.

Since Miss Wilkinson is known to be an ardent feminist, also something of a journalist, veterans of the House were not much disturbed. Indeed, they were a trifle amused at this characteristic outburst. But when they started to joke other women M. P.'s about the matter they found quite disquieting evidence of sex solidarity.

All eight are united on this one issue, though politics divides them among the Tory, Liberal and Labor camps. They are going to get better personal facilities and more comforts or know the reason why. They inform their masculine colleagues that there is a likelihood of thirty women members before long and that the presence of women members in the House is not a mere occasional electoral freak but a growing political tendency. They have their eyes not particularly on two comfortable lounges to be taken over as soon as possible.

Veterans of the House shook their heads sadly tonight over the prospect of losing elbow room. One lounge is a favorite rendezvous for a group of back bench Labor members. Another is the favorite centre of sociability of a group of young Conservatives. Either group might be willing to give the ladies rooms of other groups, but neither is ready to part with its own. It is really a serious situation, because it is recognized tonight that the ladies are determined, and nobody knows just where the blow is going to fall.

Want Women in Diplomatic Corps.

As if to point the danger of further feminine jostling of mere man from governmental perches which hitherto have been his alone, both Lady Astor and Miss Wilkinson told the House today that there ought to be women in the diplomatic corps. Miss Wilkinson asked Sir Austen Chamberlain whether his attention had been drawn to the fact that in the French diplomatic service women had begun to be appointed to responsible posts and had received Ministerial rank in the Bulgarian and Soviet foreign services.

"Are you prepared to adopt this in the British service?" she asked.

Sir Austen said he was quite aware that women were obtaining some important posts in the French diplomatic service in Paris, but understood that there was a rule against their going abroad. He knew the Soviet and Bulgarian practice, but did not think any change in the British rules desirable.

"Does the honorable gentleman think British women behind forerign women in necessary diplomatic qualifications?" asked Miss Wilkinson.

"No, sir, on the contrary," answered Sir Austen.

"Does not the honorable gentleman think this prejudice ought to be abolished and that if there is a woman fitted for a position her sex should not stand in the way?" asked Lady Astor.

"No, sir," said Sir Austen. "I don't think any prejudice comes into the matter. It is a matter of experience and I think our rules best under present circumstances."

The discussion ended amid laughter when a Labor member asked whether when a woman took a man's job and got man's pay she ought to support the displaced unemployed man.

TOKIO, March 21.—It is now stated that work on the plane for the proposed Pacific flight is too far advanced to permit the changes ordered by the Government inspectors.

Officials of the Imperial Aviation Society talk of attempting the shorter route of Nemuro, Hokkaido to Sitka, instead of the Tokio-Seattle route, reducing distance from 5,030 to 3,600 kilometers.

Such a change is inevitable, the officials say, if the flight is to be attempted this year.

DECREES NICARAGUA SHALL VOTE UNDER US

Diaz Signs Law Stronger Than McCoy Bill Which Deputies Defeated.

AMERICAN HAS FULL POWER

In Emergency He Is a 'Quorum' on Board—President Says Honor Required Act.

CHAMORRO RIDICULES ORDER

Conservative Who Led Opposition Denies It Is Legal—Party May Be Disrupted.

By HAROLD N. DENNY.

Copyright, 1928, by The New York Times Company. By Tropical Radio.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, March 21.—The United States was invested with full authority to supervise the Nicaraguan national elections next October by an Executive decree signed by President Diaz at noon today.

The decree became the law of the land at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon when it was proclaimed on the principal streets of the capital in the quaint fashion inherited from the Spanish conquerors.

A soldier of the National Guard, accompanied by a brass band, went from corner to corner. At each stop the band played a lively air, after which the soldier read the full text of the decree to the assembled crowd. The crowds were largely made up of Liberals, who listened smilingly and cheered when he had finished.

The decree is being telegraphed to all parts of the country tonight for similar proclamation.

After signing the decree President Diaz received the writer for an extensive interview, in which he stated his reasons for his action today. It was moved, he said, by the double motive of assuring peace and harmony in Nicaragua and keeping the nation's honor by carrying out the pledge made with the United States at the time of the Stimson agreement ending the Liberal revolution last Spring.

Decree Grants Wide Powers.

The decree was accompanied by a preamble in which the President stated that in view of the fact that the Supreme Court had appointed General McCoy President of the National Electorial Board he had to supervise the election in accordance with the agreement entered into by Nicaragua and the United States.

The decree proper bestowed on the National Board "full and general authority to supervise the election in 1928 for the supreme authorities and to prescribe with obligatory force all provisions essential for the registration of voters, casting and counting of ballots and every other matter that may pertain to the election." The decree maintains the existing Electoral Board, which holds office under the present Dodds Electoral law, but in every other way suspends it.

In one or two slight ways it is stronger than the McCoy bill which the House of Deputies refused to pass last week. It is designed to give complete power to General McCoy.

The board consists of General McCoy and two others, one Conservative and one Liberal. Two members constitute a quorum but one of these two must be the American member. In case of tie, General McCoy has a double vote. No action is valid without the concurrence of General McCoy and in the event of what he considers an emergency he alone constitutes a quorum.

The draft signed today also includes a provision that if General McCoy is disabled by any cause, his successor will be chosen by the President of the United States, appointed by the President of Nicaragua, and confirmed by the Nicaraguan Supreme Court.

Mission Tells Decree's History.

The history of the decree was outlined as follows today at the office of the McCoy mission:

"This decree was drafted originally by Nicaraguan authorities based on a general outline of the original transitory provision as amended by certain suggestions agreed upon in Havana between representatives there and Dr. Cuadra Pasos.

"After the failure of the law in the House of Deputies, Dr. Cuadra Pasos made a draft which included the results of certain discussions and conferences that had followed the Havana conferences.

"This Cuadra Pasos draft was translated into English, but subsequent to that translation numerous changes have been made in the text and this amended text has been planned out through a series of conferences between Nicaraguan and American representatives.

"This morning there went to President Diaz the Spanish draft embodying the result of all this previous work. The President accepted that draft with the exception of one or two textual changes, unaffecting the essential substance of the decree."

Diaz Calls Decree Essential.

American officials evinced great satisfaction with President Diaz's action. They are aware that he had been faced with a most difficult political problem, for in ignoring the will of the Chamorrist wing of his party he has run the risk of digging his own political grave along with the possibility of wrecking his own party. He has striven in recent weeks to carry out the promises to the United States and at the same time avoid ruining the Conservative Party. The result is still uncertain.

In his interview today he defended the American policy in Nicaragua.

"I have issued the decree because I believed it essential to the present and future welfare of Nicaragua," said the President.

"It is difficult to find in the history of our country a problem of more importance than the present one of supervision of the national elections.

"I have felt acutely for many months that the question whether Nicaragua would continue on the path toward political stability and justice or slip back into the swamp of bitterness and oppression, from which we have risen at the cost of so much blood and pain, depended on our having free election this Fall.

Pays Tribute to America.

"As you realize, Nicaragua has not yet had enough experience in self-government to conduct such an election unassisted. We have been moving in the right direction for several years, and I tell you freely that much of this progress has been due to the example, assistance and advice of the United States.

"We recognized that we have still far to go, however. So when last year we asked for the mediation of the United States to end the civil war which had taken hundreds of lives and destroyed a great deal of property, both the Nicaraguan Government and the Liberal Party agreed to the supervision of elections as the best guarantee of future peace.

"I and many other leaders of the Conservative Party considered that, aside from the benefits which we believed would come to Nicaragua through American supervision, there is a high point of honor involved.

"We had given our written word, in letters which the President of the United States and I exchanged, to have American supervision. The United States also had pledged itself to supervision as one of the principal conditions on which loyal troops and the Liberal revolutionists laid down their arms.

"The failure of the House of Deputies last week to provide legislation embodying these pledges was a surprise and a disappointment. This failure, however, has not relieved the Government of the necessity of living up to its word, and I have therefore provided for supervision by means of an Executive decree. I do not want it said that Nicaragua does not live up to its agreements."

Critics Here Wound Diaz.

President Diaz is a sensitive man of pure Spanish ancestry and his intimate friends say he has been wounded by some criticisms of him in the United States which pictured him as entirely subservient to our State Department. The President did not mention this today, but freely discussed his own position with regard to American policy here.

"I have felt all through my political life that the best interests of Nicaragua would be served by our working harmoniously with the United States rather than in hostility to your country. For this reason I have usually been glad to cooperate with your Government.

"It is quite true that there is considerable feeling against the United States in much of Latin America. I believe that it is based on jealousy and groundless fear of the might of the United States. At our Eastern door we have an example of what the United States can do, in the freedom and prosperity of Cuba.

"I was entirely in sympathy with the acquisition by the United States of the rights to build a canal through our territory. For my country's sake I look forward to the day when it may be built.

"It would bring our country prosperity such as it has never known and at the same time would provide safe and easy transportation and communication between the east and west coasts of Nicaragua, which now are so separated.

Moncada Expresses Satisfaction.

"I understand, as do most students of international affairs, that the United States feels bound by the Monroe Doctrine to keep peace and order in the Western Hemisphere. The Monroe Doctrine was promulgated in the early days of your country to protect it from embroilments with European nations. It has remained to be a protection to us."

General Moncada, the Liberal candidate for President, expressed satisfaction this afternoon that the decree had been issued. General Chamorro said that he did not wish to say anything and laughed heartily about the matter.

"Has the American Legation approved it?" he asked, when told that the decree was signed. When told that it probably had, he demanded:

"Do they think it is legal?"

When again informed that they probably did, he remarked:

"Oh, then they don't know much about Nicaraguan law."

Then after a long laugh he added:

"Well, I suppose the Conservative Party will go in the election and win it."

American officials appear not to expect a serious challenge to the decree's validity. This point has been passed on by Perez Alonzo, the Liberal President of the Supreme Court; Cuadra Zavala, Conservative member of the Supreme Court, and Dr. Cuadra Pasos, a noted lawyer.

Dr. Cuadra Pasos, the Foreign Minister, has cooperated throughout with the McCoy mission in drafting the decree of the note. The chief variation in the decree from the Washington draft is the insertion of the provision for General McCoy's successor.

Both marine planes and ground troops have scoured the region of Murra unavailingly for Sandinistas who were there in force two days ago, according to an announcement made at General Feland's headquarters this afternoon. The ground troops are pressing the hunt in hope of finding scattered bands who fled after Monday's bombing.

Evidence is reaching here that Hondurans have done much to close the border, no help coming from that direction.

The belief here is that the Sandinistas are in a bad way for supplies. The torrid season is now at its height here and vegetation is scorched, affording little food either to man or mounts.

MARINES SAIL AT BALBOA.

Admiral Sellers Doubts Sandino Will Be Caught Before Rains.

Copyright, 1928, by The New York Times Company. Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BALBOA, Panama Canal Zone, March 21.—Marine reinforcements to the number of 360 en route from the United States sailed from here for Corinto, Nicaragua, this afternoon aboard the cruiser Rochester. The marines, who crowded the decks of the cruiser, had arrived at Cristobal this morning on the Arkansas, being collected from the ships of the Atlantic Pursuit Squadron.

Admiral D. F. Sellers, who commands the special service squadron and the forces in Nicaragua, said before sailing that the reinforcement were not needed in the campaign against Sandino, but would be used largely in connection with supervision of the Presidential election.

The capture of Sandino before the coming rainy season is doubtful, according to Admiral Sellers, who emphasized the difficulties the marines are facing in the guerrilla warfare now being carried on.

"The attempt to capture Sandino is like chasing a fox," the Admiral said. "He and his men know the country thoroughly, while it is totally unknown to be marines."

The campaign against Sandino is more a question of the character of the country than of the number of marines engaged, Admiral Sellers asserted. The lack of accurate maps and of a knowledge of the country, the rugged nature of the highlands and scarcity of passable trails and the density of the jungle in the lowlands are a serious handicap. On the other hand, Sandino's forces know the country perfectly, are at home in the jungles and can live off the land.

NEW FRENCH PLANE CARRIES SIX GUNS

Secretly Built Bleriot Makes 130 Miles an Hour at 18,000 Feet Altitude.

TESTS SURPASS ESTIMATES

Huge Machine Is Called Greatest Fight Craft—Carries Crew of Six.

Copyright, 1928, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, March 21.—The Bleriot airplane factories have just delivered to the French Government one of the most formidable combat planes yet constructed in Europe. The greatest secrecy surrounded the building of it. The factory was guarded night and day and repeated attempts by various foreign powers to obtain information about the plane from Governmental and other sources all met with failure.

Some details have finally been disclosed, and experts who have had an opportunity of examining the ship, have expressed the opinion that it represents the highest reached point in the development of offensive military aviation since the Armistice.

In tests recently carried out the Bleriot 127-M (the plane's official name) made a speed of 207 kilometers (130 miles) an hour at a height of more than 18,000 feet. This surpassed the most sanguine expectations of the Bleriot engineers and the French War Department.

The plane carries two Hispano-Suiza motors, each of 500 horsepower,—the same motor as that used by MM. Costes and Lebrix in their long flights to and through the Americas. The total weight with crew of six is 4,466 kilograms.

Most important of all from the military point of view, the plane mounts six powerful machine guns, two aft and four in an entirely novel rear pit, so placed in the tail of the fuselage as to afford a new degree of protection. This latter development of the Bleriot ship alone is said to mark a notable step in the progress of aerial warfare.

The crew will consist of two pilots, the plane having dual controls; three machine-gunners and one mechanic. According to reliable reports a considerable number of these planes will be constructed now that tests have proved satisfactory. In war these planes will be used as an advance and rear guard for big bombardment operations. With heavy armament and high speed at great altitude, strategists believe the Bleriot machine will prove most effective interference for the giant bombers of which the French air force possesses a large number.

The plane has a wing spread of twenty-three meters. The area of lifting surface is seventy-five square meters and the useful load 750 kilograms.

The same factories have also turned over to the French air service a new Spad 61, which has attained a speed of 275 kilometers an hour at a height of 15,000 feet, a 450-horsepower Lorraine turbo engine supplies the power and the total weight of this plane is 1,850 kilograms.

Foreign observers say that the two new machines add very materially to the military air strength of France.

EX-ARMY LEADER MURDERED IN CHINA

Chang Shao-tseng Sided With the Revolutionists Against Manchus —Once Premier.

TIENTSIN, March 21 (AP).—Chang Shao-tseng, noted military leader, was murdered in a "sing-song house" tonight.

General Chang Shao-tseng was commander-in-chief of the 20th Division of the Chinese Army in 1911. He was one of a trio, including Lan T'ien-wei and Wu Lu-ch'en, known as the "three heroes of North China." This trio declared sympathy with the revolutionists and compelled the Manchus to promulgate a constitution of nineteen articles.

In 1912 he was pacification commissioner in Shanghai to expedite unification between the North and South, and in 1916 Military Inspector General.

Chang was appointed Civil Governor of Shensi in 1922 but did not assume office; he became acting Minister of War and later was appointed Premier. Several years ago he fled to Tientsin when President Li Yuan-hung was forced out of office.

RUMANIA WARS ON CORRESPONDENTS

Official Threatens to Deport All Who Send News Unfavorable to Government.

ONE IS ALREADY EXPELLED

Censorship Lid Is Clamped Down Tight on All Dispatches, Vienna Hears.

Copyright, 1928, by The New York Times Company.
By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, March 21.—If the most useful Balkan political weather vane, the tightening of the censorship and the opening of a "reign of terror" against Bucharest correspondents, is not playing pranks tonight, the Rumanian Government is in water the temperature of which is getting uncomfortably warm.

Reminiscent of other occasions when the situation reached a critical stage in that country, the Government has not only clamped the censorship lid down tight on all dispatches which give other than its side of the question, but has also begun an intimidation campaign against newspaper correspondents resident in Bucharest.

At noon today, according to one message which reached Vienna from a usually reliable source, the official Government press spokesman today summoned all correspondents to his office and there informed them that "much as it would regret to do so the Government will be forced to withdraw its hospitality in the case of every man who in the future sends abroad any report which presents the Government in a bad light."

Soon after this information was received by the newspaper men it became known that one Austrian correspondent already yesterday received notice to quit the country within twenty-four hours, but as a NEW YORK TIMES correspondent received such a notice a few years ago. The order of deportation was withdrawn only when the Austrian Minister in Bucharest intervened and lodged a vigorous protest at the Rumanian Foreign Office.

Bratiano Denounces Maniu.

While correspondents were seeking a solution from the quandary in which they find themselves in view of this deportation threat, a number of important political conferences were being held in various parts of the city. One such conference was of Deputies of the Liberal Party and other political groups which are supporting the Government at the present time.

Before this assembly Premier Bratianu reiterated his determination not to resign and delivered a speech vehemently denouncing the National Peasant leaders as not capable of governing the country. He said:

"Dr. Maniu's accession to power is unthinkable because the National Peasant Party has consistently and determinedly refused to acknowledge the throne law which banned Carol and placed his son Michael on the throne. Even if such were not the case Dr. Maniu has voluntarily made a pariah of himself by joining hands with political groups who seek to encompass the country's downfall."

The groups here referred to are the Socialists who united with the peasants in the recent mass meeting demonstration against the Government.

As the Deputies cheered and shouted approval Premier Bratianu concluded his speech with the announcement that he had just received information from Paris that negotiations with France for the reduction of the war debt were successful, and that instead of 1,500,000,000 gold francs previously demanded by France the figure of the countries indebtedness had been set at 600,000,000.

Praises Will Leave Senate.

The second important conference was that of the Greek Catholic Uniate prelates. Here it was decided that the prelates absent themselves from the Senate until the Government modifies the Church law, the "iniquity" of which they say was demonstrated Sunday when fifteen priests were bayoneted at Tekuitsch. The prelates demand in particular that Chapter 5 and 10 of the law be revised to the end that, hold these clauses annul the rights of the Uniate Church, reserving judicially to a corporate body and aggrieve the masses of members of the Church.

The third conference was that of National Peasant leaders, who discussed ways by which they can prevent the Government from declaring their party's seats vacant and calling new elections to fill them as the Government is entitled by law to do when Deputies are absent from twelve consecutive meetings.

The newspaper Lupta today reported that the Government plans to replace the National Peasant absentees with adherents of General Averescu and Professor Jorga, thus assuring Premier Bratianu 100 per cent. support from Parliament.

With the Uniate Church, which is very powerful in Transylvania, making common cause with the National Peasants, some of whose are also of the orthodox Greek religion, the Government's position is generally considered weak, if not shaky.

$369,190,737 ASKED IN NAVY SUPPLY BILL

Measure With Largest Total Since Washington Conference Is Reported to House.

DIRIGIBLES PROVIDED FOR

Funds for Study of Submarine Safety and for Cruisers Now Building Are Included.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—Warning that there were no indications of lower naval costs in the near future the House Appropriations Committee today reported the Naval Bill for the fiscal year 1929, carrying a total of $369,190,737, which the committee described as the largest appropriation of the kind asked of Congress since the Washington Armament Conference.

Instead of a decline in naval cost, the committee, in a report prepared by Representative French of Idaho, Chairman of the Naval Subcommittee, declared that all indications "point to an appreciable and immediate upward trend."

Debate on the naval bill was begun coincident with the filing of the report on it by Mr. French. Indications are that it will be passed before the end of the week.

Funds for construction authorized by the $274,000,000 naval building bill for sixteen ships, which is pending in the Senate are not carried by the bill reported today. If the building bill, as it stands, or in modified form, becomes a law before the end of the session, as now seems assured, money to give it effect will be carried in one of the deficiency measures, according to an announcement today.

Provides for Ships now Building.

The naval budget for 1929 carries an appropriation exceeding by $14,959,259.10 the amount made available for service needs in the current year. One of the major items is $48,000,000 for continuing work on eight cruisers and two submarines.

An appropriation of $1,800,000 is carried to begin work on two giant dirigibles which will cost, when completed, the sum of $8,000,000.

A total of $31,315,000 is carried by the bill for naval aviation. This will provide for something less than the number of airplanes needed for fulfilment of the five-year expansion program, but if it is carried out, the full complement of 1,000 planes can be obtained by 1931 if a slightly larger number is built during the last two years.

In looking around for means to effect economies during preparation of the Naval Bill, the hearings on it disclose, Chairman French suggested that it might be a good idea for this Government to endeavor to arrange an agreement with Great Britain and Japan under which a certain number of ships of each of the fleets might be commissioned. This idea did not meet with the approval of Secretary Wilbur, who indicated that such procedure might have a tendency to weaken the fleet.

Although Admiral Hughes, Chief of Operations, complained that the efficiency of the fleet had been gradually impaired by cutting down personnel, the supply bill carries no increases on this account. Current appropriations provide for 83,250 enlisted men and 5,423 officers. The same number is authorized in the present ibll.

The sum of $200,000 was recommended to investigate safety devices and to make "such minor changes" on submarines as studies of naval experts may suggest.

Would Increase Annapolis Classes.

The committee expressed the belief that the year 1930 would see work completed on the eight cruisers and two submarines now building.

Owing to the assignment of many Annapolis graduates to the Air Service, there is need in the navy for a larger supply of officers. The committee recommended that each Senator and member of the House be permitted to appoint four instead of three candidates for admission to the Naval Academy. This would increase the midshipmen corps from 1,710 to 2,112.

In discussing "expanding naval costs," Mr. French said the upward trend would continue in more pronounced degree "if capital ship replacements" shall proceed as contemplated by the Washington Treaty, and if the United States should find it necessary not only to replace but increase the number of ships of other types and to add new types. He continued:

"These prospective additional burdens can be alleviated in a measure by curbing expenses in a greater degree in directions suggested by present and former practices in our own navy and which are being practiced abroad today. For example, there is a strong urge now to increase the enlisted strength. The situation at present can be taken care of without serious consequences by placing a larger number of the ships that are admittedly of no military value from a combat standpoint in reserve or in a decommissioned status, if that be the only recourse."

The matter of mounting costs, Mr. French said made it essential that Congress "weigh with increasing care the propositions that come to us which involve additions to naval expenditures.

"In shaping the accompanying bill, the committee has been informed largely by such considerations. It is for the House of course to decide whether or not a different policy shall be pursued."

Magruder's Charge Reiterated.

The seventy-one-ship program submitted to the House in December by Secretary Wilbur would have cost more than $1,000,000,000 instead of $725,000,000, as estimated by the Navy Department at the time, according to Rear Admiral T. P. Magruder, former Commandant of the Philadelphia Navy Yard, now "awaiting orders" in Washington. Admiral Magruder made a statement to that effect before the House Naval Appropriations Subcommittee on March 13 during hearings on the supply bill.

The testimony of Admiral Magruder took a wide range, covering in the main his discussion of charges before the Naval Affairs Committee in December that the navy was "over-officered" and "over-organized."

Admiral Magruder said one of the great needs of the navy was additional enlisted men. He asserted, by way of comment on his magazine articles and his testimony before the House Naval Committee:

"My views, in some instances, are contrary to the views of the present administration of the Navy Department. There is a certain ethical consideration as to whether an officer in the navy should oppose a policy of the Navy Department. The attitude that I have maintained comes from my consideration of the interests of the country as a whole rather that of the Navy."

SLEMP FOR HOOVER, PROMISES VIRGINIA

Committeeman Turns to Secretary at a Secret Dinner of Congressional Forces.

DYER ALSO SWINGS TO HIM

St. Louis Representative and Delegate Reflects Sentiment There, Capital Politicians Say.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 21. — The Hoover-for-President movement received a boost last night at a secret dinner of Senators and Representatives devoted to the Secretary's cause when former Representative C. Bascom Slemp of Virginia announced that he was for Mr. Hoover's nomination by the Republican Convention and that he would receive the support of Virginia's seventeen delegates to that convention.

Mr. Slemp, who is Virginia's member of the Republican National Committee, was one of the original members of the "draft Coolidge" group. He was Secretary to President Coolidge during the early part of the latter's Administration.

Another significant statement at the dinner came from Representative L. C. Dyer of Missouri, that he would vote for Secretary Hoover in the Kansas City Convention. Mr. Dyer was elected a delegate to the convention from the St. Louis district, which he represents in Congress. He was not instructed and up to last night had not disclosed his preference for the Presidential nomination. With his accession three of the four St. Louis delegates—two from each of the city's congressional districts—have announced for Hoover and, it is likely according to Missouri Republicans, that the fourth will join them.

Hoover Among the Speakers.

Secretary Hoover was at the dinner for a short time and made a brief speech expressive of his appreciation of the support of those present. He said he was one of those who had hoped President Coolidge would accept renomination, but if Republicans wanted him—Hoover—to take the leadership they would have the best that he had to give.

The dinner took place at the Willard Hotel, where the Hoover "clearing house" is located, and was attended by about seventy persons, most of them members of Congress. All three Republican women Representatives—Mrs. Kahn of California, Mrs. Rogers of Massachusetts and Mrs. Langley of Kentucky—were there. Mrs. Kahn and Mrs. Langley made speeches enthusiastically endorsing the Hoover candidacy.

States represented at the dinner by Representatives in Congress were California, Iowa, Kentucky, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Oregon, Rhode Island, Tennessee and Wyoming. It was stated that twenty-seven States were represented and that thirty-five members of the House of Representatives who did not attend are supporting Hoover. New Hampshire and Ohio, which have Congressmen in the Hoover camp, were not represented. Some of those present, like Mr. Slemp, had served in Congress. Former Representative Cleveland Newton, the Hoover manager in Missouri, came on from St. Louis to attend the dinner.

Representative Frederick L. Davenport of Clinton, N. Y., was one of the speakers. Others were Representatives Ince of Massachusetts, Dyer of Missouri, Taylor of Tennessee, Winter of Wyoming, Cole of Iowa, Ketcham of Michigan and Burdick of Rhode Island.

Says Bosses Can't Succeed.

Representative Robsion of Kentucky, who presided, denounced attacks made on Mr. Hoover's Americanism and Republicanism, and served notice that some political bosses and politicians who, he said, were attempting to bring about a situation which would enable a small group of them to nominate the Republican candidate for President in a separate room at 2 o'clock in the morning—a reference to the manner in which Warren G. Harding's nomination was arranged at the Chicago convention of 1920—would not succeed.

When he was asked today concerning his declaration for Hoover at last night's dinner, Mr. Slemp said:

"Mr. Hoover, in my judgment, has more of a national appeal and following than any man now being considered for the Presidency. He is a man of extraordinary ability, conversant with all phases of government activity, both foreign and domestic, and would make a great President. For this reason I am for him."

Political circles attach the greatest significance to Mr. Slemp's declaration. He is regarded as a power among Southern Republican politicians, with the ability to persuade them to follow his leadership, and is expected to have a marked influence on delegates from Southern States in the Republican National Convention.

Besides, he is credited with both the desire and the ability to pick the winner in contests for the Presidential nomination.

Dyer's Stand Held Significant.

The announcement of Representative Dyer that he was for Mr. Hoover's nomination is looked upon as deriving its significance chiefly from the belief that it reflects sentiment in St. Louis. This is Missouri's Republican stronghold where voters of German birth or descent play an important part in political affairs.

The Hoover boom has not prospered in Missouri. Frank O. Lowden, to whom most of the chief men in the Republican State organization were opposed—a reflection of the scandal concerning the use of Lowden money in the State when Mr. Lowden was a Presidential aspirant eight years ago—has captured most of the delegates elected to the Kansas City convention.

Recently a reported slump in the Hoover movement among St. Louis Germans was attributed to a letter said to have been written by former Representative Rodenberg of Illinois, charging that Secretary Hoover had opposed giving relief to starving women and children in Germany after the Armistice of Nov. 11, 1918.

This has been denied and Mr. Hoover's attitude pictured as to the contrary. The decision of Representative Dyer and the other pro-Hoover delegates from St. Louis to the national convention is being interpreted as indicating that sentiment among Republicans in that city, Germans included, is decidedly favorable to the candidacy of Mr. Hoover.

In his speech Representative Dyer gave his reasons for supporting Hoover. He said the Secretary was a great engineer and it was through his work and that of men of his type that America's foreign trade had been extended in many lands, thus affording employment to a myriad of workers, helping farm prices and contributing to the country's prosperity.

In China, which Mr. Dyer has visited several times, Hoover, he said, was always referred to as a great engineer and China's friend. Referring to his personal contact with the Secretary of Commerce, he said that it was only through assistance given him by Mr. Hoover that he had been able to work out and have passed the Foreign Trade act, which, he declared, had meant millions of dollars in trade which benefited industry and labor.

The Missouri Congressman also defended Mr. Hoover from charges that his war-time activities as Food Administrator had injured the farmers. He asserted that, on the contrary, Hoover had saved the farmers from ruinous price deflation in the latter stages of the World War and by breaking down the post-armistice blockade of Germany had provided an outlet for farm products when real bankruptcy threatened. For these things the farmers should praise, not condemn, Hoover. Those in a position to know the facts were aware of Hoover's continuous friendship for agriculture, according to Mr. Dyer.

Mrs. Kahn Makes Predictions.

Representative Kahn said that in the Kansas City convention the delegates from the Pacific Coast States would be unanimous for the nomination of Mr. Hoover. The women of the country, she declared, were determined that the popular will should not be thwarted at Kansas City by combinations of political leaders through favorite-son candidacies, or controlled delegations.

Representative Taylor of Tennessee, who is the National Committeeman for his State, made one of the most emphatic speeches in support of the Hoover candidacy. He said that the Tennessee delegation at Kansas City would vote for Hoover on the first and all subsequent ballots.

Altogether, the dinner was a huge success in the enthusiasm manifested and the encouragement derived by the diners from what they were told of Hoover sentiment in the States represented.

ized group and may have the effect of seriously injuring the group's activities.

That it has spoiled the brakes a bit harder to the draft movement is perhaps the mildest interpretation placed on the President's refusal to "grant the requests of those who form the responsible organization of the Republican Party in Wyoming."

Senator Simeon D. Fess of Ohio, who is now pledged to the favorite-son Presidential candidacy of his colleague, Senator Frank B. Willis, but whose heart still beats true to the desire to renominate President Coolidge, is one of those who takes the position that, in sending an indirect response to the Wyoming communication, he intended to serve notice that he expected his renunciatory remarks of last December to be taken as a definite refusal to be a candidate for another term.

"No other interpretation could be placed on it," said Senator Fess tonight, when he expressed the view that the President's indirect response was designed to take him definitely out of the contest. "I always have felt and still feel that if the Republican Convention got into a serious deadlock, it would naturally turn to Coolidge. I hardly think he would accept a nomination now if it did."

The Wyoming Resolution.

The Wyoming resolution was given out at the White House this evening on mimeographed sheets of paper. The resolution read as follows:

RESOLUTION.

Whereas the principles, policies and Administration of Calvin Coolidge have resulted not only in the material, intellectual and moral advancement of the people of the United States but have been a factor for good in the affairs of the nations of the world; and

Whereas the highest welfare of the nation demands that the policies whose wisdom and beneficent effects are being so thoroughly demonstrated should not be interrupted or jeopardized and, to that end, the leadership which has evolved those policies should be continued:

Therefore, be it resolved, That the Wyoming Republican State Central Committee believes that the general good of the people of these United States would be enhanced by a continuation of the Administration of Calvin Coolidge.

Be it further resolved, That the Wyoming Republican State Central Committee requests Calvin Coolidge to waive his personal preference and consent to continue for an additional four years that leadership which has brought honor and prosperity to this country.

Be it further resolved, That the Chairman of this committee be and he is hereby authorized and directed to forward a certified copy of this resolution to the Hon. Calvin Coolidge, President of the United States.

I hereby certify that the above and foregoing resolution was unanimously passed by the Republican State Central Committee of the State of Wyoming in a regularly called meeting of that committee on March 10, 1928.

Hoover and Smith Lead Harvard Poll.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., March 21.—Governor Smith and Secretary Hoover are the Democratic and Republican Presidential candidates favored by the Harvard student body, according to the final results of The Harvard Crimson's poll. Secretary Hoover received the largest number of votes of either party and Governor Smith was second. Eight hundred and three Democratic votes, split among Reed, Ritchie and Walsh, considerably reduced the Governor's vote. The total of 2,484 votes was thus divided: Republicans—Hoover, 1,841; Dawes, 220; Lowden, 183; Curtis, 52; Willis, 40. Democrats—Smith, 1,350; Reed, 363; Ritchie, 274; Walsh, 266; Donahey, 48.

SAYS SICK TEACHERS GOT 'THIRD DEGREE'

Union Head Charges Dr. Altman Ordered Some, Unfit, to Return to Duties.

DR. O'SHEA HOTLY DENIES IT

Declares He Has Not Received Even an Anonymous Complaint—Defends Board's Doctor.

The use of "third degree" methods in the examination of sick teachers by Dr. Emil Altman, Chief Medical Examiner of the Department of Education, was charged yesterday by President Henry R. Linville of the Teachers' Union in a letter to school principals asking their cooperation in procuring information on teachers' experiences with the physician.

Dr. Linville said that the union was collecting documentary evidence indicating that teachers who are ill are "ordered back to work" against the advice of their personal physicians, with frequently "disastrous results." The principals were told that in the examination of teachers by Dr. Altman "third degree' tactics are practiced as well as other conduct utterly reprehensible."

The letter was sent to seventy-five of the city's 600 heads of schools. A few of the seventy-five were high school principals and the rest heads of elementary schools. In his letter Dr. Linville said that the information to be collected may induce the Board of Education to order an investigation of its own. He promised to withhold the names of any teachers who sent in written statements of their experiences.

Dr. O'Shea Resents Charges.

Dr. William J. O'Shea, Superintendent of Schools, attacked the union for its "tactics" in the campaign against the chief examiner. He resented Dr. Linville's letter to the principals and characterized the step as "outrageous."

"The union is asking the principals to collect unsigned complaints," Dr. O'Shea said. "Nobody can be safe that way. Any lunatic can come out with unsigned charges. If I find it necessary, I will talk next Monday after the union's meeting on Friday.

"The tactics of the union are outrageous. Bulletins announcing the meeting have been handed out in subway stations.

"As to the complaints, not a single teacher has complained to me about the conduct of the medical examiner. I haven't received even anonymous charges. Dr. Altman is a fine man with a heart of gold. He is a little impulsive. He has tried to do his work faithfully and has saved the city a good deal of money. I don't want to prejudice the case until I hear what the grievances are. It is, however, unprincipled of the union to ask for unsigned complaints."

Admits Several Complaints.

At the office of the Secretary of President George J. Ryan of the Board of Education, it was said that several complaints had been received there during the past year.

Dr. Linville denied categorically that any circulars had been distributed in subway stations, announcing the meeting which the union has called for tomorrow evening at the Meeting House of the Ethical Culture Society, 2 West Sixty-fourth Street. He indicated the possibility of union members having left copies of the circular in stations or subway cars.

"And we certainly haven't asked principals for unsigned statements," he added. "We have no use for unsigned complaints. We cannot quote anonymous statements. We want authentic information."

Dr. Altman refused to comment on the union's charges.

MARYMOUNT GIRL QUITS JOB

Miss Tierney, Ill, Goes to Grandmother's Home From Kew Gardens.

Catherine Elizabeth Tierney, 22-year-old freshman, who ran away on Feb. 3 from Marymount College, Tarrytown, N. Y., and was found three weeks later working as a maid in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Lobsenze, 160 Richmond Hill Avenue, Kew Gardens, left her place of employment last Saturday, it became known yesterday. The young woman is with her grandmother, Mrs. Martin Rodgers, 471 East 140th Street, where she will remain for several days before going back to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Tierney, 159 Spring Street, Middletown, Conn.

Mrs. Tierney, the young woman's mother, said yesterday that Catherine was in a highly nervous condition as a result of the publicity during the past month. She said her daughter would rest for several days at the home of Mrs. Rodgers, and then return to Middletown.

The young woman, according to her parents, will be permitted to go to school or work. They said yesterday they would work with her in any plans she had made for the future.

Mrs. Tierney declared that her daugher had worked too hard while at the Lobsenze home and as a result is now nervous and unstrung. This was denied by Mrs. Lobsenze, who said Catherine did very little work because she was sick most of the time.

Korsholm Picks Up Crew of Disabled British Ship.

The Swedish American liner Korsholm, on the way from New York to Gothenburg, Sweden, has just rescued six men composing the crew of the British schooner General Byng, according to a wireless report received here yesterday by the line's local office.

The message gave the schooner's position as latitude 42 degrees 8 minutes north, longitude 61 degrees 17 minutes west. This would place her 550 miles east of New York at a point off the coast of Nova Scotia.

No account of the rescue was given, but the schooner was said to be bound for Nova Scotia. Her tonnage was given at 196.

According to the Maritime Register, the schooner came from the West Indies. She was listed as having left Barbados Jan. 14 and arrived at Turks Island Jan. 20. She was listed as arriving at Kingston, Jamaica, on Jan. 31. Her date of leaving Jamaica was not given.

AIR DEFENSE TESTED BY ASIATIC FLEET

Admiral Bristol Directs Manoeuvres Closing Winter Sojourn in Philippine Waters.

SHIPS SAIL FOR CHINA POSTS

Commander Will Go to Hongkong, Where British Plan Reception Program for Him.

By HENRY F. MISSELWITZ.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ABOARD THE U. S. S. PITTSBURGH, FLAGSHIP OF THE ASIATIC FLEET, en route to Hongkong, March 21.—Thirty-one units in the Asiatic fleet, which left Manila Monday morning en route to their China stations, completed three days of manoeuvres this afternoon off the island of Luzon and are proceeding this evening to China.

The manoeuvres, directed by Admiral Mark L. Bristol, Commander-in-Chief of the American naval forces in Far Eastern waters, successfully demonstrated the practicability of various crusing formations being marked by bombing and torpedo attacks from the air.

Leaving Manila, where it had been stationed during the Winter, the fleet proceeded northwestward along the coast of Luzon, the cruiser Pittsburgh preceding a convoy train of six ships, the convoy and flagship being protected by an advance screen of submarines, which led the sortie and destroyers. Two divisions participated, comprising twelve destroyers and twelve submarines, while the train in convoy consisted of one light mine-layer, two mine sweepers and three of the fleet's auxiliary ships.

The destroyers' anti-aircraft screen on the second day of the manoeuvres successfully protected the convoy, the destroyers sighting and reporting the attacking airplanes before the latter were able to penetrate the screen, which was some ten miles in radius from the convoy. The third day's air attack, however, proved successful for the airmen. A trio of torpedo planes swooped down within easy striking distance before they were seen by the flagship, due to a heavy curtain of low-hanging clouds, although they had been reported by the destroyers some minutes earlier.

At the end of the manoeuvres this afternoon the fleet broke its formation, the destroyers proceeding to China coast ports, one submarine division going to Hongkong and the other returning to Olongapo in the Philippines.

Admiral Bristol will remain in Hongkong for several days, where the British plan an extensive reception program for him. The Admiral will proceed to Canton next week and unofficially visit Chinese leaders. He will sail for Shanghai via South China ports early in April.

CHAMBERLIN ASSERTS NATION IS AIR-MINDED

Declares at Washington Meeting Aviation Is Taking Economic Place With Railroad.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—Clarence D. Chamberlin, transatlantic flier, in an address here today before the American Aeronautical Association's motor congress, declared that the United States is becoming more "air minded" and, enthused by the successful flights of 1927, is showing an awakened interest in flying and that aviation is rapidly becoming an independent factor in the economic life of the country.

"The airplane," he said, "is destined to become just as important to the future of America as the railroad and the automobile has been in the past.

"Airplanes will be carrying freight across the continent as a regular thing within a few years, just as they carry bulky parcel post packages today.

"Through the medium of the flying club, popular aviation will receive a great impetus, and it is natural that such clubs will follow the stimulation of public interest. Legislators are wisely giving thought to aviation and looking ahead to the time when whole communities will be flying. This is shown in the agitation for airports."

Declaring that the general use of the airplane for carrying freight is at hand, Chamberlin said that a typewriter concern recently shipped to various parts of the country a number of new model machines in less than a third of the time it would have taken by fast express.

He said that manufacturers of planes are swamped with orders; that the "flivver" plane was successfully making its advent, placing a machine within the reach of the average pocketbook, and that towns and hamlets were no longer astounded by "the appearance of an airplane in a farm yard."

WORLD AIR CODE PUSHED AT PARLEY

Thirty-two Nations Meeting in Paris Seek to Fix Responsibility for Injuries.

Copyright, 1928, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, March 21.—The first attempt of the principal nations of the world to work out a group of uniform laws governing the responsibility of air carriers in international transport and damages to third parties on the ground is nearing accomplishment in Paris this week.

The official representatives of thirty-two nations, including Russia, Japan and China, are meeting here for three days to prepare a final draft to two international conventions. This is the second meeting and the third will be held in Madrid on May 24. If the May session approves the completed outline, then an international diplomatic conference will be called to give its approval.

The United States Government was represented at today's meeting by an unofficial observer, but it is believed that efforts now being made to induce Washington officially to join the May gathering will be successful.

The greatest confusion exists in the laws applying to persons injured by air carriers while traveling in planes or on the ground. The present discussion likewise includes the question of property damage incident to falling planes and numerous other entirely new problems growing out of the rapidly increasing international air transport.

At the first international conference on private air law held in Paris in 1925 an international technical commission of aerial and juridical experts was appointed and it is a subcommittee of this commission which is meeting in Paris.

Germany and Britain have taken the lead in the preliminary work and been instrumental in sending the invitation to the American Government. H. H. Kelly of the Automotive Commission in Europe of the Department of Commerce is attending the meetings.

Sudan Government Forbids Lady Mary Bailey's Flight

CAIRO, March 21.—Lady Mary Bailey, wife of the wealthy South African, who started from London on a solo flight in a Moth plane to Cape Town and arrived at Cairo Monday, has been prevented from completing her flight owing to representations of the Sudan Government.

Through the British High Commission here it firmly opposed allowing her to fly over Sudanese territory because of the dangers attendant on any forced landing among the tribes.

Lady Mary expresses herself warmly regarding the action of the authorities, declaring that she is willing to take all responsibility and is determined to fly unless forcibly detained.

WESTFIELD, N. J., March 21.—A small American flag which Commander Richard E. Byrd promised to drop from his plane when he crosses the South Pole was forwarded to the flier today by E. R. Crow, President of the Lions' Club.

Commander Byrd's promise to drop the flag in the Antartic was made following a lecture he gave here last night. The club President told the flier he wanted future visitors to the South Pole to find reference to Westfield there.

DRIVE ON GAMBLING STIRS WHITE PLAINS

Order Admitted by County Prosecutor but Denied by City Police Chief.

'CLUB'S' DOORS ARE SHUT

Various Persons Blame All on 'Same Group' That Took a Sportsman 'for a Ride.'

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., March 21.—Whether or not a "clean-up" by the police is under way here, this city is "cleaner" tonight than it has been for some time. A certain club on Orawaupum Street, which was understood to foster one of the biggest "crap" games outside Manhattan's famous "floating" game, quietly shut its doors last night, and several of New York's big gambling men must motor elsewhere for their customary "week-end racket."

All this is vehemently denied by Chief of Police John Joyce, who today protested that White Plains is as pure as the driven snow and never possessed such a game. Furthermore, says the Chief of Police, his department has received no command from Westchester County's District Attorney, Arthur Rowland, to "clean up."

But District Attorney Rowland about the same hour informed the press that he had given such orders to Chief Joyce and to Alonzo Cooper, Commissioner of Public Safety. And it is also true that doors leading to a second floor suite at 37 Orawaupum Street are shut, and no one answers the knock to admit a visitor into the Odd Social Club which flourished there up to a very short time ago.

Furthermore, various gentlemen, formerly conspicuous in foyers of public buildings, who carried messages for citizens who had strong opinions about the comparative speed of horses were shaking their heads today. If the talk turned on horseflesh and money was mentioned they looked mournful. "The books are closed," they said.

A deluge of denials floods White Plains. Certain persons, and the local press, assert that a few nights ago an eminent sportsman and purveyor of choice beverages "went for a ride." These persons describe the adhesive tape bandages that closed his eyes and mouth. They relate how the car he went in crossed a ferry in its three-hour jaunt. Finally they report he convinced his hosts that a proper sum of money would be paid if they let him go, and that when they did let him go he found himself in the Bronx with his own car idling beside his host's car at the curb.

Meanwhile relatives had telephoned Police Chief Joyce, it is said. The chief denies it, the relatives deny it, and the sportsman denies the whole episode. Those who say it caused Mr. Rowland's action are contradicted. Whatever the facts are, White Plains tonight is "clean." Chief Joyce will swear to it.

MEXICO HAS SHARP 'QUAKE.

Continuing Movement Causes Fright in Capital—Felt at Vera Cruz.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, March. 21.—One of the severest earthquakes felt in Mexico City for many years occurred at 10:20 o'clock tonight. The shock lasted almost a minute.

People rushed out of the theatres and the street lights failed completely.

A hanging light swung forty-five degrees out of the vertical during the course of the quake and many window panes were smashed in various parts of the city.

The earth movement appeared to continue at midnight and the streets were full of people, terrified that a further sharp shock would occur.

VERA CRUZ, Mexico, March 21 (AP).—An oscillating earthquake perceptible for a minute and a half occurred here at 10:20 o'clock tonight. It caused general alarm and residents ran from their homes, but no material damage was reported. The tremor is thought to have affected a wide area.

No matter what car you drive, there are reasons why you shouldn't miss the Style Salon of Pierce-Arrow which opens tomorrow.

EX-FIREMAN HELD AS THIEF

McMahon, Harris, Former Deputy Sheriff, Reisler and Girl Bound Over to Grand Jury.

Captain Max Vallen of Engine Company 255, at 1,369 Rogers Avenue, Brooklyn, was relieved of his command and suspended indefinitely by Commissioner John J. Dorman yesterday afternoon pending trial before the Commissioner for conduct "prejudicial to discipline."

Commissioner Dorman was not reached last night and Chief John Kenlon was noncommittal when asked for details of the disciplining, but it was learned that the fire Captain is to be tried for "fighting in a public place."

Several days ago Captain Vallen and another man engaged in fisticuffs at the fire house, where he is in command. He was later ordered to appear before Chief Kenlon and the Commissioner for a hearing. Whether or not the other combatant was a member of Engine Company 255 was not learned last night.

Coincident with the official announcement of the suspension of Captain Vallen, Engine Company 255 and Hook and Ladder Company 157 in the same quarters were temporarily consolidated under the command of Lieutenant William Kramer. At the fire house last night Lieutenant Kramer refused to discuss the alleged fight.

Joseph McMahon of 8 West 169th Street, who has been a New York City fireman for nearly a year, was held for General Sessions with three others in Yorkville Court yesterday for the Grand Jury. McMahon, with two men and a woman, is charged with the theft of travelers' checks and goods valued at more than $6,500 taken three weeks ago from the apartment of Richard I. Robinson, a banker, at 114 East Fortieth Street.

The prisoners held, besides McMahon, were Daniel Harris of 2,017 Grand Concourse, George Reisler, 1,090 Grand Concourse, and Gertrude Tipton, a manicurist, of 250 West Seventy-second Street. A fourth man, who was arrested with Harris several days ago, was released by Magistrate Brough, when detectives said they had not established his connection with the crime. He was Moe Shapiro of 230 West 115th Street.

Harris was sent to Sing Sing for two and one-half years in 1925 for grand larceny and upon being released became a Deputy Sheriff of Brooklyn shortly thereafter. When he was arrested he said he got the appointment "by making good connections."

Detectives testified yesterday they had found $2,000 in travelers' checks in the possession of Harris. Harris, the detectives said, implicated young Reisler, who in turn said he got them from Miss Tipton.

Miss Tipton testified she got the checks from McMahon and that he told her he won them in a craps game. She said she had no idea they were stolen and that she gave them to Reisler, whom she had known for a long time.

At the hearing the defendants showed malice toward each other and afterward when they were taken to the prison "pen" the men suddenly pounced upon each other. Detectives separated them.

SEARCH FOR HINCHLIFFE, BASED ON 'JOKE' FAILS

Flier Scours Moosehead Lake (Me.) Region When Wreckage Is Reported There.

GREENVILLE, Me., March 21 (AP).—Talk that the monoplane Endeavour, in which Captain Walter Hinchliffe and Miss Elsie Mackay set out from England last Tuesday for a transatlantic flight, might have been in the Moosehead Lake region apparently was dissipated by today's developments here.

The "joking" report of a passenger on the morning train to Bangor that a wrecked plane and two bodies had been found on White Cap Mountain, twenty-five miles from here, caused rumors that the bodies of the missing English fliers had been found.

The passenger later explained he had intended the remark as a joke.

A Canadian Royal Air Force plane, piloted by Captain Charles Bath, sent from Ottawa to investigate reports of a plane heard in this vicinity last Thursday, landed on Moosehead Lake late this afternoon on the heels of the rumored finding of the bodies. He reported seeing no wreckage on the trip.

Shortly after his arrival the Canadian flier hopped off again to cover the 20-mile region between Greenville and Kokadjo, where the motor of an airplane was reported to have been heard Thursday morning. They held but small hope, however, of finding the missing fliers.

An investigation into the report that two Kokadjo residents had heard a plane revealed that a heavy tractor had reached Kokadjo that morning. The governor on the tractor's motor had become broken that night, thereby speeding up the engine so that its exhaust could have easily been mistaken for that of an airplane.

The plane returned after slightly less than an hour's futile search of the entire territory.

Captain Bath stated he would return to Ottawa tomorrow morning.

Indiana Editor, Aspirant for Governor, Answers Shumaker's Query.

INDIANAPOLIS, March 21 (AP).—George R. Dale, Muncie editor and a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor, today advised Dr. E. S. Shumaker, Superintendent of the Indiana Anti-Saloon League, that he did not choose to have Mr. Shumaker's endorsement. Mr. Dale wrote:

"Your recommendation would make me suspicious of myself."

Mr. Shumaker recently asked various candidates for their attitude on prohibition so he might give the information to the voters of the State.

SEWER WITNESS LAW IS ASKED BY SMITH

Governor in Special Message Urges Bill to Compel Missing Men to Testify.

LEGISLATURE TO PASS IT

Knight and McGinnies Confer With Executive and Say Bill Will Be Adopted Today.

MEASURE ASKED BY SHEARN

Provides $100,000 Fine and Seizure of Property of Witnesses Held in Contempt.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 21.—In response to an urgent request by Clarence J. Shearn, who is conducting the inquiry into the charges against Borough President Connolly of Queens, Governor Smith sent to the Legislature late today a special message recommending the passage of a measure asked by the Commissioner, to enable him to compel the attendance at the sewers inquiry of witnesses who have left the State, either after having been served with subpoenas or in apprehension that they would be served.

Mr. Shearn in his letter, the full text of which was included in the Governor's message, gave the names of a number of witnesses, including one New York City employe, who, he declared, had intentionally absented themselves at a time when they were about to appear as material witnesses in the proceedings.

Mr. Shearn also sent a draft of a bill which provided for drastic measures against delinquent witnesses, including the imposition of fines up to $100,000 and seizure of property as surety for fines that might be imposed under this provision.

Bill Drafted at Once.

In compliance with the Governor's recommendation a bill was hurriedly drafted this evening for introduction at the final session of the law-making body.

In its tentative form the bill provides for the discretionary issue by the Supreme Court or a Supreme Court Justice in the judicial district where a proceeding under the Public Officers' act is in progress, of a subpoena to be served on a person wanted as a witness in such a proceeding who has left the State. In the failure of such a prospective witness to respond, it is provided that the Court upon proper proof shall issue an order directing the witness to appear before the Court and show cause why he should not be adjudged guilty of contempt and punished accordingly.

There is provision also for seizure by the Sheriff at the time such an order is issued of property belonging to the witness and that this property be held to satisfy any judgment growing out of the contempt proceeding that may be rendered against him. If the contempt charges are sustained, it is provided that he shall be held guilty of contempt and "notwithstanding any limitation upon the power of the court" fined in an amount not to exceed $100,000 and the cost of the proceedings, the amount of the fine, unless paid, to be secured through the sale of property seized.

Provision is also made for service through publication, in the manner provided in civil cases, if the whereabouts of the prospective witness is not known, or he cannot be reached by the process servers.

Leaders Say It Will Pass.

After a conference between Governor Smith, Senate Leader John Knight and Speaker McGinnies at the Capitol this evening, Senator Knight and the Speaker announced that the Shearn bill would be passed tomorrow in its present form in both houses.

"My opinion," said Senator Knight, "is that the bill as submitted by the Governor at the request of Mr. Shearn relative to the Queens sewer investigation will be passed.

"We are anxious to do everything in our power to strengthen the investigation."

The Commissioner's Letter.

The letter of Mr. Shearn, as transmitted to the Legislature by the Governor, follows:

New York City, N. Y.,
March 20, 1928.

Honorable Alfred E. Smith, Governor of the State of New York, Albany, N. Y.

Dear Sir:

In the matter of the investigation which you have ordered me to make into the charges preferred against Hon. Maurice E. Connolly, President of the Borough of Queens, I have to report that the progress and orderly conduct of such investigation is being impeded by the departure and continued absence from the State of a number of witnesses whose testimony is necessary, material and relevant. Among these witnesses who are thus obstructing the administration of justice and endeavoring to frustrate the investigation ordered by you are Frederick B. Seeley, a city engineer still in the city's service; Harry S. Hart and Thomas Cassidy, all of whom were duly served with subpoenas issued by my predecessor, Mr. Justice Scudder, and who have left the State since my appointment, and John M. Phillips, Clifton Turner, James Deegan and Albert Decker, contractors, whose alleged transactions with the respondent are immediate subjects of the investigation.

I earnestly request that in view of the public emergency created by this discreditable situation, which tends to bring the power of the State into contempt and disrepute, I be afforded the cooperation of your Excellency and of the Legislature in procuring the attendance of these recusant witnesses. To this end I beg to suggest the enactment of the enclosed proposed statute, drawn upon the lines of the Federal statute, known as the Walsh act, 44 Stat. L. 835.

While, in my opinion, it should be made a criminal offense for witnesses to depart from the State and remain without the State with intent to defeat the administration of justice, such legislation requires further study as to its constitutional features than the present emergency makes possible.

Very respectfully,
(Signed)
CLARENCE J. SHEARN,
Commissioner.

In his message Governor Smith assured the Legislature that "you may call upon me for the necessary message to obviate the constitutional requirement that the bill in its final form be on the desk of the members three days."

SHEARN PLEASED BY ACTION.

Sees Governor Squarely Behind Him in the Sewer Inquiry.

Commissioner Shearn and his special counsel, Emory R. Buckner, were pleased at Governor Smith's action yesterday in asking the Legislature to pass a new law to compel the missing witnesses in the Queens investigation to return to New York. They hope that, if the Legislature enacts the law, it will force most of the eight missing witnesses to come back and testify.

The highway and sewer contractors are expected to return at once if the law is passed. They have large property interests here which can be attached to guarantee payment of the $100,000 fine for failing to obey the subpoena. It is believed they are remaining away to protect other persons, and that when they are faced with heavy fines they will no longer be willing to give such protection.

Frederick B. Seeley, design engineer in Borough President Connolly's office, a "key" man in the investigation, is also supposed to be absent because of a similar motive. Seeley also has property interests at stake in his rights under the municipal pension system. He has already expressed a suspicion through intermediaries that the persons he was trying to protect were likely to make him the "goat," and has shown signs of weakening in his determination to stay away.

Whether John M. Phillips, alleged head of the Queens sewer ring, can be compelled to return is doubtful. He is said to have a fortune of several million dollars, and a fine of $100,000 probably would not mean as much to him as to the others. His friends and physicians have reported that he is seriously ill and will have to undergo an operation in a hospital at Miami, Fla.

Governor Smith's prompt action in asking the Legislature to pass the new law was regarded as especially significant, as it showed that the Governor's interest in seeing the charges thoroughly investigated had not diminished as a result of the long delays. It was considered as showing that the Governor was squarely behind Mr. Shearn and Mr. Buckner.

The investigators were also pleased by the fact that the Federal law to compel missing witnesses in the oil scandal to return from foreign countries was upheld in court. Justice Siddons in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia yesterday overruled a motion by attorneys for H. M. Blackmer, a missing witness in the Teapot Dome case, to dismiss the contempt charges against him.

It was the Federal legislation which prompted John Holley Clark Jr., of counsel for Alderman Harvey of Flushing, author of the charges against Borough President Connolly, to propose similar State legislation in a letter to the Governor last week.

Commissioner Shearn will announce the date for the opening of the public inquiry today. It probably will be April 2 or 9. He has several more witnesses to question in private hearings.

Several witnesses who had been subpoened to testify yesterday in Long Island City were sent away with new subpoenas directing them to return April 2.

Mr. Shearn's aides have obtained information about the "mystery house" at 202 East Fifty-sixth Street, Manhattan, where Phillips, contractors and borough officials are said to have met. The 202 East Fifty-sixth Street Corporation, which owns the property, was chartered by the Secretary of State on Oct. 27, 1924, to do a general real estate business. There were 100 shares of common stock of no par value. The subscribers named in the articles of incorporation were Jeremiah R. O'Leary and Anna O'Leary of 1,296 Second Avenue, Manhattan, and Daniel A. Riordan of 1,316 Decatur Street, Brooklyn. Both of these men are close friends of Borough President Connolly. The attorneys in the incorporation, according to the Albany record, were Pressinger, Newcombe, Cunningham & Wigg of 15 Wall Street, Manhattan, a firm of which District Attorney Newcombe of Queens is a member.

Mr. O'Leary, Alderman from the Fourteenth Manhattan District, was examined by Commissioner Shearn last week. O'Leary is a friend of Connolly and is reported to have been a member of the Borough President's party that made a trip to Europe in 1924.

Asks Rehearing on Bus Certificate.

The Tompkins Bus Corporation filed with the Transit Commission yesterday a request for rehearing of its petition for a certificate of convenience and necessity to operate bus lines in Staten Island. The original petition was denied by the commission on March 7 on the ground that the company had not demonstrated its financial ability to operate the lines. The petition for rehearing was signed by Edward S. Hughes, elected President of the corporation after the denial.

WANTED TO SHOW HORRORS

But When Friend Slapped Him on Back at Dock, Bottle Leaped Out and Smashed on Floor.

Guthrie McClintic, New York producer and husband of Katharine Cornell, the actress, arrived yesterday morning on the French liner Paris, and told the following story, the villian of which unfortunately remains anonymous. Mr. McClintic does not recall his name, but he remembers him vividly and describes him bitterly as a British customs official "with a mustache like the handlebars of a bicycle."

The scene was on the landing stage at Southampton shortly after the docking of the Aquitania. The cost of production was three pounds ten, or about $18. This was the fine Mr. McClintic was obliged to pay.

Mr. McClintic said that it all started when some of his friends brought him six bottles of the best quality of Staten Island Scotch whisky when he sailed on the Cunarder. Apparently they thought she was a dry ship. Happening to prefer Scotch that is actually made in Scotland, he gave away three bottles to traveling companions who were less particular than he. The other three bottles he sampled himself.

He did not empty them, however, and in order to show friends in England some of the actual horrors of prohibition, he decided to bring them ashore with him. He placed them in the pockets of his overcoat and had almost passed the customs barrier, when one of the same friends, greeting him effusively, slapped him on the back.

At the impact out jumped one of the bottles, hitting the floor with a crash, and breaking into numerous pieces.

At this moment enter the customs man who seemed to feel that he had been imposed upon. He expressed his opinion forcibly to this effect. It was not, he pointed out, that liquor was unwelcome in England, but only that it was customary to declare it.

The whole incident was closed when Mr. McClintic made his modest contribution to the British treasury. And on this side of the ocean, when he had nothing in his pockets, nobody searched him at all.

Feodor Chaliapin, at the benefit performance, will make his first appearance on the concert stage with a symphony orchestra.

STEFANSSON THRIVES ON MEAT AND WATER

Three Weeks' Test at Bellevue Has Shown Vegetables Are Not Needed, He Says.

Vilhjalmur Stefansson, the explorer, has not been harmed by the diet of meat and water upon which he has subsisted for the last three weeks, it was announced yesterday by the Russell Sage Institute of Pathology, which has been studying many different diets since 1913.

Seated in his room in Bellevue Hospital, where he has been under observation since Feb. 26, Stefansson declared yesterday that he felt much better than he did when the tests began. He said he was convinced that many of the attacks on the meat diet were sponsored by restaurants which made larger profits on vegetarian dishes.

"When I began on the meat diet," Stefansson said, "I felt lackadaisical on getting up in the morning. Now I feel like jumping out of bed and getting right to work. I am more optimistic, ambitious and energetic. I am inclined to ascribe this to my diet. The Eskimos, who subsist solely on meat, are a cheerful race, optimistic under the most adverse conditions.

"I am convinced that the meat diet is an excellent one, but I would not recommend it for every one. It would be too expensive. The meat of various kinds which I consume is equivalent to three sirloin steaks, and might cost $5 or $6 a day at current restaurant prices.

"The skeptical vegetarians told me that I could not live on the meat diet in New York's temperate climate without harmful results. I wanted to show them that they were wrong. A man suffers more from cold in New York than he does in the Arctic.

"The meat-eating Eskimos die of old age or injuries. I have found few cases of organic ailments among them. Neither are they obese or skinny, but are all of good proportions."

The institute announced that Karlsten Andersen, a friend of Stefansson's, who has been subsisting on the meat diet for fifty-nine days, showed no harmful effects. He has gained five pounds since the test was begun, while Stefansson has lost five pounds, it was said. Both men walk two miles a day, and are writing books on their Arctic experiences.

Dr. Eugene F. du Bois, medical director of the institute, said the diet consisted of steak, roast beef and tongue. Calf's liver is prescribed once a week.

Dr. Clarence W. Lieb, who is supervising the tests, said Stefansso was in excellent health and spirits.

"I found him in a pensive mood the other day," Dr. Lieb said, "and supposed he was thinking of a vegetable garden or pastry shop. I asked him what prohibited food he was thinking about, and he replied: 'caribou ribs.'"

A committee of twelve physicians, headed by Professor Raymond Pearl of Johns Hopkins University, is in charge of the experiment, it was said. The committee found no evidence in Stefansson of high blood pressure, hardening of the arteries, kidney trouble or other ailments which, according to certain doctors, arise from the meat diet, Dr. Lieb said.

Stefansson will leave the hospital today, but will continue to take his diet there.

asm of the speculative public, that is yet unabated, which has kept them rolling forward and forward with scarcely a reaction worthy of the name. Stock Exchange houses, in this new rush of business, demand more seats, and yesterday one membership sold at $335,000.

Probably there has never been a time in the history of the country when so many persons dabbled in the stock market as at present. The enlarged wire system of the Stock Exchange has been a great factor in bringing quotation service into even the smallest towns.

Brokerage Offices Filled.

Brokerage offices in Wall Street, in the new uptown financial section and throughout the country are filled with customers every day from 10 A. M. to 3. They are men and women from alll walks of life. The "ten-thousand-share big shot" rubs elbows, these days, in his brokerage office with a taxi-driver who is watching the antics of a two or three letter symbol which carries his ten shares and his hopes of a few dollars profit.

Wall Street hears daily many stories of big winnings that have been made. Stories about this or that actress or manicurist or elevator runner having cleaned up "half a million" are simply not true. Those who have made big money are the pools, organized last Fall and early this year, and some of the big speculators, notably William C. Durant of New York, Michael J. Meehan of New York, Arthur W. Cutten of Chicago and the seven Fisher brothers of Detroit. They have made money because they have had tremendous backing and the financial judgment and skill to ferret out profitable market opportunities and take advantage of them.

Through all the excitement of the past month the Exchange has been obliged to keep a close watch on many stocks to see that a corner did not develop. Members must now report their customers' positions in Radio each day, and that a corner will be allowed to develop in any security is most unlikely.

The exciting markets have lasted so long that Wall Street has become thoroughly accustomed to them and is very blasé about the whole movement. The Exchange machinery is working smoothly, and yesterday it was only ten minutes behind at the close. Many Exchange firms, however, have been obliged to augment their clerical staffs with new employes to keep up with the pace set by the trading. Yesterday, despite the big turnover, there was little excitement on the floor of the Exchange and in the brokerage offices. The market was entirely orderly. The Street is becoming quite accustomed to 3,000,000-share days and handles them as a matter of course.

New Favorites Appear.

It has become the custom, especially in the last few days, for those who are guiding the fortunes of this stock market to pick a handful of new favorites each day. Yesterday a few other stocks were brought to public attention. These included Victor Talking Machine, Collins & Aikman, Hershey Chocolates and Wrigley. All had enthusiastic and determined advances in a big turnover.

The Wall Street air is literally full of rumors, as is the case with every big market. One can hear almost anything about any stock on the list. Reports of big earnings, possible extra dividends, the likelihood of mergers, all come as grist to the rumor factory twenty-four hours each day. Even the President of the United States is not immune. One of the biggest days of the year was brought about by the rumor, which flew from brokerage to brokerage and from bank to bank, that Mr. Coolidge would again become a candidate for the Presidency. The story had no basis, but it was a market factor of first importance.

Just where the boiling market will end is any one's guess. Wall Street wiseacres plainly are stumped by it. They have no idea about the heights to which some stocks may soar.

Two Opinions on Market.

One finds two sets of opinions abroad in the financial district, in the minds of men who have watched all sorts of markets and are shrewd judges. Some think it will suddenly collapse because of its own weight and size, started probably by the appearance overnight of some disturbing news development. This school of thought believes stocks have been well distributed, that they are in the hands of the public, that the market has been carried up unreasonably and to dangerous heights by an inflamed public imagination and that, as is usually the case, the public will rush to sell when the first weakness is apparent.

On the other hand, many other shrewd judges of the market do not believe anything of the sort. They do not believe the present tremendous pace will be maintained, but that the market will quiet down and simmer until it has assimilated its gains, with other sections of the list, notably the railroad and oil shares, which have taken little part in the demonstration, being brought forward as favorites like the industrial shares now in the limelight have a long rest.

JUSTICE UPHOLDS FREEING OF LAWYER

Refuses to Dismiss Writ Issued in Contempt Action in 'Chasers' Investigation.

KRESEL QUESTIONS MOVE

Brooklyn Appellate Division Orders a Similar Inquiry in Second District.

Alexander Karlin, lawyer, of 110 West Fortieth Street, who was committed to the County Jail in West Thirty-seventh Street on Tuesday by Supreme Court Justice Wasservogel because of his refusal to testify or answer questions in the inquiry ordered by the Appellate Division of Manhattan and the Bronx into "ambulance-chasing," and who was released late that night on an order of Supreme Court Justice May in Brooklyn, will remain at liberty at least a week longer.

Justice May, who made the writ of habeas corpus sued out by Karlin's attorney, Abraham Tulin, returnable before him yesterday in Brooklyn, heard argument late yesterday by Isidor J. Kresel, chief counsel for the Manhattan investigation, for the dismissal of the writ and the return of the lawyer to jail, and by Mr. Tulin in support of it.

Mr. Kresel argued that the jail sentence was imposed by Justice Wasservogel for a criminal contempt committed in the presence of the Court, and that there was no precedent for a habeas corpus writ in such a case. He said that the action of Justice Wasservogel should have been reviewed in certiorari proceedings if an appeal was thought advisable. Mr Kresel also contended that while Justice May doubtless felt justified in granting the writ, he should have made it returnable in Manhattan.

Justice Explains Action.

Justice May said he had the case taken to Brooklyn because he felt that no Manhattan Judge would sustain such a writ on account of the inauguration of the investigation by the Manhattan Appellate Division, but Mr. Kresel replied that a Judge of the Brooklyn department should have felt constrained to respect the Appellate Division of another department. Justice May said he entertained the highest respect for the higher tribunal in Manhattan, but he felt Mr. Karlin should not be jailed for contempt until the Court of Appeals has passed on the legality of the proceedings.

"There are no charges against this man," said Justice May, "and it is not proper to have him imprisoned especially if the higher courts should rule that the proceedings are illegal."

Because Mr. Kresel would not promise that Mr. Karlin would remain at liberty pending appeal in the case, if the habeas corpus proceeding should be returned to Manhattan, Justice May denied his motion to dismiss it for lack of jurisdiction, and gave the attorneys until next Wednesday to submit briefs on this point.

ORDERS ANOTHER INQUIRY.

Appellate Division Acts on Request of Brooklyn and Queens Bar.

Supreme Court Justice Faber was designated yesterday by the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court in Brooklyn to investigate allegations of "ambulance chasing" practices of attorneys in the Second Judicial Department. The investigation will begin on March 26 in the Supreme Court Building, Brooklyn, and secret sessions will be held until such time as the higher court may make a further order for public hearings.

The decision to order an investigation was taken on the joint petition of the Brooklyn and Queens Bar Associations. All of the five members of the court, Edward Lazansky, Presiding Justice; Isaac M. Kapper, William F. Hagarty, Adelbert P. Rich and William B. Carswell concurred. The inquiry will be similar to that now in progress in Manhattan.

The order for the Brooklyn investigation, however, directs that the inquiry be broader in scope, so that if it be found that court calendars are congested and the work of the court impeded by these alleged illegal acts, new rules may be drawn and legislation may be had to put a speedy end to the evil.

The opinion of the court, by Presiding Justice Lazansky, praises the actions taken by the two bar associations. After reviewing the charges set forth in the petition the opinion says:

"Although it is stated that there are relatively few lawyers in this department who engage in systematic 'ambulance chasing,' it is alleged that the matter is one which has engaged the attention of the public and has received general condemnation; in fact, has become a public scandal and has brought discredit upon our judicial system."

Commenting on the action requested in the petition of dealing with the guilty according to law at the conclusion of the inquiry, Justice Lazansky went on: "Not a single fact is given to substantiate these serious charges. It is a general arraignment of a vicious practice. It is needless to characterize this condition of affairs. It is a matter of common knowledge that it has been in existence for many years.

"While frowned upon by the courts and the bar generally, it has been permitted to continue and no real effort has been made to abate it, although the machinery to that end has always been available.

"However, it is urged that a strong sentiment has been aroused not only among the bench and bar but in the public generally, and that this nefarious business must be brought to a speedy end. The Court must not be slow to respond to such a petition if it has the power to act.

"The outstanding feature of the entire matter is, in effect, that the calendars of the courts are crowded with causes, the attorneys in which are said to have obtained their retainers by corrupt means, and because of these methods have tainted the causes with bad faith and falsehood."

The Presiding Justice said that the order to conduct the inquiry was not the exercise of a new power but a new exercise of a power which was a part of the court's very existence.

"While no specific charges are made," continued Justice Lazansky, "and no individual is accused, the Court is advised of the existence of these evils."

MAYFAIR CORNERS

—or how Hart Schaffner & Marx created a new weave

MAYFAIR in London is famous for the many noted people who have lived there—Beau Brummel, Sheridan, Nell Gwynne, the Prince of Wales and the richest peers of England.

The streets of Mayfair weave in and out in a network of designs, and it is in these that the Hart Schaffner & Marx research staff saw the possibilities of new patterns and fabrics

From the irregular intersection of the Mayfair streets and lanes we have built up these new designs. You see five of them pictured above. They are to be found in all the new shades of Lovat, Algerian browns and tans, and Stone greys

This is just one of many exclusive features that you'll find in Hart Schaffner & Marx clothes

MRS. E. W. HARRISON ENGAGED TO BANKER

BRIDAL IN PARIS APRIL 14

Chicago Girl, Who at 18 Married the Ex-Governor of the Philippines, Became Divorcee Year Ago.

PARIS, March 21 (AP).—Announcement was made today of the engagement of Mrs. Elizabeth Wrentmore Harrison, former wife of Francis Burton Harrison, one-time Governor of the Philippines, to Alexander Fitzjames Graham Watson, investment banker, of Edinburgh and London.

The wedding will take place in Paris April 14.

Mrs. Elizabeth Wrentmore Harrison, the former Miss Elizabeth Wrentmore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence H. Wrentmore of Chicago, was the third wife of Francis Burton Harrison, former Governor General of the Philippines. They were married in Chicago on May 15, 1919, the day a decree of divorce was signed in San Diego, Cal., in a suit brought by Mr. Harrison's second wife, Mrs. Mabel Judson Cox of Brooklyn, divorced wife of Dr. Roland Cox Jr.

Mr. Harrison and his third wife met in the Philippines while he was Governor General, after she had left the University of California to visit her father and mother, the former being Dean of the College of Manila. Because of the disparity in their ages—Miss Wrentmore was then 18 and Mr. Harrison 45—her parents objected to the marriage. They were wedded while Mr. Harrison was on leave of absence from his post in the Philippines. He retired as Governor General in 1920. Three children were born to them and they were divorced in Paris in January, 1927.

In April, 1927, Mr. Harrison and Miss Margaret Wrentmore, a sister of his third wife, were married in Tangier.

Mr. Harrison's first wife was Miss Mary Crocker, daughter of Charles F. Crocker of San Francisco, who before his death was Vice President of the Southern Pacific Railroad. They were married in 1900 and five years later she was killed in an automobile accident in Long Island City. Mr. Harrison and his second wife were married in London on Jan. 16, 1907. After their California divorce in 1919 she received a substantial monetary settlement and the custody of their three children.

ENGLISH NARCISSI DISPLAYED AT SHOW

Flowers Brought Over in Ship's Refrigerators Charm Visitors at Grand Central Palace.

CANADIAN BLOOMS WIN

American Rose Society's Medal Is Awarded to Montgomery Company of Hadley, Mass.

Cut flowers grown in England and brought over in the Aquitania refrigerators were shown yesterday at the International Flower Show in Grand Central Palace. They comprise forty varieties of narcissi, grown in St. Keverne, Cornwall, by P. D. Williams, a bulb expert. As bulbs are not permitted to be imported the flowers were cut at dawn and the stem-ends burned to insure freshness on their arrival here. The species have never before been exhibited, it is said, in the United States. J. T. Scheepers imported them.

Canadian products won prizes yesterday. The Dale Estate, Ltd., of Brampton, Ontario, won the American Rose Society's silver medal for a new rose, "Lady Canada," a light pink bloom not yet disseminated, and also won five first places and one second in the cut-rose classes for commercial growers. F. R. Pierson went one better on second places, taking five firsts also.

The Montgomery Company of Hadley, Mass., which won the President Coolidge Gold Horticultural Medal Tuesday for the "Talisman" rose, received yesterday from the American Rose Society its gold medal award for the same flower. Other winners in the cut-rose classes were A. N. Pierson of Cromwell Gardens, Conn., who took two firsts and three seconds; C. H. Totty with a first and a second and L. B. Coddington, one first.

The Douglaston Club won first in the formal luncheon table class, Philipse Manor second and Wayside Garden Club of Scarsdale third. For outdoor luncheon tables Bellport, L. I., took first, Dobbs Ferry second and New Rochelle third.

In the dinner table decorations class Mrs. H. McK. Twombly won first through R. E. Tyson, her superintendent. Mrs. Ridley Watts took second, Samuel Gold being her gardener, and Mrs. John T. Pratt of Glen Cove, W. J. Williamson superintendent, took third.

The Gold Medal of the Garden Club of America was awarded to Mrs. John Sherman Hoyt of the Pasadena (Cal.) Garden Club for the most noteworthy exhibit of the club member entries. The exhibit was cacti brought from the Coast by air mail.

GRACE MOORE IN NEW ROLE.

Puccini's "Gianni Schicchi" Provides Her Second Impersonation.

Grace Moore added the second impersonation to her operatic repertory last night when she appeared in the season's initial performance of Puccini's "Gianni Schicchi" at the Metropolitan Opera House. The role is not one which makes great demands from either the musical or dramatic point of view; indeed, it offers little opportunity for vocal display or acting ability. There are fleeting bits of sustained melody, and these Miss Moore sang prettily. She made a charming picture in pale green and silver and was singled out by the audience for cordial applause.

Others in the cast who contributed effective character bits were Giuseppe de Luca, in the title rôle; Kathleen Howard and Messrs. Pinza, D'Angelo, Ananian and Gustafson. Armand Tokatyan was picturesque as the young lover and sang with a fresh and resonant voice.

The Puccini opera was followed by "Pagliacci" in its final performance of the season. In the cast were Mary Lewis and Messrs. Johnson, Basiola, Tedesco and Tibbett. Vincenzo Bellezza conducted both operas.

William Kroll, Violinist, in Recital.

William Kroll, best known in this city as a member of the Elshuco Trio, gave his first violin recital in several seasons last night in Carnegie Hall. The event was one of considerable interest and significance to music lovers to whom the refinements of sincere musicianship appeal more strongly than showy virtuosity. Mr. Kroll's playing of a varied program that included Franck's A major Sonata, a movement from Bach's A minor Sonata and Bruch's D minor Concerto was distinguished by a fine-spun tone, clear articulation and delicate phrasing. Two of his own compositions, a "Bizarresque" and some variations on a Jewish theme were graceful and interesting in harmony and development. Aureliano Giorni's "The Dunes Near Leyden," from the suite "Impressions of Travel," and the Sarasate-Zimbalist "Carmen" fantaisie completed the program.

PARKS HIS ANCIENT GIG AMID COSTLY CITY CARS

William Jagoe Drives Shaggy Roan Right Up to City Hall and Takes No Chaff From Chauffeurs.

Parked almost daily in the plaza fronting the City Hall may be seen a choice array of the most costly limousines, town cars and sedans. These are the vehicles which a generous city provides for the use of those whom it elects to serve it.

Municipal chauffeurs lolling about these highly polished cars and persons gazing from the windows of the City Hall blinked and rubbed their eyes yesterday when they saw an obsolete vehicle come creeping into the plaza, where it backed up sedately and ranked itself in the aristocratic company of the handsomest of the $10,000 and $12,000 modern cars. It was an antique horse-drawn gig, the like of which had not been seen near the City Hall, so its oldest inmates declared, in fifty years. The horse was a shaggy roan answering to the name of Jim.

From the seat of the gig a lively little man hopped out, tossed the reins to a wondering bootblack and mounted the steps of the City Hall. To reporters who surrounded him and who sought to detain him while they sent in to their offices hurry calls for photographers, he explained that he was William J. Jagoe and that he lived at 89 Congress Street, Brooklyn. No, he was not promoting any publicity stunt, doing it on a bet, or for the motion pictures, he declared. He was looking for Alderman Frank Cunningham, Chairman of the Finance Committee of the Board of Aldermen, whom he wanted to see on a matter of business. Jagoe said he used to work for Cunningham and is in the trucking business.

Alderman Cunningham was not in the hall, so Mr. Jagoe, after chatting a while, went back to the plaza to find his gig and Jim surrounded by an awe-stricken crowd. Then the Park Row humorists began to chaff him about his "one-hoss shay," but he tossed a coin to the bootblack, mounted the seat scornfully and drove away, turning around only long enough to declare that he'd rather drive Jim than the shiniest motor car in town.

RETIRED STAGE FOLK FROLIC

Come Back to Broadway From Fund Home for Annual "Fling."

Stage folk from the Actors' Fund Home, Staten Island, who used to entertain grandfather across oil-lamp footlights, emerged from retirement long enough for their annual "fling" on Broadway last night. After attending the theatre, later meeting the players back-stage, the happy group of nineteen dined as guests at Beefsteak Charlie's, where many colorful stories were told of days gone by. "The Command to Love," at the Longacre Theatre, was the play they saw.

At the dinner toasts were given in memory of some stage stars, now dead, with whom many of those present had acted. Among the names mentioned were Lillian Russell, Edwin Booth, Della Fox and others.

Three of the members who attended the outing last year have since died. Silent tribute was paid as their names were mentioned.

Among those in the party were John E. Dudley, Wilfred Reynier, Seth Crane, Blanche Plunkett, Mrs. Frances MacDonough, Mrs. Susan Chisnell, Fannie Cotter, Lorette Bernard, Frederick P. Arundel, Mrs. Laura Clement, Emma L. Butler, Charles Sutton, Mr. and Mrs. Adam Lellmann, Thomas Wood, Mrs. Alice Adams, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Cheviot, Charles B. Nelson, Mrs. Isabelle Adams and Harry Rolland.

RUFFO FAILS TO SING; SUED.

Pennsylvania Opera Company Seeks to Recover $27,500.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, March 21.—Because of the failure of Titta Ruffo to appear in "La Gioconda," presented at the Metropolitan Opera House here tonight by the Pennsylvania Grand Opera Company, suit has been instituted by the operatic organization to recover the $2,500 paid the singer for his appearance and to obtain damages of $25,000.

On a court order granted by Federal Judge J. Whitaker Thompson last Saturday when the first rumors of Mr. Ruffo's intention were heard, his clothing and costumes in New York were attached, it was announced by W. Frank Reber, President of the opera company. First formal notification from Mr. Ruffo came at 11 o'clock this morning, Mr. Reber said. His place in the cast was filled by Joseph Boyer, regular baritone of the company, and only $30, according to the company President, was refunded to patrons disappointed when they learned Mr. Ruffo was not to appear.

The star contended his contract had expired.

FIREMAN CITED FOR RESCUES

Saved Two Women at Forhan Fire on Riverside Drive.

A citation of Fireman John McFarland for a rescue at personal risk during the fire, March 3, in the residence of Dr. R. J. Forhan, 834 Riverside Drive, was forwarded yesterday to Chief John Kenion by Captain James Tubridy, in command of Hook and Ladder Company 40, to which McFarland is attached.

The recommendation for departmental recognition was caused by McFarland's rescue of Delia Morrisey and Marie Holdwig, servants, who were trapped on the fifth floor of the burning building. The lower floors and stairway were cut off by flames and the women appealed for help from the window.

From the roof of an adjoining building McFarland was lowered by a rope to the window. A ladder could not be raised from the yard, but one was lowered to McFarland, who took the two women from the window and while holding them to the ladder was lowered to the ground.

McFarland has been cited twice previously for rescues. He has served fifteen years in the Fire Department. His home is at 143 St. Ann's Avenue, the Bronx.

Broken Crank Shaft Derails Train.

COLLINGSWOOD, N. J., March 21 (AP).—Southbound traffic was tied up for several hours tonight on the West Jersey and Seashore Railroad when the crank shaft on a passenger train locomotive broke. The dragging crank shaft tore up the southbound track for half a mile before before the engineer was able to halt the train. The train was a local running between Camden and Hammonton. No one was hurt.

Enormous Stalactite Cave Found by German Workers

Copyright, 1928, by The New York Times Co.
By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, March 21.—An enormous stalactite cave, probably the most beautiful one in Germany, has been accidentally discovered near Plauen, Saxony, it was announced today.

In the course of building operations in a quarry belonging to the village of Syran a heavy drill dropped from the boring apparatus a few days ago and disappeared, tearing a large hole in the ground. Trying to recover the lost drill an aged workman and his son began to dig, and at a depth of about forty feet uncovered a cave of wondrous beauty, which is traversed by several subterranean streams and dotted by small lakes.

So far the cave has been explored to a depth of about 400 feet and a width of 120 feet, but evidently it is much larger. It is now closed by official order until it can be penetrated thoroughly by experts and made safe for visitors.

READING OF 'JESSICA' MAKES COURT SLEEPY

All at Trial of the Publishers of Alleged Indecent Book Have Difficulty in Staying Awake.

All but sixty-eight of the 272 pages of the novel, "Replenishing Jessica" had been read to the jury in Judge Nott's part of General Sessions yesterday afternoon, at the trial of the publishers on a misdemeanor indictment, charging they distributed an indecent book, when the trial was adjourned until this morning. The day's session was taken up entirely by an alternate reading of the book by the prosecutor and the court stenographer.

Because of objections previously made by lawyers representing the defendants, Horace B. Liveright, publisher; Thomas R. Smith, literary adviser, and the Boni & Liveright Publishing Company, the reading was conducted in a dull monotone without any effort to stress the phraseology. The drone of the reader's voice as he went through page after page acted as a soporific, and jurors, lawyers and a few spectators had a hard time keeping their eyes from closing.

Mr. Liveright obtained permission to leave for the day at the noon recess, and others, compelled to remain, made no attempt to conceal the fact they would like to follow him.

When the remaining pages are read today, the prosecutor will revert to the examination of State witnesses.

FIGHTS $100,000 VERDICT.

Movie Producer Offers Affidavits in Motor Accident Suit.

Supreme Court Justice Charles J. Druhan, Brooklyn, is to hear arguments on Friday on a motion by John J. Curtin in behalf of Joseph J. McCarthy, motion picture producer, to have set aside a verdict for $100,000 granted last December by a jury in the Supreme Court to Miss Henrietta Voight, who sued for personal injuries.

McCarthy maintains that Miss Voight obtained preference on the calendar by asserting she lived at 531 Lafayette Avenue, Brooklyn, when she actually lived at the Junior League Hotel, 678 East Seventy-eighth Street, Manhattan.

Miss Voight was a passenger in a taxicab going through Central Park on July 5, 1927, when it was in collision with a limousine owned by McCarthy and driven by his chauffeur, at the Seventy-seventh Street entrance to the park. Miss Voight alleged that her skull was fractured and that as a result of the injury she had suffered epileptic fits.

Among affidavits submitted to Justice Druhan yesterday by Curtin were those of physicians who stated that Miss Voight suffered from a form of epilepsy before the automobile accident happened.

Harold Medina, attorney for Miss Voight, told Justice Druhan that he had not had an opportunity to examine the affidavits and it was at his request that adjournment on Curtin's motion until Friday was granted.

Newburgh (N. Y.) Home Benefits by Will of Dr. M. A. McQuade.

NEWBURGH, N. Y., March 21.—The Home for the Friendless, a privately managed free orphanage in this city, received more than $400,000 under the will of Dr. Milton Ash McQuade, eye, nose and throat specialist, who died here on March 11.

The home already had an endowment of $140,000. It cares for twenty-five children at present. Last year's expenses were about $14,000. The home was founded about 1860 and is managed by representatives of the local Protestant churches.

DISPUTE ON ZIEGFELD SHOW

Grossmith and Wodehouse May Go to Court Over "Three Musketeers."

Copyright, 1928, by The New York Times Company.
By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, March 21.—George Grossmith, actor; P. G. Wodehouse, humorist, and Florenz Ziegfeld, theatrical manager, are involved in a dispute which may reach the courts for settlement.

Ziegfeld, it is said, commissioned Grossmith to write the book and lyrics for the musical version of "The Three Musketeers," the music for which was to be composed by Rudolf Friml. Grossmith and Wodehouse took their play to America for Ziegfeld's inspection, but Ziegfeld was busy with "Show Boat" and, after spending five weeks in New York, Grossmith returned to London. Grossmith says that almost immediately he received a cable from Ziegfeld asking him to return for rehearsal of "The Three Musketeers," but rehearsals were not started and, after waiting a month, both Grossmith and Wodehouse returned to London.

Ziegfeld has now produced another version of "The Three Musketeers," lacking Grossmith's book. Grossmith, it is further alleged, did not receive any payment and was not asked to make any alterations in his book.

"I have left the matter entirely with the Dramatists' Guild of America and the Society of Authors in England," he says.

A complaint against Florenz Ziegfeld for non-payment of royalties due on "The Three Musketeers" has been filed with the Dramatists' Guild by George Grossmith and P. G. Wodehouse, it was said last night by an official of the guild. Mr. Grossmith and Mr. Wodehouse have a signed contract from Mr. Ziegfeld, the official said. The program at the Lyric Theatre credits William Anthony McGuire as the author of the book. When Mr. Grossmith came here for a second time last December, the producer told him, it is reported, that he would not use the Grossmith-Wodehouse adaptation.

It was said last night that the Dramatists' Guild and Mr. Ziegfeld would probably resort to arbitration. The producer is now in Palm Beach.

PLAN TO AID SINGERS DETAILED BY ADAMS

He Wants to Send 100 Abroad Each Year as Memorial to His Father.

ARRIVED ON LINER PARIS

Spanish Newspaper Men, Also on Board, Tells of Thrilling Airplane Flight With de Rivera.

John T. Adams of 182 West Fifty-sixth Street, President of the Wolfsohn Bureau, who sponsors a plan to send 100 selected American student opera singers to Europe each year, arrived yesterday morning on the French liner Paris.

He confirmed the published accounts of his project and said that he had already signed contracts with opera houses in twenty-six European cities in Belgium, France, Italy, Germany and Holland, adding that the selections of the singers would be made in September.

"The plan was devised as a memorial to my father," he said, "and my mother and I have been working it out for the past three years. We are now in a position to say that it will probably succeed. A certain amount of money is required to finance it, but Otto H. Kahn, George F. Eastman and other wealthy music lovers have already promised assistance. As was announced this morning, Reinald Werrenrath will head a committee in charge of selecting the students."

Another passenger on the Paris was Jose Ferrer Forque, New York correspondent of La Prensa of Madrid. Senor Forque said he flew across the Sierra Morena Mountains from Madrid to Seville in a three-motored plane with Primo de Rivera, the Spanish Premier.

"Just as they were over the mountains, which are among the most rugged in Europe, one propeller dropped off. There being nothing that even remotely resembled a landing place in sight, Senor Rivera said he was more than a little worried, but de Rivera, who was reading a newspaper at the time, looked up to see what was the matter and then went on reading."

Mme. Henry Lapauze, the only woman member of the French Board of Fine Arts, was a passenger also. She is here to attend the opening of the Grand Central Gallery in Philadelphia on March 26.

McCLINTIC A CO-AUTHOR.

Book From London, He Brings Play —Miss Cornell May Act It.

Guthrie McClintic, who returned yesterday on the Paris after staging "The Trial of Mary Dugan" in London, brought with him a play of which he is co-author and in which it is probable that Katharine Cornell will appear. This is the first play to be written by Mr. McClintic, who has hitherto been known as a producer and a stage director. The name of his collaborator was not revealed.

Miss Cornell will remain on tour in "The Letter" until June. In the interim Mr. McClintic is expected to stage another play here and probably will return to London later in the Spring to produce "Cock Robin."

Madeleine Mannier Wins in Recital.

Madeleine Mannier, a young French 'cellist heard lately with the New York Symphony, gave a recital last night in Steinway Hall, assisted by Raymond Bauman at the piano. Miss Mannier deepened the good impression she had made here, establishing herself in varied music as an artist to be welcomed in repeated hearings. Her program centred in a sonata of Debussy depicting the story of Pierrot. Among her classics was Bach's suite in C for 'cello alone, while a final modern group included the first performance of an "Elegie" by André Caplet.

Named Peabody Conservatory Head.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., March 21.—Otto Ortmann was named today Director of the Peabody Conservatory of Music by the Board of Trustees, meeting at the Safe Deposit and Trust Company. He succeeds Harold Randolph who died last July 4. Mr. Ortmann, who has been Acting Director of the Conservatory this season, has been a member of the Faculty for some years.

2,000 AT ADLER MEMORIAL.

Performance Given to Raise Funds for Monument to Jewish Actor.

More than two thousand persons attended a memorial performance yesterday afternoon at the Public Theatre, Second Avenue and Fourth Street, to raise funds for a monument to be placed over the grave of Jacob P. Adler, the Jewish actor. Hundreds, unable to gain admittance, crowded the lobby and sidewalk.

Many favorite stars of the east side appeared in a combined program of one-act plays taken from those attractions in which Adler had appeared. Maurice Schwartz and his company presented "King Lear," which the audience seemed to consider the most enjoyable part of the program. Ludwig Satz appeared in a portion of "The Wild Man" and Joseph Shoengold was seen in one act of "The Stranger." Others who appeared included Samuel Goldenburg, Aaron Lebedeff, H. Jacobson, Leon Blank and Bertha Kalish.

The performance was given as part of a movement undertaken by the Hebrew Actors' Union, headed by Joseph Barondess, Samuel Paley and Charles W. Groll. The performance netted about $4,500.

To Produce James Forbes Play.

A new comedy by James Forbes, entitled "An Old Man's Darling," has been acquired by Rosalie Stewart and will be put out in July with the New York opening scheduled for October. Mr. Forbes, who is the author of "The Famous Mrs. Fair," has not been represented in New York for several seasons. The new play, which will be directed by the author, will have its try-out in Atlantic City during the week of July 23. In the interim Mr. Forbes will go to Europe for about two months, sailing on April 13.

Settlement Pupils Give Concert.

Melzar Chaffee conducted a festival concert of many pupils from the Music School Settlement in East Third Street before an uptown audience that filled the Town Hall last night. The youngest pupils were heard in a dozen simple Schubert melodies delightfully assorted among the little players and designed as a centenary tribute. The junior orchestra led by Fannie Levine played again and the senior orchestra gave part of a symphony of Haydn, while others of the maturer students gave two Bohemian dances and the first part of Schumann's quintet.

Offer to Buy Play Banned in Britain

Copyright, 1928, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, March 21.—Two American managers—A. H. Woods was one of them—offered today to buy a play which the British censor refuses to allow to be performed on the British stage. The play is "Who Knows?" by May Edginton. Official objection to the play lies in its reference to physical conditions that are regarded in law as grounds for divorce.

Dr. Hochfelder's Son in Tenor Debut

Richard Leon Hochfelder, son of Dr. Anna W. Hochfelder, Assistant Corporation Counsel of New York, and of Captain Julius Hochfelder, also an attorney, will make his début as a tenor in "Robin Hood" with the Brooklyn Little Theatre on April 2. He has been singing in the chorus of the Metropolitan Opera House for two years.

MOTION PICTURES. BEYOND HUMAN BELIEF! "In 'The Trail of '98,' Spectacle follows MELODRAMA, with ROMANCE close behind. And in one sequence it offers one of the major thrills of the movies. This is where the 'fantom' screen is suddenly moved forward and enlarged at the same time in order to picture in greater detail a swirling snowslide which crumbles and crashes down high Alaskan hills around a gummy stream of gold seekers winding its way through the valleys below."—John S. Cohen Jr., Sun. BROADWAY'S BIGGEST SHOW. "At least three reasons came to view last evening at the Astor Theatre why 'The Trail of '98' is one of the most powerful pictures ever filmed. First, a thrilling, spectacular snow-slide scene. Second, a breathtaking sequence wherein hundreds of persons struggle with treacherous rapids; and third, a concluding episode, with Harry Carey, villain of the production, set aflame and brought to his death by an exploding kerosene lamp. These moments are tremendous, perhaps the most remarkable this reviewer has ever witnessed. It is an epic film this—similar to James Cruze's 'Covered Wagon' in that both depict an untiring, unceasing, never-quitting search for wealth. But 'The Trail of '98' is a bigger spectacle than its predecessor."—Irene Thirer, Daily News. A LOVE STORY THAT TUGS AT YOUR HEART! "Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer used a 'fantom' screen on which to project the picture's highlights, and the effect is both stunning and bewildering. The snowslide sequence is truly amazing, as are the scenes depicting a ride through the rapids. A love story running through 'The Trail of '98' is never for a moment sacrificed to spectacle."—Regina Cannon, N. Y. American. ROMANCE, GLORIOUS ADVENTURE, COMEDY, HUMANITY and SPECTACLE. "The Trail of '98' is to those days of adventure, of lust, greed, and dumbed finer feelings what 'The Covered Wagon' was to the West. It is a picture produced and acted with much sincerity and earnestness, one in which both the drama and the comedy have evidently been inspired by actual occurrences."—Mordaunt Hall, N. Y. Times. THE TRAIL OF '98. Directed by CLARENCE BROWN. Produced by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. THE CLIMAX OF A CENTURY! "One of the finest films ever made had its premiere at the Astor Theatre last night. In 'The Trail of '98,' Clarence Brown's splendidly impressive dramatization of the Klondike gold rush, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has a box-office gold mine."—Betty Colfax, Evening Graphic. "In 'The Trail of '98' three thrills are among the greatest ever brought to the screen—a giant snowslide, a breath-taking ride through miles of turgid rapids, a human torch whose flaming clothing starts a fire which nearly wipes out the city of Dawson. Any one of these, particularly the snowslide, would carry any ordinary picture."—George Gerhard, Evening World. "In 'The Trail of '98' a snowslide in Chilcoot Pass and the passage of the rapids are depicted on the 'fantom' screen and the effect is thrillingly successful."—Richard Watts Jr., Herald Tribune. "The Trail of '98' is most impressive. Some of the shots give one the impression of a frozen 'Covered Wagon.'"—Rose Pelswick, Evening Journal. Board to Act Tomorrow on Banning Tunney; Reply on Challengers Fails to Satisfy

TUNNEY FACES BAN; ISSUE UP TOMORROW

Champion's Message Saying He Has Signed for Rickard Regarded as Unsatisfactory.

TIME LIMIT OVER TODAY

Tunney's Answer Avoids Mention of Sharkey, Heeney or Risko, Whose Challenges Wait.

RIVAL MAY BE DICTATED

Commissioners Said to Be Considering Naming Opponent—Rickard to Fight Move.

By JAMES P. DAWSON.

The State Athletic Commission at its meeting tomorrow will consider the question of suspending Gene Tunney, world's heavyweight champion, and, probably, the advisability of adopting an arbitrary attitude toward the titleholder, dictating the man the commission deems qualified as an opponent for a bout here, unless some development favorable to Tunney occurs before the board convenes.

This situation was precipitated yesterday by the receipt of Tunney's reply to the commission's notification of the expiration today of the six months' period allowed a ring champion in which to defend his title. Acknowledgment of the champion's reply was made by Executive Secretary Bert Stand, but he declined to divulge the contents of the telegram, or to deny or confirm that a message from Miami purporting to be Tunney's reply was identical with the telegram the commission has in its possession. Nor could Chairman James A. Farley or Commissioner Muldoon be induced to comment on the telegram or the heavyweight title situation, which, they said, would be disposed of at the board meeting tomorrow.

Tunney's Supposed Message.

The message attributed to Tunney as his reply to the commission's request that he act on challenges filed with the board on behalf of Jack Sharkey, Tom Heeney and Johnny Risko was addressed to Secretary Stand and was as follows:

"Please notify your body that I have already signed with Tex Rickard to defend my title against the best opponent available as soon as he has arranged to sign his selection and stage the contest."

There is a reason, however, to accept this message as the champion's official reply to the commission in the absence of official verification here. And, although Commissioners Farley and Muldoon declined to comment on the matter, the commission, it is believed, will not accept the reply as meeting the requirements of the board.

In that event the suspension of Tunney will be a formality under the rule requiring champions to defend their titles once in every six months, and if the commission decides arbitrarily to name the man Tunney must box in the bout Rickard proposes for the Yankee Stadium here this Summer, the complications may very well parallel those encountered in the attempt to stage the Tunney-Jack Dempsey bout here in 1925 at a time when Harry Wills was recognized as the outstanding challenger for the title. What is more, there is grave danger that Tunney's title match may not be held here, unless the delicate situation now existing is safely overcome.

It is known that the commission regards Tunney's reply as evasive. What would have been a desirable reply would be Tunney's flat acceptance of the three challenges, placing up to the commission the task of selecting a suitable opponent from among Sharkey, Heeney and Risko. That the board would have advanced Sharkey, in the face of his collapse in qualifying bouts against Heeney and Risko, is improbable. The selection would have been made from Heeney and Risko, or a bout between the pair could have been suggested to produce the one outstanding challenger.

Tunney Fails to Satisfy.

The records of the commission disclose that the board's attitude on champions is that a titleholder should accept unconditionally any and all challenges hurled at him and dispose of them in the order of their receipt. Tunney has failed to do that, and, unless precedent is upset, the rule will be allowed to take its course.

The chance of arbitrary action involving Tunney and his title stirred Rickard considerably. Over the long-distance telephone from Miami Rickard said:

"I don't think the commission will suspend Tunney. There is no justification for such action. Tunney has done all that is required of him in signing with me to defend his title against the best opponent available in July. I must now pick the man best suited to fight Tunney, and it stands to reason that I cannot afford to pick an inferior foe.

"The challenger must measure up to every standard or the match will not be a success from a competitive or financial standpoint. I don't think the field of opponents should necessarily be limited to a few, particularly not to Sharkey, Heeney and Risko. There may be some fellow better than any one of these three come along, and establish his right to a championship bout, regardless of whether he is ranked among the list of official challengers. It would not be fair, in that event, to refuse a man a chance at the title just because he hasn't filed an official challenge, particularly in view of the showings of the official challengers in their New York bouts.

Sticks to Stadium Plan.

"I am going ahead with plans for Tunney to defend his title in the Yankee Stadium in July. The date may be either July 12 or 19, although I haven't the available dates with me right now. If, when I decide definitely on my plans, I find it impossible to conduct the bout in New York, I will move elsewhere with it. I have several places where a heavyweight championship bout will be welcomed, although I would prefer the match in New York, where fans have not witnessed a heavyweight championship since Dempsey fought Firpo."

Morenz Clinches Scoring Lead In Hockey; Joliat Is Second

MONTREAL, March 21 (AP).—Howie Morenz, centre of the Montreal Canadiens, has clinched the individual scoring championship of the 1927-28 National Hockey League season. Latest official figures show Morenz has a lead of 10 points over his teammate and closest rival, Aurel Joliat, 46 to 36. This margin is not likely to be threatened as the Canadiens have only one more match before the close of the regular season. A hot finish is in prospect for scoring honors in the American group between Frank Boucher of the Rangers and George Hay of Detroit. Boucher has a 1 point lead, 32 to 31, in the average up to March 18, and a good chance to keep it.

M'LARNIN REFEREES BOUT IN THE GARDEN

Wonder Beats Spinello With Lightweight Challenger Third Man in Ring.

BILL DONAHUE TRIUMPHS

Gets Decision Over Codina After Extra Round in A. A. U. Tryouts for Olympic Trials.

Jimmy McLarnin, Coast challenger for the world's lightweight title, had his first experience as a boxing referee last night in Madison Square Garden, scene of his spectacular rise to prominence in the professional ring, and acquitted himself nobly. Officiating in a semi-final bout in the second section of the 118-pound class of the tournament conducted by the Metropolitan A. A. U. He kept two ring tyros active according to his own standards, but without producing the same effect. A crowd of about 3,000 greeted McLarnin and acknowledged his work as a referee with a friendly cheer.

William Wonder, Trinity Club, and Thomas Spinello, Chinatown Club, were the lads who fought under the directions of McLarnin, and they furnished a snappy, interesting contest. At the final bell Wonder received the decision and he deserved it, for he out-scored his young rival in every round of the three the lads went, landing solidly to the body and with jarring effect to the head and jaw in his use of a right-hand blow.

Bill Donahue, Holy Name Club, and Tony Codina, N. Y. U. Community Centre, went through an extra-round battle which pleased the fans, Donahue getting the decision when the bell clanged the finish of the fourth round.

Last night's tournament was in effect a final local tryout for the Olympic tryouts to be held next month in Boston. The tournament will conclude tonight with finals in open classes and several special bouts.

STUDENT BOXER DIES IN DOUBLE KNOCKOUT

Bout at Southern California Fatal to Carnakis—Rival Unconscious Nearly Two Hours.

LOS ANGELES, March 21 (AP).—What seemed to have been a double knockout in a friendly boxing bout between two students in the University of Southern California gymnasium turned to tragedy last night when it was found that one of the boxers was dead.

The dead boxer was Michael Carnakis, 20, of Bakersfield, a sophomore. His opponent, Philip Bromley, 19, of Los Angeles, was unconscious for an hour and forty-five minutes.

The boxers, both welterweights, pounded each other for three rounds. In the fourth they were engaged in a swift exchange of punches when both tumbled on their faces. Bromley was the first to fall. Carnakis was declared the winner. Then attendants began to try to revive them. Carnakis was dead.

Examination at a receiving hospital by Police Surgeon Charles Sebastian disclosed that the dead boxer had once suffered a basil fracture of the skull. His death was caused by a cerebral hemorrhage, according to Dr. Sebastian. An investigation was ordered.

DUGAN SHOWS WAY TO YANKEE VICTORY

Jumping Joe Clouts First Homer of Season in Defeat of Braves by 8 to 2.

HOYT AND PIPGRAS PITCH

Former Allows Two Hits in Four Innings and Pipgras Permits Four in Five Innings.

By JAMES R. HARRISON.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 21.—Everybody get ready for a big shock, steadying yourself by taking ing hold of the back of a chair, grasp a bottle of smelling salts, take a deep breath and get ready for the startling announcement. The Yankees won a ball game.

There will be skeptics, of course, who will sneer at such a statement. Others will go into a fit of laughter at the very idea. Your correspondent does not expect to be believed in this incredible matter, but he is forwarding tonight a batch of nine affidavits, including one from President E. S. Barnard of the American League and one from the Mayor of St. Petersburg, both eye-witnesses of this fantastic episode.

In time the truth will be established and will prevail. Sufficient to say for the present that the Yanks, wearying at the annoying attentions of the Boston Braves, turned on the pesky bean-eaters this afternoon and administered a drubbing that was top-hole, not to say ripping. The score was 8 to 2.

Dugan Crashes a Homer.

At the further risk of straining the credulity of our readers, we will also say that Jumping Joseph Dugan of the Scarsdale Dugans, not noted for his long-distance hitting, clouted the first home run of the season for his ball club. It was a drive inside the grounds to left centre and when Joseph arrived at the plate on the verge of apoplexy, he looked like one of the lads who stagger to the finishing line in an Olympic marathon.

The only person on the field who looked worse than Joseph was Babe Ruth, who didn't care a great deal for this thunder-stealing stuff.

It was rather a jolly afternoon. Colonel Jacob Ruppert, who wore a thunder-cloud frown all last evening, was decked out in a broad smile as the chap when the nurse says, "It's a boy." The Colonel beamed all over and didn't even try to conceal it.

The Braves were out of the running after the sixth inning. To tell the truth, they never were in the running. The Yanks went out to win the ball game and there was no stopping them. Their hitting was not cyclonic—only eight blows—but every one counted, and the Braves' fielding was not up to snuff.

Hoyt and Pipgras Twirl.

Just by way of making matters unanimous Huggins sent Waite Hoyt and George Pipgras out to scalp the Braves. Waite allowed two hits in four innings, George four in five. Fair enough. These two boys had mid-season stuff, except that Pipgras's control was only a trifle off color.

Jumping Joseph Dugan went on a spree of hitting. He walked his first time out, home-runned the second, singled the third and doubled the fourth. Credit Joseph with a perfect average. His homer was a solid slam that rolled to the score-board in left centre. His double was a zephyr drive over Moore's head to the left-field fence.

Joe made three hits, drove in three runs and scored three. Scarsdale and White Plains papers please copy.

Probably figuring that it didn't matter much who pitched today, Jack Slattery, the Boston strategist, sent a trio of rookie pitchers to the slaughter. Reading from left to right, they were Kenneth Jones, Guy Morrison and Harold Goldsmith.

The Yanks made four of their eight runs off Morrison in the sixth. With the score tied at 2 each, Meusel doubled to left centre with one out. Robertson was hit and slugger Dugan rapped a single to left, scoring Gehrig. Grabowski's hit admitted Robby and Dugan, then Grabby worked around on an error and Combs's hit.

The champs scored two more in the eighth, but it didn't matter.

Ching Johnson of the New York Rangers has won the Paramount Theatre Trophy, offered by John Murray Anderson, to the player selected by the New York Hockey Writers Association as the most valuable member of either New York sextet during the current hockey campaign, it was announced yesterday.

Of the 26 votes cast, Johnson received 12, while the remaining 14 votes were equally divided between Frank Boucher of the Rangers and Normie Himes of the Americans. This gives the Rangers two cups competed for by the rival New York teams, Boucher already having clinched the Hotel Belvedere Trophy, awarded to the high scorer.

Red Sox Hopes Seem to Hinge On Where Browns Will Settle

Likely to Land in Cellar Unless St. Louis Asserts Clear Claim to That Position, as the Few Veterans Are Getting Old and the Array of Recruits Is Unseasoned—Carrigan Has Hopes, but Only a Few.

This is the first of a series of articles by staff correspondents of The New York Times dealing with conditions at baseball camps other than those of the New York clubs.

By RICHARDS VIDMER.

Special to The New York Times.

BRADENTON, Fla., March 21.—During the dreary Winter nights when conversation grew dull, there always was some one to murmur, "This may be the Red Sox year," which was a fine way of starting an argument.

Of course, the incendiary of the fiery debate that followed as surely as daylight follows dawn didn't mean to prophesy a pennant for the Bostonians. By "the Red Sox year," he meant only that this may be the season in which they will climb out of the cellar in the American League, where they have nestled tranquilly all these many years.

Remembering these little arguments, we searched high and low to find just what the Red Sox have with which to work the miracle. We called the roll of pitchers. Charles H. Ruffing, a right hander of 28 years, answered "Here" in a loud and confident voice. There was a flutter of applause and some one said, "Yes, sir, that boy's there."

Others Not So Confident.

From the other members of the staff there was only a rumbling sound that might have meant anything, but probably didn't.

We searched the faces of the catchers and found the creased countenance of Freddy Hofmann, former playmate of Babe Ruth, as interesting as any, though Johnny Heving, late of Toledo, was passing fair.

Eight infielders passed in review like wooden soldiers. They all seemed cast in the same mold. A close mold at that. There was nothing to choose between them, if any one cared to choose at all. The outfield troops included Ken Williams, the slipping slugger from the Browns, and Ira Flagstead, once of Detroit, but otherwise consisted of just so many ball players.

Unable to solve the mystery single-handed, we sought the aid and advice of Bill Carrigan, who was induced by flowery oratory to leave the quiet, secluded and peaceful life of a banker and return to the struggle and strife of managing the Red Sox. "Just what have you this year?" we asked Bill. "Hopes," he replied with a grin—"just hope and very few of those."

That Closes the Interview.

That seemed to close the interview. Mr. Carrigan was willing to quote the current rate of exchange on francs, describe in detail the layout of the local golf course, give advice on how to catch pompanoe and listen to the potentialities of the Giants, Yanks, Robins or any other Big League club, but he steadfastly stuck to the theory that the less said about the Red Sox, the better. A lot of people feel the same way.

If there's anything in the axiom that youth will be served, then the Red Sox have something coming to them on a silver platter. Youth is about all they have in their column of assets. Except for Bryan Harris, listed as a pitcher, but who may be used for a flagpole in an emergency, Ken Williams and Ira Flagstead, the Red Sox are just young fellows trying to get along and not succeeding very well.

"Maybe they will get better as they grow older," we suggested. "It's a cinch they won't get any worse," Bill replied.

It appears that these youngsters have so much to learn that they are being instructed in groups.

Wagner Has the Infielders.

"I take charge of the pitchers and catchers only," Carrigan explained. "That's all I know about. Heinie Wagner has absolute jurisdiction over the eight infielders."

"What about the outfielders?" we asked, interested.

"Oh, they're old enough to look after themselves," was the reply.

In other words the Red Sox look no better than they did last year, or the year before, or the year before that. Only a fair memory is necessary to recall that on all those occasions they looked no better than the worst club in the league.

Besides Ruffing and Harriss, the pitchers who will be hurled against the vaunted sluggers of the circuit, are, first, MacFayden, Harold Wiltse and Jack Russell. They will be relieved, almost daily we suspect, by whatever happens to be handy. Among those who may be handy, but not very, are Francis Bennett, Herbert Bradley, Cliff Garrison, Edward Morris and Merle Settlemire. All five of these served in the minors last year. Their promotion is still a matter of opinion.

Two First-String Catchers.

Hofmann and Heving will be the principal catchers, with Charlie Barry, imported from Dallas, as the most likely third stringer, which isn't so far from the top on the Red Sox as it might be elsewhere.

A 16-year-old kid named Joseph Doughty Cicero from Easton, Pa., has set the infield on fire during the training season, which is a pretty fair tip-off on the infield situation. Research work reveals, however, that Mr. Cicero is the paradox of the Cuban player, whom Mike Gonzales was asked to describe in detail a few years ago. Mike's description was "Good field, no hit." Of Cicero we hear, "Good hit, no field."

From present indications the infield will consist of Todt at first base, Regan at second, Rothrock at short and Meyer at third. All of which is contingent on the possibility of Ruffing being traded to the Yanks for strengthening material.

Ken and Denny Williams, Flagstead, Taitt and Tarbert will be the five outfielders retained. Their request for motorcycles as auxiliaries when facing the Yankees, Tigers, Senators and Athletics has been denied.

P. S.: The Red Sox won't be any better than they have been. Their only chance is that the Browns may be worse.

PIRATES AGAIN BOW TO SAN FRANCISCO

Seals Take Third Straight From Pittsburgh, Pounding Out 7-to-2 Victory.

ORIOLES ROUT ATHLETICS

Reading Wins Well-Played Game From Phillies, 2 to 1—White Sox and Indians Triumph.

By The Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 21 (AP).—The Pittsburgh Pirates lost their third straight game to the San Francisco Seals today when they were defeated, 7 to 2. The Seals scored four runs in the fourth inning when Crosetti hit a home run with the bases full.

The National League champions could do little with the offerings of the Coast League hurlers, Jacobs and Ferguson. The Seals collected hits freely off the Pirate pitchers, Grimes, Dawson and Perry.

The score by innings:

	R.	H.	E.
Pittsburgh (N.)	0	1	0	0	0	0	1	0	0	—	2	11	1
San Fran. (P.C.)	0	0	1	4	0	0	2	0	—	7	13	3

Batteries—Grimes, Dawson, Perry and Smith, Geoch; Jacobs, Ferguson and Vargas.

Orioles Trounce Athletics, 10-2.

AUBURNDALE, Fla., March 21 (AP).—The Baltimore Orioles of the International League triumphed over the Philadelphia Athletics for the second time this Spring today, rolling up a 10 to 2 score and thumping three young Mackmen pitchers.

Two weeks ago the Orioles pounded out a 14 to 5 victory and today they banged out ten hits against the hurling of Johnny Lyons, Chief Daney and Ike Powers. Tris Speaker made three sparkling catches in the outfield for the Athletics who played a loose game in the chilly weather.

The score by innings:

	R.	H.	E.
Philadelphia (A.)	0	0	0	2	0	0	0	0	0	—	2	6	1
Baltimore (I.)	1	0	2	1	1	3	0	2	—	10	13	0

Hawks's Hit Beats Phils, 2-1.

WINTER HAVEN, Fla., March 21 (AP).—Chicken Hawks, former Philadelphia National League first baseman, gave the Reading Internationals a 2 to 1 victory over his old teammates today when he lined out a double in the ninth inning that sent Everett Scott, former American League star, home with the winning run.

Reading played a fine game and got excellent pitching from Parks and Rouprich, who held the Phillies to five hits. Willoughby and Benge also did well on the mound for the Phillies, yielding only seven hits.

The score by innings:

	R.	H.	E.
Reading (I.)	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	1	—	2	7	1

White Sox on Top.

WICHITA FALLS, Texas, March 21 (AP).—Eulogio (Speed) Luque, San Francisco semi-pro pitcher, made his start on the mound for the Chicago White Sox and had a bad inning, the fourth, when Wichita Falls scored eight runs. The White Sox rallied strongly in the closing innings and won, 11 to 9.

The score by innings:

	R.	H.	E.
Chicago (A.)	1	0	0	1	0	0	5	1	3	—	11	16	3
Wichita Falls (T.)	0	0	0	8	0	0	1	0	0	—	9	5	3

Tigers Rout San Antonio, 10-1.

FREDERICKSBURG, Texas, March 21 (AP).—A home run by Dutch Holland with the bases full broke up a pitchers' battle in the seventh inning and the Detroit Tigers scored a 10-to-1 victory over the San Antonio Texas Leaguers today.

The score by innings:

	R.	H.	E.
Detroit (A.)	0	0	0	0	0	4	6	0	—	10	12	2

Batteries—Sullivan, Hubbell, Sorrel and Shea, Hargrave; Newman, Hinkle, Agricola and Myers.

GULFPORT, Miss., March 21 (AP).—The Cleveland Indians took a 7 to 5 decision from Columbus of the American Association here today.

WALTER JOHNSON OUT FOR AT LEAST A MONTH

Ordered to Rest at Daytona Beach Home After Leaving Hospital Today or Tomorrow.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 21 (AP).—Walter Johnson, pitcher-manager of the Newark International League baseball club, will be released from a hospital here tomorrow or Friday but will not be allowed to leave his home at Daytona Beach for about four weeks after his discharge.

The veteran hurler had been under observation for an intestinal disorder, and while his condition today was pronounced as normal, physicians at the hospital stressed that four weeks or so of strict dieting and rest were needed for him to regain his health.

GARDNER LEADS RUNNERS.

NAVAJO, Ariz., March 21 (AP).—Ed Gardner of Seattle won today's lap in the coast-to-coast marathon, covering the distance from Holbrook, Ariz., to Navajo, 41 miles, in 6 hours 41 minutes and 25 seconds.

OTT SAVES GIANTS FROM THE RED SOX

Mann on First, Two Out, Score Tied in 9th When He Drives in Winning Run, 11-10.

ZEKE BARNES IS WOBBLY

Has Not Hit Stride Yet, Letting Boston Overcome a 6-Run Lead Off Him.

Special to The New York Times.

BRADENTON, Fla., March 21.—The kid came through this afternoon.

With defeat, which constitutes disgrace when administered by the Red Sox, staring the Giants in the face, Roger Bresnahan suddenly remembered that a pink-cheeked youngster, Melvin Ott by name, was sitting quietly, as is his custom, in the corner of the dugout. It was the ninth inning. The score was tied. Leslie Mann, running for Cummings, who had just singled, was on first. Two were out.

"Hey, Ottie," shouted Bresnahan. "Go in there and hit for Barnes."

Now, when Ottie is told to hit he generally hits. But his hits are most often singles. However, as Ottie looked the situation over, he decided to "go for a long one," as they say. And he went.

He socked the ball clear over the centre fielder's head. It bounced off the branches of a tree, trickled through the sand and by the time it had been recovered Mann had come home with the winning run. Ott tried to follow him but was thrown out at the plate. Which didn't matter. The Giants won 11 to 10 and thus escaped the humiliation which seemed about to overtake them.

Barnes Not Ready Yet.

Out of the chaos and confusion of a game that limped back and forth from one side to the other, one thing was predominant. That was the fact that Zeke Barnes isn't ready to ply his trade of pitching just yet.

The Giants jumped on Ed Morris, the first Red Sox pitcher, with both feet and about everything else they found within reach. At the end of five innings they had rolled up a lead of six runs behind Fred Fitzsimmons and this they handed to Mr. Barnes as a token of their respect.

But Zeke couldn't hold the lead, and any pitcher who can't hold a six-run lead against the Red Sox is no pitcher, at least not yet. But no one is singing Barnes's swan song. Though the Red Sox piled into him for nine hits and eight runs in the three innings he toiled, all it meant was that Barnes is slow coming around to form.

Johnny Wilson succeeded Morris on the mound for Boston and held the Giants scoreless until the ninth. But they had nothing to worry about until then. When they went into the last inning with a two-run deficit they hitched up their trousers, shouldered their bats and casually went about their business, which at this time was producing three runs without any waste of time.

The Count Is Tied.

This little matter was accomplished in the following manner: Terry singled, Jackson doubled, Terry scored on Harper's infield out and Jackson scored on Cohen's sacrifice fly, tying the count at the ridiculous figure of 10 to 10.

This was the situation when Ott was roused from a reverie. He was thinking, perhaps, how nice it is to loll in the shade of a big league dugout and be only 19 years old. A moment later Bill Carrigan, Pitcher Wilson and the rest of the Red Sox collectively wished he had kept on lolling.

Bill Terry made four hits in four times at bat. His fifth was the longest poke of them all and landed Bill on second without a halt or hesitation, but was scored as an error for the centre fielder.

Shanty Hogan celebrated his twenty-second birthday with a pair of singles. He'll be a great help when he grows up.

TIE TO FAVOR COUGARS.

Total Goals to Count in Case of Hockey Deadlock for Third.

MONTREAL, March 21 (AP).—In the case of a tie between Detroit and Pittsburgh at the end of their scheduled National Hockey League matches, the third place and play-off berth would go to the team with the better goal average, President Frank Calder of the N. H. L. said today in response to a query.

On the present goal averages Detroit has quite an edge over the Pirates, Mr. Calder added. The Cougars have scored eighty-one goals according to the latest official averages, and Pittsburgh sixty-one.

Pittsburgh has two more games to play, against Montreal Maroons and New York Rangers, while Detroit will play Boston. At present Detroit and Pittsburgh are tied with 42 points in third place in the United States section of the league.

If the Pirates qualify for the third play-off berth, they will play both their elimination games in New York against the Rangers and none in Pittsburgh. This arrangement has been reached by mutual agreement between the heads of the two clubs.

HERMAN'S BIG BAT PUTS ROBINS ON TOP

Babe Knocks In 5 of Runs by Which Brooklyn Beats the Senators, 8 to 3.

HIS HOMER TURNS TIDE

By JOHN DREBINGER.

Special to The New York Times.

TAMPA, Fla., March 21.—There may be any number of reasons why Babe Herman cannot play the outfield and a few more why he can't play first base, but the Babe himself exploded a couple of reasons here this afternoon why he cannot be left out of the Brooklyn line-up this year and for the time being you may consider the argument as closed. The Babe, let it be shouted so all back in Flatbush may hear, knocked in six runs for the Robins today, and as the Flock defeated the Senators, 8 to 3, Herman's part in the victory can be appraised at one swift glance. He was, indeed, the whole show.

Up to the time the Babe exploded, the Robins were taking what looked very much like another fine beating from the Senators, despite the fact that Uncle Wilbert Robinson had shaken up his line-up again, calculating to add more punch to the team. He had switched Elconda to second, put Freigau on third, while Bissonette and Bancroft remained at first and short, and Hendrick, Tyson and Herman again made up the outfield.

Punch Absent for Five Innings.

However, for five innings, there still was no punch. Opposed by their little playmate of last Spring, Lefty Clarence Griffin, the Robins got two hits in the first inning, one a double by Bancroft and the other a single by Hendrick, which failed to count because Benny inadvertently overlooked touching third while coming home on Harvey's hit. For the next four frames the Flock just played dead.

In the sixth, however, with the score 3-0 against the Robins, and Paul Hopkins new pitching for the Senators, the turning point of the story arrived. Mr. Hopkins, unable to see Uncle Robbie suffer so much, decided to give the boys a lift and walked the first three men to face him, Tyson, Bancroft and Hendrick. Then he put one over on plate and Bissonette shot a long fly to Sam West, scoring Tyson.

Up came Herman, and Hopkins, just to prove lightning does strike in the same place in succession, put another ball over the plate. However, it got only half way over, for the Babe, meeting it with a free and easy swing, immediately put the ball on the running track of the fair grounds for a magnificent homer that also scored Bancroft and Hendr

Hennessey Beats Tilden After Five Sets in Davis Cup Test; Chandler Also Wins

COEN IS VICTOR OVER DOEG

Chandler Beats Lott, Jones Downs Brown and Allison Conquers Shields at Augusta.

By ALLISON DANZIG.

Special to The New York Times.

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 21.—William Tilden, captain of the 1928 Davis Cup team and ranking American player, went down to defeat today at the hands of John Hennessey of Indianapolis in the official test matches that are being held at the Augusta Country Club to select a combination to face Mexico.

A large gallery, bundled in heavy coats and blankets for protection against the unusually cold weather, looked on in amazement as the debonair youth from the Middle West, who ranks fifth in the country and defeated Henri Cochet in the turf court championship last year, fought his way from behind to score the first victory he has ever gained over the six times national titleholder. The score was 6—8, 6—1, 2—6, 6—2, 6—4.

Not every one who saw the start of the play was in at the death, for Tilden seemed to have the match so clearly in hand at the end of the third set that many left, believing that it was all over but the shouting. But the shouts of laughter of a couple of caddies behind the backstop of the courts starts the captain of the team on the down grade at just the moment in the fourth set when Tilden was opening up with his most brilliant and merciless display of attacking strokes in the match, and he never reached such heights again.

Circumstances Worry Tilden.

For the greater part of the struggle Tilden appeared to be distracted by a number of things and partly as a result he failed to give a finished performance, playing his best tennis only in spurts. The sounds of the horns and sirens of the motor cars ever entering and leaving the grounds of the club and the roaring engine of an airplane circling overhead were sources of annoyance, and the lining on the match was not of the best, for there were only a few officials on hand, and it was frequently left for the players to make decisions.

Granting that the conditions were not of the best, including the weather, the fact remains that Hennessey played the better tennis and deserved to win, as Tilden declared emphatically after the match in the locker room. Aside from the few days of informal play he had here, this was the first singles match that Tilden has played on outdoor courts this year, and his lack of practice was only too apparent in the poorness of his control.

The reason that he fell into periodic slumps was not merely because he was wrought up mentally about the outside disturbances but because he has not had enough tennis this year to find his best form. "A couple of matches like this," he said, "are just what I need. The only way to play good tennis is to keep playing every day."

Frequently Reaches Heights.

In spots the former champion played as magnificent tennis as he probably ever has. Some of his forehand drives were whipped across the net with such lightning speed that the gallery was hardly able to see the ball, and Hennessey was as helpless to hold them off as he was to return Tilden's cannon-ball serves along the centre line.

Then, after making these great attacking shots and others off the backhand that were equally bewildering, the captain of the team would mar the impression they made and dissipate his leads of 40—0 by making the most atrocious errors. He could not afford to make them against a man who played with such unwavering steadiness as did Hennessey.

The Western youth is a deceptive player on the court to watch. He plays with such ease and lack of effort and his strokes are made with such leisurely swings that one is not regard his game as being soft. It is only when one is opposite the other side of the net against him that you appreciate his game for the full worth of its steadiness, the incisiveness of the full length ground strokes and the penetration of his volleys and overhead shots.

To make any impression against him Tilden had to concentrate all his energies, train his biggest guns on him and keep moving quickly to be in position for the return.

Hennessey Ahead at 5-0.

In the first set, Hennessey gained a 5-0 lead before the former champion struck his best stride. He pulled up to 3—all and from there on it was a duel of services, with Tilden giving the impression that he could take command when he chose to.

After breaking through to win the set, the captain went into another slump in the second set and never came out of it, save for a short period after dropping the first three games again.

The third set found the captain letting loose with all his tremendous forehand drives, Hennessey was hopelessly on the defensive seeking to get near the ball or more than touch it with his racquet in spite of his wide scrambling.

With Tilden sticking to his guns in the same fashion at the start of the fourth, it looked as though he would end the play in short order as he broke through in the first game and gained a 30—15 lead in the second.

Here he went into another slump, from which he did not extricate himself until the score stood 4—3 and 30—0 against him in the final chapter.

At this point Tilden lifted his game and crushed all opposition to pull up to 4 all. Hennessey won the next game to make the score 5—4 and reached 40—15 in the tenth. In the next rally Tilden made a magnificent stand and brought off a series of gets that had the gallery marveling, but his efforts came to naught when he finally drove the ball far over the base line to bring the play to an end.

The first day of singles matches was marked by the defeat of not only Tilden but also of George Lott of Chicago and John Doeg of Stanford University. Lott, who is third in the ranking, went down before Edward G. Chandler of California, former member of the first ten, who saw very little action last season.

The match was a beautiful exhibition of sustained driving and volleying on both sides, with Chandler getting in the more deadly thrusts at close quarters and outsteadying Lott from back court.

Lott made some of the most amazing gets ever seen on a tennis court in returning Chandler's sharply angled volleys and forcing shots to the base line corners, but his efforts took so much out of him that he had little left in reserve at the end of the third set and yielded quickly in the fourth. The score was 6—3, 7—9, 6—0, 6—2.

Coen Plays Fine Game.

Junior Coen, 16-year-old Kansas City youth, administered defeat to Doeg and did it in three successive sets at 14—12, 6—4, 6—3. The little protégé of Tilden put up a brand of tennis that was a revelation. His ground strokes were unbeatable, his generalship was worthy of a veteran campaigner, and at the net he handled his racquet with a coolness and decisiveness that were amazing in a youth of his years.

Doeg's ground strokes are better than they were last year, but he could not cope with Coen from back court and so he had to go to the net. But there his efforts were checkmated almost every time by Coen's beautifully placed returns of service, that trapped him at his feet, forcing him into volley errors.

The performance of the Kansas City youth furnished unmistakable evidence that Coen is one of the most promising players in the country, and whether or not Tilden recommends to the Davis Cup Committee that he be considered for the team this year, he will be a hard youth to keep off the team in another season or two.

In the other two matches of the day Arnold Jones came from behind to win a long and desperate battle with Wray Brown of St. Louis, and Wilmer Allison of Texas played in his most brilliant form to defeat Frank Shields of New York.

The two doubles matches were called off owing to the late hour at which the singles were finished. Lott is scheduled to play Tilden in singles tomorrow, but the Chicago youth has a bad blister on the index finger of his right hand and may be excused from playing.

The summaries:

John Hennessey defeated William Tilden, 6—8, 6—1, 2—6, 6—2, 6—4; Edward G. Chandler defeated George M. Lott Jr., 6—2, 7—9, 6—3; Arnold Jones defeated Wray Brown, 6—4, 6—8, 10—8; Junior Coen defeated John Doeg, 14—12, 6—4, 6—3; Wilmer Allison defeated Frank Shields, 6—3, 6—1, 6—4.

CRESCENT SIX BEATS ST. NICKS IN OVERTIME

Goals by Rust and Mullins Win Amateur Hockey League Game by 3 to 1.

Two goals in the first overtime period enabled the Crescent Athletic Club sextet to defeat the St. Nicholas combination, 3 to 1, at The Ice Club last night, in a Metropolitan Amateur Hockey League game. The contest was fast and ten players were sent to the penalty box during various stages of the encounter.

Both teams struggled through the first period without a tally and for most of the second session the teams were unable to score. Then after 12:00 of the second Mills of the St. Nicks smashed in a goal from the centre of the ice.

This 1-0 lead endured for the remainder of the period and it was not until 8:35 of the third period that R. Smith of the Crescents tied the score with a cleverly executed shot from the side.

The Crescents scrimmaged in front of the St. Nicks' goal in the overtime and Rust flipped in the rubber after 1:30 seconds. The Crescents worked the disk down the ice near the end of the extra period and Mullins netted the disk after 9:45.

The line-up:

Japan Will Play in Canada If It Wins Davis Cup Match

MONTREAL, March 21 (AP).—Japan, contingent upon its Davis Cup tennis team triumphing over Cuba at Havana in the first-round play next month, has agreed to meet Canada in the second round on the courts of the Mount Royal Tennis Club here. The Cubans also have been invited to play in Canada in the event of defeating Japan, but have not yet replied. Canada drew a first-round bye in the American zone tournament.

THIRTY ARMY PLAYERS OUT FOR SPRING DRILL

Coach Jones Gives Football Squad Tackling Practice Indoors—Four Vacancies to Fill.

Special to The New York Times.

WEST POINT, N. Y., March 21.—The Army football team began Spring football practice here today with thirty men reporting to Coach Biff Jones. The drill was held in the Riding Hall, as the gridiron was too soft and slippery for outdoor work. Practice will continue for the next three weeks.

The squad was composed for the most part of members of last year's plebe team. Jones spoke briefly and then gave the athletes a session at tackling and later had a workout in position play and in passing. There was little kicking done, owing to the ceiling.

Jones has four vacancies to fill—that of Harry Wilson in the backfield, of Born and Herbold at the ends and of Seeman at guard. Today's squad was headed by Captain Bill Sprague. Other stars to report were Chris Cagle, John Murrell and Phil Dreger, backs; Hammack, guard, and Messinger, plebe lumbarjack, who is expected to fill in at one of the end posts.

The Victorias won the first game, 8-1.

Penn's Victory Celebration Too Strenuous; 17 Students Arrested; Ordered to Pay $1,000

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, March 21.—As the result of a victory celebration following the Penn-Princeton basketball game for the Eastern Intercollegiate League championship here last night, seventeen University of Pennsylvania undergraduates, including the President of the senior class and the football manager, must settle damage claims of nearly $1,000 before the courts will dispose of charges preferred by police and firemen who were targets of some of the celebrants.

Magistrate Louis Hamberg laid down these terms today when he released all of the students, except one, in $300 bail, each to appear next Wednesday. The exception, William Erwin of McLean Dormitory, drew bail of $500 when Policeman Vogelhe testified that the student had thrown a milk bottle which struck him on the cheek. Bail was provided by Professor Stanley P. Shugert of the Mathematics Department.

The arrests followed an outbreak of disorder during which two bonfires were started, windows smashed, trolley poles disconnected, car tracks blocked with railroad ties and a horse like stolen. Patrolman Bowen told the Magistrate that he had sent in a call for police assistance when he saw the students parading in snake dances in the vicinity of the campus.

Then an engine company was called out to extinguish bonfires, and Captain Hoit declared the disorder was so great that "in all my seven years in the district I have never seen anything like it."

Agents of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company said that damages estimated at $300 was done during the celebration. The students, most of whom were Philadelphians and included Jack McDowell, President of the senior class, and Thomas S. Gates Jr., manager of the football team, were held on charges of disorderly conduct and corner loungering.

HAWLEY TO COACH DARTMOUTH AGAIN

Football Mentor to Have Charge Provided Business Matters do Not Interfere.

NEW POLICY IS PLEASING

Dartmouth No Longer to Hold Spring Football Practice, but Will Scout All Opposing Teams.

Special to The New York Times.

HANOVER, N. H., March 21.—Jess Hawley will return to coach the Dartmouth football team next Fall, according to an announcement made today by Harry Rip Heneage, Supervisor of Dartmouth athletics. Heneage returned from New York today after a trip to confer with Hawley regarding next year's football plans.

Hawley stated that his decision to return was made with the previous that he might change his mind if any important press of business matters prevent his fulfilling his verbal agreement. According to Heneage such a change of plans is highly improbable and all indications point to the fact that Hawley again will assume leadership when the team steps out on Memorial Field next Fall.

According to Heneage, Coach Hawley was very much pleased with the new change in policy by the Dartmouth football heads who decided that Spring football practice will no longer be held by the Dartmouth team. It was agreed also that Dartmouth will scout all of its opponent teams. This means that the non-scouting pact that Dartmouth has had with Yale has been scrapped.

The agreement did not work out as smoothly as it might have as publication of pictures of the Dartmouth team in action against Harvard did much to reveal the Dartmouth plays to Yale with the result that the Green team entered the Yale game under a handicap.

105 YALE MEN OUT FOR FOOTBALL WORK

Coach Stevens Outlines Plan for the Five Weeks of Spring Training Practice.

FORTNIGHT OF LIGHT DRILL

Real Drive Will Begin After Easter Vacation—15 Veterans Report, Others in Spring Sports.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 21.—The Yale football squad, 105 strong, reported to Marvin Allen Stevens, Head Coach, here today for five weeks of Spring practice. Stevens said this afternoon that only two sessions indoors will be held this week, and two next week, on Wednesdays and Saturdays. Until Easter his plans are for forward passing and formation work, instead of the rudimentary daily drill in handling the ball which has marked the annual Spring work in former seasons.

Following the Easter recess, outdoor practice will be held on Eratt Field daily for three weeks and will include a preparedness program in every element of gridiron strategy. Stevens succeeded Tad Jones, who has directed Yale football efforts since 1915. Jones, who is Chairman of the reorganized Graduate Advisory Football Committee, was not present at today's workout, but expects to look over the squad occasionally during the Spring work.

Veterans Report.

The resident coaching squad has not yet been named, but it will include most of last year's staff. Myron Fuller, rushline coach for a decade, has announced his plan to go into business next Fall and to retire from coaching.

Today Major Vernon E. Prichard, head of the Reserve Officers Training Corps, and member of last year's coaching staff; William Adam Webster, Captain of the eleven last Fall; Winslow Lovejoy, Captain three years ago; Dwight H. Fishwick, end rush for three years; John C. Diller, a former tackle and rush line assistant coach; Cleon E. Osbourn, head coach of the Freshman squad, and Larry Noble and Rex Root, assistant Freshman coaches last year, assisted Head Coach Stevens.

Members of last year's squad who reported included Captain Max Eddy, Dudley Charlesworth, whose leg was broken in the Harvard game; Manning, Lampe, Norman Hall, Kolb, Spiel, Decker, Hubbard, Garvey, Switz, West, Wilson, Greene and Minor, Johnny Hoben, quarterback last Fall, was absent because of a lame shoulder. It is not certain whether he can play baseball this Spring or football next Fall because of his injury.

Stevens Faces Task.

Stevens faces a difficult task in replacing Captain Webster, guard; Sidney Quarrier, left tackle; Stewart Scott and Dwight Fishwick, ends, and Bruce Caldwell, Bill Hammersley and Duncan Cox of the back field, all who will be graduated in June. About twenty members of last year's squad were unable to report today because of participation in Spring sports.

An unusually large number of promising freshmen players are numbered in this group, including Snead, Austen, Taylor, Dunn and Grulkowski, who were playing baseball; Wiener, who is a freshman tennis player; Truxton Hare Jr., Wheeler, Ingham, Cunningham and Salous, candidates for the 1931 track team, and Schley and Hitchcock, who are members of the freshman crew squad.

YALE'S FRESHMEN ROW ON HOUSATONIC

Squad Shifts to River and Goes Through an Hour's Drill Despite Rough Water.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 21.—Coach George Murphy today transferred the Yale freshman rowing squad to the Robert J. Cook boathouse on the Housatonic. High winds and rough water prevented the oarsmen from transferring there on Monday.

Although the river was choppy today, the oarsmen went through an hour's workout in short stretches. Murphy has been eager to get on the river to prepare for the opening regatta of the season, May 5, with Columbia and Pennsylvania on the Schuylkill.

Four eights were taken to the Housatonic. On the first crew were James Gamble Rogers Jr. of New York and Washington Blagden, son of Gus Blagden, Yale crew captain in 1901. Reeve Schley Jr. of New York City, son of a former New York oarsman, is a member of the third crew.

VAN KEMPEN GUILTY IN 6-DAY SCANDAL

Licenses Revoked for 3 Months and Barred From German Bike Tracks for Year.

RICHLI ALSO IS SUSPENDED

Were Charged With Selling Out to Gamblers to Berlin Race—Winners Are Punished, Too.

By The Associated Press.

BERLIN, March 21.—Berlin's twentieth six-day bicycle race which ended March 18 has had a sensational sequel in the revelation that the three leading teams were found guilty by the League of German Bicycle Riders at betting and to have been riding less than six hours before the race ended.

As an outgrowth of an investigation held by the league, Peter Van Kempen, the Dutch veteran who has frequently competed in the United States, was deprived of his license for a period of three months and also was barred from all German tracks for one year.

His team mate, Richli, a Swiss rider, was deprived of his license for three months, while the winning Berlin team of Zimmer and Kroschel were fined 1,000 marks ($250) and were barred from future starts for two months. Another German entry, that of Pietz and Rieger, was fined 1,000 marks and was found guilty of complicity in throwing the race.

The Van Kempen-Richli combination apparently had the race cinched up to within two hours of the final gong, when Zimmer and Kroschel staged a great spurt which caused them to victory. The circumstances of this dramatic finish, especially in view of rumors that last year's winning team had been beaten in the last through the wholesale bribery of other riders, stirred thousands of bike fans and sporting editors to demand an investigation.

Several managers and trainers of the teams implicated in the scandal also have been definitely barred from future participation in German events.

Exposure of this year's findings of the League of German Bicycle Riders coming on the heels of last year's rumors is felt in German sports circles to sound the death knell for six-day events in Berlin for some time to come.

Ineligible Colt Scores 2-Length Victory in Scheinuk Handicap.

ELIZABETH RUNS SECOND

Beauregard Tires, but Finishes Third—Hogarty Wins at $12 for $2 for T. W. O'Brien.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, March 21.—Louisiana Derby eligibles had a try-out at Jefferson Park this afternoon, but the six of them in the race did not show anything of derby calibre and the winner of the race, the Scheinuk Handicap, was a non-eligible for the big race next Saturday. This was Walter J. Salmon's brown colt Black Friar, which was not named for the $15,000 closing day feature. He scored a two lengths victory and ran the one mile and seventy yards in 1:42 3-5, a creditable performance.

Elizabeth, N. H. Johnson's fleet filly, finished second to Black Friar and behind Elizabeth came Beauregard, Wellet, Algol, Serajevo and Galahad in that order. Galahad, the German gelding which is raced by Phil Reuter, incidentally went to the post the favorite, with Black Friar the second choice, mainly on the strength of his recent good victory over the same distance of ground.

Black Friar Runs Gamely.

Miss Peggie Bailey's B. Beregard was the first away and quickly had a lead of a length and a half. Black Friar was in close quarters during the early running, Elizabeth raced Beauregard down in the first half mile and was leading at the stretch turn.

Leonard, who had the mount on Black Friar, eased his mount back until the far turn, when he moved him up on the inside only to be blocked again. Leonard then brought the colt around the field and Black Friar went gamely on to win.

Beauregard and Elizabeth showed while Wellet did not seem to be to get into a real contending ... finished fourth, a length behind Beauregard. Galahad, beaten in his two previous efforts after his string of five straight victories, trailed the other six in the field all the way and then was worked an extra furlong.

Hogarty Rewards Backers.

There was a late tip on T. W. O'Brien's colt Hogarty in the first race and he was backed heavily. He rewarded his followers by taking the decision from Bill Henry, the favorite, by half a length after leading the eleven others in the field all the way through the six furlongs. Richards had the mount on the colt, broke him running and had the race safely in hand all the way. Hogarty paid $12 for $2.

The favorite got home first in the second race when Focus beat Aromatic a length after leading practically all the way over the six furlongs, but in the third number an outsider slipped across. This one was Isoard, a three-year-old gelding. The race called together twelve maidens for a one mile and seventy yard jaunt and the form players backed Gee Eff Cee to favoritism, but had to watch their choice finish far out of the money, while Isoard took the measure of Mascara. Isoard paid $45 for $2.

Some fleet two-year-olds went to the post in the fourth race, at four and a half furlongs, with Glacial the public choice. That filly, a winner in her last effort, had to be content with eighth place, however, the winner being Mrs. Meiner's filly Venelta M. Tommy Root rushed Venelta M. into a long lead in the first half and finished eased up two lengths in front of Royal Ruby. Lansquenet got up near the end to take down the third prize.

THE JOCKEY CLUB WILL MEET TODAY

Report of License Committee Among Important Items Before Monthly Session.

WIDENER VISITS BELMONT

President Inspects Track—Chris Fitzgerald Sails for Tour of English Tracks.

The regular monthly meeting of the Jockey Club will be held this afternoon at 250 Park Avenue. It is likely to be an interesting session, for, among other things, the License Committee will report to the Stewards, and the granting of licenses to jockeys and trainers will be one of the important pieces of business transacted.

Another thing that is expected to occupy the attention of the Stewards is the proposed change in the method of starting at Jockey Club tracks. At the February meeting of the Stewards it was decided to instruct Starter Mars Cassidy to appear before them tomorrow, and the only inference is that a discussion of the walk-up start versus the standing start now in vogue will result.

Joseph E. Widener, President of the Westchester Racing Association and one of the Stewards of the Jockey Club, paid a visit to Belmont Park yesterday and inspected the Westchester Association's plant. His horses still are in Kentucky and will not be brought to Belmont Park until around April 1.

Chris J. Fitzgerald, veteran turfman and for many years head of the Publicity Bureau of the Jockey Club, sailed for England last night aboard the Cunarder Aquitania for a six months' stay abroad. He will make a tour of the English and Irish horse centres and also will witness the running of the Grand National Steeplechase at Aintree on March 30.

SANDE DELAYS RACING PLEA.

Application for Reinstatement in Maryland Not Yet Received.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., March 21.—James A. Latane, Chairman of the Racing Commission, said today that Jockey Earl Sande's application for reinstatement had not yet been received here.

He said:

"Upon receipt of the application it will be considered at a meeting of the commission. In advance of that I cannot predict what the action of the commission will be."

Sande's license was revoked at Pimlico by the commission on his being declared guilty of a deliberate foul in the running of the Futurity. Sande was charged with pulling Bateau over on Reigh Count, the favorite.

CUNNINGHAM WAS REFEREE.

Walder Did Not Officiate at Tiverton Sunday, Says Gilgane.

The United States Soccer Referees' Association, through its President Edward J. Lawson Robertson Named Head Coach of U. S. Olympic Team

WALSH TO MANAGE U. S. OLYMPIC TEAM

Executive Committee Appoints Lawson Robertson Head Track and Field Coach.

MANAGER IS RESPONSIBLE

Old Wrangling Not Expected to Recur—30 Men in Track-Field Squad—Tryout Centres Picked.

By BRYAN FIELD.

The men in whose hands control of the American Olympic team will be vested were appointed yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the Executive Committee of the American Olympic Committee held at the New York Athletic Club. Managers, coaches, trainers, assistants, chaperons and others who will have in charge the American Expeditionary Force to Holland this Summer were selected. In addition important decisions were made regarding policy, dates were set for tryouts and other business of importance relating to the ninth Olympic trip was transacted.

Major Gen. Douglas MacArthur, President of the American Olympic Committee, presided. Major P. J. Walsh of the New York A. C. was appointed manager of the track and field team and Lawson Robertson of the University of Pennsylvania was appointed head coach. Walsh will later name two assistants. Robertson's ten assistant coaches were named and include athletic directors known from coast to coast.

The ten assistants, named alphabetically follow: John Behr, Illinois A. C.; Dean Cromwell, Southern California; Eddie Farrell, Harvard; Harry Hillman, Dartmouth; Wilbur Hutsell, Auburn; Tom Keane, Syracuse; Johnny Magee, Bowdoin; Jack Ryder, Boston College and Boston A. A.; Henry F. (Indian) Schulte, Nebraska University, and Dink Templeton, Stanford University.

All to Have Equal Rank.

These men will all have equal rank and will answer to the head coach. No division of duties was made and this will be left to discussion between the head coach and his assistants. It was decided at the meeting that all athletes and coaches would be subordinate to the respective managers.

Walter Christie of California, who was head field coach in 1924, was not named. Farrell, Hillman, Magee and Keane were assistant coaches in 1924. Robertson was head track coach that year.

The manager will be responsible for each team. This arrangement is expected to do away with the division of responsibility and consequent wrangling, which resulted on previous Olympic trips.

No declaration was made as to the attitude of the meeting toward sending athletes abroad in advance of the main body which will sail from New York on July 11. The meeting received the recommendation of the A. A. U. Executive Committee that no athletes be sent abroad in advance of the main body but no announcement was made as to action taken.

It was learned on high authority, however, that the committee is in accord with the Executive Committee of the A. A. U. and that all athletes will be urged to go together on the S. S. President Roosevelt which has been chartered for the voyage.

Attitude on Hahn Indicated.

This is expected to set at rest the possibility that Lloyd Hahn, America's outstanding middle-distance runner, would be sent abroad earlier than other athletes. The appointment of Hahn's coach, Jack Ryder, is interpreted, however, as an effort to do everything possible to bring Hahn to his best form in order to win both the 800-meter and 1,500-meter events, as he will attempt to do.

The attendance at the meeting was gratifying to those who have at heart the interest of American sport. In addition to Major Gen. MacArthur, the following were in attendance: Murray Hulbert, President A. A. U.; Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, George W. Wightman, Julian S. Myrick, Dr. Graeme M. Hammond, A. C. Gilbert, A. Jocelyn H. Magrath, Roy E. Moore, Frank L. Kramer, Dr. G. Randolph Manning, Frederick W. Rubien, Joseph A. Reilley, Joseph B. Macoabe, Major P. J. Walsh, Charles L. Ornstein, Jacob W. Stumpf and Lawson Robertson.

In addition to the coaches named for the track and field team, six trainers were named. They are Mike Ryan of Colby, Jake Weber of Fordham, William Morris of Pennsylvania, William Hayward of Oregon, Peter Ppole of Occidental and Mike Chambers of Columbus, Ohio. Hayward was an assistant coach in 1924 and Weber and Morris were trainers in that year.

Melvin W. Sheppard of the Millrose A. A. was appointed coach of the women's track team. Sheppard won both the 800 and 1,500 meter events at London in 1908 and is one of the best known coaches in the East. He will be taking into competition a team of twenty athletes. This is the first year that women's events have been included in the Olympic program. There are five events and the team of twenty will give four competitors for each event. Fred L. Steers of Chicago was named manager of the women's track and field team and Miss Aileen Allen of Pasadena was named chaperone.

Squad to Be Ninety Strong.

The men's track and field squad will be ninety strong and will be made up of four athletes for each of twenty-one events and six entrants for the marathon. Herman Obertubbesing of the West Side Y. M. C. A. was named manager of the marathon team. There will be no marathon coach this year. Mike Ryan was the coach in 1924 and is going as a trainer this year.

Appointments were also made in the following sports: Men's and women's swimming and diving, soccer, boxing, wrestling, lacrosse, cycling, gymnastics, fencing and equestrian sports. Many of these appointments went to men and women well known in the metropolitan district. Jacob W. Stumpf, Chairman of the local A. A. U. Boxing Committee, will be manager of the boxing team; Benny Lovins, active for years in amateur boxing, will be his assistant. Spike Webb of Annapolis, coach in 1924, was reappointed. Al Lacey of Boston was named trainer. The boxing team will consist of sixteen men.

Thomas Cahill's appointment was indicated as manager of the soccer team, but was not made final. The soccer team will consist of eleven men and five substitutes. William Bachrach of the Illinois A. C. was named coach of the men's swimming team. Ernest Brandsten of Stanford was made diving coach and Perry McGillivray of the Illinois A. C. water polo coach. Robert Kiphuth of Yale will be the women's swimming coach and Claire Galligan Finney of New Rochelle and Ada T. Sackett of Atlantic City, chaperons. John T. Taylor of Pittsburgh will be manager of the swimming team, with Dr. F. M. D'Ellisou of of Philadelphia and Miss Doris O'Mara as assistants.

The water polo team will consist of seven regulars and four substitutes. Thirty-five men and twenty-one women will make up the swimming team. There will be no Olympic tennis and polo teams this year as there were in 1924. Charles L. Ornstein of Baltimore will be manager of the lacrosse team. It will consist of seventeen players, to be selected after tryouts either as individuals or as a team.

Pinneo to Coach Wrestlers.

George M. Pinneo of Grand Rapids got the appointment as wrestling coach after an extended debate. W. E. Cann of Elizabeth, coach in 1924, was named trainer. C. W. Streit Jr. of Birmingham, Ala., was named manager. The team will consist of fourteen men. The cycling team will consist of only one man, who was not named. No officials or other persons will be sent abroad with this team.

The equestrian team will consist of eight men with two mounts for each man. Eight men will also make up the fencing team. Professor Santelli of the New York A. C. was named coach and Colonel Henry Breckinridge manager. It was decided not to send a women's fencing team. Henry Panser was appointed director of the class exercises in gymnastics.

It was announced that Tom Kennedy of Princeton had been elected to membership on the Executive Committee of the American Olympic Committee. This is about the final step in the healing of the breach between the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the A. A. U. Kennedy will represent the N. C. A. A. on the committee. About two years ago the N. C. A. A. and allied organizations withdrew from the American Olympic Association. They voted to rejoin last December. The place on the Executive Committee was left vacant until filled yesterday by Kennedy's appointment.

Another angle to the return to the fold of the N. C. A. A. is that the annual championship track and field meet of that organization will be an officially designated Olympic tryout. It was announced yesterday that both the N. C. A. A. and the I. C. A. A. A. would hold their own tryouts and send qualifiers to the final Olympic tryouts to be held at Cambridge on July 6 and 7.

No Army and Navy Tryouts.

The Army and the Navy, which held their own tryout meets in 1924, will not so this year. Army and Navy athletes will compete, if at all, in the ten A. A. U. section tryout meets, all of which will be held on or before June 23 as follows:

Pacific Northwest at Portland, Ore.—Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Montana.

Pacific at San Francisco, Cal.—Southern California and Arizona.

Rocky Mountain Region at Denver, Col.—Utah, Wyoming, Colorado and New Mexico.

Mid-western at Iowa City and Lawrence, Kan.—North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Minnesota, Wisconsin.

Southern at Dallas, Texas—Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas, Canal Zone.

Southeastern at Atlanta—Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, Florida, North and South Carolina, Tennessee.

Central at Detroit—Illinois, Indiana, Michigan.

Allegheny Mountain Region at Cincinnati—Ohio, Kentucky, West Virginia, Virginia, Western Pennsylvania.

Eastern at New York City—Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Eastern Pennsylvania, Maryland, Washington, D. C.

An entirely new set of national championship records will be set this year, as the annual national championship meet will be consolidated with the final Olympic tryouts. All of these races will be run in metric distances, which has never been done before. This was decided in order to make the athletes familiar with the events in which they will compete at Amsterdam.

While the final Olympic tryouts are scheduled for the Harvard stadium at Cambridge, the 400-meter flat race and the 400-meter hurdles will be held at Yale, as there are four lanes on that track and only three at Cambridge. Four lanes are necessary for the deciding of the finalists in such races. These two events will be held on July 4. While the present final tryout for the decathlon will be held at the Penn relays on April 27 and 28, a second tryout, if found necessary, will be held at the Yale stadium on July 4. The final tryouts for women will be held in New York early in July.

The Boston marathon on April 19 was designated the official marathon tryout. Performances in other races, however, will also be considered. Among these races are the Long Beach, Baltimore and Detroit marathons. The final tryouts in women's swimming and diving will be held in the New Yorw district on June 30 and July 1. The men's swimming tryouts will be held at Detroit from June 23 to 24, the men's diving tryouts at San Francisco on June 7, 8 and 9, and the water polo tryouts at Chicago on April 6 and 7.

To Ask Coolidge to Designate Olympic Fund Week in April

President Coolidge, the Governors of States and Mayor Walker and other Mayors will be asked to designate and proclaim a week in April as Olympic Fund Week in order to stimulate contributions to the Olympic Fund, it was learned yesterday. The sum of $400,000 is required to send America's athletes to Amsterdam. Joseph A. Reilley, President of the Metropolitan Association of the A. A. U., announced that the first payment of $50,000 due for the charter of the S. S. President Roosevelt, which will carry the athletes, will be made by his association for account of the Olympic Association on April 15. Contributions are necessary, however, to meet following payments and other expenses.

Sports of the Times

By JOHN KIERAN.

Copyright, 1928, by The New York Times Company.

OWNER SAM BREADON gave the Cards another slight shuffle recently and dealt two good hands to Judge Emil Fuchs, owner of the Boston Braves. The two good hands in question are attached to a pair of arms owned and operated by one Lester Rowland Bell, a third baseman by profession. This, as Hamlet said, must give us pause.

It was only last Summer that the citizens of New York, Pittsburgh and points west were wont to gather from time to time and shout cheerfully: "Hurrah, hurrah! The Braves are coming to town. There'll be a picnic at the grounds this afternoon." The picnics came off as per schedule unless it rained. The helpless Bostonians were often beaten into odd shapes and left for dead on the field. It was on some such occasion that Judge Fuchs, listening to the plea of the players that the club should provide them with taxicabs to take them to the ball parks, answered: "You pay the taxis to take you to the park, and I'll pay for the hearses to carry you back."

Recalled to Life.

But all this has been changed. The Braves got Kent Greenfield and Eddie Farrell last Summer. They got Rogers Hornsby some time during the Winter. They have received Lester Bell, with Spring greetings, from the Cardinals. Now if the Cubs will kindly donate the services of "Cube" Root, and the Pirates will do the handsome thing by turning Paul Waner over to Judge Fuchs, everything will be rosy in the Back Bay baseball garden.

It is said that you can't hang a man for trying, which is a lucky thing for Judge Fuchs. In his efforts to put a winning club in Boston he has tried everything except flooding the field. He took stock of his players several times and invited them to show him something. They showed him nothing, mainly because they had nothing. Which left Judge Fuchs in the same fix. Then he recalled Napoleon's address to the army in Italy: "Soldiers, you have nothing. The enemy has everything. Go get it!" Or words to that effect. It was in this fashion that Judge Fuchs became the lone raider of the National League. He descended on one ball club after another and dashed off with prisoners. He lost a few men here and there, but so did Napoleon.

But his list of captured is rather remarkable, all things considered. It should be further noted that where he has gained, his enemies have lost. One more successful raid and the Braves will be received into that select class known as "pennant contenders."

A Pick-Up Team.

Here is a partial list of players who have been captured from the enemy in desperate raids by Judge Fuchs:

Rogers Hornsby, captured from the Giants over the dead body of John J. McGraw; Eddie Farrell and Kent Greenfield, captured from the Giants in an exchange of light firing last Summer; Zach Taylor, captured first from the Brooklyn Robins, lost later in a trench raid against the Giants, and recently recaptured in a minor engagement; Lester Bell, captured from the Cardinals during a short raid in which the Braves lost Andy High, and Judge Fuchs lost part of his pocketbook; Eddie Moore, captured from the Pirates while Barney Dreyfuss wasn't looking; Ed Brown, captured from the Robins in a general engagement, and Jack Smith, captured from the Cardinals without a struggle.

This is what might be called a "pick-up" team. Judge Fuchs picked up practically every regular on the Boston squad from the ranks of the enemy. Those who were not taken directly from the enemy forces were picked up after they had fallen behind the main body of troops. This includes Lance Richbourg, who was with the Giants a while back, but fell behind the parade, and Maurice Burrus, who once wore the heraldic emblem of the House of McGillicuddy, a white elephant, rampant, on a field of flannel.

Where To?

Now that Judge Fuchs has a new manager and a flock of new players, where is he going to spend the season? He spent last Summer in seventh place and he didn't like it. It wasn't the heat, it was the humility. He aims to be somewhere else by next August.

Here's an approximate line-up for the coming campaign: Moore, Brown and Richbourg in the outfield; Burrus, Hornsby, Farrell and Bell in the infield; Taylor behind the bat. Even if Johnny Cooney is not available this year, the Braves will have some fair pitchers in Greenfield, Wertz, Bob Smith and others. It is said that several of their pitching rookies have shown enough to gain them entrance to the big tent.

That isn't a bad team at all. There is no need to speak of Hornsby. Everybody knows what a great player he is and the amount of driving force that he can put behind a bat or into a team. The Polo Grounds fans hailed Eddie Farrell as a rising star when he was filling in for Travis Jackson. With Hornsby as a playmate around second base, Eddie should do well this year.

As for Lester Bell, two years ago he was rated close to the top among the third basemen of the big leagues. He was a fine fielder and a hard hitter. He fell off last year for some reason or other, but he is still a youngster and now that he is back with Hornsby again, he may regain his former skill at bat and in the field. It was Hornsby who spurred him on to such doughty deeds with the Cardinals of 1926.

The Diplomat.

It was said that when Rogers Hornsby was traded to Boston there were storm warnings hung out all along the New England coast. The Royal Rajah had quarreled with Branch Rickey and Sam Breadon in St. Louis and had incurred the displeasure of somebody—identity not definitely admitted—in the official family of the Giants. It was feared that the new manager of the Braves, Jack Slattery, might be next on the Rajah's list of people he did not like.

So far, however, the fears have been groundless. Mr. Slattery met the situation like an accomplished diplomat, which is all the more remarkable because he is a graduate dentist and dentists are not famed for diplomacy. But Slattery, being of the old school, likes the aggressive type and Hornsby belongs at the head of that class. The Rajah was asked to become the roommate of his manager. He accepted. He was asked to take the captaincy of the team. He accepted. A compact of cooperation between manager and second baseman was signed, sealed and delivered.

The friendship between Slattery and Hornsby means trouble for the other teams in the league. Nothing else.

MICHIGAN BOWLERS TAKE TENTH PLACE

Mallot and Grau of Benton Harbor Roll 1,242 in Two-Man Event of A. B. C.

NONE OF LEADERS TOPPLED

Justus of Columbus, Neb., Bowls Best in Singles With 662—Albany Pair Totals 1,187.

By The Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 21.—Individual and two-man team bowlers from a half-dozen Eastern and Middle Western States failed to effect any changes today among the leaders in the American Bowling Congress tournament.

The day's best doubles score was barely good enough to take tenth place. C. Mallot and P. Grau of Benton Harbor, Mich., rolled into that position with 1,242. Their last game saved the day, Mallot rolling 238 and Grau 237 for a 475 total.

G. Waldbilling and W. Foley of Albany, N. Y., totaled 1,187.

Several fairly good scores were recorded in the singles. F. Justus of Columbus, Neb., rolling 662; C. Grygier of Detroit, 661; V. Griffith, Benton Harbor, Mich., 652, and W. Correll also of Benton Harbor, 650. None landed in the first ten.

Four squads of Kansas City booster bowlers, headed by five "Reed-for-President" teams, took over the alleys for the remainder of the day and night.

Elected Captain of Basketball Team —Five Players Get Letters.

Arthur Meinhold of Schenectady was elected captain of the Stevens Institute of Technology basketball team for next year by a unanimous vote of the Athletic Council. Meinhold is a two-letter man, having won both baseball and basketball letters every year since he has been at Stevens.

Charles B. Roede was elected manager. Roede is a Jersey City man. Edwin Anderson, also of Jersey City, was elected assistant manager.

Letters were awarded to only the five regular members of the team this year, and by special action Frank Steinkamp, acting manager, was awarded his "S." The men honored were Captain MacWatt, Aschoff, Persson, Meinhold and Smith. MacWatt, Aschoff and Smith graduate in June. The following received minor awards: First Class ASA, Brister, Lundvall, Fenn, Thackaberry and Brown. They were all substitutes on the varsity squad; Second Class SAA, Castel, Ford, Kaltenhauser, Jelliffe and Lange, all sophomore assistants.

FOUR MET. GOLFERS VICTORS IN FLORIDA

Anderson Routs Lund, 8 and 7 —Schneider Victor Over Holmes, 2 and 1.

CULVER WINS FROM DAVIS

Morse Puts Out Scott by 6 and 5—Capo and Taylor, Florida Stars, Win First Round Matches.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 21.—The favorites all came through in the first-round matches of the annual Florida Winter amateur tournament today. In addition, the four metropolitan district members of the first flight triumphed over their adversaries. Their playing is expected to have a considerable bearing on the ultimate result of the tourney, to the victor of which will go the L. C. Haines Cup.

J. L. Anderson of Garden City, L. I., the medalist, showed impressive form in putting Fred A. Lund of New London, Conn., to rout, 8 and 7. Anderson shot the outward nine in 38, to become 6 up. He kept up his sterling work to take the tenth and eleventh and end the match. Anderson accomplished excellent results with his approach shots and putts, his driving not being up to his usual standard, as he was bothered by the high winds. Lund was just the reverse and could not match Anderson's accurate playing on the greens.

The cards:

Out—
Anderson	5	5	3	5	5	5	3	5	38
Lund	5	6	4	5	5	5	4	5	44
In—
Anderson	3	5
Lund	4	6

Schneider Victor, 2 and 1.

Other metropolitan entries to score were J. D. F. Schneider, Van Culver and George Morse. Schneider had easy sailing, it appeared, when he was 4 up against Nat Holmes of Pittsburgh at the fourteenth. Holmes, however, sprang a surprise and threw a scare into his opponent by taking the next three holes with two fours and a three. With a chance to tie Schneider at the seventeenth hole, Holmes took a five, narrowly missing holing a chip shot for a four, and Schneider was able to get down in four to take the match, 2 and 1.

Schneider took 44 on the outward nine holes, gainst Holmes's 46, but both took a brace coming in.

Out—
Schneider	5	5	4	5	4	5	5	5	44
Holmes	5	5	4	5	4	5	5	5	46
In—
Schneider	4	5	4	5	5	4	4
Holmes	4	5	5	4	4	4	4

Van Culver took the measure of W. L. Davis of Detroit, 3 and 2, while Morse had an easier time with R. L. Scott of Baltusrol Club, Short Hills, N. J., scoring a 6-and-5 victory.

Capo and Taylor Score.

Joe Capo and A. M. Taylor, local entrants, advanced to the second round against N. A. Mans of Detroit and Everett J. Lake of New London, Conn., respectively. Capo is the youth whose playing has featured several of the Winter tournaments in Florida and is rated as having a good chance to stem the invasion of Northern players and emerge the victor. His margin over Mans was 5 and 4 and at no time was Capo extended.

The summaries:

FIRST FLIGHT—J. L. Anderson, Garden City, L. I., defeated Dr. Fred A. Lund, New London, Conn., 8 and 7; A. M. Taylor, St. Augustine, defeated Everett J. Lake, New London, Conn., 3 and 2; J. D. F. Schneider, New York, defeated Nat Holmes, Pittsburgh, 2 and 1; Van Culver, New York, defeated W. L. Davis, Detroit, 3 and 2; Joe Capo, St. Augustine, defeated N. A. Mans, Detroit, 5 and 4; Cyril C. Spades, Chicago, defeated C. A. Lamont, St. Augustine, 4 and 3; George Morse, Garden City, L. I., defeated R. L. Scott, Baltusrol, 6 and 5.

SECOND FLIGHT—Milton K. Brown, Rutherford, N. J., defeated R. L. Delyle, New York, 2 and 1; H. E. Morrissey, New Haven, Conn., defeated H. B. Banning, Chetanga, 1 up; Val J. Rothschild, St. Paul, Minn., defeated F. E. Tuller, Boston, 3 and 2; Donald McKay, Sarnia, Ontario, defeated E. Hood, Brae Burn, Mass., 3 and 1.

REICH BACK AT C. C. N. Y.

First Baseman's Return Assures an All-Veteran Infield.

An all-veteran infield was assured for the City College baseball team yesterday when Eddie Reich, first baseman of the 1927 varsity nine, reported for practice for the first time. Reich quit school after finishing the 1927 season and was out during the Fall semester, but he has come back for the Spring term and will finish his undergraduate course.

Coach Parker issued a uniform to the veteran first baseman immediately and put him into the infield on the varsity. Reich has been keeping in good shape and was able to keep pace with the other fielders in practice. Pete Rossi held down second base, Sam Gerelick was at shortstop and Curry Dono rounded out the infield at third base.

Coach Parker intends using either Arthur Musicant, his veteran southpaw, or Ben Puleo, right hander, against St. Francis College in the opening game a week from Saturday. Only Hal Malter, substitute on last year's team, and Sam Warshauer, former freshman pitcher, have shown up well among the other mound candidates. In yesterday's practice both were employed in the batting practice.

RICE GAINS QUARTER-FINAL.

Beats Hutcheson, 6-0, 6-2, and Advances in Florida Tennis Tourney.

ORMOND BEACH, Fla., March 21.—Lawrence B. Rice, first seeded player in the annual Florida East Coast championship tennis singles tournament, advanced to the quarter-final round here today as the result of a victory over Phillip Hutcheson, 6—0, 6—2. Another of the favorites, Victor Ponce de Leon, a member of the Mexican Davis Cup team, was too good for Louis Smith, winning in love sets, 6—0, 6—0.

Fred Baggs and A. Ware Merriam also advanced, the former defeating Clifford Sutter, 6—1, 6—3, and the latter winning from Jabes F. Van Alen by default.

Toomey Loses Shooting Match.

Special to The New York Times.

SCHUYLKILL HAVEN, Pa., March 21.—John Bergalis, the Tamaqua crack, defeated David Toomey of New York by four clears in today's wing shooting match at thirteen birds for $250 a side over the Mount Hope traps. It was the first setback in six starts for the Emerald Club gunner.

Penn Wrestlers Elect Gabriel.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, March 21.—Phillip Gabriel of Mobile, Ala., was elected captain today of the University of Pennsylvania varsity wrestling team for next season. He is a sophomore and competed in the 175-pound division the past season, finishing third in the recent Intercollegiate championships at Princeton.

UNSTATESMANLIKE LANGUAGE.

Senator ROBINSON of Indiana is pained. He comes from a State noted for tall talk and heated rhetoric. He has been connected with the Ku Klux Klan, which has been notorious for wild and whirling words. Yet his delicate literary sensitiveness is hurt by the emphatic letter which Governor SMITH wrote to him and to Senator NYE, indignantly resenting their assertion that he had been associated with a political corruptionist. Senator ROBINSON is shocked by the strong language of the Governor. It does not seem to him to be what a statesman should use. "I wonder, if he were elected "President, what sort of language "he would employ in domestic and "foreign affairs."

Did the innocent and estimable ROBINSON never hear of that great Republican statesman THEODORE ROOSEVELT? His language, in political controversy, was of the most lurid sort. Abusive epithets fairly hurtled from him, and the English language creaked and groaned under his emphatic use of it. He kept a private Ananias Club, into which he haled eminent citizens to whom he affixed the short and ugly word. But Senator ROBINSON, as a good Republican, must have supported ROOSEVELT, and rubbed his hands in glee at the way in which the Strenuous One buffeted and verbally pilloried his political opponents. No question then of language unbecoming a statesman. That charge had to be reserved for a Democrat stirred by a baseless slander sponsored by the fastidious Senator from Indiana.

A STEP BACKWARD.

Reformers of American legal procedure, and especially of criminal procedure, an admitted disgrace to the United States, have referred again and again enviously to the power of English and our Federal Judges to comment upon the testimony in cases triable by jury, to take a hand in the trial instead of being automatons. Bills for giving that power to State Judges have been introduced in some State Legislatures. On March 19 the Senate passed Mr. CARAWAY'S bill taking that power away. This measure makes it reversible error for the Presiding Judge "to express his per-"sonal opinion as to the credibility "of witnesses or the weight of testi-"mony." He is still graciously permitted to direct a verdict "when the "same may be required or permitted "by law."

The second half of the bill, directing the Judge to instruct the jury before the argument of the lawyers instead of after it, with permission to follow the existing practice in States whose State courts have it, is not important, as an amendment of the Judiciary Committee authorizes the Trial Judge to repeat or amplify his instructions at any time before verdict "when he feels the ends of justice will be served thereby." How are the ends of justice served by shearing the Judge of a power which so many regard as beneficently contributing to it, indeed, as necessary to it? The genesis of this project is obscure. Mr. CARAWAY has been brooding over it for years. When it came up in February, Senator REED of Pennsylvania objected to it. "So "radical a change in the trial of "cases at law" ought not to be made without discussion. There was not much discussion of it when it turned up, unobjected.

In a Senate crammed with lawyers Mr. REED of Pennsylvania was the only man to bother about justice, Mr. DENEEN having withdrawn his objection. There was much inconclusive patter about trial by jury and Anglo-Saxon law. Some Southern Senators, echoing complaints familiar in the first part of the last century, are aggrieved that cases should be removed from a State to a Federal court. Mr. BORAH is sure from his experience that when a Judge has expressed his opinion as to a line of evidence or a witness, his final reminder to the jury that they are the sole judges of the facts, amounts to nothing. Mr. CURTIS believes that the bill "would be an immense improvement."

We seem to hear through all the talk the disappointments of lawyers or their rancor against certain Judges or decisions. Mr. BRUCE "in all respects" approved. Only Mr. REED was rebellious enough to take a larger view. In the East, at any rate,

This control over the jury by the expression of opinion is found to be most salutary. For that reason, Mr. President, this seems to me to be a step backward. The tendency of it will be to bring down the standard of judicial practice in the United States.

There was disagreement between Mr. CARAWAY and Mr. REED as to the course of the American Bar Association in regard to this bill several years ago. What is its course now? Does it favor or oppose this "radical change" so easily accepted by a Senate of lawyers interested in nothing but politics?

NEUTRAL RIGHTS ON THE SEA.

Of great interest, both historically and legally, is the report by Mr. LANSING, as Acting Secretary of State, of an "unofficial and confidential" conversation which he had with the British Ambassador at Washington at the end of September, 1914. It is made public for the first time in the latest volume of Foreign Relations, and was printed in full in yesterday's TIMES. The subject of this critical interview was a British Order in Council placing American foodstuffs on the contraband list. This was a step of at least doubtful validity, and was certain to lead to friction with the United States.

President WILSON at once saw the danger involved and directed Ambassador PAGE in London, and also Mr. LANSING in Washington, to see what could be done privately to secure the canceling of the Order in Council without an official diplomatic protest. Mr. LANSING'S account of his discussion with Sir CECIL SPRING RICE shows the British Ambassador at his best. He was perfectly frank in admitting that the action of his Government was highly questionable in law, and he also understood perfectly the bad impression it would make in this country if not modified or withdrawn. He undertook to do his best to persuade the British Foreign Office to undo the mischief. In fact, the Order in Council was soon recalled. The whole was a fine example of what can be done by confidential negotiations.

Publication of this secret chapter in diplomacy directs attention once more to the unsettled state of maritime law, and to the need of an international conference to clarify and determine it. Senator BORAH has introduced a resolution calling for such a conference, and his proposal has been favorably received in England. Only two days ago the former Prime Minister, Mr. RAMSAY MACDONALD, signified his approval of it. He sees as clearly as Mr. BORAH its bearing upon the whole question of naval armament. If the rights of neutral shipping in time of war can be firmly established in international law by universal agreement of the nations, the need of a great fleet of cruisers to protect foreign commerce will obviously not be what it is thought to be today.

The controversies over neutral shipping during the war related largely to questions of contraband and of blockade. Our Government stood firmly by the old doctrines on these subjects, as against the British practice, but when we entered the war, the United States, as it has been said, "until then the principal "defender of neutral rights, quickly "forgot its grievances against the "Allies, while denouncing Germany's "flagrant violations of neutral "rights." This confusion, thus brought about, in maritime law has persisted to the present day. It is the main reason why this part of the law of nations should be codified anew and accepted.

The conflict of view between the United States and Great Britain was smoothed out, at least temporarily, by the Diplomatic Arrangement concluded in 1927. It provided that neither country would "present any "diplomatic claim, or request inter-"national arbitration, on behalf of "any national alleging loss or dam-"age through war measures adopted "by the other." At the same time, both countries reserved the right in the future to take such a position as they thought right with regard to the legality of these measures under international law, it being agreed that the "juridical" view of neither Government was to be prejudiced by the agreement. This is a plain admission of the uncertainty which still hangs about the maritime sections of the law of nations. It ought to be cleared away before it leads to further misunderstanding and dispute.

GETTING IT ALL IN.

As a contributing editor of the Congressional Record, Senator NORRIS on Monday followed the highest editorial example in respect of one journalistic canon. That provides for a person charged with anything an opportunity to make his statement in the same issue that carries the charge. It is to live up to this principle that eminent citizens are so often summoned from their beds at midnight by reporters, and the harsh words of the indignantly awakened pass lightly over the reporters' heads because they know the utterer will appreciate the service in the morning.

Every Senator who makes a speech is one of the editors of the Record. But few take the pains Senator NORRIS took Monday after he had reverted to what has become his favorite subject of late—the purchase of newspapers in Illinois and California by IRA C. COPLEY, public utility magnate of Illinois and stout financial supporter of FRANK C. SMITH. After repeating the reasons why he believes the Federal Trade Commission should investigate the purposes of Copley Press, Inc., and determine whether the newspapers are purchased for the sole reason of defeating legislation inimical to the "Power Trust," Mr. NORRIS read profuse denials and repudiations of practically everything his proposed investigation can possibly be based on. He read, among these, a letter of denial from JOHN CALLAN O'LAUGHLIN, Vice President of the Copley enterprises, and then went on to say it would be fine if Mr. O'LAUGHLIN would do more denying before the commission. His speech was terminated with explanations of the public financing of the newspaper purchases and with an expression of belief in "prima facie "evidence that control of a large "portion of the press of the coun-"try is sought by Mr. COPLEY."

Usually that would have ended the incident for the day. But a short while later Mr. NORRIS was again on his feet, this time with another letter from Mr. O'LAUGHLIN and the rather surprised announcement that the Copley Vice President had been sitting in the Press Gallery, listening to the speech of the day. So as to give every devil and denial its due, Mr. NORRIS inserted this second letter—and a tart one, too—into the Record. Had Mr. NORRIS not been so conscientious an editor, he would either have waited a day to publish the second letter, or Mr. O'LAUGHLIN would have been obliged to make it public himself.

REBELS IN THE PANTHEON.

For a dissident voice in the national acclaim that has marked IBSEN'S centenary one would have to go back to IBSEN himself. The satirist of the earlier social plays might have found a great deal of material in the public banquets and the gala opera performances and the university ceremonials at Oslo. If Dr. Stockmann of "An Enemy of the People" was right in asserting that a majority is always wrong, the proceedings at the Norwegian capital would be no tribute to IBSEN'S real worth; the participants in the festival were much more than a majority of his countrymen. But even the Stockmanns do not deny that in the long run a majority can be won over to the truth. It is, in fact, by appealing to future majorities that a strong man finds the ability to stand alone. Of such reversals of the popular judgment it is the customary thing to say that the majority has caught up with the pioneers, the many have been converted by the one. This is in large measure true. But it is also true that the reconciliation is one of the heart as well as of the head. Time softens bitter memories and heals wounds and leaves behind the rebel's achievements. IBSEN was a trying son to Norway in his earlier artistic years. What is remembered now is that he was a son.

The three Scandinavian countries have been peculiarly blessed with gifted children who began by being a great trial and ended up as a glory to the family. IBSEN in Norway, GEORG BRANDES in Denmark and, somewhat less emphatically, STRINDBERG in Sweden were rebels in the home. They had to seek recognition under foreign skies before becoming reconciled with their own people. It may be that even such potent rebels were not immune to the softening influence of success. Having won a European audience they were in the mood to view things a bit more generously in the native scene. And the home folks, it goes without saying, always stand ready to recognize unsuspected merit in the boy who has gone out into the world and "made good." Norway and Denmark together have a little more than 1 per cent. of Europe's population; yet the two have produced in IBSEN and BRANDES the greatest playwright of the nineteenth century and the greatest critic of the second half of the century.

It is the fate, though by no means a tragic fate, of such rebels against the established conventions and values that they should become powerful advertising agents for their native lands. The higher statistics would have no difficulty in proving that IBSEN and BRANDES rendered service of a very considerable money value to their countries. But the chief service is in their affirmation of the national genius. There have been great or notable writers who have never been wholly accepted by their countrymen—HEINE and ZOLA and, to some extent, THOMAS HARDY. In the case of IBSEN his countrymen were long ago brought to take him for one of their own.

NEW YORK AT ALBANY.

Residents of this city will view the record of the 1928 Legislature with somewhat mixed feelings. New York may join other municipalities of the State in gratitude for the home rule bills, which widen the scope of municipal authority. The seven measures sponsored by the Home Rule Commission and passed by the Legislature are almost certain to receive Executive approval. The Legislature responded promptly to the emergency created by Mr. STEUER'S successful court attack on the Queens sewer inquiry, which is now, thanks to the prompt revision of the statute, proceeding on a much more stable footing. It also heeded the city's request for additional legislation to help the local authorities put through their plans for the elimination of "Death Avenue" and the improvement of the west side.

If the leaders did not see fit to advance the Untermyer transit bills, it can at least be said that Mayor WALKER did not take any too vigorous steps to remove their hesitation. It has been his attitude that the Board of Estimate should not be committed in advance to the details of the Transit Commission's plans. With the Legislature choosing to keep hands off and the Interborough taking its case for an increased fare to the courts, the whole transit situation is left in as bad a muddle as ever. Even the effort of various civic associations to set up a bridge and tunnel authority to help the city out of some of its difficulties seems to have failed because the measure did not suit the city authorities.

The Municipal Court bill is still in doubt. For a time it looked as if it would founder on the rock of patronage. It passed the Senate, but the Assembly Rules Committee reported it out only after partisans had inserted an amendment making the spoils secure—unless, as seems likely, the courts throw that out on constitutional grounds even should the Senate accept it. The city saw the legislative leaders turn down the proposed revision of the tenement house law; it will be greatly interested in the ultimate fate of the emergency rent laws. Nor is the rejection of the Governor's plan for a commission to study county government without local significance. When it was voted down in the Assembly, Mr. DUNMORE, for the majority, remarked that the Governor ought to devote some of his time to cutting down the "ever-increasing cost of the New York City Government" and "leave the county governments as they are." But it is precisely because the governments of the counties composing the greater city have been left so long as they are that it has been difficult for the city in years gone by to enforce economies in this field.

THE PROBLEM OF HAITI.

While there can be no doubt that intervention by the United States in Haiti since 1915 has given the people of the Black Republic good roads, an excellent educational system, sanitation, agricultural training, the benefit of police protection by a disciplined gendarmerie, and a better standard of living, the question still remains whether the foundations of a native democratic government have been well laid. To the Constitution of 1918 thirteen amendments have lately been adopted by a "plebiscite," as was the Constitution itself. President BORNO, originally elected on April 10, 1922, for a four-year term by a Council which he appointed, still remains in office. No Legislative Assembly has been elected since 1917. The body of that year when about to adopt a Constitution was dissolved by the American supervisory Government. There followed the adoption by "plebiscite" of the Constitution of which that Government approved. It provided for the election of a Senate and Chamber of Deputies, upon which devolved the choice of a President of Haiti. But the new Legislature has never been elected, because a "transitory" clause in the Constitution requires that the representatives of the people shall be chosen "on Jan. 10 of an even year." But no even year has been designated. So Mr. BORNO continues to officiate as President, with the approval of Washington, and legislation is provided by the Council of State, which he appoints and which elected him in 1922.

A President should have been chosen in 1926, but in that year Mr. BORNO issued a proclamation declaring that the Haitians were too illiterate to elect a Legislature under the Constitution of 1918. Thereupon he was re-elected by his own creation, the Council of State. All this would be very confusing if it were not understood that he himself carries on with the consent of the supervisory Government, whose policies are approved by Washington. "Under this system," says a correspondent of THE TIMES, "our officials "who, under the treaty, are sup-"posed to be merely advisers, have "become, in the opinion of many ob-"servers, the effective rulers of "Haiti." He adds:

All important legislation is either entirely drawn up or approved by them and our State Department before the President and Council of State make it law. Moreover, all administration is under us except justice and public instruction, which, however, are subject to the important influence of our power over the budget.

The question now arises whether President BORNO may not take office for another term. One of the thirteen amendments increases the Presidential term to six years. No elections having been called for in this "even" year 1928, the next opportunity would occur in 1930, and if President BORNO should be elected in that year he would serve until 1936. Will the United States be able to withdraw from Haiti in 1936? The prospect is not bright. Chaos could not be risked, and chaos would threaten unless there was a complete reversal of the hostile regard in which the supervisory Government is held, with the Haitian flag still flying as a symbol of admitted sovereignty.

A STORY-TELLERS' GUIDE.

Children begging for a story need never go unsatisfied nor uninstructed if parents and teachers make use of the "Guide to Literature," recently completed by E. D. STARBUCK and F. K. SHUTTLEWORTH. Mothers are sometimes horrified at the bloodthirsty tales found in books of stories intended for children. They do not want their little boys to grow up mollycoddles, but they wonder if it is necessary to fill their hearts with the fantastic, cruel or vengeful incidents common to many of the oldest fairy tales. The lower sentiments seem to require little encouragement in order to thrive and choke the higher ones. Yet educators sometimes advise the free play of childish fancy among the primitive stories.

It is unnecessary to go into the editors' evidence of the value and authenticity of their selections. Their preliminary statements are sufficiently convincing. The book is the result of the so-called "Iowa Plan of Character Education," which won the prize in the interstate contest for the best method of character training in the public schools. No stress is placed on the direct teaching of the virtues. PLATO'S wisdom is invoked. Let such stories be told and read as will "insensibly draw "the soul from the earliest years "into likeness and sympathy with "the beauty of reason."

A sound introductory chapter to the catalogue of titles is offered. It advises the story-teller, whether parent or teacher, to learn how to tell a story. A list of a dozen books on the art of story-telling is given. It all sounds as easy and thrilling as the advertisements of French in ten lessons. It would be a timid parent who could not feel equal to entrancing a childish audience after such inspiration.

Nine-tenths of the book is made up of titles, each of which is followed by a brief description of the qualities it inculcates. None is included with a pointed moral nor a didactic style. Subtlety is the watchword. Many of the stories are wholly jolly, with no moral implications whatever. Of these, the editors say, "We have thought that "there is wholesomeness in the just-"for-fun tales. Children can some-"times laugh away a lot of foolish-"ness that the rude tools of serious "thinking fail to uproot." They also see a value in tales which will seem ridiculously primitive to those who would prefer to ignore the storehouse of magic and fairy-tale violence. Two complete indices and the classification of stories according to school grades make it easy to find what is wanted. Parents and teachers should be pleased by its breadth, richness of material and general good sense. As for children, if they knew about it, they would all save their pennies in order to give it as a present to the person now telling them dull or pointless stories.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Public Men Who Have Been "Told."

Some Senatorial immunities are precious. Immunity from the libel laws for remarks made on the floor of the Senate is a valuable thing. Highly prized is a Senator's immunity from time restrictions or relevance. This enables him to speak three days on naval disarmament in the course of a flood-relief debate. Much availed of is a Senator's immunity from the common laws of syntax. But the highest of all privileges is exemption from the duty of looking up a date or a fact. All that a Senator needs is to be told of something or to be given to understand something. It is for his opponents to ascertain if the thing is so.

Says Senator ROBINSON: "I have been given to understand—I do not know whether it is true or not—that Mr. HARRY SINCLAIR was a member of the New York State Racing Commission." He was also given to understand that SINCLAIR contributed to Governor SMITH'S campaign fund in 1920 and was appointed Racing Commissioner after "the successful conclusion of that campaign." It never occurred to the Senator to pick up a reference book. He would have found that Mr. SINCLAIR was indeed Racing Commissioner for several years. He would also have found that SMITH'S campaign of 1920 ended in defeat.

Life has been made easy for Senator BILKINS, who has been given to understand—he does not know whether it is true or not—that a British fleet is on its way to seize the Panama Canal. How pleasant have been made the ways for Senator Smithers, who has been told by the laundress of the brother-in-law of the janitor of his apartment house that Zanzibar has secretly raised a standing army of 5,00 ,000 men. It is unnecessary for Senator Wigwag, who has heard it stated that 200,000 people are dead of the plague in Oslo, the capital of Yugoslavia, to pick up a reference book.

A Reward That Shrank.

When the atrocious murderer, HICKMAN, was captured in flight by two officers in Oregon, there was much comment upon the large reward which the two alert traffic policemen would receive. The total offered was figured at $55,000. One of the men, Mr. "BUCK" LIEUALLEN, went down to Los Angeles to collect. He was there received with much honor, but his advertised reward dwindled rapidly as he approached it.

For one thing, the City Council of Los Angeles had offered $10,000 for the detection of the murderer. But later it discovered, doubtless to its own chagrin, that it had no legal authority to make use of the public funds in this way. Accordingly, that $10,000 had to be whittled away. Several other sums were also cut off, so that, according to The Morning Oregonian, Mr. LIEUALLEN returned to Portland with "only a few thousands of the pledged money."

However, "Buck" was very philosophical about it. He simply remarked that "there appeared to be a disposition to let none of the money get out of Los Angeles." He thought this was only natural, and he declared that it really would make no difference in his attitude toward fleeing criminals. He would arrest another Hickman, even at the peril of his life, without thought of any reward. This is an excellent position for a State traffic sergeant to take, but the question how Los Angeles will account for its diminished zeal—at least as judged by the money standard—has not yet been answered.

Keeping Their Feet Planted.

Sixty distinguished persons took to the air above Washington with Colonel LINDBERGH. Only two were Senators. Can there be any significance in this? Senators are rare, while Representatives are numerous. Yet Representatives love life as ardently as Senators, but seem to possess a higher spirit of adventure. By the time a man reaches the Senate he is older and less agile than the average Representative, but two women Representatives and several Congressional wives ascended in the plane. If the answer by defenders of the Senate is that women are reckless anyhow, the debate must terminate right here.

Anyhow, the Colonel is a good pilot, and those up with him were as safe as any one can be in a moving vehicle of any kind. His Senatorial passengers were both from New England, but there was no geographical limitation among the Representatives and their wives. Mrs. ROGERS of Massachusetts was accompanied by Mrs. LANGLEY of Kentucky; a Pennsylvanian rode with an Iowan; a Louisianian flew with a Californian; from all points of the compass came the lawmakers.

The Colonel's father was in Congress, and the genus is not new to him, except that there were no women members in those days. With his experience and skill he undoubtedly made new enthusiasts for the air service where it will do the most good. Although only one other Senator—SHIPSTEAD—shows any inclination to take a ride with his distinguished fellow-Minnesotan, it should not be assumed that the Senate as a body is opposed to developing aviation. Senators simply prefer to do their own aviating.

The Pollyanna School of Pedagogy.

Not long ago a Southern town drew up a drastic set of rules for school teachers, regulating the time for rising and for going to bed, prescribing dress and amusements and forbidding dancing and suitors. Now the Federal Bureau of Education has issued a decalogue for the school mistress in quite another vein, urging happiness, toleration and laughter for the schoolroom.

The intention is evidently directed toward the teacher's as well as the pupil's welfare, but the rules themselves are insufferably saccharine. "Thou shalt not try to make of thy children little images. * * * Thou shalt laugh when it rains and wee, wooly ones muddy the floor." This Winnie-the-Pooh style of diction for adult, and presumably intelligent, teachers is not very flattering to them. The admonition not to "scream the names of thy children in irritation" is a commandment that should go without the saying.

Children themselves resent obvious talking down in an effort to be entertaining. A recent number of Child Study tells of a jocose and condescending gentleman who was visiting a school. Interrupting a small boy at the serious task of building a block tower, he inquired, "Well, young man, why is a hen?" The child looked up for just a moment to say gravely, "Why is a chicken?"

New Stairway for Elevated.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

THE TIMES of March 1 carried a letter from Thomas M. Jones calling attention to conditions at the uptown Thirty-fourth Street station of the Ninth Avenue elevated and suggesting the erection of an additional stairway.

Following a recent investigation the railroad company was directed to install a new stairway at this point. Construction will start as soon as plans are approved.

THE REPUBLICAN ESAU.

Party, It Is Held, Has Sold Its Birthright for a Mess of Pottage.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

"If you can bear to hear the truth you've spoken twisted by knaves to make a trap for fools," wrote Kipling in his memorable "If." For eight years now the Democratic Party has had to stand by and listen to the great truths uttered by Tilden, by Cleveland and by Wilson twisted by Republican knaves. It has seen its high ideals trampled in the dust. It has seen its progressive economic program torn up. It has witnessed the nation's war aims of 1917 dragged through the mire and has had to look on while the country's morals were bartered away for office.

But the Republican Party has at last overreached itself. Its theory stands before the country in stark nakedness. It has learned that all of the people can't be fooled all of the time. Heretofore it has gone on the assumption that the people were fools and that their minds, and consequently their votes, could be controlled by propaganda purchased with money stolen indirectly from them by a system of privilege. The Republican leaders have presumed on the economic ignorance of the masses in their high-tariff stand. Today the people are beginning to see that the tariff is simply a device used by Republican politicians to get money to buy their way into office.

Today it is being whispered about that Europe is going to be concerned this Fall over the social fitness of Governor Smith for the Presidency. Europe is not going to be concerned over the origin of Governor Smith or of Senator Walsh. Neither is Europe going to be troubled about what church these men attend on Sundays. Europe knows too well that in the United States we have a system of party government, with party responsibility. She knows, further, that political parties are entities and have characters. She knows that in an election we elect more than a President; that we place in power an intangible body of ideas that transcends the man, and of which the man, the President, is but the spokesman.

It is the character of this body or political party that Europe knows cannot be changed overnight simply by getting another man to represent it. Repentance and reformation must come from the heart and mind of the party itself. And so Europe is going to watch us this Fall to see what judgment we render against a party which has been faithless to its public trust.

In 1920 the Republican Party compromised what few ideals it had left. It sold its political birthright for a mess of pottage. Today it is reaping the results. "For they who sow to the flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption."

A Remedy for Unemployment.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Over three thousand years ago Egypt solved unemployment by building highways, canals, temples, pyramids and other public constructions. Are we about to adopt the same remedy? Useful public construction constitutes a permanent, profitable and democratic form of national wealth. The scope for it is limitless. Its cost is investment, not expenditure.

Responsible leaders appear now to be approaching this solution. As a national policy it could be used to eliminate unemployment; to stabilize industry and commerce; to reduce the necessity for exports; to diminish the possibility of foreign entanglements, and to cure many defects hitherto considered inherent in our social structure.

O. PARKASCH.
Cleveland, Ohio, March 5, 1928.

NOW I TOO REMEMBER.

And now I too remember far, strange things:
Here with the tendrils of a joy I touch
The vines that have fed laughter through the years.
Now am I one with all who bear a load,
With those who blindly beat the breast and cry,
"Let there be no more waking on to-morrow!"
Now am I one with all who drink from founts
Of eyeless misery and untongued despair;
With those unblessed who darkly strive and seek Rivers of water where no waters are.

Now on the arrow of a golden light
I pierce to where the winging glories are,
And with new eyes look on old caves of grief,
And from new strings of sound I mark the discords old.
Now I behold how near to light they lie—
The streets of grief, the old, old beds of pain;
How with the shaft of sky-breasting desire
These are light-drenched and touched with cosmic fire,
Dissolved in dew or burned within an urn
Of living flame; and now I glimpse how near
The parched valleys to the mountain are.

And now I see how from black aconite
Of grief there springs the Fire Blossom bright;
And how the tired eyes of bitter men
Find balm and surcease . . . even I now behold
The old worn chalice eager lips have pressed
Returned, filled full, a living cup of flame,
And even the wounds upon the naked breasts
Of pilgrims gone upon an unresting quest
Covered as with the mantle of the gods
And bathed in light. Out of their twisted griefs
Are fashioned wings. Mark how each little stone
Bears now its song . . . how down the singing grass
Upsprings new music where their footsteps pass!

HOLLAND TUBES RUN BY 'ELECTRIC BRAIN'

New Device, Suggesting Controls of a Battleship, Is Tested Before Engineers.

LIGHTS RECORD MISHAPS

Needles in Tunnel Building Chart Purity of the Air at Any Point Under Ground.

Officials and engineers witnessed a demonstration yesterday of the newly installed "electric brain" of the twin tubes of the Holland Tunnel in the Tunnel Building at Canal and Varick Streets. Long, polished panels, hundreds of tiny colored lights, gleaming metal switches and steadily ticking recording devices suggested the intricate controls of a battleship or the imaginary chamber from which a master scientist directs a future world as pictured in fiction.

A. J. Shamberg, Acting Chairman of the New York State Bridge and Tunnel Commission, and Weller H. Noyes, Acting Chairman of the New Jersey Interstate Bridge and Tunnel Commission, headed the delegation of witnesses, which included men from the American Society of Civil Engineers and the American Society of Mechanical Engineers. The system was explained by Ole Singstad, chief engineer and superintendent of the tunnel, and J. P. Maxwell of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company.

A man posted in this control room on the fourth floor of the Tunnel Building, said Mr. Singstad, can tell at any minute of the day or night just what is going on at any point in either tunnel. Should a fire occur, a glance at the control panels will tell him, within a few feet, where it is. A touch on a switch stops traffic up to the point of the fire. Another switch directs officers to clear the way for a fire truck. Another dispatches the truck.

Light Flashes When Mishap Occurs.

Long rows of tiny red lights indicate a faint glow that all is well. One suddenly flashing into brilliancy indicates that something is wrong, and the position of the light on the board shows just where the trouble is. Other lights and knobs do sentry duty over the giant electric fans that keep the subterranean air fit to breathe.

Rows of complicated meters draw lines on rolls and rolls of graph paper, making the carbon monoxide content of the air at any point of the tunnels ascertainable at once. If the automatic pen that draws the graph moves to a point indicating four parts of the poisonous gas to 10,000 parts of air, the man in the control room knows that the danger point is being approached.

If he does not notice the pen, a clanging gong calls his attention. A glance at the rows of recorders tells him where the trouble lies; he turns to the control board, twists a small rubber knob, and at the proper point far below the surface of the Hudson thousands of cubic feet of fresh air are rushed to the rescue.

Replaces Cumbersome System.

The new installation cost about $100,000. It replaces a cumbersome and less speedy and reliable system of control by telephone. Two men now do the task formerly accomplished by six. They control apparatus in the tunnel itself, including pumps, lights and traffic signals, as well as equipment in two buildings in New York and two in New Jersey.

While the system that controls traffic signals, ventilating fans, and other other equipment are impressively complicated, perhaps the most uncanny part of it to the layman are the fourteen recording devices whose needles in the building at Canal and Varick tell at a glance the quality of the air being breathed at distant points below the water level. They measure a gas the odor of which man himself is unable to detect and report instantly to the control room from as much as a line distant.

After witnessing the new system in operation and hearing Mr. Singstad's explanation, Mr. Shamberg expressed entire satisfaction with it and declared that it constituted the tunnel user's insurance against mishaps.

"It is the brains of the Holland Tunnels," he said.

GERMANY TO AID NOBILE.

Will Put Soldiers at His Disposal to Land Dirigible at Stolp.

Copyright, 1928, by The New York Times Company.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, March 21.—The government will place one hundred soldiers at the disposal of General Nobile, leader of the Italian dirigible expedition to the Arctic, when his airship arrives at Stolp, Pomerania, and during its stay of about two weeks on German soil. The Lufthansa Company will furnish him with weather reports, placing not only its own service covering Germany at his disposal, but foreign service as well.

Great interest has been evident here in the test flights now being undertaken by General Nobile. He has been requested to fly over Berlin en route from Italy to Stolp.

SAYS ENGLISH AIDS SUCCESS

Sir Richard Paget Urges Action to Guide Its Growth.

Much of the success of the Anglo-Saxon race is due to the English language, Sir Richard Arthur Surtees Paget said yesterday in addressing the British Empire Chamber of Commerce in the United States at a luncheon meeting at the Whitehall Club, 17 Battery Place. He declared that if it were improved it would become "by sheer virtue the language of the planet."

Sir Richard said universal languages like Esperanto and Ido were doomed to failure. The English-speaking peoples, he asserted, should get together and adopt principles to guide the growth of the language; otherwise, it would drift in three or four different directions and each section would become unintelligible to the others. Broadcasting, he said, would help in the work of standardization.

ONLY $10,000 LEFT BY W. BARTON FRENCH

Will of Man Who Inherited $600,000, Filed for Probate, Gives All to Second Wife.

William Barton French, son of Seth Barton French, millionaire banker in New York two generations ago, left an estate of less than $10,000, consisting of personal property in this and Dutchess counties, when he committed suicide on Feb. 1, at Santa Fe, N. M. This was learned yesterday when his will was offered for probate in the Surrogate's Court, giving it all to his second wife, now Mrs. Hazel Allen Davies of Paris. No provision was made for Mr. French's 10-year-old daughter, Marie Louise French, who is now with her mother, the first Mrs. French, in Berlin.

Miss French, however, will share with Mrs. Augustus W. Bird, her father's sister, in the principal of a $400,000 trust fund where her grandmother, Mrs. Seth Barton French, dies. It was for this reason, Mr. French wrote, that he left none of his estate to his daughter. The first Mrs. French was Miss Jeannie Emmet. She was married to Mr. French in 1916 and divorced him four years later. In 1924 he married the woman who receives his estate. She divorced him on May 1, 1927.

Mr. French received $600,000 from the $2,748,250 estate of his father. He received the income from this sum until he was 25 years old, when he got the first third of the principal. The remainder was paid to him in two equal shares in periods of five years each. He was 36 at the time of his death. It was said last night that he might possibly have left more debts than estate.

Tablet Unveiled at Site Of the Old Astor House

Acting Mayor Joseph V. McKee unveiled a tablet on the site of the old Astor House yesterday afternoon. The tablet was presented by the Battery Park Association through William Hamlin Childs, its President. It has been placed at the entrance of the building which occupies the site of the old hotel, between Barclay and Vesey Streets on Broadway.

The Astor House was built by John Jacob Astor and was opened in 1836. For many years it was the scene of important functions and the stopping place of national celebrities. Lincoln stopped at the hotel shortly after he was elected President, and other famous men among its guests were Douglas, Calhoun, Seward, Webster, Clay, Seymour, Kossuth and Edward VII.

HOSPITAL STARTS DRIVE.

Knickerbocker Seeks Emergency and Relief Funds.

A campaign to raise funds for the emergency and relief work of Knickerbocker Hospital, 131st Street and Convent Avenue, was launched yesterday by the mailing of 50,000 subscription blanks to prospective subscribers. Paul Whiteman assisted in preparing the letters. The appeal asked for annual donations of from $10 to $100.

It was explained that the emergency and relief work has become so expensive that the hospital has been forced to seek financial aid over and above voluntary donations. The campaign will be repeated annually until the hospital has a sufficient number of regular yearly subscribers to maintain adequately the ambulance and accident ward work.

Contributions may be mailed to George S. Carr, Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee of the hospital, at the Colonial Bank, Eighty-first Street and Columbus Avenue.

TOM WISE, ACTOR FOR 40 YEARS, DIES

Shepherd of Lambs, Who Would Have Been 63 Tomorrow, Succumbs in Hotel Here.

NOTED FOR FALSTAFF ROLE

Got His Chance in Part When James K. Hackett Was Injured—Many Stage Folk Pay Tribute.

Thomas A. Wise, veteran actor and Shepherd of The Lambs, died last night at his apartment at the Forty-fourth Street Hotel. Mr. Wise, who would have been 63 years old tomorrow, had suffered from cardiac-asthma for several years and had been in increasing ill health during the past Winter, according to Dr. T. R. Killilea, official physician of The Lambs.

Several weeks ago the actor was forced to abandon his rôle in the cast of "Behold This Dreamer," then playing in Chicago. Tuesday afternoon he suffered a sinking spell in The Lambs Club and was carried to his rooms in the hotel, where he had lived for two years. He sank into a coma yesterday afternoon and died at 6:30 o'clock last night.

Dozens of messages of condolence and tribute to Mr. Wise's character and career began to arrive at the hotel last night from prominent men and women of the theatre as news of his death spread. He leaves his wife, Gertrude Whitty, an actress. Funeral arrangements will be made by The Lambs.

Prominent for 40 Years.

For nearly forty years Tom Wise had been a prominent figure of the Broadway stage. His career here commenced in June, 1888, when he appeared at the old Bijou Theatre in "Lost in New York"—a title which seemed particularly apropos in the case of a twenty-three-year-old actor from the Pacific Coast, who was having his first opportunity on Manhattan boards.

Although as an actor he came out of the West, Mr. Wise was born in Faversham, Kent, England, on March 23, 1865. He was brought to America at the age of 8 and began to earn his own living when he was 9. He first appeared on the stage in April, 1883, in a variety show in Dixon, Cal. From the start he had opportunity to show his versatility, for his first assignment called for him to appear both in blackface and German comedy parts. A year later he toured with Joseph Grismer, then a Coast leading man and afterward a partner of William A. Brady in the production of "Way Down East." That led to a part in "The Private Secretary," in which Williams Gillette was appearing, and with this company young Wise remained for nearly four years. He played the rôle of the tailor more than 1,100 times.

"The Private Secretary" brought him East, and after closing in "Lost in New York," he played in a revival of the Gillette vehicle. Then followed a succession of plays, including "Mr. Wilkinson's Widows," "Gloriana," "The Last Chapter," "The Jucklins" and "The Cuckoo." In "The Last Chapter," he made his first London appearance in 1899.

Two years later he made one of the biggest hits of his career as Amos Bloodgood in "Are You a Mason?" a part which he performed for two seasons. Such plays as "Mrs. Temple's Telegram," "The Prince Chap," "Before and After" and "Miss Hook of Holland" brought him to another of his most successful portrayals. This was Senator in "The Gentleman from Mississippi," in the writing of which he assisted.

Mr. Wise followed this with an appearance in another play of his co-authorship, "An Old New Yorker," and then in "Uncle Sam," "A Chip of the Old Block," "The Silver Wedding" and "The Song of Songs."

Got Chance at Falstaff.

Then he realized a hankering to play Falstaff. It was a chance that came to him through luck, for the late James K. Hackett, who was scheduled for the part, suffered an injury to his leg which prevented his appearance, and Mr. Wise was called upon. This was ten days before the opening, and in that time Mr. Wise became letter perfect in the rôle of the obese knight of "The Merry Wives of Windsor."

Otis Skinner's portrayal of the part in the current revival at the Knickerbocker Theatre was compared by many of his reviewers to Mr. Wise's characterization. A year later Mr. Wise again played Falstaff in another "Merry Wives of Windsor" production, in which Constance Collier and Isabel Irving were Mistress Ford and Mistress Page.

Among Mr. Wise's later rôles were Cappy Ricks in a play of that name, the title rôle in "Daddy Dumplins" and Sir Oliver Surface in "The School for Scandal." He toured as Clem Hawley in "The Old Soak." Most recently he was seen in "The Adorable Liar" and "The Nightingale." His last New York appearance was in "Behold This Dreamer" at the Cort Theatre in the Fall.

Mr. Wise has long been among the most popular members of The Lambs, the esteem in which he was held having been shown by his re-election to the post of Shepherd. Mr. Wise had been a prominent member of St. Cecile Lodge, 568, F. and A. M., which he joined in 1902.

Among the prominent stage folk who paid tribute to Mr. Wise last night were George M. Cohan, Walter Hampden, William A. Brady, Mrs. Fiske, Otis Skinner, Henrietta Crosman and George C. Tyler.

LAST TRIBUTE PAID TO NORA BAYES

Simple Christian Science Services Are Held Privately at the Actress's Home.

Simple funeral services for Nora Bayes, singing comedienne, who died early Monday morning, were held yesterday at her late home, 634 West End Avenue. The rites of the Christian Science Church were performed, and only members of her family and a few intimate friends were present. In deference to Miss Bayes's wishes that none of her friends should see her in death, the silver coffin, covered with a blanket of sweet peas and tulips, was kept closed. Robert Link, reader of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of which Miss Bayes was a member, officiated at the services, which included only the reading of two psalms, the playing of one hymn on the piano, readings from the works of Mary Baker Eddy and the Lord's Prayer said in unison by those in the room.

Benjamin Friedland, Miss Bayes's husband, remained in the seclusion of his own quarters during the services, coming into the room just before the body was borne out. Those who attended the funeral included Mrs. J. Mayer, Miss Bayes's sister, of Chicago; Mrs. Anna Kline, a cousin, from San Francisco; Miss Bayes's three adopted children, Peter, Lea Nora and Norman; Jennie Jacobs, her business representative and close friend; Harry Cooper, booking agent; Mrs. Conde Nast, Mrs. Barney Bernard, William Morris, President of the Jewish Theatrical Guild; Edna Hoskins, Miss Bayes's secretary; Dudley Wilkinson, her stage accompanist, and Tom Noonan, head of the Dover Street Republican Association, for whom Miss Bayes sang the Sunday afternoon before she was taken to the hospital.

A crowd gathered on the sidewalk in front of the residence to wait for the coffin to pass.

WILLIAM C. SPROUL, EX-GOVERNOR, DIES

Former Pennsylvania Executive Succumbs at 57 After Illness of Several Months.

BEGAN LIFE AS FARMER BOY

After College He Bought Interest in a Newspaper, but Later Took Up Financial Interests.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, March 21.—William Cameron Sproul, former Governor of Pennsylvania, three times President of the Union League of Philadelphia and a nationally known figure in Republican politics, died at his home, Lapidea Manor, near Chester, shortly before 10 o'clock tonight, after a lingering illness of several months. He was in his fifty-eighth year. His wife and son, Captain John R. Sproul, were at his bedside.

Mr. Sproul's interests were divided among business, finance, politics and education, but it was in the political world that he became known most intimately to the general public.

Besides his widow and son, he leaves a daughter, Mrs. Laurence P. Sharples.

Began Life as a Farmer's Boy.

Farmer's boy, newspaper man, financier and manufacturer by turn, William Cameron Sproul made politics his avocation and followed it so closely that he became Governor of Pennsylvania.

Mr. Sproul was born at Octoraro, Lancaster County, Pa., on Sept. 16, 1870, the son of William Hall and Deborah Dickinson Sproul.

He attended Swarthmore College, graduating in 1891. His start as a newspaper man was while he was in college.

"The first dollar I ever earned," he said many years afterward, "was as a correspondent for a Philadelphia newspaper while at college. I was offered $20 a week to work on the newspaper that had supplied me with spending money while I worked for it during my college days. I refused and told the editor, Charles Emory Smith, that I intended to earn twice that amount the first week. With the $400 my father gave me to start in life, I was enabled to obtain a half interest in The Chester Times, and I made good."

Turned to Manufacturing.

Mr. Sproul always retained his interest in the paper and was President of it as well as of The Morning Republican, of Chester. However, he did not long continue active in the newspaper field, but turned to manufacturing and finance. He first organized and was President of the Seaboard Steel Casting Company, which was later sold to the American Locomotive Company.

Another large industrial concern which he launched was the General Refractories Company. It operated fifteen plants in Illinois, Kentucky and Pennsylvania. He assisted in the development of the Lebanon Iron Company and the Lackawanna & Wyoming Valley Railroad, and also of mining, traction, railroad and power enterprises in West Virginia. He became interested in several banks.

Mr. Sproul's political career started in 1896, when he was elected to the Pennsylvania Senate, in which he served continuously for twenty-two years, being its President pro tempore from 1903 to 1908. He received the Republican nomination for Governor in 1918 and was elected by a plurality of 245,000, serving through 1919 and 1920.

At the Republican convention of 1920 in Chicago, when it became apparent that the Wood and Lowden forces had reached a stalemate, Governor Sproul was considered as a compromise Presidential candidate. He received the solid support of the Pennsylvania delegation and a scattering of votes for seven ballots until the swing to Harding was well under way.

"Father of Good Roads."

Mr. Sproul's most notable legislative achievement was the development of the Pennsylvania road system. He was very proud of the title "Father of Good Roads" conferred on him by common consent. State highways were called Sproul roads.

As Governor his greatest problem was the coal strike. He appointed a Fuel Commission in 1922 to deal with the situation in the anthracite fields, and this commission was credited with forcing fair prices. He was credited by some with having had an important part in the actual settlement of the strike. He was a strong advocate of the World Court.

Governor Sproul built and endowed the Sproul Observatory at Swarthmore and restored at his own expense the Court House at Chester, the oldest public building in Pennsylvania.

He was a councilor of the Pennsylvania Historical Society, a member of the American Philosophical Society, the Franklin Institute, Phi Beta Kappa, Patrons of Husbandry and Patriotic Order of Sons of America, and was a thirty-third degree Mason, an Elk and a trustee of Swarthmore College and of Mercersburg Academy.

He had been President of the Union League Club of Philadelphia, and held memberships in the Philadelphia, Chester, Harrisburg, Manhattan, Bankers, India House, Corinthian Yacht and Rose Tree Fox Hunting clubs.

FIRST TELEPHONE SHOWN AT A DINNER

Exhibited by Associate of Bell at American Institute Centenary Celebration.

ALSO AN 1830 HOE PRESS

Dr. Julius Klein Reviews the Organization's Work in Fostering Inventions.

The first telephone, the Hoe printing press of 1830 and the Singer rigid-arm sewing machine of 1830 were exhibited last night at the centenary dinner at the Waldorf of the American Institute, one of the pioneer organizations of the country in promoting American inventions and industries.

Dr. Thomas A. Watson, the associate of Alexander Graham Bell, displayed the original telephone which he had constructed in accordance with the instructions of Mr. Bell in 1875 and used it to transmit to the audience the first voice ever carried by wire—Alexander Graham Bell's:

"Mr. Watson, come here; I want you."

More than forty of the firms holding the medals and honor of the institute, which was formerly active in promoting fairs and expositions of machinery, were represented among the guests at the dinner. Reviewing the history of the American Institute and the services which it had performed to American industries, Dr. Julius Klein, Director of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, said:

"On one of the great initial festivals of the organization, the Masonic Hall in this city in October, 1829 was filled (as a contemporary chronicle has it) 'by ladies and gentlemen of the first respectability,' and housing an exhibition that 'made the eyes of the patriot sparkle with delight.'

"In the exhibition hall on the concluding day was 'a resplendent temple, arisen as if by magic—in the centre of which was a bust of Alexander Hamilton, crowned with laurels, on a splendid transparency of painted glass, enclosing burning lamps that numbered twenty-four.'

Other speakers were Edwin Forrest Murdock, President of the institute; Frederic William Wile, Dr. John H. Finley and Dr. Dexter S. Kimball, Dean of the College of Engineering, Cornell University.

MONTE CARLO HIT BY AMBITIOUS RIVALS

Large Decline in the Revenues Causes Stormy Scenes at Shareholders' Meeting.

Copyright, 1928, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MONTE CARLO, March 21.—A considerable falling off of revenues during the season is occupying the attention of the Monte Carlo administration and, it is understood, led to stormy scenes at a shareholders' meeting a few days ago.

The world's most famous casino is, on the best authority, seriously beginning to feel the drain of reduced receipts. Once the only spot where real money changed hands across the green baize baccarat tables and the only establishment where the popular roulette was permitted, it now has to face the competition of many strong young rival resorts.

Deauville, Lido and, more especially, Cannes have been attracting many gamblers and the result has been fewer patrons of Monte Carlo and a reduction in the sums risked there.

The latest blow has fallen in the shape of the recent opening of a magnificent casino at San Remo. Premier Mussolini has authorized roulette, which is sure to attract a large number of tourists as well as professional gamblers to the Italian Riviera, which already is striving its utmost to vie with its French neighbor.

Bloodless warfare is being waged, in which one amusing incident is the destruction of a section of the Corniche Road between Mentone and Vintimiglia, preventing motor tourists on the French border from reaching the Italian casino. The French said it was a storm in the night that caused the damage, but the Italians pointed out that there was no record of any storm in the Mediterranean.

In its effort to maintain its supremacy the Monte Carlo company is determined to leave no stone unturned to cope with the difficulties ahead. Last Autumn the company's capital was increased 10,000,000 francs by fresh subscriptions of shareholders, and the management was intrusted to a new young director, René Léon. Strict economy has been practiced where formerly unnecessarily lavish outlay was made, while sweeping improvements are planned and in progress, such as new tennis grounds, acquisition of the Hermitage Hotel for a new sporting club and construction of a bathing beach.

These changes, however, have not had time to produce financial results, and the shareholders are urging that efforts to push the resort be continued unrelaxed.

PILSUDSKI OUSTS CRITICAL GENERAL

Sikorski, Strongest Opponent of Poland's Dictator, Disputed the Credit for Defeating Russians.

Copyright 1928, by The New York Times Company.
By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WARSAW, Poland, March 21.—Because he dared to question Premier Pilsudski's victory over the Bolsheviki in 1920, General Sikorski commander of the Lemberg garrison and the Marshal's most dangerous opponent, today was summarily dismissed from his post without receiving a new appointment.

The deposed General last Sunday, Marshal Pilsudski's name-day, published a book called "On the Vistula in 1920." In his work General Sikorski declares that the real victors over the Russians were the French strategist, General Weygand, and General Roswadowoski, who was thrown into prison soon after the repulsion of the Bolshevik invasion.

This version contradicts Marshal Pilsudski's assertions that he stalled the onslaught from the east and therefore was the sole victor. Evidently the belittling of his military accomplishments and the announcement that the General's book was already translated into French and will be published shortly in Paris grated on the Marshal's nerves.

To make matters worse the palace of General Sikorski was the only unflagged building in Lemberg on Marshal Pilsudski's name-day.

The dismissed General, who is considered one of Poland's strong men, came into prominence in the war against Russia, when he led a division successfully. After the assassination of President Narutowicz in 1923 the General became Prime Minister. Then his ideas parted from the Marshal's. Anti-Pilsudski parties consider General Sikorski their strongest leader and fully capable of taking the dictator's place if he should be overthrown.

WIDOW'S GUEST HELD ON CHARGE OF ROBBERY

Woman Companion in Alleged Attack Is in Albany Hospital After Suicide Attempt.

Frank Urban of 63 Partridge Avenue, Albany, was arraigned in Essex Market Court yesterday on a charge of robbery on the complaint of Mrs. Julia Howe, 30-year-old widow of an insurance man, who charges that Urban and a woman assaulted and robbed her in her apartment on Sept. 4. Urban, who is a boilermaker, was held by Magistrate Maurice H. Gottlieb without bail for examination tomorrow.

According to Mrs. Howe, she was shopping on Sept. 3 when she met Hasel Beimister, a former school chum. Miss Beimister invited her to her apartment at 73 Madison Avenue, Mrs. Howe testified, where she met Urban, who was introduced as Miss Beimister's fiancé. The three went to a theatre and later went to Mrs. Howe's apartment at 45 Fifth Avenue.

Mrs. Howe said she invited the man and woman to remain at her apartment, and all retired in separate rooms. She awoke at about 4 o'clock in the morning to find her guests beating her, and was knocked unconscious, she said. When she regained consciousness, Urban and the woman had fled, she asserted, and jewelry and clothing valued at $3,500 were missing. She called the superintendent, who notified the police. Detectives found that Miss Beimister had moved from the Madison Avenue apartment that day.

Early this month Miss Beimister was arrested in Albany for the theft of a taxicab. She swallowed poison on Sunday and is in a serious condition in a hospital there.

Proverbs Are the Children of Daily Experience

With many of us, the riddle of life is still to be solved. Those who traveled before us, along the same roads, have left footprints as they struggled, fell down, hoped, despaired or persevered, which ought to be of value to us as we journey on in our confidence of being able to reach the goal we have in view. The biographies, examples and cherished rules that influenced the lives of our fathers are great helps for each other.

MORE MEN AT WORK; OUTLOOK BRIGHTER

Federal Bureau Reports Upturn at End of February and Cites Steel Improvement.

'PEOPLE UNDULY ALARMED'

Some Unemployment Always Exists, Says the Director, but Spring Will Bring Activity.

NEW YORK PROSPECT GOOD

Increased Building Expected to Give Work to Many in City and Throughout State.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—The horizon is clearing in the employment situation and the outlook is encouraging, according to Francis I. Jones, Director General of the United States Employment Service of the Department of Commerce, who declared today that the steel industry, long regarded as a barometer, had shown improvement in both production and employment. At the same time Mr. Jones made public detailed reports on employment conditions in New York, New England and other parts of the country.

In its summary for New York State the Employment Service says the downward trend in manufacturing activity and employment has been checked in several major lines and a "slight but gradual increase in employment was apparent at the close of the month."

Improvement in industrial employment in New England is also pictured. Preliminary reports for Illinois and the East North Central District, it was announced, indicate improvement in employment in February.

"The country," says Director Jones, "has been unduly alarmed by exaggerated reports circulated widely that a serious unemployment situation exists. There is no question that there has been, and that there is still, some unemployment apparent. It is also true that, no matter how prosperous the industrial condition of the country may be, there is more or less unemployment. Students of economics estimate that even in our most prosperous times there are always a million or more workers out of employment, some voluntarily and others from involuntary causes.

Laborers and White-Collar Men Hit.

"The textile industry has been in an unsettled condition for the past few years, and there is some hesitancy in forecasting any immediate improvement, as its prosperity depends largely upon the arbiters of fashion. The boot and shoe industry is not affording full employment to the available workers of this class. Many of the basic industries, by mass production, are producing a greater volume with fewer employes today than five years ago. What may appear a strange paradox is nevertheless a fact. There is more unemployment among unskilled laborers and the so-called 'white-collar' workers than in any other classes of workers.

"The horizon is clearing and the employment outlook is encouraging. The iron and steel industry, long recognized as a reliable barometer, has shown a definite improvement in both production and employment. Orders for structural materials, railroad cars, rails and other equipment, not to mention the increase in the demand for automobile materials, practically assure a steady increase to the forces employed in the basic industry. In view of this there must follow a corresponding increase in allied plants and factories.

"With the advent of Spring weather a further improvement in the unemployment situation will materialize. Federal building construction, road construction, municipal improvements and many other seasonal activities will be started, which means increased employment for a large number of skilled and unskilled workers who are unemployed during the Winter months."

Report on Empire State.

As to the employment situation in New York State, based on reports from District Director Edward I. Bolton, 124 East Twenty-eighth Street, New York City, the Employment Service reports:

"The downward trend in manufacturing activity and employment noted in January continued in many industries during February and there was considerable unemployment apparent, particularly in the larger cities. However, the declining trend in employment has been checked in several major lines, and a slight but gradual increase in employment was apparent at the close of the month.

"Winter weather was an important factor in increasing the unemployment. The seasonal recession in building and other outdoor construction work affected a large number of skilled, semi-skilled and unskilled workers. This temporary reduction in building activity has adversely affected production and employment in the miscellaneous building-material industries.

"A decline in railroad freight traffic caused some temporary layoffs in the transportation lines, railroad repair shops, yards and shipping terminals. Skilled laborers, except building trades men, were fairly well employed, and a slight increase in the demand for this class of labor was noted in several industries. The iron and steel mills are gradually increasing operations and forces, production in some of the automobile factories and accessory and assembling plants is steadily moving upward and large increases in employment were noted during the latter part of the month and a further increase is expected during March.

"There was a slight demand for farm labor. The usual Spring agricultural activities will absorb a large number of workers in March. Large building and construction programs are planned for release within the next thirty to sixty days, which will furnish employment to thousands of skilled and unskilled workers."

Joshua Kantrowitz Is Honored.

A testimonial dinner was tendered last night at the Hotel McAlpin to Joshua Kantrowitz by the Hebrew Mutual Benefit Society, celebrating the thirtieth anniversary of his service as President of that organization. Mr. Kantrowitz received a gold watch and chain in token of the society's appreciation.

Springlike Weather Here As Season Officially Opens

The first calendar day of Spring came within one degree of being just what it ought to have been. The mean temperature of a normal March 21 is 39 degrees. Yesterday the temperature hovered between a low of 32 degrees in the morning and a high of 44 about 3 in the afternoon, with an average of 38 degrees, one below normal.

Today and the next few days will be genuinely Springlike, according to Dr. James H. Scarr, Chief Meteorologist of the local Weather Bureau. It is going to stay clear and gradually get warmer, he said. March thus far has been a bit cooler than average, having an accumulated deficit of 13 degrees below normal.

ROME, March 21 (AP).—Snow on the first day of Spring was reported from eight centres of Northern and Central Italy. In some instances the snow was accompanied by intense cold.

CANADA SPARES LIFE OF MRS. M'DONALD

Sentence of Young Wife Is Commuted, but Husband Will Go to Gallows Tomorrow.

SHE CRIES OVER THE NEWS

Not Permitted to Bid Farewell to Husband, Convicted With Her of Murder of Taxi Driver.

OTTAWA, Ontario, March 21 (AP).—The red gallows raised at Valleyfield, Quebec, for the hanging of a husband and wife on Friday is to be used to carry out the sentence of death against only the husband, George McDonald. The Governor General today signed Orders in Council commuting the sentence to life imprisonment as it affected Mrs. Doris Palmer McDonald. The orders affirmed the death sentence imposed upon McDonald.

Word of the commutation was sent by telegraph to Montreal and was carried to the young wife from the United States as she waited in the Fullum Street Women's Jail to be taken to Valleyfield with her husband. She received the information with tears, for she was told at the same time that her husband must hang alone on the gallows prepared for them both.

The McDonalds were convicted of the murder of Adelard Bouchard, a Lachine (Quebec) taxi driver, whose body was found in a roadside pool of water last July. The young husband and wife were arrested the next month in Butte, Mont., and extradited to Canada, where they were convicted in December and sentenced to death.

The McDonalds were not permitted to bid each other farewell before the husband was taken alone to Valleyfield to await his execution.

100 BESIEGE FACTORY, DEMANDING JOBS

Four Arrested as Unruly Crowd Starts Throwing Missiles at Eagle Pencil Company.

A near riot at the factory of the Eagle Pencil Company, Fourteenth Street and Avenue C, followed the company's refusal yesterday morning to employ members of a crowd of about 100 who had stormed the place demanding work. When the excitement was over the police had arrested four persons, one a young woman. Company officials charged that the trouble was the result of a Communist plot, since ordinarily only fifteen or twenty persons a day apply for work.

The company had not advertised for workers, and when employment was refused on the ground that the factory was fully staffed the crowd became unruly and began throwing missiles. Edward Eichorn, a special patrolman at the factory, summoned the police.

Many of the 1,200 workers gathered at the windows to watch the crowd, and there was a brief uneasiness because of a rumor of fire, but that was quickly quelled.

In Essex Market Court the prisoners described themselves as Sophie Milman, 18 years old, 614 Ashford Street, Brooklyn; Joseph Brown, 19, 125 Second Street; Benjamin Rosenberg, 21, 317 East Eighteenth Street, and Daniel Cutler, 20, 1,709 West First Street, Brooklyn.

Magistrate Gotlieb found the four guilty of disorderly conduct, but suspended sentence with a warning.

WOMAN TAKES POISON.

Phones Husband, Whose Quickness in Tracing Call May Save Her.

When Frank Santora went dancing Tuesday night his feet were lighter than his spirits. His wife, Eleanora, had left his home, 1,910 Belmont Avenue, the Bronx, at 9 o'clock that morning, and at 6 that night she had telephoned, leaving the message:

"Tell my husband to ship my body to my mother's home in Washington, D. C."

Dancing was no novelty to Santora, for he makes his living as an instructor at an academy at 111th Street and Eighth Avenue. If his paying partners got less than usual out of his lessons, it was hardly his fault.

At about midnight he was called to the telephone and his wife's voice said, "Good-bye, Frank. Take care of Miriam." Miriam is their five-year-old daughter. Then she hung up.

Santora traced the call to the Alexandria Hotel, 250 West 103d Street. He hastened there, got a bellboy and a passkey to a room his wife had taken. There in the bathroom he found her. She had taken poison. At Knickerbocker Hospital, where she was taken, it was said she might recover.

The couple had quarreled about a new business, a nurses' registry, which Mrs. Santora was starting. She is 29 years old.

NO WALKER APOLOGY FOR TECHNICAL MEN

Mayor's Secretary Reveals Letters Supporting Rebuke Over Pay Demonstration.

ENGINEERS SCORE UNION

Association Again Repudiates 'the Unprofessional Conduct' of Delegates of Local 37.

Mayor Walker has no intention of tendering an apology to the members of the Union of Technical Men, Local No. 37, American Federation of Labor. That body asked Tuesday that the Mayor apologize because of his action in ousting from a Board of Estimate meeting on March 8 a large delegation of its members who made a demonstration in force and demanded an immediate apportionment of the fund of $600,000 set aside in the current budget to meet proposed salary increases for engineers in the city's employ.

In lieu of an apology, Charles S. Hand, the Mayor's secretary, made public last night letters which had been sent to Mayor Walker by representative organizations of professional engineers endorsing his position and repudiating the attitude of the delegation from Local 37. These letters expressed confidence that the salary fund would be equitably apportioned as soon as the Budget Director is able to straighten out the numerous angles involved in a difficult task.

W. A. Stubbs, Executive Secretary of the Association of Engineers of New York, wrote:

"It might be apropos to call your attention to the fact that at least 95 per cent. of those who appeared before the Board of Estimate in the demonstration were employes in departments which are not contemplated to benefit in the distribution of the $600,000 budgetary appropriation. They are in no way representative of the engineering corps of the city. The Association of Engineers of New York reiterates its denunciation of the unprofessional conduct of the Union of Technical Men before the Mayor and the members of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment."

The New York State Society of Professional Engineers and Land Surveyors, through its President, James M. Welsh, sent to the Mayor a communication informing him that at a meeting of its Board of Directors "the action of the so-called engineers in appearing before his Honor the Mayor and the Board of Estimate and Apportionment was heartily condemned."

The letter added: "Attention is called to the fact that the number in the delegation appearing before the Board is greatly exaggerated and that few, if any, had the authority to use the title of engineer, as many of them are practicing in violation of the State law, which restricts the practice of engineering to men qualified by the University of the State of New York."

PLANS NEW DETROIT HOTEL.

Bowman-Biltmore Corporation Unit Will Cost $25,000,000.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, March 21.—John McEntee Bowman, President of the Bowman-Biltmore Hotels Corporation, at a luncheon today announced that he, with a group of business associates, would build in this city a Biltmore Hotel as a unit of the Bowman-Biltmore chain now stretching from the Atlantic to the Pacific Coast and into Cuba. Mr. Bowman said the building will cost about $25,000,000 and that it will be "the finest hotel in the country." It will be thirty-five stories high and will overlook Grand Circus Park. F. J. Hughes of Dayton, Ohio, architect of the Dayton Biltmore, now in course of construction, and Warren & Wetmore of New York will be the architects.

Associated with Mr. Bowman will be Frederick L. Smith, President of the Central Realty Development Company; Angus Smith, director of the Peoples State Bank; Judge Carroll Sprigg of Dayton, President of the holding company erecting the Dayton Biltmore; Frank Robson, general counsel of the Michigan Central Railway; William Comstock, President of the International Bridge between Detroit and Windsor, and Willard A. Bartlett, Secretary-Treasurer of the Central Realty Development Company.

Construction will start within sixty days. Adjoining the hotel will be a great exhibition and commercial garage building.

'ELWELL SLAYER' IS SANE.

But He Was Intoxicated When He Made Lurid "Confession."

Michael Reegan, 33 years old, of 795 Flushing Avenue, Brooklyn, was sane but considerably under the influence of liquor last Saturday when he told the police he murdered Joseph B. Elwell, auction bridge expert, eight years ago in Manhattan, according to Dr. Mortimer Shearman, who has had Reegan under observation at the Kings County Hospital in Brooklyn.

Dr. Shearman said last night that Reegan would be discharged from the hospital and arraigned in the Gates Avenue Court in Brooklyn tomorrow on a charge of vagrancy, on which he was held after his highly colored story of the Elwell murder had been investigated and virtually disproved by Brooklyn detectives.

"He is not insane," said Dr. Shearman. "He was merely intoxicated."

24 CATS ARE KILLED IN FIRE.

But One Escapes $75,000 Jersey Tire Plant Blaze.

Two dozen cats lost their lives when the plant of the Gibraltar Tire and Rubber Company, at Thirteenth Street and Hudson Boulevard, West New York, N. J., burned yesterday. One cat escaped from the second floor of the burning building by way of the fire escape. The cats were pets of the owner, Charles Cholerton. Twelve employes made their way to the street in safety. The damage was reported at $75,000 or $100,000.

Mr. Cholerton is fond of cats and other animals, and it was his custom to take in any stray cats that found their way to that vicinity. The cats were cared for on the second floor of the factory.

Hold-Up Men Rob Dinner Party Host of $3,250, But He Saves $75,000 Gems of Women Guests

Special to The New York Times.

PATERSON, N. J., March 21.—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Levy of 521 Fifteenth Avenue, were celebrating the twenty-second anniversary of their wedding with a dinner this evening, at which there were seven women and no men guests. At about 7:30 o'clock the doorbell rang and when Earl Benson, the butler, answered he was confronted by five well-dressed young men. One announced that they were all Federal detectives and that they wanted to see Mr. Levy, who is a silk merchant. When Mr. Levy came to the door the leader of the men drew a pistol and ordered him upstairs.

Three of the men escorted Mr. Levy to his bedroom, while the two others went to the dining room and stood guard over the butler and the eight women, including Mrs. Levy.

On the way upstairs Mr. Levy drew a six-carat diamond ring from his hand and dropped it on the carpet, unnoticed by the thieves. In the bedroom the robbers compelled their victim to undress, and then tied him to the bed. In his clothes they found $3,250 in cash.

The leader then announced that they were going to bring the women upstairs one at a time and rob them of their valuables. Mr. Levy, realizing that his wife and their guests were wearing about $75,000 worth of jewelry and hoping to scare off the robbers, warned them that they had better be careful, as he was expecting more guests and that the men friends of the women might arrive at any moment. Just then the telephone bell rang, the three hold-up men fled from the bedroom, and, calling on the two in the dining room, made their escape.

Mrs. Levy freed her husband and the police were notified. The Levys gave to the police a description of their assailants, and then went on with their dinner party.

SPECIAL JURY DRAWN FOR KNAPP CHARGES

Trial List for Special Panel in Case of Indictment Is Also Chosen.

NEW WITNESSES TO APPEAR

Medalie Will Offer Testimony Not Heard by Le Boeuf From Score of Persons.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 21.—Following the impanelling today of a special Grand Jury to consider the charges made against Mrs. Florence E. S. Knapp, former Secretary of State, in connection with her administration of the $1,200,000 1925 State Census fund, it became known that several witnesses who previously have not figured in the case will be called before the Grand Jury. These new witnesses, it was indicated, will present some startling evidence.

The charges made against Mrs. Knapp by Moreland Act Commissioner Randall J. Le Boeuf Jr. of Albany will be laid before the Grand Jury by Special Deputy Attorney General, George Z. Medalie, beginning April 5. Mr. Medalie was designated by Attorney General Albert Ottinger to handle the case last year, when Governor Smith turned the Le Boeuf charges over to him after District Attorney Charles J. Herrick of Albany had decided against jury action.

Mr. Medalie was present at the impanelling of the Grand Jury. In addition, a special panel of thirty-six trial jurors was drawn, from which twelve will be selected to try Mrs. Knapp if an indictment is returned against her.

Mr. Medalie refused to disclose the identity of the new witnesses who will be summoned before the Grand Jury. It was learned, however, that at least twenty more witnesses will testify than were called by Mr. Le Boeuf in his investigation last Fall.

In his report to Governor Smith Mr. Le Boeuf charged Mrs. Knapp with forgery, grand larceny and other felonies, as well as many misdemeanors. Mr. Medalie and his four assistants, who are now preparing the case for submission to the Grand Jury, have indicated that they expect to secure at least two and possibly three indictments against Mrs. Knapp.

Mr. Le Boeuf also recommended that the Grand Jury investigate the alleged part played by Deputy Secretary of State Mark Stern, Julia Ryan, former head of the payroll division of the Civil Service Department, and Anne L. Little, an auditor in the State Department. Mr. Medalie has refused to say whether he would seek an indictment against any of these persons.

Included among the twenty-four Grand Jurors who will hear the charges against Mrs. Knapp are leading Albany bankers and business men. Some of the more prominent are Jacob H. Herzog, Vice President of the National Commercial Bank and Trust Company; Chauncey D. Hakes, head of the Albany Garage and Chairman of the Albany Airport Commission; Theodore Cox, head of the Cox Brass Manufacturing Company; Jonas Muhlfelder, owner of a large department store, and Addison Keim, a bank cashier.

SANITY TEST FOR GIRL.

Miss Koenig, Accused as Forger, Is Committed to Bellevue.

Collette Koenig of 1,024 Park Avenue appeared yesterday before Magistrate Brough in Yorkville Court on a charge of forgery and was committed to Bellevue Hospital for observation. Her mother and a psychiatrist had signed affidavits in which they declared the girl was insane.

The Magistrate adjourned the forgery charge for ten days during which she will be examined at the hospital. Pending the outcome of observation by alienists Miss Koenig was continued in $1,000 bail.

The forgery charge was brought by a detective of Saks, Fifth Avenue. Testimony yesterday brought out allegations of several stores who charge the girl with purchasing merchandise with forged checks. She was originally held on a complaint of Black, Starr & Frost, jewelers, but when arraigned several days ago she was held on the Saks charge.

During the hearing the mother held the girl in her arms, and both were in tears.

HELEN MORGAN RAID BRINGS NEW ROW

Return of Furnishings Is Halted Over Campbell's Ban on Photographing Them.

CLUB GETS EFFECTS TODAY

Tuttle Denies That Whole Incident Will Be Taken Into Court Again for a Decision.

Prohibition Administrator Maurice Campbell brought the Chez Helen Morgain raid, in which furnishings worth about $50,000 were carted away by his agents, back into the lime-light yesterday, as the result of a fight over taking photographs of the seized furnishings as they were being removed from the Knickerbocker Warehouse and restored to their owners.

When the raid was first made there was a storm of protest and much speculation as to its result on the local prohibition administration. United States Attorney Tuttle, after many weeks and much negotiation, finally disposed of the whole matter apparently to the satisfaction of all concerned. Minor employes of the night club were fined, the charge against Miss Morgan was dismissed and the furniture was ordered restored to its owners.

The restoration of the furniture yesterday was to have been the final incident. But when newspaper photographers appeared to take pictures of the furniture as it was brought out the prohibition agents on the scene threw the whole affair into new prominence.

They insisted that Major Campbell would not hear of their being allowed to take pictures. Meanwhile Major Campbell's own photographers were taking pictures as rapidly as possible. The newspaper photographers appealed to J. Arthur Adler, Miss Morgan's attorney, who demanded that they be allowed to take pictures, saying that he was just as interested in a photographic record as was Major Campbell.

Much telephoning ensued, the result of which later was conflictingly reported. At the warehouse it was said that Major Campbell had been reached, and he in turn had talked with Mr. Tuttle, who suggested that the furniture be left in the warehouse until today and the whole incident be aired again in court. Whatever did happen, the moving men abandoned their efforts, and it was said that the remaining loads would be carted to the night club today.

Mr. Tuttle said that he would "never think of bringing such a question up in court." He said that neither Major Campbell nor any one else had consulted him in the matter and he did not have the slightest interest in it.

Special to The New York Times.

MILFORD, Conn., March 21.—Richard Well and Julius Stursburg, Yale sophomores; Miss Loretta Riley, aged 21, and Miss Louise Mitchell, 22 years old, of New Haven, were injured this morning when an automobile driven by Well left the Boston Post Road, rammed a boulder and smashed into a pole near the Milford Hospital.

Well sustained concussion of the brain and had lacerations of the body, Stursburg received a deep cut in the head and the young women suffered lacerations of the face and body. They were all treated at Milford Hospital where the men remain.

The police declare that Well was driving recklessly and lost control of the car which was wrecked when it crashed into the pole.

LINKS ROCKEFELLER IN STRIKE BLAME

Union Official Says Schwab Also Shared Chief Part in Breaking Coal Compact.

ATTACKS JUDGE LAZZELLE

Jurist, Bittner Testifies, Ruled on Mine in Which He Was Interested—Former Denies It.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—John D. Rockefeller Jr. and Charles M. Schwab were accused today of responsibility for the "unlawful abrogation of contracts" entered into by the United Mine Workers of America and the Northern West Virginia Coal Operators Association under the Baltimore wage scale agreement of 1924. Van A. Bittner, a representative of the mine workers' union, made the accusations in the course of his testimony before the Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce which is investigating strike conditions in the bituminous coalfields of Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Ohio.

"The mine operators of Northern West Virginia, headed by our friend, John D. Rockefeller Jr., did worse than any one else in the unlawful breach of contract," said Mr. Bittner. Schwab was the first operator in Northern West Virginia to abrogate wage contracts, notwithstanding the fact that he has made speeches all over the United States saying he has never had any trouble with his mine employes."

Mr. Bittner's attack on Mr. Rockefeller was based on the "almost certain" fact that Rockefeller interests control the Consolidation Coal Company, which is a member of the Northern West Virginia Coal Operators' Association.

The only sarcasm indulged by Mr. Bittner at the expense of Mr. Schwab grew out of an alleged abrogation of contract by the Bethlehem Corporation in 1924. The Bethlehem Mine Corporation is a subsidiary of Bethlehem Steel, of which Mr. Schwab is Chairman of the Board of Directors.

Operators and the Courts.

Mr. Bittner called attention to the "influence the operators have over the courts in West Virginia."

"We went to Mr. Hoover in 1925," he said, "and told him of our troubles. He said there was absolutely no doubt that our contract had been abrogated. He was most emphatic about it. When we asked him what to do he advised us to go to the local courts."

The miners took Mr. Hoover's advice, Mr. Bittner said, drawing up an application for an injunction in the Autumn of 1926. This application they took to Judge I. Grant Lazzelle in West Virginia.

"We didn't know at the time," Mr. Bittner said, "that Judge Lazzelle was interested in the coal company controlled by James A. Paisley, and he didn't tell us. Later on we learned that he and his family received at least $60,000 a year from the company for a lease."

Senator Wagner of New York broke in with the assertion that he thought there was a law in all States preventing a Judge from sitting in a case in which he was financially interested. Mr. Bittner replied that no law had prevented Judge Lazzelle's from denying the miners' right to an injunction.

"One Judge like that," said Mr. Bittner, "makes more anarchists than anything else in the world."

According to Mr. Bittner, the Consolidation Coal Corporation issued notice in the Spring of 1925 that it intended abrogating the wage agreement. The witness read telegrams exchanged between John L. Lewis, President of the United Mine Workers, and C. W. Watson, President of the Consolidation Coal Company. In the opinion of Mr. Lewis, the company broke its agreement for "the specious reason that certain other companies have done so and in pursuance of the fallacy that certain employes have asked you to break your duly executed contract."

Evictions From Company Homes.

Miners who had worked for the Consolidation coal interests for twenty-seven years were evicted from their company-owned homes, according to Mr. Bittner.

"Even the relatives of those killed in the explosion of 1907 were evicted by the Rockefeller interests," he declared. In the explosion referred to 361 of 362 persons in a mine were killed.

Mr. Bittner said that Mr. Rockefeller had undoubtedly "salved his conscience" by explanations prepared for him by George Anderson, a "Rockefeller man" who is a Vice President and Director of the Consolidation.

Efforts by Senator Wheeler to discover the exact amount of stock in the Consolidation owned by Mr. Rockefeller were futile.

"I don't know how much he owns," said Mr. Bittner, "but it is the understanding of local officers of the company that the Rockefellers control the stock."

He said that only once had the Consolidation offered to explain why it had made a breach of contract and hired non-union men. This was the explanation prepared by Mr. Anderson and issued by Mr. Rockefeller.

Falsehoods, Says Judge Lazzelle.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., March 21 (AP).—Circuit Court Judge I. Grant Lazzelle tonight said that the testimony of Van A. Bittner before the Senate Coal Investigation Committee today, in so far as it dealt with the refusal of an injunction by the Judge in 1926, was "a mesh of falsehoods around just enough truth to make them the more damnable." The Judge said he had inherited a small interest in undeveloped coal which was leased to James A. Paisley of Cleveland.

"Up to this time," the Judge said, "not a ton of the coal leased by the Lazzelle heirs has been mined and therefore any decision that might be handed down affecting operation of mines would have no effect on the royalty on undeveloped coal."

Two Towns Post Air Markers.

Special to The New York Times.

FREEPORT, L. I., March 21.—On the roof of the new six-story building of the First National Bank and Trust Company of Freeport, now under construction, will be painted the name of the village in large letters and an arrow will point in the general direction of the flying fields at Mineola. At Long Beach the name of the city has been painted on the huge gas tank that towers 206 feet in the air. This was done under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce. Both of these markers follow the specifications of the War Department and will be noted on the official maps of the Army Air Service.

Will Rogers Says Smith Made Those Fellows 'Lay Off'

To the Editor of The New York Times:

RALEIGH, N. C., March 21.—With Pilot Yost of Pinehurst caught a tail wind and flew in here from Atlanta, over 400 miles, in less than four hours. This is the line they are going to put an air mail route on to New York. Certainly need one through line to the South like they have to the Coast.

Having dinner tonight with Josephus Daniels, who used to handle the navy before we contributed to the social success of a conference and sunk ours, thinking we would shame somebody into following suit.

Say, Al Smith kinder made those fellows lay off somebody's name when they couldn't prove what they said, didn't he?

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

IRISH ARMS PLOT BARED IN LONDON

Republicans Drop Package in Street and Pistols Strew the Pavement.

ESCAPE WITH WEAPONS

Scotland Yard Admits Efforts to Track Smugglers Operating From the Continent.

LONDON, March 21.—A plot to arm Irish Republicans with Continent-made automatic pistols smuggled through London was revealed today by the chance dropping of a package from a motor truck at Westminster Bridge, within a stone's throw of the Houses of Parliament.

When an elderly pedestrian kindheartedly ran to pick up the package and restore it to the truck, he found himself looking down the muzzle of a pistol menacingly held by a man who had jumped off the vehicle.

"Stand back, friend, or you'll get plugged," said a gruff voice in an Irish brogue.

Astonished and somewhat frightened, the pedestrian held up his hands while the gunman's confederates snatched up the package. But the bottom fell out and a number of automatics clattered to the roadway.

Although the incident took place within 200 yards of Police Headquarters, the gunmen escaped with the firearms. It was found that the truck's registration plates were faked.

Upon the announcement of this chance discovery, the police authorities admitted they had information that 100 Irish gunmen were engaged in smuggling firearms into London. They believe that owing to the recent activities of special officers from Scotland Yard the gunmen became uneasy and started to change the hiding places where the arms were stored.

The police are still puzzled to know what country is arming disaffected young Irishmen, but have been aware for some time that arms have been reaching London from the Continent. This smuggling, they say, has been facilitated by the lack of coast guards, whose numbers have been considerably reduced by the Government on the ground of economy.

Apparently it is a simple matter for a motor boat to evade the customs watchers along deserted stretches of the southern English coast, particularly in the Straits of Dover, which are frequently shrouded by fog. Good roads connect the coast with London, over which there is a constant stream of fast motor traffic both day and night, thus facilitating the smuggling of dutiable commodities besides arms. The customs officers declare that there is an enormous illicit trade in brandies, saccharine and other Continental products.

DUBLIN, March 21.—Dublin detectives are cooperating with the London police in attempting to discover arms dumps in Ireland, although it is not believed that the traffic has reached any considerable size. Most of the dumps in Ireland were seized during the last three years, and measures were taken against a small crowd of Irish Republican Army extremists whose activities have been closely watched.

Efforts to arouse the people against the Government have been made by a small remnant of the gunmen, but the leaders admit that they have been hard pressed by the authorities and that their terrorism is not likely to succeed.

As the smuggled arms would probably fall into the hands of the Free State authorities, the probability is that the Irish Republican Army intends to establish dumps in England where the movements of the extremists are not watched, and then to rush the arms to Ireland if at any time there is a prospect of a fight on the Government.

A rising now or in the future would not meet with any public support and the police and military would break its back in twenty-four hours.

T. P. O'CONNOR SAILS HOME.

Says He Got Endowment Here to Aid Irish Children.

T. P. (Tay Pay) O'Connor, M. P., sailed for home early this morning on the Aquitania, after a four weeks' visit to this country, all of which he spent in New York City.

The Irish statesman and journalist said that during his visit he succeeded in interesting a group of wealthy American men in an endowment plan he has conceived to provide vocational training for Irish boys and girls living in the British Isles. Under the present educational system in England and Scotland, as well as in Ireland, he said, most of them discontinue their studies when they reach the age of fourteen.

The majority of these boys and girls, he said, enter "blind alley" occupations, which offer little, if any, opportunity for advancement.

DANZIGER PLEADS GUILTY TO BRIBERY

Halts Bootleg Milk Trial to Admit Crime, His Hope for Immunity Dashed.

LEARNS FATE TOMORROW

Says in Pedigree He Has Been Arrested Several Times and Was Convicted Once.

ACTS WHEN LENIENCY FAILS

Bronx Prosecutor's Statement That He Had No Power to Ask Immunity Shattered Defense.

The trial of Harry M. Danziger for bribery in connection with the bringing of bootleg milk into New York City, which started Monday in the Queens County Court in Long Island City, ended suddenly yesterday in the middle of the State's case when the defendant's attorney announced that his client was ready to plead guilty. The plea was accepted by Judge Adel and Danziger was remanded to the Queens County jail pending sentence tomorrow.

Danziger represented in New York City various milk dealers whose dairies were outside the official "milk shed," and who were trying to get their milk into the city. During the investigation carried on in three counties within the city early in 1926, Danziger decided to "tell all" and his evidence was instrumental in sending several persons connected with milk bootlegging to prison. He also appeared as a witness in the more recent Kelby investigation into the milk situation. He was indicted for bribery in the Spring of 1926 in Queens County, but because of the need of him by various officials he was not brought to trial until this week.

Hoped for Immunity.

On Monday he went to trial under the indictment charging that on Nov. 24, 1924, at the Albert Inn at Forest Hills he paid a bribe of $1,440 to Thomas J. Clougher, secretary to Dr. Frank Monaghan, at that time Health Commissioner.

From the beginning Danziger relied upon immunity in return for assistance given the various investigators. Before the trial opened his attorney argued for the dismissal of the indictment on the ground that the aid and assistance Danziger had given the officials entitled him to such consideration.

On Tuesday, when an attempt was made by the State to read into the record a statement of Danziger before the Queens Grand Jury, his attorney tried to keep it out by taking the stand and testifying that immunity had been promised to Danziger. To strengthen his contention, Danziger's attorney late Tuesday afternoon called District Attorney William F. McGeehan of the Bronx. Asked if he had not promised Danziger immunity, he answered that he had promised not to prosecute Danziger in the Bronx, but said that since he had no authority to do so he had made no promises as to other counties except that he would ask the authorities to "go easy" with the defendant.

Severe Blow to the Defense.

This testimony was a severe blow to the defense, and when Court opened yesterday morning with the State ready to proceed with its proof, Danziger's attorney made his announcement.

After he had entered a plea of guilty, Danziger was sworn and his pedigree taken. He said that he had been arrested several times before, but could not remember the exact number. One charge was extortion. He was found guilty, but did not go to jail. He said that was in January, 1927.

EARLY TRIAL FOR JANITOR.

Dodd Promises Quick Action in Slaying of Teacher.

A speedy trial was promised yesterday for Martin Luther Miller, colored janitor accused of having killed Mrs. Helen Chevalier Kimball, Brooklyn school teacher, in her home at 1,081 Park Place, Brooklyn, early Monday morning. At the office of District Attorney Dodd it was said that Miller would be arraigned today and every effort would be made to have him go on trial next Monday.

Detective Thomas Crook of Brooklyn Police Headquarters went to Albany yesterday to obtain the signature of Governor Smith on extradition papers. This morning he will take them to Governor Moore at Trenton. He will pick up Miller at Paterson.

Detectives visited Miller's room at 1,170 Lincoln Place, Brooklyn, yesterday and found, they said, half a dozen notes addressed to housewives in the neighborhood. Most of them read, "will you please lend me $2," while others asked for $1. The police are endeavoring to link the notes with Miller's alleged confession in which he was said to have claimed shooting Mrs. Kimball when she refused to lend him $2.

THEFT AT MARRIAGE BUREAU

Drawer Is Jimmied and Cash Stolen After Office Hours.

About $30 in cash and $12 worth of stamps, which had been placed in the drawer in the cashier's cage of the Marriage License Bureau after the day's proceeds had been locked in the safe, were stolen about an hour after the office closed yesterday. The drawers had been jimmied.

City Clerk Michael J. Cruise said that it was "a kid's job." The theft, he said, was probably committed by some one who had been loitering around at about 5 o'clock.

RADIO BILL REPORT ADOPTED BY HOUSE

Joint Conference's Version of the Distribution Clause Meets No Opposition.

SOUTHERNERS DISSATISFIED

Missive Is Expected to Be Approved by Senate and the President This Week.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—The conference report on the Radio bill, extending the life of the Federal Radio Commission for another year and embodying the new plan of distributing wave lengths and power, was adopted by the House today practically without opposition. Indications are the report will be accepted by the Senate tomorrow and approved by the President later in the week.

While Southern Democrats who forced the adoption of the "equitable" distribution clause were not entirely satisfied with the provision as modified in conference committee, they made no attempt to hold up the bill today.

Chairman White of the Merchant Marine Committee said that under the compromise amendment the people of the five zones are entitled to equality of radio broadcasting, and that this end would be attained by the bill in its present form. He added:

"It includes substantially the provisions of the House amendment with respect to the equitable allocation within the zones. It further carries a direction to the licensing authority as to the means of bringing about this equality of broadcasting service.

"It carries an express provision that if and where there is a lack of applications from any zone for that zone's proportionate part of the licenses, wave lengths, time of operations or power to which it is entitled, that the licensing authority may issue licenses for that part of the proportion not applied for from any zone, to applicants from other zones for temporary periods of time."

Mr. Davis insisted that his amendment as originally adopted by the House did not leave as much room for interpretation by the commission as the compromise clause.

"The amendment agreed to," said Mr. Davis, "merely adds more words to my original idea. I want to serve notice on the House that there can be no equal allocation of wave lengths, power and licenses without an entirely new assignment. The only way to correct the present inequalities is to make a new reallocation and reassignment, and this, I take it, will be done under the present bill."

BROOKLYN STATION ENDS IOWA SQUEAL

WLTH Receives Reports From Pacific Coast of Elimination of KTNT's Interference.

Radio listeners over a considerable portion of the country have reported clear reception on the wave of WLTH since the installation of an interference detector by that station in Brooklyn to eliminate squeals and whistles caused by KTNT of Muscatine, Iowa, Samuel J. Gellard, President of the local broadcaster, reported yesterday.

Since March 12, Mr. Gellard said, during hours when interference from the Muscatine station was formerly greatest, the trouble had been reduced to a value which was no longer audible to radio fans. WLTH and KTNT operating together in the 1,170-kilocycle channel made it necessary for one of the stations to use the other's wave as a monitor in order that trouble might be eliminated, he said.

"Reports from the Pacific Coast and many nearer points indicate that our monitored broadcast of March 12 was the first that was clearly received for months," said Mr. Gellard. "Since that time reports of better reception have been received from Illinois, Wisconsin, New England, upper New York State and Pennsylvania."

The apparatus consists of a special receiver placed about eight miles from the WLTH transmitter and tuned to the WLTH and KTNT waves. When a whistle is heard the WLTH operator makes a slight adjustment in the Brooklyn station's frequency and clears up the trouble. The whistle is heard on a loud-speaker linked by land wires with the remote receiver.

Mrs. Herbert Hoover, wife of the Secretary of Commerce, is to speak at 11 A. M. on Saturday over WEAF'S chain on "Child Feeding." The address will be a simple exposition of what the growing child should have for breakfast, dinner and supper, according to a representative of the Congressional Club, sponsor of the event.

The Paramount "Pep Club" ball, with Vincent Lopez as master of ceremonies, is scheduled to be on the air on Friday, beginning at midnight, over WMCA and chain. Among the entertainers will be James Gleason, Lucille Webster, Doris Eaton, Mary Eaton, Doris Leslie and Paul Whiteman and his orchestra. The event will be on the air for an indefinite period, according to a station representative.

A radio version of "Dracula" is scheduled for presentation at 8:30 P. M. on Friday, March 30, over WJZ. Among the actors to face the microphone are Bela Lugosa, Dorothy Peterson, Terrence Neill and Edward Van Sloan.

COURT CLEARS POLICEMAN.

Finds He Did Not Try to Shoot Off the Mustache of a Gas Station Man.

Barney Feldberg, night manager of a gasoline filling station at 185th Street and St. Nicholas Avenue, was the complainant against Patrolman Peter P. Smith of the West 135th Street Station in Washington Heights Court yesterday. He charged that the patrolman went to the filling station about 6 A. M., last Thursday to get back his car and that he threw Feldberg against the wall, drew his revolver and said, "I don't like your mustache. I'm going to shoot it off."

Feldberg said that Smith fired one shot. Two other employes of the filling station testified that the patrolman's revolver was discharged accidentally. Magistrate Flood decided that Smith had not tried to shoot off the mustache and dismissed the charge.

Smith has been suspended from duty and faces a departmental inquiry. He lives at 114-21 130th Avenue, Ozone Park, Queens.

FOR UNIFORM TRAFFIC LAW.

Engineering Council Would End Confusion for Touring Motorists.

A uniform traffic control system, designed to eliminate confusion which confronts the motorist as he drives from city to city, will be contained in a report soon to be issued by the American Engineering Council, A. W. Berresford, 35 Fifth Avenue, President of the council, announced yesterday. A committee, working under the direction of W. B. Powell of Buffalo, former traffic engineer of Baltimore, and A. C. Oliphant of Washington, has studied street signs, markings and signals in more than 100 cities in formulating the uniform code.

"Recognizing the wide variation both in type of signs, signals and markings and in their meaning," Mr. Berresford said, "the American Engineering Council, working in cooperation with the Hoover Conference on Street and Highway Safety, aims to eliminate the maze of colors, shapes and meanings that have been attached to every conceivable accessory for the regulation of traffic.

"The State of New Jersey has written part of these recommendations into a uniform State law now before the Legislature, which, it is expected, will be enacted during the present session."

Lawrence Won in Smithtown Branch

In a dispatch yesterday from Smithtown Branch, L. I., it was said in THE NEW YORK TIMES that Arthur B. Livingston had been elected to a one-year term as village trustee. This was an error. Arthur B. Lawrence was elected to that office.

JEWELS BRING $243,000.

$36,000 for Necklet Is Paid in Sale at Christies of Hawkins Collection.

Copyright, 1928, by The New York Times Company.
By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, March 21.—A hundred lots of jewels from the collection of the late C. H. T. Hawkins, which was one of the most extensive in private hands in this country, fetched $243,000 at Christies today.

The biggest price was $36,000, paid for a necklet with a trellis pattern in the centre composed of fourteen large brilliants on smaller stones with a single brilliant snap. It was purchased by one of a number of Parisian buyers who had been attracted to the sale. The total had realized about a third more than had been anticipated.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Advance Again in Another 3,000,000-Share Market.

—Gold Taken for London.

In the twelfth 3,000,000-share market of the present year to date and the ninth consecutive five-hour business day which has passed that little Stock Exchange prizes yesterday repeated the movement of other recent days. Spectacular movements were again distributed to industrial shares which had been left undisturbed for a day or two; in three of these, yesterday's advances ranged from 11 to 17 points. But numerous other stocks rose 4 to 8 points and, although the occasional pressure of realizing sales was sufficient to cancel an initial rise of 7¾ points in Radio shares, for instance, the mood of the speculative market was practically all in one direction.

Wall Street did not attempt to ascribe the continuing violence of this bidding-up of stocks to any change in the general situation. It is noteworthy that even the theory of a "trapped short interest," which a week ago was assigned to account for every advance, has mostly lost its vogue; perhaps because Wall Street knows that the "short interest" always exists, and that the forcing of it into a corner throws the burden of explanation, not upon the fact of existing large commitments for the decline but on the reason for the utterly disproportionate buying orders. This week there have been occasional suggestions that such a market, though it does not reflect unparalleled prosperity, must foreshadow it. There is no doubt that an excited "bull market" has usually come before an outburst of trade activity, but the record is more or less confused by the fact that the stock market has sometimes (as in 1907 and 1909) been swept along by cumulative forces affecting solely its own organism and having little or no relation to the general condition of affairs. Which category the present market belongs to will be tested by events.

The day's news of largest financial interest was the resumption of gold exports to London. At the prevalent sterling rate, the $1,000,000 engagement of yesterday, like the initial shipment of a similar amount on Dec. 6, yielded no profit under the usual calculations of exchange, and was therefore probably facilitated by arrangements made in behalf of the Bank of England. Being accompanied by engagement of $2,000,000 more for continental Europe, it was noteworthy also as marking continuance of the general gold-export movement.

The usually accepted indications of business activities still bear divergent testimony. If the steel trade were to be accepted for the positive barometer of general trade, the prospect would certainly be bright. The mid-week estimates of the steel trade journals now reckon not only that production for the whole March quarter will exceed 1927, but that April promises continuance of the present month's pace. This sustained demand is ascribed primarily to requisitions from the building industry, from motor-car producers, and from the farm-implement trade. Revival in the last-named quarter is a natural result of the much improved agricultural situation in the Northwest and parts of the West, but continuance of building construction on the scale of recent high years, in the face of recent warnings, is a puzzle to the building trade itself, for which the inducement of abundant capital and easy money seems to be the only plausible explanation.

Production of motor-cars 6 per cent. above that of February, 1927, although not up to 1926 and 1924, has occurred notwithstanding an outpull from the Ford works apparently nearly 50,000 cars below last year. Yet other industries have no such story to tell and loadings of railway freight for distribution continue, in yesterday's report for the second week of March, to fall behind both of the last two years. Coal tonnage still accounts for most of the decrease, but coal shipments decrease largely as compared even with 1926, when no dispute in the mining industry was impending.

BAMBERGER PROFIT LOWER.

Decrease of About $110,000 Shown for Year Ended Jan. 31.

L. Bamberger & Co. and subsidiaries report a net profit after depreciation and federal taxes of $3,674,969 for the year ended Jan. 31. Net sales were $33,565,324. The net profits were equivalent to more than four times the annual dividend requirements on the company's $10,000,000 6% per cent. preferred stock issued during the year. Net sales and net profits during the previous year were $32,508,089 and $3,784,827 respectively.

Total current assets shown on the balance sheet as of Jan. 1, 1928, amounted to $14,498,478, compared with current liabilities of $2,662,784. Working capital thus amounted to $11,788,602, the current ratio being over 5.4 to 1.

The company has started the erection of an addition to its store buildings, estimated to cost about $10,000,000, for which it has arranged a mortgage loan of $6,000,000, out of which the present mortgage of $1,926,000 will be paid and the balance applied to the cost of the new building.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

News, Comment and Incident On the Stock Exchange and in the Financial Markets.

Traders seeking to continue the advance had little difficulty in bidding up a long list of stocks on the Stock Exchange yesterday. For their purposes it was the most easily controlled market seen in some days. United States Steel was the feature of the day, with General Motors contesting for the distinction. The whole "play" was in a handful of stocks, most of them of one general group. The bear party seemed to have retired from the field, although brokerage interests reported that new short contracts were being taken on in increasing number.

The Buyers of Stocks.

A cross-section of the order ledgers of Stock Exchange houses would be a highly interesting document. Wall Street believes that it would show the largest public participation in Stock Exchange history. The market has reached a stage where it is the principal topic of conversation in gatherings of all sorts, and all kinds, shapes and descriptions of people, doctoring in bonkers, now are dabbling in stocks. One of Wall Street's biggest traders said yesterday that he had a "tip on Radio" by his chauffeur, who had heard "down at the garage that Radio was going up." He pointed to this as merely an illustration of the class of persons who are swarming to the stock market, excited by the wild trading which has taken place, and by the often-repeated but seldom true stories of fabulous winnings by this or that individual from a small stake. "There are more elevator runners and bootblacks in the stock market today than has ever been the case before," he said. "Stock Exchange history pretty well proves that this sort of traders, who have no business in the market in the first place, usually have the stocks and some one else has the money when all the excitement is over."

The Wall Street Attitude.

Illustrative of the optimistic view which Wall Street is taking toward the stock market, a broker related yesterday the circumstances of an exchange of telegrams between his house and a favored customer. The customer had wired in, asking for suggestions as to the best short sales on the list. The house gave, in effect, this advice: "If you are so foolish as to sell short, why not Liberty bonds. Your risk there will be small."

United States Steel's Advance.

It was freely predicted, following the announcement that the du Pont interests had sold their United States Steel stock, that the market in this issue would collapse. If the du Ponts are selling it, there must be a reason, the speculative fraternity reasoned. Contrary to popular expectation, however, the stock held firm on Tuesday. Yesterday it made a sensational advance, closing with a net gain of 4 points. This tended to support the belief that the du Ponts got out of the stock because they had concluded that the Federal Trade Commission looked with disapproval on their stock holdings.

Gold Goes to London.

Although gold has been moving in heavy volume to South America ever since last Summer, more interest has been aroused in Wall Street by the prospects of a movement of the metal to England than in the much larger amounts that have gone to other parts of the world. This is partly because of the attention that has been attracted by the persistent strength in sterling exchange and the indications that skillful international cooperation has been brought into play to maintain the present exchange relation. Conflicting opinions were expressed on the question whether the $1,000,000 of gold shipped to London yesterday would be followed by other transfers. Most exchange experts figured that it is unprofitable to ship gold to London at the existing rate on sterling, but admitted that special allowances sometimes are made which permit a favorable basis for particular transactions.

Family Names.

The fusion of control of the Mackay Companies and the International Telephone and Telegraph Company was cited in Wall Street yesterday as an instance of how family names are disappearing from American corporate circles. One after another the personal label has been disappearing from American industry. While the Mackay interests will be the largest individual stockholders in the new organization formed to associate the communications companies, the name eventually will cease to play the prominent part it has hitherto held in the public eye. It was remarked that, even in railway finance, the once-familiar title, "Gould roads," has long been forgotten, and few persons speak in these days of the "Vanderbilt lines."

Money in Greater Demand.

Although the call-money rate was ¼ of 1 per cent. lower yesterday than on the previous day, an active demand for funds was in evidence in the last two hours of trading. In the morning, with the official rate at 4½ per cent., plenty of outside money was available at 4 per cent. Later, however, the outside supply was absorbed and a decidedly firmer tone developed. Such changes are considered natural until the market shall have completed its return to normal after last week's tax collections and new financing by the Treasury. By the end of the present week it is expected that these special influences will have ended and that the course of money rates will then depend largely on the extent of business operations and, possibly, the international movement of gold.

MONEY.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 21, 1928.

Stock Exchange call money was easy, rate moving off ¼ to 4¼ per cent., lowest since March 6. There was an active demand for money all day, and in the morning some counter business was placed at 4. However, all offerings were cleaned up at that figure and in the afternoon nothing loaned cheaper than the Board rate. Time money showed no change, 4½ and 4¾ per cent. continuing 60 rule, with most trades at the outside price. Commercial paper and acceptances were unchanged.

$1,000,000 IN GOLD SHIPPED TO LONDON

Wall St. Wonders if Movement of Last December Is to Be Resumed.

NOT DUE TO EXCHANGE RATE

Transfer Believed to Be Special Order—$2,000,000 More Sent to Hamburg.

Gold of the value of $1,000,000 was shippd from New York for London last night, the first movement of the metal between the two financial capitals since last December. The shipment went on the liner Aquitania, sailing at midnight, and it was arranged by the International Acceptance Bank, Inc., which started last year's movement with a transfer of $1,000,000 to London.

The shipment aroused widespread interest in Wall Street, where divided opinions were expressed on the question whether it would be followed by a prolonged movement of gold from the large stocks held here. Based strictly on an exchange basis, it is calculated that shipments of gold are not profitable with the pound sterling at its present level. However, when shipments are made on special order, either of the Bank of England or of other interests in London, allowances are made which provide a profit. This is believed to be the case with the present shipment, although the International Acceptance Bank divulged no details, merely stating that the shipment was being made "on order."

Gold Export Point.

Sterling exchange was quoted yesterday at $4.68¼ for cable transfers, which was a shade lower than on the previous day. In the past it has been calculated that the gold export point from New York was around $4.88⅝, estimates varying from a trifle above to a trifle below that rate. The International Acceptance Bank's shipment last December was made when sterling cables were quoted at $4.88¼, but that was a special transaction. It was followed within a few days by a shipment of $7,500,000 gold by the National City Bank, made when sterling was at $4.88½. This was announced as a strictly exchange transaction, but it was said at the time that the National City, with its extensive facilities, both here and abroad, was able to cut its costs to a level that few other institutions could approach.

The two shipments made in December represented the only gold that had moved from New York to London since 1914. Sterling exchange reacted after the gold was sent, but gradually recovered and for several weeks has been at a point where only a small advance would be necessary to start active preparations for a new movement of gold.

Shipment Discussed.

Although gold has been moving out of New York for foreign countries in large quantities since the first of the year, the previous shipments have not caused anything like the discussion that is centring in the transaction with London. This is partly because of the idea that the latter shipment might be the forerunner of a larger movement and partly because of the indications of powerful international cooperation that has kept gold shipments to England constantly among the possibilities. Since the first of the year a total of $121,000,000 of gold has been exported through New York, the largest amounts going to Argentina and Brazil, although shipments also have been made to France, Germany, Poland and other countries. In the first two months of this year there were imports of $53,000,000 of gold, mostly from Canada. In March, however, imports have been negligible, so that there has been no offset to the heavy exports made this month. The net loss of gold at New York so far this year is about $67,000,000.

A shipment of $2,000,000 of gold to Hamburg also was announced yesterday. The metal was sent by the American Exchange Irving Trust Company. The shipment follows one of $5,000,000 which was sent to Hamburg a week ago. The shipments are understood to represent special transactions for the Reichsbank.

$335,000 for Exchange Seat Sets Third Record This Week

For the third consecutive day this week a new high price was established yesterday for New York Stock Exchange memberships. Arrangements were made for the sale of a seat at $335,000. This was an increase of $5,000 over the record established on the preceding day.

The 1,100 seats on the Stock Exchange have an aggregate market value of $368,500,000 on the basis of yesterday's price.

It was reported that negotiations were under way for the purchase of a seat at $340,000. Predictions were being made a short time ago that the price ultimately would reach $500,000.

MACKAY TRUSTEES RATIFY FUSION PLAN

Approve Linking of Control With International Telephone and Telegraph Company.

EMPLOYES TOLD OF AIMS

President Reassures Them of Continuance and Development of the Organization.

Trustees of the Mackay Companies ratified yesterday agreements made by Clarence H. Mackay, their President, and Sosthenes Behn, President of the International Telephone and Telegraph Company, for fusing control of these companies. At the same time Mr. Mackay issued a statement reassuring members of his organization as to its continuance.

"With reference to the statement appearing in this morning's papers as to the fusion of the Mackay system and the International Telephone and Telegraph Company," Mr. Mackay said, "I wish to say to the staffs of the Postal Telegraph, Commercial Cable and Commercial Pacific companies that the plan involves no loss of identity of the Mackay system or of its officials, but, on the contrary, it is a step toward a bigger and better system. I trust we will continue to work together for many years and I am confident that you will welcome our new allies and will continue the same loyal support a you have always given. There is no finer organization in the world than ours and our aim is to keep it so, which we can do by all redoubling our efforts."

The announced plans call for the formation of a new company in which the Mackay cables and land lines will be vested and eventually the formation of another company to control the cable system alone. It is expected that this latter company will in turn be merged with the All-America Cables, Inc., now controlled by International Telephone, under a new name. The new cable company and the company formed to control lines within the United States would in turn be controlled by an organization in which the Mackay and Behn interests would be dominant.

International Teleph ae does not now operate anywhere within the United States and for this reason it appears that the Mackay system here will operate substantially without important changes. Integration of the Commercial Cable and All-America system will be a more elaborate project.

Present indications are that Mr. Mackay will be the largest individual stockholder in the ecmpany and that eventually will control the international cable system and the Mackay land line system in the United States. However, he will share control with Mr. Behn and the latter's associates.

American Salamandra Gains.

The American Salamandra Corporation, which owns the North Star Insurance Company, reports for 1927 net earnings equal to $12.21 a share on its outstanding capital stock, compared with $2.89 for 1926. The net gain from underwriting for the year is estimated at $180,335, against an underwriting loss in the previous year of $88,145. Income from investments is reported as $269,202, against $197,944 in 1926. The consolidated net earnings are estimated at $457,272.

New Issue

Exempt from all Federal Income Taxes

City of St. Petersburg, Florida

5¾% Bonds

Due serially 1930 to 1953 inclusive

Principal and semi-annual interest payable in New York City. Coupon bonds in the denomination of $1,000.

The City of St. Petersburg, located in an important and productive agricultural section on the West Coast of Florida, is in Pinellas County on Tampa Bay. Founded in 1873, the city has for 54 years enjoyed an unblemished financial record. During this period a steady growth has produced a city which today has a permanent population of 47,629 (1927 Federal Census), a winter population of approximately 125,000, with taxable property valued at $375,000,000 and an assessed valuation of $161,873,412 (1927) against a net bonded indebtedness of $6,727,607. It is now the fourth largest city in Florida, the only larger cities being Miami, Jacksonville and Tampa. The Gandy Bridge, across Tampa Bay, erected at a cost of approximately $4,000,000, by private capital, has reduced the automobile distance between St. Petersburg and Tampa from 44 miles to 19 miles. Railroad facilities are furnished by the Atlantic Coast Line, the Tampa and Gulf Coast and the Seaboard Air Line Railroads. Several steamship lines making connection with New York, Cuba, Panama and Gulf of Mexico ports operate from the City.

The business acumen of the city is shown by the fact that it owns and operates its own water works, gas plant, street railway and light and power systems at a profit; as well as owning valuable waterfront property and numerous parks—in all, property valued at over $33,000,000—an amount approximately ⅓ greater than the total gross debt of the city. City finances are in such good condition that the tax rate for 1927 was reduced to 11½ mills as compared with 13 mills in 1926.

These bonds are general obligations of the entire city, for the payment of which the city is pledged to levy an unlimited ad valorem tax against all of the taxable property therein. They have been validated by a decree of the Circuit Court, which renders them forever incontestable.

CONTINENTAL NATIONAL BANK AND TRUST COMPANY OF CHICAGO AND WILLIAM P. KOPF, TRUSTEES

The following is summarized from official sources:

Missouri River Sioux City Bridge Company will own and operate the toll bridge crossing the Missouri river at Sioux City, Iowa, a rapidly growing manufacturing, distributing, educational and trade center for a wide territory in Iowa, Nebraska, South Dakota and Minnesota, and one of the five greatest live stock markets of the world and the second largest live stock "truck-in" market. Automobile traffic crossing the bridge showed an increase of about 84% in pleasure cars and 100% in trucks in the last five years. In addition to numerous state highways, the bridge serves U. S. Highway 20, the most direct route from Chicago to Yellowstone National Park and a part of one of the main transcontinental highways of the United States, and also serves U. S. Highways 75 and 77, which, together, constitute the favored route from Nebraska to the Minnesota lake region. This is the only bridge, except railroad bridges, spanning the Missouri River between Yankton, South Dakota, 85 miles to the north, and Omaha, Nebraska, 100 miles south.

The bridge, a steel structure of four main truss spans and two approach spans, built upon masonry piers set in rock formation, is approximately 2,000 feet between approaches, 51 feet wide, with two passageways for highway traffic, one for street railway trackage, and two sidewalks. Traffic capacity can be more than doubled by building a highway floor between the trusses in the street railway section. Street railway, telephone and electric power lines are carried under favorable arrangements. Engineers have appraised the total value of the property (less depreciation), as of January 1, 1928, at an amount substantially in excess of the total amount of this issue.

Earnings increased substantially each year from 1922 to 1926. Operations for eight months of 1927 (the roads on the Nebraska side of the bridge being closed for improvements the first part of that year) showed an increase in traffic of approximately 9% over the corresponding period for 1926. Net earnings for 1927 amounted to $145,302.72, or nearly twice the maximum annual interest requirement on this issue. Based upon a detailed and conservative report by Ford, Bacon & Davis, Inc., engineers, a steady future increase in annual net earnings is anticipated.

We offer these Bonds for delivery when, as and if issued and received by us, subject to approval of our Counsel.

Railway Company to Reimburse Treasury for Expenditure of Capital Funds.

$1,250,000 LOAN FOR BRIDGE

Missouri River Property Security for Issue—Other Plans for Financing Announced.

An issue of $17,867,000 of 4½ per cent. refunding and general mortgage bonds of the Wabash Railway Company, Series C, due on April 1, 1978, heads the general list of bond offerings for today. Kuhn, Loeb & Co. will market the issue, subject to the approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission, at a price of 95½ and accrued interest, to yield about 4.74 per cent. The bonds are redeemable as a whole on Oct. 1, 1937, or on any interest date thereafter to April 1, 1973, at 102½ and accrued interest, and thereafter at a premium equal to one-fourth of 1 per cent. for each six-month period remaining until date of maturity, on sixty days' notice. Proceeds will be used to reimburse the treasury for capital expenditures made and to provide funds for other corporate purposes.

Offering of a new issue of $1,250,000 Missouri River Sioux City Bridge Company first mortgage 6 per cent. sinking fund bonds, due on March 15, 1953, and priced at 99 and interest, to yield more than 6.07 per cent., will be made today by H. M. Byllesby & Co., Inc., the Federal Securities Corporation and Harry H. Polk & Co., Inc. Earnings for 1927 amounted to $145,302, or nearly twice the maximum annual interest requirements on this issue.

An issue of $750,000 6 per cent. collateral notes of the Level Club, Inc., of New York has been underwritten by Sawyer Bros., Inc., and Cullen & Drew in connection with the erection, furnishing and equipping of a club building at 253-267 West Seventy-third Street. The club, which was chartered in 1920, is limited to members of the Masonic fraternity and has a membership of more than 4,000.

George M. Forman & Co. will offer tomorrow a new issue of $3,500,000 North Continent Utilities Corporation first collateral lien and refunding gold bonds, Series A, 5½ per cent., due on Jan. 1, 1948, at a price to yield about 5.75 per cent.

NEW YORK DOCK CO. TO BORROW $10,000,000

Proceeds of Note Issue to Be Used in Part to Pay for New Factory Building.

The New York Dock Company is soon to finance extensive improvements by an offering of $10,000,000 notes through interests headed by A. B. Leach & Co. and Halsey, Stuart & Co. This, the first public financing by the company in twenty-seven years, will be used to pay for a ten-story factory building nearing completion and for other purposes.

The company owns two and one-half miles of waterfront from the Brooklyn Bridge to the Erie Basin. Its properties have been assessed at $27,500,000 for tax purposes. They include 100 storage buildings, 60 factory buildings, 10 miles of wharves, 34 piers and 3 railroad terminals. Twenty steamship lines and ships from forty countries use the piers.

After the new financing the balance sheet, as of Nov. 30, 1927, shows net tangible assets of $42,691,000, after liabilities other than funded debt, or a ratio of tangible assets to the $22,500,000 of funded debt to be outstanding, including the new issue, of nearly two to one. The company has paid 5 per cent. dividends for ten years on its preferred stock.

KINGS COUNTY LIGHTING CO.

New Preferred Stock Issue to Finance Extension of Service.

The Kings County Lighting Company plans to finance additions and improvements from the proceeds of the sale of a new issue of $1,500,000 of 5 per cent. cumulative preferred stock, which was offered yesterday by W. C. Langley & Co. at $100 a share and accrued dividends.

The Kings County Lighting Company, which is controlled by the Long Island Lighting Company, reported in 1927 a net income of $1,021,585, and a balance of $694,326 for dividends and reserves, equal to 3.4 times the annual dividend requirements on the preferred stock outstanding, including this issue.

BOND MARKET STEADY, SPECIALTIES ACTIVE

Trading Heavy in New Milwaukee Issues—Andes Copper 7s Also in Demand.

The bond market continued yesterday to be largely a specialty affair, with the averages showing virtually no variation from the previous day but with wide movements in individual issues influenced by special conditions. The main body of investment issues was about steady, with a good demand apparent whenever prices were shaded. The volume of trading was considerably larger than on Tuesday.

Activity was renewed in the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific 5s of 1975 and adjustment 6s of 2000, with the former ¼ point higher at the close and the latter 1⅛ points higher. A total of more than $2,000,000 face value of these bonds changed hands. These two issues were heavily traded in last week, but in recent days had become less active. Interest in the securities was renewed yesterday by the final court move, which put the old St. Paul road officially out of business and fixed the status of the new company. Another active issue was Minneapolis & St. Louis first 4s, which advanced a point as a result of the move to have this road taken over by the Northern Pacific and the Great Northern. Iowa Central bonds, which constitute a lien on the Minneapolis & St. Louis, also advanced.

Transactions in Andes Copper 7s, a convertible issue, amounted to more than $800,000, and the close was at a new high record, with a gain of 1¼ points for the day. International Telephone and Telegraph 4½s and Commercial Cable 4s were higher, following the formal announcement of the plan to merge these companies with the International Telephone and Telegraph Company.

Foreign bonds were firm, with activity in several of the French and German issues, Colombia 6s, Polish 7s and Argentine 6s. United States Government securities turned rather dull after the previous day's activity, but their prices remained steady.

$600,000 ORDER ENDS SALE OF CITY'S BONDS

Blocks of $5,000,000, $4,000,000 and $2,800,000 Taken —Books Closed.

Winding up one of the quickest sales of New York City's bonds in recent years, the syndicate's books were closed at 11 A. M. yesterday on the issue of $52,000,000 of 4 per cent. corporate stock, which was brought out on March 1, at 101 and interest, to yield more than 3.70 per cent., by a group of forty-two New York banks and banking houses, headed by the National City Company. The last parcel of $600,000 went to a single buyer after a few minutes of telephoning yesterday morning.

The National City Company, as syndicate manager, reported that the largest single order received was for $5,000,000 of the bonds, with one order for $4,000,000 and another for $2,800,000. The remainder of the issue went in blocks of $250,000 to $500,000, with the bulk of it going to corporations. In some cases the city's bonds replaced corporations' holding of Liberty and United States Treasury short-term obligations, due to the unusually short maturity of this issue, which will fall due on Dec. 31, 1931.

It is estimated that there is now about $10,000,000 or $15,600,000 of long-term New York City bonds in the market, an amount that would militate against a further offering of city bonds at this time.

72,986 Own General Motors.

Holders of common and preferred stock of the General Motors Corporation who will receive dividends for the first quarter of 1928 number 72,986, comparing with 66,209 in the fourth quarter in 1927 and with a previous high record of 72,665 for the second quarter of 1922. In the first quarter last year there were 56,520 stockholders.

FINANCIAL ENCYCLOPAEDIA

DIVERSIFICATION: Investment funds are frequently diversified by acquiring a number of different types of securities. The principle of scattering risks in many good securities instead of one is generally conceded to increase the factor of safety. While greater safety is the principal advantage dashed from diversification, it can be skillfully employed to benefit the investor in other ways. Diversification of maturity dates prevents the sudden unemployment of the entire fund at one time and possible large loss of interest. Diversification of interest dates insures the receipt of a steady income throughout the year. Geographical diversification safeguards against regional depressions and diversification as to business against unfavorable conditions in a particular industry. There is also a form of diversification as to income by placing a small portion of the fund in securities of higher income and greater speculative possibilities than the investor would feel justified in venturing for the entire fund.

MILLIONS TO A. T. & T. FROM SUBSIDIARY

Western Electric's Dividends to Parent in 1927 Amounted to $86,250,000.

Volume of Sales Increased in Year, but Receipts Declined, Annual Report Shows.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Company received $86,250,000 last year in dividends from the Western Electric Company, its manufacturing subsidiary, according to the annual report of the latter organization. This distribution comprised $7,500,000 in regular dividends and $48,750,000 in a special dividend of $13 a share declared on the 3,750,000 shares of stock outstanding after the old 750,000 shares were divided five for one.

Net earnings of Western Electric in 1927 were $17,356,417, equal to $23.14 a share on the old capitalization of 750,000 shares, against $14,573,000 or $19.43 a share in 1926. On the new capitalization, earnings in 1927 were equal to $4.63 a share. Gross sales were $253,784,000 in 1927, against $243,105,000 in 1926.

Many Employes Dropped.

The report shows that nearly 5,000 employes were dropped from the payrolls in 1927.

The company's statements for 1927 and 1926 follow:

	1927.	1926.
Other domestic sales	9,228,000	12,219,000
Export	4,488,000	4,313,000
Other income	2,068,012	4,438,650
Total income	$255,818,067	$247,736,824
Costs	208,472,853	201,007,954
Interest	1,982,857	1,997,595
Net income	$17,356,417	$14,978,968
Dividends	7,500,000	7,500,800
Surplus	$9,856,417	$7,474,568

Although revenue from sales decreased, the volume of sales increased about 3 per cent. in 1927. This decline in revenue resulted from lower prices for materials and hence for finished products.

Assets Decreased.

The balance sheet shows decreases in security holdings from $47,855,000 to $30,249,000; in merchandise inventories from $61,455,000 to $52,680,000, and in cash from $7,654,000 to $5,126,000. Land and buildings account increased from $35,173,000 to $38,309,000 and machinery and equipment from $43,034,000 to $47,926,000. Surplus increased from $6,908,000 to $12,987,000. Total assets decreased from $335,291,000 to $315,751,000.

At the close of the year, employes numbered 40,585 against 45,110 at the end of 1926. From a payroll of $31,000,000 in 1927, about 10 per cent., or $3,050,000, was set aside by employes for thrift. Under a stock purchase plan, 29,531 employes are subscribing to 141,924 shares of American Telephone stock with a market value of $22,000,000. Of eligible employes, 19 per cent. subscribed to this stock in 1927 against 61 per cent. in 1926.

Edgar S. Bloom, President, said operations were better and more uniformly controlled in 1927 than ever before.

PERE MARQUETTE NET SHOWS DECLINE IN 1927

Reports $8,291,668, a Drop of $801,356—Total Assets Rise to $168,264,104.

The condensed report of earnings in 1927 of the Pere Marquette Railway, issued yesterday, showed a surplus of $7,176,924, after expenses, taxes, interest and other charges, compared with $7,702,004 in the preceding year. Gross revenues totaled $44,744,598, against $45,779,700 in the year before.

Railway operating expenses in 1927 aggregated $31,682,864, compared with $31,886,011 in 1926. Other immediate charges, including taxes, uncollectible railway revenues, equipment and joint facility rents, totaled $3,819,981, against $4,190,465 in the preceding year. Interest charges aggregated $2,564,145, against $2,565,748. Net railway operating income was $8,291,668, against $8,798,224 in 1926, the same as was reported in the preliminary account.

After dividends, loss on retired road and equipment, miscellaneous expenses, debit items, surplus for investment in physical property and credit balance carried to general balance sheet, the profit and loss account revealed a total of $168,264,104.

Total assets as of Dec. 31, 1927, were $168,264,104, an increase of $5,699,613 above 1926. Current assets totaled $12,065,577, while current liabilities were $5,826,624. Corporate surplus of the Pere Marquette as of Dec. 31, 1927, was $38,521,227. In connection with the latter figure the road shows that on Nov. 2, 1927, a dividend of $140,000 was declared on the prior preference stock, and $156,368 on the preferred stock, both payable Feb. 1, 1928, to cover the three months ended Jan. 31, 1928.

OPPOSES OFFER OF MERGER.

W. Emlen Roosevelt Speaks of Minneapolis & St. Louis R. R.

The offer of the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific Railroads to include the Minneapolis & St. Louis Railroad in their proposed merger is unacceptable to those whom he represents, W. Emlen Roosevelt said yesterday. His firm, Roosevelt & Son, has taken an active part in the attempts to reorganize the Minneapolis & St. Louis, which has been in receivership since 1925. The offer to which he referred was made to the Interstate Commerce Commission by officials of the other roads on Monday. It was "not even a basis" for discussion with the bondholders, he said.

"While the ultimate disposition of the reorganized Minneapolis & St. Louis may well be included in a larger system," Mr. Roosevelt said, "it is obvious that until the road is reorganized there is no one in a position to represent its security holders in negotiations for the sale of its properties and no one in a position to accept an offer for that property."

SOUTHERN PACIFIC'S PLANS.

Capital Expenditures of $11,000,000 Likely to Be Increased.

Construction work, new facilities and improvements under way on the Southern Pacific lines on Jan. 1, called for about $11,000,000, while work authorized since that time or still under consideration may involve the expenditure of about $20,000,000, according to a statement made yesterday by Henry W. de Forest, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the company. Large expenditures have been going on for the past three years, according to the statement, although the results were not reflected in the earnings for 1925 and 1926 and only partly so in 1927.

Included in the improvements are completion of construction work in the Rio Grande Valley of Texas, relocation of the Globe branch because of the construction of the Coolidge Dam in Arizona, extension of certain double track work, amplification of yards and freight terminals in various cities, the purchase of new equipment and standard gauging the tracks of the Nevada, California & Oregon Railroad.

Chinese Railway Wants Cars.

The Pittsburgh Coal Company has ordered 600 mine cars from the Lorain Steel Company. The Chinese Eastern Railway has requested bids in May on 660 four-wheel twenty-five-ton box cars and 330 eight-wheel fifty-ton box cars. The Chicago Rapid Transit Company has inquired for 50 to 100 motor passenger cars and 50 to 100 traller cars.

Fewer Surplus Freight Cars.

Class 1 railroads on March 1 had 138,870 freight cars in need of repair, as compared with 136,346 on Feb. 15, according to the American Railway Association. On March 8 they had 352,854 surplus cars in good repair, as against 372,916 on Feb. 29. Of these, coal cars numbered 165,575; box cars, 139,917; stock cars, 22,452, and refrigerator cars, 13,710.

FIVE OIL COMPANIES REPORT EARNINGS

Three Made Less in 1927 Than in 1926 and One Ended Year With a Deficit.

MARGAY OIL SHOWS GAIN

Other Statements Issued by Gulf, Standard of Ohio, Mid-Continent and Solar Refining.

Reports of the earnings of five oil companies for the year ending on Dec. 31, 1927, were issued yesterday. Of the five statements, only one showed an increase over the preceding year. On the other hand, only one of the companies reported a net loss for the year.

The net profit of the Gulf Oil Corporation and subsidiaries for 1927, after depreciation, depletion, interest and Federal taxes, amounted to $19,707,037, equal to $8.66 a share earned on 4,450,116 shares of $25 par stock. This compared with $35,098,077, or $7.96 a share, earned on 4,414,016 shares in 1926.

Standard Oil of Ohio.

The report of the Standard Oil Company of Ohio for 1927 shows a net profit of $2,335,042 from operations, after expenses, depreciation and oasis. This was equal after preferred dividends to $2.29 a share earned on 860,000 common shares of $25 par value. It compared with $3,207,429, or $4.85 a share, earned in 1926. No reserve was set up and no provision made for Federal taxes for 1927, as the loss caused by the obsolescence of the company's Burton stills more than offset the earnings.

Gross profit was $11,107,630 and expenses were $7,336,087. Depreciation of $1,446,501 was charged against earnings. The surplus after dividends was $445,042. The profit and loss surplus was $19,197,063 at the close of 1927, after $2,756,622 loss on Burton stills and other adjustments, against $20,927,139 at the end of 1926.

Mid-Continent Petroleum.

The report of the Mid-Continent Petroleum Corporation and subsidiaries for 1927 shows a profit of $3,298,575 after interest, depreciation, depletion, abandoned and surrendered leaseholds and other charges, but with no mention of Federal taxes. This was equivalent to $2.02 a share on the 1,410,000 shares of no par value common stock after preferred dividends. Net profit for 1926 after all expenses, including Federal taxes, was $8,615,711, equivalent, after preferred dividends, to $6 a share on the common stock then outstanding.

Jacob France, President of the corporation, in his statement says that, while the year was not a good one for the petroleum industry, Mid-Continent Petroleum paid off more than $1,000,000 of its bonded indebtedness, reduced its current liabilities more than $1,000,000 and increased its property more than $8,000,000. He also says net crude oil production was 89 per cent. greater than in the preceding year.

Margay Oil Corporation.

Net profit of the Margay Oil Corporation for 1927 was $568,781 after Federal taxes, depreciation, depletion, drilling costs and other charges, equivalent to $3.11 a share earned on the 149,758 shares of no-par value stock. This compared with a profit of $366,138, or $2.31 a share, in 1926.

Solar Refining Company.

A net loss of $479,087 was reported for 1927 by the Solar Refining Company after all charges, reserves and taxes, against a net profit of $635,847 for 1926. After dividends there was a deficit of $878,057, contrasting with a surplus of $388,347 in 1926. The profit and loss surplus was $279,819 after adjustments at the end of 1927, against $1,941,966 at the end of 1926.

ELECTS TWO DIRECTORS.

Eaton Axle and Spring Also Declares Dividend and Amends Charter.

F. A. Buchda and J. F. Beans were elected directors of the Eaton Axle and Spring Corporation yesterday, and the other directors were re-elected. The regular dividend on the common stock of 50 cents a share was declared for the first quarter of the year.

The stockholders voted to amend the charter giving the directors the power to increase the authorized capital stock from 250,000 to 300,000 shares, with provisions to facilitate the issuance of additional shares from time to time when the directors deem it for the best interests of the company.

NEWARK COMPANY ASSAILED BY BEHA

Firemen's Insurance Accused of Pyramiding Assets Which Do Not Safeguard Policyholders.

IT NEGOTIATES DEAL HERE

Proposes to Acquire Control of Metropolitan Casualty and Latter's Board Approves.

Coming virtually at the same time as an announcement by Wells T. Bassett, President of the Firemen's Insurance Company of Newark, that his company proposed to acquire control of the Metropolitan Casualty Insurance Company of New York, a statement was issued yesterday by James A. Beha, Superintendent of Insurance of New York State, declaring that the financial statement of the Firemen's Insurance Company of Newark and subsidiaries for 1927 contained a pyramiding of assets aggregating $12,364,184, which did not add to the security of its policy holders.

Mr. Beha said a similar condition arose last year, at which time the President of the Firemen's company declared that the fault would be remedied. As a result of that interview the question of relicensing the company for the year beginning on May 1, 1927, was held in abeyance.

"It has come to the attention of the New York Insurance Department that the company has voted to increase its capital out of its surplus from $7,500,000 to $9,000,000, thus reducing its surplus from $13,040,857 to $11,540,857," said Superintendent Beha. "Under the New York law, insurance companies owning stocks of other insurance companies are limited in this investment to 50 per cent. of their surplus. Applying the credit for insurance stocks allowed under this law, the $12,364,184 holding by this company would wipe out its surplus and impair its capital in the sum of $823,326.

Says Policy Is Forbidden Here.

"Fortunately for the business, the Firemen's Insurance Company of Newark is the only fire insurance company which has adopted such a policy of financing. Such duplication and pyramiding of asse's does not add to the protection of the policy holders. The laws of this State would not permit a New York State company to maintain such a financial structure, and I am inclined to believe that companies of other States with such a financial set-up should not be permitted to do business in this State and compete for business with companies complying with our laws, intended to produce greater protection to our policy holders.

"Fire insurance companies are generally sufficiently strong to meet the ordinary fire losses of their policyholders. It is, however, in times of great loss that these companies render their greatest service to the public. In the case of a catastrophe such as the Baltimore and San Francisco fires, the fire insurance stocks of subsidiary companies, after having had their own assets wiped out in the payment of losses sustained by their own policy-holders, would be poor security on which to raise money again to pay losses."

The companies affiliated with the Firemen' Insurance Company of Newark are the Girard Insurance Company, Mechanics' Insurance Company, National Ben Franklin Fire Insurance Company, Superior Fire Insurance Company, Concordia Fire Insurance Company and the Capital Fire Insurance Company.

Bassett Announces Deal.

Mr. Bassett announced in Newark yesterday that a controlling interest in the Metropolitan Casualty Insurance Company had been acquired by Firemen's Insurance Company, to the extent that the deal had been approved by the board of directors of the Metropolitan company. According to the proposal not less than 67 per cent. of the stock of the Metropolitan must be deposited with the Equitable Trust Company as trustee on or before April 21. Mr. Bassett said no change of policy or management of the Metropolitan Company was proposed.

The last annual statement of the Metropolitan showed assets of $15,295,938, capital of $3,000,000, net surplus of $2,111,211, premium reserve of $5,407,814 and net premiums of $11,471,202.

The Firemen's Company was organized in 1855, and its last annual statement, as changed by its 20 per cent. stock dividend of March 5, showed assets of $40,000,126, capital of $9,000,000 and net surplus of $11,540,857.

BUDGET OF $518,950 FOR SALVATION ARMY

Greater City Advisory Board Sets May 1-15 for Appeal to Raise Maintenance Fund.

The Salvation Army budget for the coming year for Greater New York, amounting to $518,950, was approved yesterday at a luncheon of the New York City Advisory Board at the Bankers Club, under the Chairmanship of Henry W. Taft. The annual maintenance appeal was scheduled for May 1 to 15.

The Advisory Board consists of Robert Adamson, James Cushman, George H. Doran, Colonel Michael Friedsam, Colonel William Hayward, Charles D. Hilles, Cornelius F. Kelley, Messmore Kendall, William M. Kingsley, Clarence A. Ludlum, Major Benjamin H. Namm, Frank L. Polk, James H. Post, Arthur S. Somers, Lee Shubert, James Speyer, S. W. Straus and Arthur Williams, with former Sheriff David H. Knott, Chairman of the Citizens' Committee, and Guy Emerson of the Bankers Trust Company, Treasurer. Arthur S. Somers is the Chairman of the Brooklyn section.

Colonel Edward Underwood, officer in charge of the appeal, reported that applications for family relief, owing to unemployment, had increased 40 per cent.

During the coming year, it is planned to extent the work in several centres: a nurses' home attached to the Brooklyn Nursery and Home for Children, which has a capacity for 142 children; an enlargement of the Cherry Street Settlement and Day Nursery and a building already in course of erection at Ashland Place, Brooklyn, which will house the activities of the Brooklyn corps. The chief development will be the new headquarters building in West Fourteenth Street, which is scheduled to be commenced in June.

BEHA SEES GOOD IN INSURANCE BILL

Says Wales Act Passed by Legislature Will Increase Companies' Incomes.

TENDS TO LOWER PREMIUMS

Measure Praised in Insurance Circles, but Practically Overlooked in Wall Street.

James A. Beha, Superintendent of Insurance of New York State, expressed gratification last night over the passage of the Wales bill by the Legislature in Albany. The measure, he said, would broaden the investment scope of insurance companies operating in New York State and indirectly would permit a reduction in insurance premiums. Governor Smith is expected to sign the bill today or before the end of this week, so that its application may become effective immediately.

"The bill is a conservative and worthy measure which has had the full support of the State Insurance Department," Mr. Beha said. "Insurance companies, which are among the leading investors of capital in the country, have been more and more handicapped by the restriction of their investment lists to municipal, State and Federal obligations, secured bonds and mortgages, because the yield of these forms of securities has been steady declining.

"By the adoption of the Wales bill, sponsored by E. Roger Wales, Chairman of the Senate Insurance Committee, and in the Assembly by Charles W. Merriam of Schenectady, the legal investment list of the insurance companies in this State has been extended to a wide range of the so-called 'seasoned' securities. In this sense, the measure is not revolutionary nor should it alarm policy holders, as it surrounds the application of the amendment to the insurance laws of the State with all necessary safeguards.

"By seasoned securities I refer to the preferred or guaranteed stocks, bonds and debentures of solvent institutions upon which dividends equal to at least 4 per cent. of the par value have been paid for at least five years. The insurance companies are limited in the amount they may invest in any single issue or group of like issues of such stocks, and are likewise limited in the portion of their total assets which may be invested in any one security.

"It was the purpose of this bill to permit the insurance companies to invest in securities with a greater yield, so that in turn the companies can pay larger dividends on their participating policies, which comprise about 80 per cent. of their total business, and this may obviate the necessity of raising the premiums on the various classes of insurance and often permit the reduction of existing premiums."

With its attention centred largely on the spectacular career of the present market leaders, Wall Street granted little attention to the passage of the Wales bill yesterday, although it may mean the entry of hundreds of millions of dollars into the investment field by easy stages.

In insurance circles, however, the tendency was to applaud the passage of the measure, as it has been no secret that the insurance companies have chafed under the necessity of confining their investments to classes of securities and obligations which yield an annual interest generally considered insufficient to the needs of the companies.

It was pointed out that through the very terms of the amendment it will be impossible for any speculative activity on the part of insurance companies to result, and that, on the contrary, it will merely place them on an up-to-date basis, in which present-day conditions are taken into account and will tend to restrict activity in securities recognized as legal and acquired by insurance companies.

"S. O. S."

In the late war...the "Service of Supply" performed the important task of moving food, clothing and munitions to the men at the front.

The parallel in business is supplied by Banking. It supplies the funds and credit that enable the business of manufacturer, wholesaler and retailer to carry on... and helps the ultimate consumer to possess the product.

Our sixty-nine years of active service to individuals and institutions in Brooklyn have brought along with their growth and our growth many friends and much experience in all fields of endeavor. Is Your Life Insurance an Accumulation of Years?

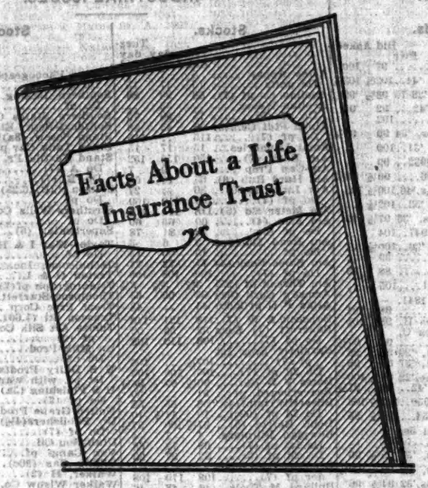
YOU may have acquired your life insurance through a period of years and it may consist of a number of policies in different companies. You can group them into one protective plan through a life insurance trust.



THIS booklet explains how you can arrange various protective plans through a life insurance trust; how such a trust is created; how we handle investments in it; and other facts of interest to the business man. The booklets will be sent on request.

By this means you can have the proceeds carefully invested and managed by this Company as one fund for your family's benefit. This Company, as your trustee, would pay over the interest earned and as much out of the principal of the fund as you direct in the agreement, to meet your family's actual needs.

You need give up none of the rights and benefits that you now enjoy under your policies.

One great advantage of an insurance trust is that it enables you to give discretionary powers to a responsible institution, upon which you can rely to have the interests of your family as its sole consideration.

We invite you and your insurance agent to discuss your particular requirements with the Trust Department at any of our Offices.

GOOD STEEL OUTPUT FORECAST FOR APRIL

Trade Journals Predict No Decline in Present Rate of Industry's Operations.

BETTER SENTIMENT FOUND

Uncertainty About Future Trend of Prices Reported — Peak Believed Passed.

Somewhat more optimism is expressed by the iron and steel reviews this week, which see no signs of decreasing production for April and point to current gains and to better feeling within the trade.

"With the second quarter just around the corner," The Iron Trade Review says, "the steel industry has again taken its pulse and, after according due weight to seasonal factors, has discovered greater vitality than languishing sentiment in some quarters.

"March promises to close with steel making little change from the 83 to 85 per cent. general average governing all month. The week's developments forecast at least another thirty days' good business from the automotive and building industries, now the market leaders. Production is moving directly into consumption and specifications have come easier as first quarter contracts approach their expiration date.

"Sentiment on the whole is a shade brighter concerning the immediate prospect. But there is an undercurrent of opinion which, conceding practically a record first quarter and a good second quarter from the standpoint of production, is conservative over the long pull. Much of this uncertainty arises in the steel price situation, which is plainly at the peak of the present upward movement. Irregularity has developed in some of the lighter products and here, as in the heavy lines, not all of the increases sought for the second quarter will materialize."

The Iron Age in its review says:

"Steel production, in contrast with an uneven and not entirely reassuring general business situation, is holding its own and in some districts is making further gains. Steel ingot output for the first quarter now promises to exceed that of the same period of 1927, possibly by several hundred thousand tons.

"There are no signs of any distinct let-up in production in April. The way business is coming in, mill operations are likely to continue at substantially the pace of March instead of declining as in April last year.

"Buyers, as a rule, are not hastening to contract for second quarter, believing that the upward movement of prices has reached its peak. On the other hand, the mills, not wishing to discourage the flow of tonnage supporting the current high rate of operations, are accepting heavy specifications on expiring first quarter contracts. In plates, shapes and bars, for instance, shipments of material invoiced at 1.80c will probably extend through April, deferring a real test of the second quarter contract price of 1.85c until May.

For the sixth successive week The Iron Age composite prices remain at the same levels. That for pig iron at $17.75 a ton, while that for finished steel is at 2.504c. a pound.

After rising without a break since early January The Iron Trade Review composite of fourteen leading iron and steel products is down 21 cents this week to $35.70. This results from weakness in black sheets, bessemer pig iron and willingness of Pittsburgh district mills still to sell heavy steel at 1.65c instead of asking the full advance to 1.90c.

CHAIN STORES IMPROVE IN COUNTER MARKET

Bank and Insurance Section Are Active, With Industrials Showing a Gain.

In the face of a better than normal activity, the over-the-counter market closed yesterday with mixed prices. Major interest was again shown in the bank and insurance sections, with chain stores showing a decided improvement. Several industrials moved forward consistently and at the close were considerably higher.

Gains in the bank group were scored by State Bank up 60, Mechanics of Brooklyn up 52, City up 43 and United Capital up 24 points. Garfield, First National of New York, Farmers Loan & Trust, New York Trust, Chase, Republic and Guaranty were also higher. On the downward side were Bowery & East River down 25 points, Bank of America down 20 points and small declines for Bankers Trust and Chelsea Exchange.

Allegheny, with an advance of 10 points featured the insurance group. U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty, North River and Home were also stronger, while losses were registered against New Hampshire, Connecticut General Life and American Alliance. Good advances were registered by Reliance, Orient, New Niquero, Central Aguirre and Fajardo in the sugar section. Metropolitan Chain common and National Shirt preferred were stronger in the chain store group, with McLellan Stores common off a point. Several markdowns appeared in the communications group.

Advances among the industrials came to Crowell Publishing common, Canadian Celanese common, Ziely Processes, United Milk Products common, Segal Lock, Scoville and Smith-Corona. American Safesbook preferred, Winchester first preferred, Industrial Finance common and Hercules Powder common were easier.

Utilities and Several Small Manufacturing Companies Show the Chief Gains.

A continued advance, slower but more sustained in character, marked yesterday's trading on the New York Curb Exchange, with utilities and a number of the smaller manufacturing companies showing the chief gains. Profits were taken in a few instances, but in general the trend was forward, with a large number of issues reaching new highs for the year.

In the utility group, new highs were set by Cities Service, Southeastern Power and Light, Northern Ohio Power, General Public Service and others, while strength was also shown by American Superpower issues, Northeastern Power, United Gas Improvement and American Gas and Electric.

In the artificial textile and similar groups strength was also predominant. Courtauld's and Celotex went to new highs, while Celanese, Tubize Silks and Celluloid were firmer.

New Orleans-Great Northern advanced in the rail section, and insurance leaders were also stronger. In the chain store department Peoples Drug Stores, Metropolitan and Melville Shoe gained, while Southern Stores A went to a high record. Among the mines, Newmont and Shattuck Denn gained.

In the motor group, Marmon, Evans Auto Loading, Auburn and Checker Cab Manufacturing gained, while Caterpillar Tractors went to a new high, as did Brillo Manufacturing. In the oil group Gulf Oil and International Petr gained, while Carib Syndicate was firmer. Consolidated Dairy Products, Lehigh Portland Cement and Canadian Industrial Alcohol set new highs. Carnegie Metals, American Rolling Mills, Nile-Benson-Pond and Libbey-Owens Glass were firmer, while Bohn Aluminum, Mavis Bottling and McKeesport Tin Plate eased.

American Stores Increase Income.

A net income of $7,442,292 is reported for 1927 by the American Stores Company, after depreciation, taxes and other charges, comparing with $7,357,373 in 1926.

NEW SECURITIES ON CURB.

To unlisted trading privileges: Associated Gas and Electric Company, rights to subscribe for twenty-year convertible 4½ per cent. gold debentures; Waterman Company, common stock, no par value; Central Illinois Public Service Company, $6 cumulative preferred stock, no par value; Baxter Laundries, Inc., Class A common stock, no par value.

MARKETS IN LONDON, PARIS AND BERLIN

Violent Fluctuation of Some Speculative Shares Is Feature of British Exchange.

LONDON LOAN RATES EASY

French Stocks at Highest Point Since War—Gains Are General at Berlin.

Copyright, 1928, by The New York Times Company. By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, March 21.—Violent fluctuations among some shares of a speculative and international character caused excitement on the Stock Exchange today. Victor Talking Machine shares opened at about $80, and rose to nearly $82. But in the afternoon, following the opening in New York, they rose within a few minutes to $89 bid, remained there only momentarily, reacted and closed at about $84.50.

Columbia Gramophone and Vocalion were lower, the latter falling sharply in the afternoon to 81s 9d or 3 shillings below yesterday's closing. After hours, Vocalion rallied to 82s 9d. Edison Bell was firmer at 3½.

Gilt-edge issues were quiet. Falls occurred in the 5 per cent. war loan, which closed at 102⅜ and in the 3½ per cent. conversion, which fell to 76½. Commonwealth of Australia scrip was in demand at a discount.

Mexican Eagle, which lately has monopolized the attention of the oil market, affected by profit taking, fell from 29s 6d to 28s 6d, and rallied to 29s 9d at the close.

Marconi issues fell to 41. Rubber reacted to 12⅝ pence a pound, causing dullness in that share market. De Beers fell 1-16 to 14⅝; Rand Mines were steady at 3 3-32.

Loan rates in Lombard Street were generally unaltered, but discount quotations were easier, bankers taking three-month fine bank bills at 4 1-32 per cent. After earlier strength the American exchange weakened, closing at $4.88 3-16. Reinsurance on the steamship Robert E. Lee was quoted at 40 per cent.

French Stocks Are High.

PARIS, March 21.—The Bourse was steady today with a trend toward firmness evident throughout the market. Though French stocks, in many instances, were at their highest point since the war, holders apparently were not eager to sell, and there was an apparent disposition to await the results of the elections. The activity today centred chiefly on artificial silks.

French rentes were well demanded and made some slight gain, being generally firm. Threes closed at 67.50; 4s of 1917, 73.60; 4s of 1918, 73.80; 5s of 1920, amortizable, 105.55; 5s of 1915, 88.25; 6s, 99.55.

BERLIN, March 21.—The Stock Exchange opened with confidence today despite the lack of orders and the cautious attitude of speculators. The second hour brought lively trading stimulated by the comparatively favorable foreign trade report for January and announcements of unexpectedly large dividends of several mining companies.

Most stocks gained 2 to 3 points and a few specialties 8 to 10. The improvement continued throughout the afternoon on account of belated Swiss and other foreign orders. The tendency at the closing hour was firm and the highest quotations were fully maintained.

Foreign stocks were more active; Canadians fully recovered from yesterday's slump.

The money market eased considerably and call money was plentiful at 5½ to 7 per cent.

BIDS ON PIPE CONTRACTS.

Yonkers, Albany and Brooklyn Awards Are Sought.

R. D. Wood & Co. were low bidders on 250 tons of twelve-inch pipe for Yonkers, N. Y., with a price of $37.50 a ton, delivered. The freight rate from Birmingham to Yonkers is $9.25 a ton, which would figure back to $28.25 base Birmingham, but there is an additional charge for yard storage.

Albany has taken bids on 2,000 tons of pipe. An inquiry for 1,500 tons is out from Cincinnati. The Water District of Broadalbin, N. Y., has taken bids on 600 tons of pipe, with R. D. Wood & Co. low on sand cast pipe. United States Cast Iron Pipe and Foundry obtained 150 tons from Springfield, Mass.

Bids will be taken March 30 on 7,700 tons of structural steel for a subway section near Prospect Park, Brooklyn. The State of North Carolina is in the market for 3,000 tons for State highway bridges near Wilmington. An order for 2,500 tons for a plant for the Celanese Corporation at Cumberland, Md., has been placed with the McClintic-Marshall Company. Levering & Garrigues have taken 1,000 tons for a lot on West Thirty-ninth Street.

SAVINGS BANKS BILLS ARE SIGNED BY SMITH

'Only Important Legislation' He Has Approved This Session, Governor Remarks.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 21.—Four bills giving savings banks a wider investment field were signed today by Governor Smith.

In announcing that he had approved the measures, the Governor said: "I consider these bills the only important legislation I have approved in the present session."

Sponsored by a joint legislative commitee which, during the past year, made a thorough investigation of the present investment field for savings banks, the measures would permit such banks to invest in the bonds of gas, electric and telephone companies, in railroad equipment trust bonds and in certain municipal bonds in other States and in promissory notes secured by a pledge of certain stocks and bonds.

The measures were passed by the Legislature with only one dissenting vote shortly after the State Superintendent of Banks submitted his annual report to the lawmakers showing that the deposits in savings banks in this State increased by more than $300,000,000 last year.

FRANKLIN SOCIETY BEGINS ANNIVERSARY

Starts Month's Celebration of Its Fortieth Year—Has Resources Exceeding $27,000,000.

The Franklin Society for Home Building and Savings of 217 Broadway is starting today an observance of its fortieth anniversary, which is to last a month. The society, which was organized a week after the blizzard of 1888, was started with the accounts of 101 members. There are 80,000 accounts today and the resources of the institution exceed $27,000,000.

Charles O'Conor Hennessy, who was elected President of the society at the time of its inception by a group of newspaper editors, printers and reporters, still holds that position, although he has since retired from the newspaper business in order to devote all of his time to the upbuilding of the institution. During the early years the society, which had no permanent offices, was limited to 600 members with the result that when expansion began, memberships were at a premium. With this restriction was removed the society grew rapidly and a permanent office was established.

In 1897 the institution for the first time crossed the $1,000,000 mark but the financial troubles of 1904 and 1907 somewhat retarded growth and it was not until 1914 that $2,000,000 had been accumulated. The Franklin Society passed $3,000,000 in 1918, $4,000,000 in 1920 and $5,000,000 in 1921. Its growth since that time has been extremely rapid and the society, in 1927, was able to move into its own establishment, the old Astor House, at Broadway and Vesey Street.

BANKS NOT TO MERGE.

Bancitaly Denies Brooklyn Rumor—Chelsea Exchange Not Sold.

Official denials were made yesterday of reports that the Bancitaly Corporation was buying the Mechanics Bank of Brooklyn and that new interests had acquired control of the Chelsea Exchange Bank.

The report concerning the Mechanics Bank of Brooklyn was based on an advance of 52 points in the stock, which was quoted yesterday at $440 bid, $460 asked. At the office of the Bancitaly Corporation it was denied that negotiations were on for the purchase of the Brooklyn institution. Rumors persisted that another large New York institution was after the Mechanics to expand its interborough branch system.

E. S. Rothchild, President of the Chelsea Exchange Bank, issued a statement denying that the institution was passing to new interests. "We have not disposed of our controlling interest in the bank, nor have we any present thoughts of so doing," he said. "Offers have been made steadily in excess of the market value of the stock, but our sole interest is in the development of the bank and the continuation of its growth and prosperity."

Moeser Leather Corp. Reports.

The consolidated income for 1927 of the J. K. Moeser Leather Corporation, after Federal taxes but before depreciation and interest, amounts to $5,865,237. Depreciation was $859,134 and interest was $305,840. Net profits amounted to $2,698,562, and the total surplus at the end of the year was $3,446,964.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

Gold Shipments and Strength in the Scandinavians Feature—Sterling Sags Near Close.

Announcement by the International Acceptance Bank and the American Exchange Irving Trust that gold had been engaged for shipment to London and Hamburg, and a higher range of prices for the Scandinavian currencies, proved the high spots in the foreign exchange market yesterday.

Sterling, which retouched Tuesday's best levels in the forenoon, turned soft after midday coincident with the gold consignment and the pound closed off 1-16 cent, at $4.87 29-32 for checks. The rise in the Scandinavians was ascribed to reports of the restoration of the gold standard by Norway, putting the Oslo krone up 1¼ points to 26.71 cents, and the Copenhagen unit 2 points up at 26.81 cents.

Elsewhere the movement in the Continentals was narrow on a small turnover, the French, Italian, German, Swiss and Holland descriptions holding steady. Easterns and Latins were also dull, but firm. Canadian reached a new high premium of 5-64 of one per cent.

TRUST LAW CHANGES URGED BY LAWYERS

Bar Association's Committee on Commerce Sees Benefits in Price Fixing Within Limits.

8% RETURN IS PROPOSED

Revised Bill of Lading for Sea Shipments Wins Approval, but Treaty Is Opposed.

Proposals to alter the Federal anti-trust laws so that monopolies, combinations and price fixing "in the public interest" would not be illegal were heard yesterday by the Committee on Commerce of the American Bar Association. Members of the committee, which is holding its annual meeting in the building of the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York, at 65 Liberty Street, admitted they had in mind recommendations for sweeping changes in the anti-trust statutes which would legalize "reasonable contracts."

Benjamin A. Javits, an attorney of 165 Broadway, who said he represented a number of trade associations, presented proposed amendments to the Sherman act, the Clayton act and the Federal Trade Commission act. Mr. Javits would increase the Federal Trade Commission from five to eleven members, give it wider powers and fix, for combinations, a "reasonable return" of a maximum of 8 per cent. net. While not accepting his 8 per cent. proposal, members of the committee said they agreed in substance with the proposed changes.

Sees Benefit in Combinations.

Mr. Javits proposed that the Sherman and Clayton acts be altered to legalize combinations, contracts or attempts to restrain trade, provided such combinations or contracts were in the public interest. He explained that any act which would lower prices, improve service, raise quality standards, increase wages, shorten hours, reduce waste of time, space or materials and generally improve living standards or labor conditions was in the public interest.

He proposed that only five members of the Federal Trade Commission be of the same political party; that two be named to represent labor, two to represent industry, two the science of political economy, two finance and three the people as a whole.

With respect to his 8 per cent. profits proposal, Mr. Javits said it would take much of the "guess, hazard and chicanery out of business" because men would know that, after every reasonable reserve and provision and contingencies, they would still be entitled to an 8 per cent. return, which would "put more truth into business."

"I don't believe," said Rush C. Butler of Chicago, Chairman of the committee, "that Congress could limit profits to 8 per cent."

"If the Federal Reserve Board can limit bank earnings," replied Mr. Javits, "and the Interstate Commerce Commission can limit railroad earnings, I hold that the Government can limit business profits."

Benjamin S. Kursch, an attorney, of 111 Broadway, who also said he represented several trade associations, agreed in part with Mr. Javits's proposals. While Mr. Kursch had the floor, Julius Henry Cohen of the committee interposed:

"The Sherman act is hitting the small manufacturer hard, while the bigger ones are getting away with it."

Proper Price Fixing Approved.

Chairman Butler, Mr. Cohen, Thomas W. Davis of Wilmington, N. C., and Arthur M. Geary, all of the committee, expressed agreement with the proposal to change the anti-trust laws so that fixing of reasonable prices would not be illegal.

Murray T. Quigg, editor of Law and Labor, did not agree with the proposed changes.

"If you permit the little fellows to fix prices, you must permit the big ones to do so, and thus you would solidify the control they now have over the situation," he said.

Gilbert H. Montague, Chairman of the Committee on Anti-Trust Laws of the Merchants' Association of New York and a member of the Anti-Trust Laws Committee of the Association of the Bar of the City of New York, said that overhauling the anti-trust laws today would undoubtedly spread uncertainty among industries and businesses which now find themselves in substantial harmony with these laws.

The afternoon session was devoted to a discussion of the White bill, now before the House of Representatives which provides for adoption by the United States of a revised bill of lading for shipments to sea. The bill was formulated by twenty-four nations at The Hague Conference. The general idea of those present seemed to be that the Government should approve the revisions by legislation rather than by treaty.

Speakers on this subject included John Nicholson, counsel of the Committee on Legislation of the United States Shipping Board; Charles S. Haight, admiralty attorney and Chairman of the Bill of Lading Committee of the International Chamber of Commerce; Wellington Elmer, assistant cashier of the Bank of America, representing forty local banks interested in foreign trade, and John S. Burchmore of the National Industrial Traffic League.

The meeting will end with a session this morning.

An amazing book

ON COMING BUSINESS REVOLUTION

(written by a banker)

"AMERICAN PROSPERITY—Its Causes and Consequences" is an amazingly frank analysis of the queerly conflicting factors that have caused our present prosperity . . . . and a dramatic exposition of that same prosperity's trend in the strange interlude that faces American business. Written by a keen, far-sighted banker, Paul M. Mazur, partner in Lehman Brothers. Already, four days after publication, the heads of twelve great corporations, fired by the study of Mr. Mazur's book, and realizing instantly its aid to straight thinking, have ordered over 500 copies for their own executives.

What "they say"

URGES TARIFF CUT ON FRENCH EXPORTS

Pierre Chabert, Here on Business Says Elections Here and at Home Delay Negotiations.

WOULD GIVE PRIORITY TO US

Both Countries Would Benefit by Trade Agreement for Exchange of Products, He Asserts.

Pierre Chabert, President of the North American Committee of the National Advisory Committee for French Foreign Commerce, an advocate of priority for United States goods in the French tariffs to promote accord between the two countries, arrived here yesterday on the liner Paris for a business visit of three weeks.

M. Chabert, a Commander of the Legion of Honor and the negotiator for the conversion of the Morgan loan of $75,000,000, said that he was certain France and the United States would develop a trade agreement whereby certain goods manufactured in France would be admitted here on lower customs charges in return for reciprocal treatment of United States goods.

"The question is being studied both in Washington and Paris," said M. Chabert. "Experts on tariff questions are giving it their consideration, and pending their studies it would not, I believe, be wise to discuss the matter. You must remember that you have an election coming and that we have also, for our Chamber of Deputies; and it is better to leave discussions like this until politics are settled.

"We in France would like to develop trade relations with the United States. We manufacture certain luxury articles which are greatly in demand here, and you manufacture machinery and produce raw materials which we need. It is to the interest of both countries to have a trade agreement. I have always favored giving priority to the United States because you helped us in the war. No Frenchman wants really to forget that."

M. Chabert said that a list of twenty-two articles on which France wanted the duties lowered had been sent to the Tariff Commission, and that "for the time being" the commission is unwilling to reduce the duties on most of them.

"The whole discussion will come up in December, and I am sure it will be worked out satisfactorily to both France and the United States," he asserted.

M. Chabert's visit is concerned primarily with his private affairs. He is a director of the Sulphur Export Corporation of New York and of many companies in France which have interests in this country.

SAYS COSTLINESS SETS LIMIT TO TELEVISION

Dr. Ives Tells Yale It May Be Used With Theatre and for Prize Fights.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, March 21.—"There is a practical limit to the possibilities of the expansion of television, that of expense," said Dr. Herbert E. Ives of the Bell Telephone laboratories, speaking in the annual Lee De Forest communication lecture course at Yale today.

"It is by no means certain that the public will feel that it can meet the cost of paying for popular calls to secure television. Where we now drop a nickel in the slot to hear a voice, we would have to pay a dollar to see a face. * * *

"There is a technical limit for the use of television. You can not put two television images on the same wire. You can not break in on the other fellow's face.

"While an engineering study of television leads us to be very conservative of the extent of its future use, the public must not forget that television is an active accomplishment. The last frontier of the art of communication has been conquered technically.

"We do not look forward to bringing into the home by radio an actual or spectacle like a great athletic event. The popular magazines publish imaginative articles which enlarge upon such possibilities. But the cost would be simply enormous, and it is unthinkable that this will be actually done.

"A far greater likelihood than this is television in the theatre or in gatherings of many people. Her the cost of the special transmission facilities could be borne by a lar- number, possibly by many who pay large prices to see football games or pugilistic exhibitions. * * *

"We may reasonably expec' to solve the remaining apparatus problems before ver- long. * * *

"The practical experience of the television engineers of the Bell Telephone laboratories thus far leads them to the conclusion that radio is much less suitable for television than wires."

ONE CENT INCOME TAX PAID.

Fifth New Jersey District Also Has One $900,000 Payment.

The smallest income tax paid so far this year in the Fifth New Jersey District was one cent and the largest was about $900,000, John G. Rogers, Collector of Internal Revenue at Newark, said yesterday.

The name of the concern paying the $900,000 tax was not given, but it is generally believed to have been either the Public Service Corporation or the Prudential Life Insurance Company.

The total amount collected this year is $14,672,577,, about $400,000 less than the amount collected during a like period last year.

SMOOT SETS DATE TO CONSIDER TAXES

Senate Finance Committee Will Take Up Reduction Measure on April 3.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—Notice that the Senate Finance Committee will begin consideration of the 1928 tax reduction bill on Tuesday, April 3, and that hearings may be held on the bill was given to the Senate by Chairman Smoot of the committee today. To Senator Harrison of Mississippi, a committee member, Mr. Smoot said:

"I have no doubt that we will have tax legislation this session."

Up to this time the Finance Committee has done nothing with the tax bill, waiting instead to ascertain the revenue expected by the Government on income tax returns made to the Treasury March 15.

Just after Mr. Smoot announced that hearings would start April 2, Senator Couzens of Michigan, a member of the Finance Committee, asked if there would be hearings. Senator Smoot replied that this would have to be decided by the committee.

"Does the Chairman think hearings will be held?" Mr. Couzens inquired. "There are several provisions of the House bill on which hearings should be ordered. Those who want to appear should have plenty of notice."

"I have not discussed it, but if any committee member wants hearings, I am sure they will be granted," Mr. Smoot replied.

"Can't you call the committee together before April 3 to decide on hearings?" Senator Harrison inquired. "I and other members are interested in expediting them as much as possible, if hearings are to be held, so we can get the bill reported and get some tax relief at this session."

Mr. Smoot said few requests for hearings had reached him, and that there were "only two or three" items of the bill on which he had received any complaint.

"Then you don't think it necessary to hold prolonged hearings," Senator Harrison suggested.

"I am quite sure it is not," replied Mr. Smoot. "I will say that the question of the valuation of 1913 is the part with reference to which I have had more complaint as to the House provision than any other in the bill.

"The next one that amounts to anything refers to Section 220. It is a very difficult piece of legislation, and the House has changed it entirely. In my opinion, the changed provision as adopted by the House is even more complicated than Section 220 of the existing law. Those are the only two subjects on which I have received letters."

The valuation section of the tax bill referred to by Mr. Smoot is an administrative provision arranging a basis for valuation of property as of 1913. The other section he spoke of is aimed at penalizing corporations which have accumulated excessive surpluses.

As the tax bill passed the House it proposed a reduction of $290,000,000, compared to the $225,000,000 limit set by the Administration.

TELLS POWER HOOKUP USES

A. E. Baughan Sees Wide Economies in Electric Interconnection.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., March 21.—The interconnection of electric power in the United States is progressing so rapidly that already it is a great network, effecting economies, particularly in the way of uninterrupted service, Alexander E. Baughan of Newark, Chief Engineer of the Public Service Electric and Gas Company, told the annual convention of the New Jersey Society of Professional Engineers and Land Surveyors at the Hotel Dennis today.

"The hook-up is of such service that when one section fails, as was the case in the Mississippi Valley flood disaster, another section can pick it up and give service because of its interconnection," said Mr. Baughan.

"Perhaps the most important interconnection is that of the Metropolitan Edison System in Eastern Pennsylvania, with the New Jersey Power and Light Company and the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Company in New York State. Most of the power in New York is from water, and when that fails current is taken from the Pennsylvania lines."

RIVAL COUNSEL RACE FOR A BANK ACCOUNT

One With a Writ Reaches Teller First and Enjoins Withdrawal of Prisoner's Fund.

CHECK FORGERY IS CHARGED

Casualty Company, Alleging Fraud on Client, Blocks Suspect From Using His $500 on Deposit.

A race between a lawyer for a casualty company and a lawyer for a man under arrest on a forgery charge at Binghamton, N. Y., to obtain possession of $500 on deposit in the Franklin Society Bank at 217 Broadway ended in temporary victory for the casualty company when the bank doors opened yesterday morning.

Nathan Josephson was arrested in this city last Sunday and taken to Binghamton on a charge of forging a check for $7,500 on the People's Trust Company there. It was alleged that Josephson had drawn the check against the account of Max Mandell, Laces, Inc., by whom he had been employed as a clerk, in the Bank of the Manhattan Company in this city. It also was alleged that he had made the check in favor of "H. Miller" and had forged the lace company's signature to it. The Aetna Casualty and Insurance Company got on Josephson's trail and brought about his arrest.

Fragments of a deposit book of the Franklin Society Bank were found in his apartment and, when pieced together, revealed that Josephson had deposited $1,500 in the bank, but had withdrawn all but $500. According to Leo T. Kissam of 50 Broadway, lawyer for the casualty company, Josephson was alleged to have admitted to the Binghamton authorities that the money was part of that obtained through the forged check.

Mr. Kissam notified Frank H. Hennessy, counsel for the Franklin Society Bank, that the money was suspected of being part of that obtained through the forgery, and requested that he hold it intact until the disposition of the charge against Josephson. At about the same time Mr. Hennessy received word from Albert Sherman, counsel for Josephson in Binghamton, that his client had authorized him to withdraw money from the account.

Mr. Hennessy notified both lawyers that the bank could take no stand in the matter except by court order. It had no knowledge of the source whence Josephson obtained the money, nor was it interested, Mr. Hennessy added. If Mr. Sherman produced the proper authorization, the bank could do nothing but honor the authorization.

Late Tuesday afternoon Mr. Kissam received word from Binghamton that Mr. Sherman was on his way to this city to withdraw the $500. The casualty company lawyers hurried to the County Court House to obtain an order restraining the bank from handing the money over to Mr. Sherman. All the Justices of the Supreme Court had gone home, and Edmund Bergen, one of Mr. Kissam's aids, after several hours hunt, found Justice John Ford in his home, and got his signature to a temporary injunction against the bank, which will be argued before Justice Ford tomorrow morning.

Messrs. Bergen and Sherman were at the entrance to the bank before the doors were opened yesterday morning. Mr. Sherman held in his hand a draft on the bank for Josephson's money, while Bergen waved the injunction paper to the paying teller inside, even before the doors were thrown open.

When the attendant opened the bank doors, both Mr. Sherman and Mr. Bergen made a dash for the teller's window. Bergen managed to get the injunction before the teller first, and the money temporarily was tied up.

DENIES NOBLETT HAD PERFUME CONTRACT

Manufacturer of the Product Testifies Against Man Accused of Swindle.

Special to The New York Times.

MINEOLA, L. I., March 21.—The trial of Edward Arden Noblett, accused of swindling Amos J. C. Baldwin, a civil engineer, out of $3,000 which Baldwin gave him to invest in the manufacture of cosmetics, was resumed before Judge Smith in County Court here today. Noblett is also indicted on a charge of attempting to bribe Baldwin, Captain Harold King and Detective Paul Crowley.

George Levy, attorney for Baldwin, testified that he talked with Baldwin and Noblett in the former's office in Freeport, concerning the Janet Moore of London perfumery products, a contract for the sale of which is this country Noblett said he had.

Mr. Levy said that his client told him he signed the contract without reading the last paragraph, which specifically stated that Noblett was not to be held responsible for the past performance of the organization in this country.

Cosmetic buyers for several large department stores in New York testified that they had never handled Janet Moore products. Only one, a buyer for Lord & Taylor, testified that for a time the products were on sale in that store. They were not successful, it was said.

Mrs. Susan Brown, who manufactures the cosmetics under the trade name of Janet Moore, testified that she had no contract with Noblett and that the amount of business done in this country had been very small.

George Mock, an investor, of New York, testified that he met Noblett as the result of an advertisement which Noblett had placed in THE NEW YORK TIMES, using Mr. Baldwin's name, and that he, Noblett, posed as Baldwin when they met for interviews.

Mr. Mock said he recognized Noblett from a former meeting, and that he immediately notified THE TIMES that Noblett, whose advertisements have been repeatedly refused by THE TIMES censorship department, was posing as Baldwin. The trial will probably be concluded tomorrow.

International Cement's Year.

The pamphlet report of the International Cement Corporation for 1927 shows a net income of $8,564,172, after Federal taxes, depreciation, depletion and other charges, equal after 7 per cent. preferred dividends to $6.90 a share earned on 562,500 shares of no-par common stock, and comparing with $4,355,190, or $6.52 a share, earned in 1926. Sales were $23,671,138, against $21,623,581, and the surplus after dividends was $1,632,964, against $1,544,441.

CHANGES PREDICTED IN U. S. RUBBER CO.

Du Pont Interests Expected to Seek Representation on Board Next Month.

MANAGEMENT IS CRITICIZED

Lawyer Sends Letter to Directors Expressing Views as an Individual Stockholder.

The du Pont interests, which have acquired about 250,000 shares of common stock of the United States Rubber Company, shortly will seek representation on the board of directors of that company, according to Wall Street information. It was reported some time ago that a change would be made in the directorate so that du Pont representatives would be elected.

There was talk yesterday of an impending shake up in the directorate. Apparently this relates to the du Pont plan to obtain representation. James H. McIntosh of the law firm of Alexander & Green has sent a letter to the directors of United States Rubber who are not officers of the company criticising the management. He declined to give out a copy. He wrote the letter, he said, as an individual stockholder.

There were unconfirmed reports in Wall Street that Mr. McIntosh was expressing the views of the du Ponts. If that is true there is a likelihood that important changes may be made in the company since the du Ponts are reported to hold virtual working control. The du Ponts, it is generally believed, are not out of sympathy with the management, but may insist upon certain changes of policy. The du Pont holding of United States Rubber represents the investment of individual members of the family and not of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co.

Any changes that may be made in the directorate will take place at the annual meeting of stockholders on April 17, it is assumed.

CHANGES IN DIRECTORATES.

New Board Members Are Elected by Five Corporations.

Among the numerous changes in the Boards of Directors and executive staffs of various corporations, announced yesterday, were the following:

Elisha Walker of Blair & Co. was elected a director of the Sinclair Consolidated Oil Corporation, to succeed Harry Bronner, also of Blair & Co.

The Safe-T-Stat Company elected Charles C. Dawes of Chicago a director of the company.

Guernsey Curran Jr. was elected a director of the Sweets Company of America. He is Secretary and a director of the Kensel Corporation.

T. A. Pedley, Secretary and Assistant Treasurer, has been elected Treasurer of the Midwest Refining Company.

The Board of Trustees of Eastern Utilities Associates will consist of the following, with provisions permitting the election of additional members from time to time: Willard F. Carleton, Ashton L. Carr, Frederic W. Easton, Cyrus Y. Ferris, Roger Pierce, Philip L. Spaulding, Charles Stetson and Edwin S. Webster.

George F. Mitchell and William A. Sauer have been elected to the Board of Directors of the Midland Utilities Company.

Leonard Dreyfuss, President of the United Advertising Corporation, has been elected a director of the newly formed United-Capitol National Bank and Trust Company of New York.

At the annual meeting of the Savings Banks Officers' Forum held Tuesday, Elmer Rand Jacobs was elected President; John F. Krapps, Vice President; William E. Stevens, Controller, and Thomas J. Raney, Secretary.

Yonkers Business Men Aid Bus Co.

Business men identified with the Merchants' Association of Yonkers came to the rescue yesterday of the Merchants Community Bus Transit, Inc., which operates bus lines on various city streets in Yonkers, and pledged $10,000 to help the corporation carry on. The property is now being operated under direction of Arthur C. Hume, a receiver in equity. Mr. Hume interested business men of the Merchants' Association, and among those who have agreed to assist is John J. Walsh, a Yonkers banker. The subscriptions for receiver's certificates which the business men have agreed to take will keep the company going for several weeks and by Summer the company expects, from increased patronage of the vehicles, gradually to increase its revenue.

Proposes Doles for Unemployed.

John Di Santo, Secretary of the New York Council of the Unemployed, a Communist organization, announced yesterday that plans are being made for the drafting of a bill for presentation to the Legislature providing for a State Unemployment Maintenance Fund to pay a dole to unemployed workers. This is in pursuance of a resolution adopted last week at a conference of delegates from various unemployment relief organizations. A series of meetings are planned in various parts of the city to discuss this bill. A meeting of the Executive Committee of the council will be held at 60 St. Mark's Place tonight to discuss the bill.

Woodworth, Inc., declared an initial quarterly dividend of 37½ cents a share on the common stock. The Scott Paper Company announced an initial quarterly dividend of 25 cents on the no-par stock. City Dairy, Ltd., ordered an initial quarterly dividend of 50 cents on the no-par stock.

The Horn and Hardart Company announced the usual extra dividend of 25 cents a share on common stock. The Holland Land Company declared an extra of 1 per cent. on capital stock.

The Republic Flow Meters Company resumed dividends by ordering the payment of 10 cents a share. This is the same payment that was made on April 1, 1925, prior to the suspension of dividends.

The Kellogg Switchboard & Supply Company passed both common and preferred dividends due at this time. The company had been paying 32½ cents quarterly on common and $1.75 on preferred.

The Carolina, Clinchfield & Ohio Railway Company declared a quarterly dividend of $1. The previous quarterly payment was 75 cents. The new declaration establishes the stock on an annual basis of $4. The previous rate was $5 annually.

Texas Pacific Coal and Oil.

The Texas Pacific Coal and Oil Company shows a net income of $314,005, after taxes, interest, depreciation, depletion and amortization in 1927, according to the pamphlet report, equal to $7 cents a share on the $10 par stock, against $1,578,043, or $1.88 a share, earned in 1926. There was a deficit of $192,712 after dividends. The profit and loss surplus, after adjustments, was $11,550,303, against $11,126,752 at the end of 1926.

BUYING FOR EXPORT HELPS WHEAT RISE

Houses That Have Sold Are Now Active on the Buying Side of the Market.

PRICES REACH NEW HIGHS

Investment and Speculative Buying of Corn Cause Values to Take a Jump.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, March 21.—Bullish sentiment was more in evidence in wheat, and with buying of May and September by foreigners and the May by houses that were active on the selling side yesterday the near-by deliveries sold at a new high on the present movement. The new crop months were within a fraction of the best figures of the season. There was also buying of wheat and selling of corn by spreaders, and while the best prices were not maintained due to heavy profit-taking and selling against offers the finish was at net gains of ¾ to ⅞ cent.

Winnipeg acted heavy and finished unchanged to ¼ cent lower. Part of the early buying was on strength in Liverpool, which closed ½ to ¾ penny higher, and there was a fairly active export demand, with the United Kingdom and the Continent taking 900,000 to 1,000,000 bushels in all positions, largely Manitobas, including business from both coasts. Buenos Aires was unchanged to ½ cent lower and Rosario 1 to 1¼ cents lower.

The detailed Government report on farmers' intentions to plant suggests a Spring wheat acreage this season of 20,304,000 acres, against 20,711,000 acres harvested last year. The bread Spring wheat acreage will be around 14,335,000 acres, against 15,440,000 acres in 1927, and of durum is likely to be around 6,059,000 acres, against 5,271,000 acres last year.

March acted tight at times today, and 50,000 bushels were bought to come here from Kansas City and Omaha.

Primary arrivals today, 838,000 bushels; week ago, 851,000 bushels; last year 535,000 bushels. Shipments, 592,000 bushels; week ago, 508,000 bushels; last year, 573,000 bushels.

Heavy commission house investment and speculative buying carried corn prices up to a new high on the crop for the deferred futures and into new ground on the present upturn for the near-by months. The selling of corn against purchases of wheat combined with liberal profit-taking caused a sharp recession from the top and the finish was ¾ cent lower to ⅞ cent lower with March showing the most strength.

Less was heard regarding export business and no sales were reported at the seaboard. Local handlers were said to have advanced their asking prices to the East, and this with the recent strength in futures checked the demand. Country offerings remain small.

Buenos Aires closed 1⅞ to 1⅞ cents lower and Rosario off 1⅞ to 2⅛ cents.

Primary arrivals today, 869,000 bushels; week ago, 1,221,000 bushels; last year, 452,000 bushels. Shipments, 870,000 bushels; week ago, 1,021,000 bushels; last year, 334,000 bushels.

Oats closed unchanged to ⅝ cent lower. March sold at a new high on the crop early.

Longs sold on an early advance and caused a sharp recession in all futures.

March rye showed congestion and closed 4 cents higher on scattered buying, which found offerings limited, while the deferred futures were ¾ to 1⅛ cents higher. There was a fair export business under way at the seaboard.

Prices for the principal grains were as follows:

BUSINESS WORLD

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday's per cent. for the best names. Two-year per cents for the best names. The quotations are for 4 to 6 months' paper.

Bigness Will Stand for Trade Quiet.

"Too much gambling in Wall Street" was given yesterday by a prominent local textile credit man as a reason for the complaints of poor business heard here. He added that not only are men in all branches of business more interested in profits to be picked up through speculation than in money to be made by giving their own ventures proper attention, but that consumers are playing the game with money that otherwise would be spent for the necessaries. He predicted a marked picking up in sales of luxury merchandise during the life of the present "bull" movement, but was pessimistic of the long future on all types of goods.

Fur Sale to Exceed $6,000,000.

Yesterday was the last receiving day for furs to be offered at the annual Spring sale of the New York Auction Company, Inc., and indications were that their value would exceed $6,000,000. At least eight days will be required to sell them, General Manager J. Gordon Noakes said. Collections of several domestic staple articles will be large; he added, those of raccoon, wolf and American opossum, being the largest in several years. The mink offering will be about normal, while slightly fewer skunk will be put up than last Spring. The sale begins on April 16.

Perfume Loses to Make-Up.

Lack of activity in both the medium and better-priced perfumes is attributed by some of the leading factors in this trade to the extensive use of expensive powders, rouges and lipsticks. It appears from sales records that women are cutting down on perfumes in order to pay more for items of make-up. In addition most of the make-up is perfumed in pleasing fragrances. Another harmful factor is the use of cheap imitations. Over-popularity of any one odor in time kills it with women who use expensive perfumes.

Leather Trade Still Cautious.

With hides down 2 to 3¼ cents a pound from the recent peak, tanners are buying a little more freely than was the case several weeks ago. Leather prices, however, continue quite firm, as the stock available was made from hides priced at higher levels. Sole leather shows practically no change and supplies are reported as not large. Upper leathers are slightly easier, depending upon the type wanted. Shoe manufacturers are covering some of their immediate wants, but are showing considerable caution in making their commitments.

Infants' Wear Upholds Tradition.

Report from specialty shops and infants' wear departments indicate that the March tradition of good business in these lines is holding good so far this month. Items of wearing apparel are particularly active, as well as nursery furnishings, carriage covers and new types of conveyances. In the clothing end, both plain and fancy garments are in demand. The call seems general, taking in the cheaper as well as the very expensive lines.

Good Call for Sporting Goods.

Orders placed for sporting goods have shaped up well. Interest has largely centred in golf and tennis equipment, in which the better grades have done well. The domestic golf ball to retail at 75 cents has been meeting some competition from the dollar imported ball, but nevertheless is said to lead in sales volume. Juvenile baseball merchandise has already met with some retail activity that promises to grow with the opening of the professional season. Home exercisers have been selling to some extent, but expansion is affected by the setting-up exercises broadcast by radio and for which no apparatus is required.

Burlap Prices Are Higher.

Prices on "shipment" burlaps rose 10 to 20 points in this market during the past week, due to speculation at Calcutta. Spot heavyweights advanced 25 points here, but spot lightweights did not change. The rise in the former was due to the good demand for them, especially from the fertilizer trade, and to the paucity of stocks here at present. Lightweight spots dragged most of the week. Current stocks of all weights of burlaps in this country are meager and the outlook is distinctly bullish. Calcutta closed yesterday practically unchanged from Tuesday. In New York C. E. Roekstroh & Co., Inc., quoted these prices on standard 40-inch burlaps:

	8-oz.	10½-oz.
Spots	7.75c	*10c
April-June shipment	8.10c	9.70c
July-September shipment	7.85c	9.65c

Hesitation in Raw Silk.

The Japanese raw silk market is reflecting the lull and hesitation which has prevailed locally for two weeks past. Settlements on Tuesday were made on the basis of 1,355 yen for the Saiyu grade. The Yokohama market was closed yesterday for the Spring holiday. Prices here were $6.25 for 13-15 double extra cracks and $5.15 for extras, according to E. Gerli & Co., Inc. Buying is purely for spot delivery. Estimates indicate the consumption figures for March will be lower. Prices at Canton are considered too high and little business is being done. Quotations were $4.40 for 14-16s and $4.10 for 20-22s.

Winter Goods Cleared in South.

The continued demand for cold weather merchandise from certain sections of the South, while business in the East has been hampered by the open Winter, was explained by a Southern merchant here yesterday. He said that the Winter in his section, Asheville, N. C., was severe, in fact the coldest he could remember for some years. Snows were fairly heavy and retailers did well with their heavier outer garments. The demand, he added, continued longer than usual, and seasonal clearance sales met with good results.

Gray Goods Sales Fair.

Trading in gray goods here yesterday was fairly active, with printcloths given last attention than on Monday and Tuesday. Near-by business was done in 38½-inch 60-48s at 6⅝ cents and there was trading in April-May shipments of 39-inch 68-72s and 38½-inch 64-60s at 5⅞ and 7⅛ cents, respectively. Sheetings business was also fair, with 7 cents paid for 36-inch five-yard goods and 7½ cents for 40-inch 4.25s. For 40-inch 2.85-yard sheetings 10⅞ cents was the best that could be done. Sateens were more active. Some nice business was done on 37½-inch 4.37s at 10⅞ cents and on 4.70s in that width at 9¾ cents. For 30-60 carded broadcloths buyers paid 10⅛ cents, and good makes of 80-80 broadcloths fetched 9½ cents.

WEATHER FAVORABLE FOR WESTERN WHEAT

Rain and Snow Proved of Benefit to Grain Crops in the Southwest.

The weekly weather report released at Washington yesterday by the U. S. Department of Agriculture was in part as follows:

"Very little additional cotton was planted during week, though some was seeded in East Gulf district, while both early planted cotton and corn received a setback by cold weather in Southern Texas.

"As during past several weeks, weather was generally favorable for Winter wheat in western and southwestern portions of the belt, and mostly unfavorable in the eastern. Moderate to heavy rain or snow was of benefit over a large area of the Southwest, extending from northern portions of Texas and New Mexico to Southern Nebraska and Eastern Wyoming.

"In Ohio Valley and Lower Lake regions conditions were characterized by continuation of unfavorable freezing nights and thawing afternoons with further reports of damage to Winter grain crops. In Middle Atlantic area additional moisture was beneficial in some sections, while grains made fairly good advance in Southeastern States.

"In the Far Northwest conditions continued generally favorable, while in Eastern Great Basin winter grains are making satisfactory progress. Oat seeding was delayed by wet soil and unfavorable weather, with much yet to be done in Central Great Plains. Some Spring wheat was seeded in southern portion of the belt, though this work was not active."

RUBBER MARKETS DECLINE.

Prices Drop Here as Well as in London and Singapore.

Crude rubber futures moved to still lower levels on the Rubber Exchange yesterday. Weak cables imparted heavy tone and six active positions ended the day 80 to 90 points under Tuesday's final prices. Sales amounted to 1,200 lots, while twenty-three transfer notices were issued. Opening prices were 30 to 40 points down.

London opened easy and after early weakness turned steady at the lower prices. Spot and March closed at 12¾d for a decline of ¼d, April-June dropped ¼d to 12¾d. July-September was ¼d off at 13d, and October-December declined ¼d to 13⅛d. Singapore was easier with prices down from Tuesday.

SUES FOR $2,000,000.

English Firm Alleges Royalties Are Due From Smith & Wesson.

BOSTON, March 21 (AP).—Suit for $2,000,000 was filed in Federal Court here today by Gilberts Patents, Ltd., of Westminster, England, against Smith & Wesson, Inc., of Springfield. The English concern alleges the American company repudiated a contract covering the manufacture and marketing of two devices for which patents were held by Gilberts Patents, Ltd., and that the money is due under this contract.

The contract, according to the English company, covered the manufacture and sale of the devices during the life of the patent, seventeen years, and gave Smith & Wesson, Inc., license to sell them in North and South America and Central America. The terms of the contract, the complaint alleges, provided for payment of ten cents on each device marketed and also payment of $50,000 advance royalties the first year and $100,000 each year thereafter.

PLAN DISTRIBUTION PARLEY.

Business Leaders to Attend Columbia Institute, Prof. Egbert Says.

Plans for establishment of an Institute on Distribution by the School of Business of Columbia University were announced yesterday by Professor James C. Egbert, Director of the school. He added that the country's business leaders will participate in the first meeting of the institute, which will be held during 1928, the exact date to be fixed later. Professor Egbert declared there was general agreement among business men that the distribution of goods presents a serious problem.

"The facts of the situation are over capacity production," Professor Egbert said, "enormous recent advances in the technique of production, sharpened competition both at home and abroad, a consuming public exercising choice as never before. The anomaly is in American history of a high degree of general prosperity at a time of general falling prices and the urgent need to keep industry going, labor employed and general prosperity extended."

WANTS FEWER 'SQUEALERS.'

J. H. Fowler Says Electric Trade Needs More 'Hard Pluggers.'

"Fewer squealers and detractors and more hard-plugging contractors are what we need to insure progress in our industry," declared Joseph H. Fowler, electrical contractor of Memphis, Tenn., at the monthly luncheon of the New York Electrical League at the Hotel Commodore yesterday. Mr. Fowler asked that the manufacturers, jobbers, public utility corporations and contractors cooperate for the "re-electrification of the inadequately electrified homes of America."

"The situation is the same all over the country," he said. "Everywhere the manufacturers ignore the jobbers, the jobbers ignore the central stations and the central stations ignore the contractors, who fight among themselves. But our industry, in spite of its chaos, has grown so fast we haven't yet caught our breath. Sometimes I think we need a Czar, a sort of Judge Landis, and the man for that job would be your President, Mr. Whitehorne. If we cooperate we'll progress."

Earl Whitehorne, President of the league, presided.

TELLS OF SEIZURES FOR 'LOAN SHARKS'

Witness at Opening of Tuttle Inquiry Says Woman Was Decoy to Get Cabs.

$25 FOR EACH CAR TAKEN

Chauffeur Says He Lost Cab and Home by Demands of Lenders When He Owed Only $2.50.

United States Attorney Tuttle began the public phase of his loan shark investigation yesterday afternoon before Commissioner Garrett W. Cotter. After swearing to a John Doe complaint, and making a few introductory remarks, Mr. Tuttle proceeded immediately to call witnesses. Two men and a woman testified.

The complaint listed a large number of alleged illegal practices used by credit corporations in their mulcting of poor borrowers, and asserted that the mails were employed in these schemes. It is through the charge that the "usurers," which is the term employed throughout the complaint, used the mails that Mr. Tuttle contends that the Federal courts have jurisdiction. Interest rates, according to the complaint, scaled upward from 20 per cent.

The first witness called by Assistant United States Attorney Blake was Joseph Rogers of 1,748 Sterling Place, Brooklyn, described as the "strongest of the strong-arm men" used to obtain automobiles of borrowers whose payments were in arrears. Rogers prided himself on his prowess in his business, calling himself a "repossessor," and frankly disclosed the methods by which the seizures, illegal according to Mr. Tuttle, were made.

Worked for Nine Concerns.

Rogers listed nine different lending concerns for which he said he worked in his capacity as "repossessor," including the Pacific Finance Corporation, the Woolco Auto Brokerage, the Broadway Auto Brokerage, the Ben Wolff Corporation, the Century Security Corporation, the Regal Discount Corporation, the Mosee Credit Corporation and the Brevoort Finance Corporation.

All the testimony taken yesterday and nearly all the allegations contained in the complaint referred to practices indulged in against taxicab operators and in some instances private automobile owners.

Rogers said the different concerns for which he worked gave him the chattel mortgages which they made a practice of securing against the original loan whenever they wished a car "repossessed." It was then his job to get the car, which he did with the aid of a woman and a chauffeur. The woman, Sylvia Blair, who followed Rogers on the witness stand, was used as a decoy to hail the cab he was after and engage it.

The woman would order the chauffeur to drive to a garage, Rogers said, where she would get out and go inside, sending someone out a moment later to tell the driver that she wanted him to come in to be paid. Rogers and his chauffeur, who had been trailing the taxi, would then drive off with it.

For this service, Rogers testified, he was paid $25 per car. Of this, the chauffeur received $7, the woman $5, and the balance of information usually consumed an additional $5. When paid, Rogers said, it was the practice of his employer to write out a check for $35, which he would endorse, then taking $25 in cash. The extra $10, he said, was a fictitious charge added to the indebtedness claimed by the company against the borrower.

Woman Agrees With Him.

Miss Blair corroborated Rogers's testimony in so far as her part in the scheme was concerned. Rogers went into detail in describing his operations, asserting that he was the most skillful of the dozen or so "repossessors," which he said was the total number in that business. In the case of private cars, he said, when the owner left his machine locked, he removed it by the simple expedient of hiring a towing car and having it taken away.

The last witness, Abraham Schwartz, was a taxi driver who related a complicated story of his dealing with the Mosee Credit Corporation of 1,674 Broadway, which, he said, culminated in the loss of his cab, his home, and his means of livelihood. His wife, Schwartz said, had recently gone home to her mother with their six weeks' old baby because he had no money.

The details of Schwartz's story were given out by Mr. Tuttle last week, and published at that time, but his name was not then revealed. His troubles started, Schwartz testified, when he answered an advertisement of the Mosee concern, and took out a loan of $100 on his cab, to pay off a debt which remained on the purchase of the car.

Says Interest Jumped to $50.

Eighteen dollars was the interest charge originally agreed upon, Schwartz said, but as soon as he had left his car with the company, this sum jumped to $50. Through repairs which the Mosee company insisted should be done by their mechanic, the charges against him for service, interest, and other entries was built up to a total of $555 in a few weeks, and he was denied the use of his car, so that he could no longer make any money to make payments. According to his own figuring, when he was told he owed $555, he had actually paid off all except $2.50 of his loan.

Schwartz continued his narrative through the seizing of the car, first by himself, and then by the Mosee company again. At one time he was arrested, charged with grand larceny, but never brought before a Magistrate, being dismissed after he was finger-printed, and after he had given in to the demands of the company.

The public hearing will be continued this afternoon, and the Grand Jury investigation will be continued at the same time.

Liner Racing Against Time With March Contract Coffee.

Paralleling the days when clipper ships raced from China to reach the market with new tea, the Munson liner Southern Cross is racing against time with 20,000 bags of Rio coffee for tender on March contracts on the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange. In order that the coffee may be tenderable the bags must be in New York warehouses before the last trading day this month.

The Southern Cross is due here from Brazil Wednesday morning, March 28, and will dock at Pier 3, Hoboken. Since there is a possibility that the ship may be delayed as a result of storms or heavy weather, prospective transactions on the Exchange are now a sporting proposition with the element of chance predominating.

Arrangements are being made by consignees to have lighters ready to go alongside as soon as the ship docks. The bags will be transferred and under a fast tow landed on the New York side. From this point they will be rushed to warehouses and receipts obtained for tender on the Exchange.

COMMODITY PRICES

Advance in Cash Grains Continued—New Highs Established—Lard Up, Cotton Off.

A strong undertone in cash grains persisted again yesterday and prices for wheat, corn and rye were swept to new tops for the year. Lard also showed a brisk advance. Cotton sagged slightly following Tuesday's sharp upturn. Metals, groceries, dairy products and others were unchanged.

Yesterday's closing wholesale cash prices for commodities in the New York market, unless otherwise noted, were:

SUGAR, COFFEE, COCOA.

Sugar.

Sugar futures on the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange were slightly easier yesterday as a result of profit-taking. The market opened from 1 point lower to 2 points higher. The posting of 32 notices against March delivery caused the position to decline. The undertone of the market was firm notwithstanding a disappointing London market. There was heavy buying of July on the call by a broker with Cuban connections. Raw sugars were dull and in sympathy with the easier futures tone, Refined was quiet. The market closed quiet but steady with prices unchanged to 2 points lower.

Coffee.

The coffee futures market opened easier yesterday as a result of selling by houses with trade connections. Initial quotations were from 4 to 14 points lower for the A contracts and 1 to 15 points lower for the D contracts. Seventeen notices posted against March brought out only 3 lots at the call which caused the price to break 13 points. A sharp recovery in the A contracts followed. Trading in the D contract was slow, while cables were discouraging. At the close there was selling by local interests with Boston interests buying March and December. The A contracts closed from 10 to 21 points higher, while the D contracts closed from 5 to 30 points higher. Spots were quiet, with Rio 7s quoted at 16¾ cents, Santos 4s from 22¼ to 22¾ cents and Victoria 7s at 15¾ cents.

Price ranges for raw coffee futures yesterday were:

Cocoa.

Trading in cocoa futures on the New York Cocoa Exchange was quiet yesterday, the turnover being 50 lots. Liquidation appeared out of the way yesterday and consequently better prices were seen. Shorts were anxious buyers and Wall Street houses were on the constructive side. Dealers, too, appeared as buyers late in the session as the cables closed higher. The close was 5 to 10 points higher. The spot market was unchanged at 13½ cents and quiet.

Price ranges for cocoa futures yesterday were:

TELL FAKE BLADE PROCESS.

Women Testify Against Men Charged With Using Gillette Trademark.

Further testimony to support the State's contention that bogus Gillette razor blades were manufactured in the plant of the Peerless Blade Corporation at Irvington, N. J., was offered by Mrs. Christine Gluck of Hillside and Miss Annie Haselman of Newark yesterday. The blades were discovered when the police raided the Irvington plant and confiscated 3,000,000 blades said to bear the Gillette trade-mark.

The two women followed Ernest Neippenberg on the stand. He had testified that attempts had been made to bribe him to leave the country after he turned State's evidence against the three men on trial, William Berows, William Raiboldt and Nicholas Pinto, alias Louis Keller. The three are charged with fraud and conspiracy. Neippenberg and his brother, Walter, were jointly indicted with the three now on trial.

Mrs. Gluck testified that Neippenberg had brought Keller to her home where the proposition of wrapping the blades in counterfeit wrappers and boxes was put to her. Miss Haselman explained the process of marking the metal plates with a rubber stamp dipped in acid. The trial, which is in Quarter Sessions Court before Judge Flanagan at Newark, will be resumed this morning.

HOLDS ESKIMO PIE IS OLD.

Court Refused Plea for Writ in an Infringement Suit.

Because the secret of making Eskimo Pie was published in a book more than twenty years ago and was also patented by a German manufacturer in 1913, Federal Judge Campbell in the United States District Court in Brooklyn decided yesterday that the Eskimo Pie Corporation of 110 Bridge Street was not privileged to restrain other manufacturers from using the process. The Eskimo Pie Corporation brought suit for infringement of its patents against the Honeymoon Pie Corporation and four associated concerns of 92 Boulevard, Jamaica.

Had the contention of the Eskimo Pie Corporation that it was entitled to manufacture the confection exclusively been sustained, it would have eliminated scores of competitors in the product scattered through the United States.

Butter.

Receipts, 14,260 packages. Considerable weakness developed at the opening and a number of sales of creamery extras reported at 49c., but this awakened larger buying interest partly of a speculative character and the price was bid back to 49½@49¾c. for extras. Early sales of 93 score at 49½c., but later same qualities brought more money. Feeling steady at the close. Intermediate and lower grades about much change.

LATEST DEALINGS IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

MADISON AV. BLOCK IN LEASEHOLD DEAL

Mandelbaums and Irving Lewine Are Reported to Have Signed Contracts.

SEEK LEASE FOR 49 YEARS

Leopold Auer Sells His West 77th Street Residence — Other Manhattan Deals.

There were more rumors of sales in the real estate market than actual transactions yesterday.

Brokers, however, report a good demand for investment property and apartment house sites and the market in general is showing a decided upward trend. Yesterday's rumors of big deals all involved east side properties, important among which was the report that contracts had been signed for the purchase by Harris and Maurice Mandelbaum and Irwing Lewine, operators, of the leaseholds of the block front on the west side of Madison Avenue between Forty-seventh and Forty-eighth Streets.

This property, in the heart of the most active section of Manhattan, where values and rentals have made remarkable advances in the course of a few years, is occupied by the Carleton and the Ritz Chambers, two six-story apartment houses with stores.

They are owned by Lily H. Wittenberg and the Hamilton Fish estate, and occupy a plot fronting 200 feet on the avenue and 45 feet on Forty-seventh and Forty-eighth Streets.

There is an existing lease on the property which has seven years to run, and it is understood that the Mandelbaums and Mr. Lewine have signed contracts for the purchase of this lease with two twenty-one-year renewals.

Just what disposition the buyers of the lease propose to make of the property could not be learned yesterday, as Maurice Mandelbaum refused to either confirm or deny the transaction.

Another east side rumor that could not be confirmed was the sale by the Schermerhorn estate of the block front on the east side of Third Avenue between Sixty-eighth and Sixty-ninth Streets.

This transaction was also said to involve a number of the five-story private dwellings on the adjacent side streets also owned by the estate.

They were erected a number of years ago.

The leading change of ownership of private residential properties yesterday involved the four-story home of Professor Leopold Auer, violinist, at 320 West Seventy-seventh Street. The house occupies a lot 20 by 100 feet and was held at $50,000. Raymond P. Quinn Company was the broker in the deal.

It was sold to Josephine Frances McNamara, who will alter and occupy the building.

M. C. Berg, Inc., operators, sold Mrs. Margaret Anne Marshall the three-story residence at 110 West Eighty-fifth Street, on a lot 18 by 100 feet. J. M. Bryant was the broker in the sale.

A. Tooty purchased for occupancy the building at 261 West 123d Street. The building is on a lot 17 by 100 feet and was sold by Jerome H. Frank, operator.

B. & L. M. Shapiro announced the sale yesterday of the building at 175 and 177 West 165th Street to I. Epstein.

The Keiser Properties Corporation sold the block of taxpayers on the east side of Eighth Avenue between 110th and 111th Street to the Prestwick Corporation. Bennett E. Siegelstein represented the seller. The property was held at $250,000.

Three Bronx Plots Are Sold To Builders for New Flats

Three properties in the Bronx were acquired by builders yesterday for improvement with apartment houses. The H. J. Realty Corporation purchased from the Kagel Realty Company the plot of 150 by 100 feet at the southeast corner of Concord and 147th Street for an elevator building. Louis Carlish negotiated the sale.

As a site for an apartment house, the northeast corner of Boston Road and 165th Street, improved with five dwellings, was purchased by Isidor H. Kempner & Sons from Mathilda Heller.

The third housing project involves the southeast corner of Arthur Avenue and 179th Street, which was sold by Grudin & Sawitch for a six-story elevator apartment building. This was the first transfer of this site in thirty years.

The theatre will occupy the Cedar Lane block front bounded by Beverly Road and Lincoln Avenue. The apartment will be erected on a plot to the west of the theatre. It will be an elevator house of the English garden type and will contain two, three and four room suites. No immediate improvement of the remainder of the Cedar Lane frontage is contemplated.

A three-story brick flat at 79 Crescent Avenue, Jersey City, was sold by the Security Construction Company, Matthew Kramer, President, to Hugh Meehan of Jersey City. The building, which accommodates nine families, is opposite the Lincoln High School campus. The yearly rental return is over $5,000, according to J. I. Kialak, Inc., the broker. The buyer gave in part payment a six-family frame flat at 409 Grand Street, Jersey City. The aggregate value of the realty involved was about $55,000.

Theodore J. Miller bought a plot at the northwest corner of Rowan Road and Weston Avenue, in the Chatham Manor development at Chatham, from the Harmon National Real Estate Corporation. Alice B. Holton purchased the southwest corner of Dunbar and Carmine Streets.

NEW STATE LAW AIDS LOAN ASSOCIATIONS

Shares Are Now Legal Investments for Trust Funds by Trustees or Individuals.

SAFETY IS EMPHASIZED

Head of State League of Associations Points to Absence of Market Fluctuations.

One of the most important measures enacted into law by the State Legislature in the interest of savings and loan associations in many years is the Wicks bill, just signed by the Governor as Chapter 632 of the laws of 1928, making the shares of a savings and loan association having an accumulated capital of $100,000 or more legal investments for trust funds held by trustees or other persons, according to a statement issued yesterday by Le Grand W. Pellett, President of the New York State League of Savings and Loan Associations.

"It has long been a well-known fact," said Mr. Pellett, "that, due to strict State supervision and the well defined restrictions in the State Banking law, the savings and loan associations of New York stand at the top of the list in the matter of safety and the availability of funds to those who use their shares as a medium of investment or for the accumulation of savings.

"As compared with other legal investments for trust funds, the shares of savings and loan associations will be preferred by many trustees because of the fact that savings and loan associations in practice pay withdrawals upon demand and without the possibility of loss of any part of the principal, not being subject to market fluctuations as are other classes of investments.

"Moreover, the divided return from investment in the shares of savings and loan associations is substantially more than can usually be obtained elsewhere.

"Aside from the very desirable feature of flexibility of handling trust funds and the attractive dividend return, the fact that the security underlying the shares of a savings and loan association is represented by first mortgages on dwelling houses, which, due to the amortization feature of the savings and loan association plan will not average over 45 to 50 per cent. of the appraised values of all of the mortgage loans in such an association, makes investment in the shares of a savings and loan association much more attractive from the standpoint of safety than were such funds invested in a single mortgage loan to the extent permitted by law, which is two-thirds of the value of the property."

Add to Site in Brooklyn.

A three-story brick building at the corner of Fifth Avenue and Fifty-second Street, Brooklyn, has been acquired by the owners of Levine's Department Store at 5,204-14 Fifth Avenue, giving them a frontage of 100 feet on the avenue and 160 feet on the street. The corner was purchased four years ago by the present seller, John H. Bahrenburg, at a reported price of $92,000. Tutino & Co. were the brokers.

The Gunoff Realty Company sold the one-family brick dwelling at 2,549 Ninety-eighth Street, East Elmhurst, to J. Moore of Jackson Heights, who will occupy. The Hub Realty Company arranged the sale.

A plot 100 feet square on Kensington Road, Garden City, was sold by Herbert U. Silleck to A. A. Anderson, builders, for residential improvement. The site was held at $8,500, according to the brokers, Enequist, Gresson & Keiser, Inc.

Y., has been sold to the Blind Brook Realty Company, composed of Village President Edward Smith and Village Trustee David J. Kelley Jr. of Port Chester and William A. Berbusse, a Port Chester contractor.

The property, held at $225,000, includes eighty-four acres at a high elevation, the McClenahan homestead, two cottages and outbuildings. It faces the Blind Brook Club on the south, adjoins Dr. John A. Hartwell's estate on the north and on the west the estate of Thomas B. Gilford.

The property is to be developed into an exclusive residential colony. James McClenahan was a brewer, who maintained a number of show horses and a race track on his estate.

Mrs. Helen S. Robbins sold her brick Colonial house of nine rooms and three baths on Hartsdale Road in the Soundview section of White Plains to Mizell Wilson, a Manhattan attorney. Chauncey B. Griffen was the broker.

New Building for Montclair.

The Exchange Holding Corporation of Montclair, N. J., plans to erect a two-story structure in place of the one-story building now at the corner of Midland and Bloomfield Avenues, Montclair. The project will cost approximately $200,000. The Acker, Merrill & Condit Company will occupy three of the proposed stores, a lease for ten years having been signed through the Simpson Merritt Company.

Building designed around this exceptional space with direct entrances.

Also 25,000 square feet of contiguous space for a large corporation.

Desirable suites for corporations, firms and individuals.

MR. NOYES, we welcome you to our roster of distinguished tenants. We know your great record of accomplishment.

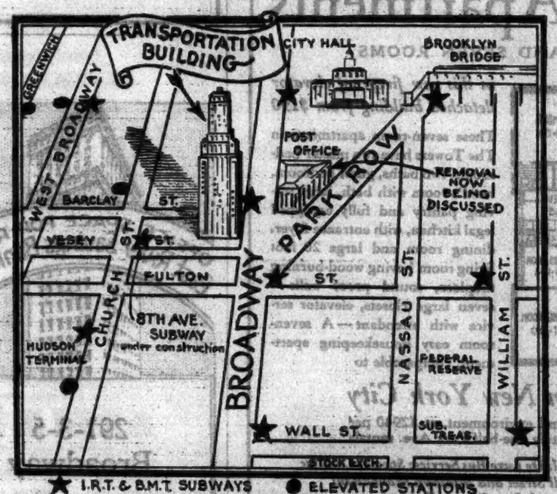
We know that the Noyes Company transacted the enormous total of more than $200,000,000 of business last year—that "Noyes National", under its president, Stanley K. Green, enjoyed an increase of more than 100% in business in the last half of 1927 over the corresponding period of 1926—that Mr. Green's organization has established offices in Chicago, Spokane, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Salt Lake City, New Orleans and direct representatives in 482 other cities—that the Noyes Company has grown to 168 office employes and to 1525 persons in its management organization giving service to hundreds of buildings.

We designed and built the Transportation Building for just such organizations as yours and we feel certain that the same reasons which actuated you in selecting this building will have a tremendous appeal to other business leaders.

Our 44-story building contains every construction feature for the smooth and efficient conduct of business.

Our automatic high-speed signal-controlled elevators serve tenants with a safety and celerity hitherto unknown. These elevators alone cost us more than $600,000 to install.

Our revolutionary floor-plan makes it possible to obtain exceptionally large areas all flooded with daylight. We feel certain that here you will be happily situated to go on to new records and new heights—and we look forward to a long and mutually satisfactory association.



Transportation Building Offices Offer the Prestige of an Outstanding Broadway Address

A SPECULATIVE INVESTMENT.
The new West Side freight route of the New York Central Railroad will give Manhattan the greatly needed, modern-sized freight service with the building; the saving in trucking and incidental charges will pay the rent on a good-sized building; this logically means that the values of land immediately adjoining the Central's tracks will increase heavily in value; here is a plot on 25th St. adjoining the route which will receive the benefit of such increase in value and pay a return in the meantime; plot 50x100, with substantial two and four story business buildings in need of repair; can be bought right and the future gain in value will be 50% to possibly 100% above today's price. Owner WILLIAM D. KILPATRICK, 149 Broadway.

CHEAP DOWNTOWN BUSINESS BUILDING in tobacco district; near Maiden Lane; solid four-story building; possession May 1 or sooner; bargain at $52,500; easy terms; adapted for many lines of business. Owner, William D. Kilpatrick, 149 Broadway.

HEARING ON NEXT THURSDAY

Interborough Ousts President of Amalgamated Local After 10-Minute Trial.

Because of the illness of Samuel Untermyer, special counsel for the Transit Commission, the sitting of the Federal statutory court, scheduled for this afternoon to hear further argument on the application of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company for a seven-cent fare was postponed yesterday until 10:30 next Thursday morning. The city's argument will then be presented by former Controller Charles L. Craig and George L. Ransom, special counsel for the Interborough, will make a reply argument.

Presiding Judge Martin T. Manton granted the postponement after Dr. Edward S. Cowles of 591 Park Avenue, Mr. Untermyer's physician, submitted a statement indicating that his patient was suffering from an infected appendix and that he required a few days' rest if an operation was to be averted.

At Mr. Untermyer's suite in the Ambassador it was said last night that he had a slight temperature but that otherwise his condition was fair. It was added that a further consultation of physicians would be held this morning to determine whether an operation was advisable.

Both Mr. Untermyer and Mr. Craig declared yesterday that there was no conflict between them regarding the policy to be pursued in combatting the Interborough's increased fare suit. It was pointed out that Mr. Untermyer had upheld from the outset the validity of the five-cent fare contract between the city and the Interborough and that Mr. Craig was merely concentrating upon that phase of the entire case. The intricate questions of valuation and fair return upon capital invested, it was indicated, would be handled by Mr. Untermyer.

Mr. Craig continued yesterday his intensive study of the documents already filed in the case. It was learned from Corporation Counsel George P. Nicholson yesterday that the $25,000 fee for Mr. Craig's services in defending the constitutionality of the municipal five-cent fare law during the closing year of the Hylan Administration was paid on Dec. 20, 1926.

Union President Ousted.

Prospects of a strike upon the Interborough's lines, already negligible, faded into insignificance yesterday when leaders of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes accepted with at least outward complacency the expulsion from the Interborough Brotherhood and automatically from the company's service, of William J. Thompson, President of the local union. At the same time the company, through James C. Doyle, Superintendent of Operations, announced that all but about 100 of the recently hired strikebreakers had been dismissed.

The discharge of Mr. Thompson came after he had been tried by the Brotherhood. The hearing, over which Patrick J. Connolly, Brotherhood head, presided, lasted only ten minutes.

International officers of the Amalgamated at the Hotel Continental had no comment to make upon Thompson's discharge or upon Mr. Connolly's expressed determination to expel from the brotherhood all employes attending meetings of the Amalgamated local union.

Superintendent Doyle said that the 100 men retained by the company had received permanent jobs as guards. The company, he said, would have the entire strikebreaking force back on duty on three hours' notice, if it became necessary.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 21.—Pressure remains low over the Canadian maritime provinces, and a disturbance with centre over the far north is advancing eastward and extends in the form of a trough from western Greenland, southwestward over the Hudson Straits and Hudson Bay to the northern lake region and Southeastern Alaska Coast.

Pressure is high from the southern plain States and Texas eastward to the Atlantic Coast, and it is relatively high and rising from the north of the Arctic Circle southward to northern Manitoba.

The northern disturbance will continue to move eastward, and it will likely be attended by showers Thursday afternoon or night in the lower lake region, northern New York and northern New England.

Otherwise generally fair weather will prevail during the next two days east of the Mississippi River. The weather will become warmer throughout this area during Thursday.

The temperature will continue to rise Friday in the South Atlantic States, but somewhat lower temperature is indicated from the upper Ohio Valley and lower lake region eastward to the Atlantic Coast.

TWO LARGE LINERS RETURN TO SERVICE

America of United States Lines Sails From Hoboken for Europe on First Trip in Two Years.

MAJESTIC ON HER WAY HERE

White Star Vessel Was Repaired Throughout at Dry Dock in Southampton.

Two American and British liners sailed yesterday from opposite shores of the Atlantic, reentering the service after extended periods of idleness during which they were renovated and furnished at a cost of millions of dollars. The America of the United States Lines left Hoboken for Cherbourg, Plymouth and Bremen on her first trip in two years, and the Majestic of the White Star Line left Southampton for New York.

About 2,000 persons watched the America as she started on her first trip. Captain George Fried, who commanded the United States liner President Roosevelt when she rescued the crew of the British freighter Antinoe on high seas, was in command of the America. Among those who waved farewell was General A. C. Dalton, Vice President and general manager of the Merchant Fleet Corporation, who came from Washington for the occasion.

The America had 462 passengers aboard when she sailed at noon. It was estimated that 20,000 persons visited the ship at her Hoboken pier since her arrival there March 5.

The America is the fifth cabin liner of the United States Lines operating between New York and Bremen and the third largest vessel of the fleet. Repaired and refurnished at the yards at Newport News after being damaged by fire two years ago, she is said to be one of the best cabin ships in the Atlantic service.

The 56,000-ton Majestic returned to service after being scraped and painted and repaired throughout at the Southampton docks.

The return of the Homeric to transatlantic service on April 4 will bring the White Star Line fleet to full strength. The Homeric left New York Jan. 21 on a cruise to the Mediterranean. She will sail from Southampton April 4 and is scheduled to arrive here April 10.

CLOTHING MEN HEAR PLEA FOR ARBITRATION

Head of Manufacturers' Exchange at Annual Dinner Urges Co-operation With Union.

The problems of the clothing industry were outlined by several prominent leaders in its various branches at the annual dinner of the New York Clothing Manufacturers Exchange, Inc., at the Hotel Biltmore last night. Chief Justice Benjamin N. Cardozo of the Court of Appeals of the State of New York was the guest of honor. Charles D. Jaffee, President of the Exchange, presided.

Mr. Jaffee declared he believed the constructive group within the industry had sensed its obligations in the matter of settling disputes by means of arbitration, and added "the entire trade is not yet in accord with the principles set forth by the Exchange, since some have aimed to settle their disputes by employing petty methods which are destructive to the entire market. Only by a unified attitude on the part of both the manufacturers and the union can we hope to conquer the problem of unemployment.

Presenting the side of the workers in the industry, Sidney Hillman, President of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, advised the manufacturers not to look forward to a condition of lower costs and greater production in the future.

Jacob Billikopf, Impartial Chairman of the Clothing Industry of New York, said that the methods employed by the Exchange during the last four years had helped to create a favorable state of mind among those engaged in the various branches of the industry and that he expected other industries would profit by their experiences.

Other speakers were Boris Maruchess, Labor Manager of the Exchange, Abraham Beckerman, Manager of the New York Joint Board of the Clothing Workers, and Dr. Nathan Krass, rabbi of Temple Emanu-El.

TAKEN TO MORGUE, WOMAN PROVES ALIVE

Woman on New York Train at Capital Identified as Holtsville (L. I.) Nurse.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—Early this morning William Earle, porter of a Pennsylvania train from New York City, rushed into the office of Dr. C. W. Harnsberger, the Union Terminal physician, and called the doctor to a berth in his car. There, apparently a suicide by means of a chloroform-soaked towel, was the body of a young woman.

This was at 7:25 A. M. An hour later, in the dingy morgue by the Potomac River, W. M. Schoenberger, the official in charge, and his assistant, W. W. Estes, leaped back from the body when they saw a muscle twitch slightly in the neck. A moment later a feeble gasp came from the rigid lips.

Schoenberger summoned the Fire Department rescue squad with its pulmotor. Then began a fight to save the young woman from death. It lasted all afternoon and it was still going on tonight at the Casualty Hospital, where she was taken following a blood transfusion.

WASHINGTON, March 21 (AP).—According to The Washington Post the young woman supposed to have attempted suicide on a train reaching here from New York this morning is Mrs. Mary True, a nurse at the Suffolk Sanatarium on Long Island, New York.

Special to The New York Times.

HOLTSVILLE, L. I., March 21.—Mrs. Mary True is an undergraduate nurse at the Suffolk Sanitarium and has been employed there for the last two years. The sanitarium treats tuberculosis patients.

For some time Mrs. True had been in a highly nervous condition, attendants at the sanitarium said tonight, having recently suffered a breakdown. Her home is in a Western city.

LEVINE ALL READY FOR ENDURANCE FLIGHT

Announces He Will Start This Morning in Attempt to Break World's Record.

Special to The New York Times.

ROOSEVELT FIELD, Thursday, March 22.—Shortly after midnight Charles A. Levine announced that he and Wilmur A. Stultz would take off in the Bellanca monoplane Columbia at 9 o'clock this morning in an attempt to establish new American and world's records for airplane endurance flights.

The American record is now held by Clarence D. Chamberlin, Levine's pilot on their transatlantic flight, and Bert Acosta. They flew the Columbia for 51 hours and 21 minutes over Long Island, last April. At that time Chamberlin and Acosta established a world's record also, but this was broken on August 4 and 5 last when Johann Risticz and Cornelius Edzard, German aviators, flew a German Junkers plane for 52 hours 23 minutes, beating the Chamberlin-Acosta record by 1 hour 11 minutes.

Since then Levine has frequently announced that he would attempt to beat the record established by the Germans. Late last evening the Columbia was fueled with about 470 gallons of gasoline.

CORBETT TRIAL NEAR END.

Jury Will Get $250,000 Alienation Suit Against Countess Today.

The taking of testimony in the trial of the $250,000 alienation suit brought against Countess Soranzo by Mrs. Alice Bland Corbett ended yesterday afternoon with the presentation of four rebuttal witnesses for the plaintiff. Mrs. Corbett has charged the Countess with wilfully stealing the affections of her husband, James F. Corbett, now serving a five-year term in Sing Sing Prison. The Countess has denied that she knew Corbett was married when she was married to him in December, 1925.

Miss Catherine Corbett, the second sister of the plaintiff's husband to appear as a witness for her sister-in-law, testified that she had met Countess Soranzo, the daughter of Frederick A. Stevenson, an executive of the American Car and Foundry Company, at the Long Island College Hospital with Corbett shortly after the latter's wife had borne his child. This was in contradiction to the testimony of the Countess, who had denied ever having visited the hospital. Miss Corbett, however, grew confused as to dates and to what, if any, conversation had ensued, when she was cross-examined by Kenneth M. Spence, counsel for Countess Soranzo.

The Countess was called to the stand by Leo B. Schwarz, Mrs Corbett's lawyer, but his questions were not allowed by Supreme Court Justice Mullan.

WILL INQUIRE INTO RATES.

Shipping Board Decides to Examine Transatlantic Freights.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—A formal investigation of transatlantic ocean rate structures was decided upon by the Shipping Board today after a meeting with a committee representing the North Atlantic-United Kingdom freight conference. Atlantic Fruit rates from Boston and New York were considered with the view to re-equalizing the through rate from central freight association territory with that enjoyed by South Atlantic ports.

The board in response to a request from the Boston Chamber of Commerce recently suggested to the conference that it readjust the rates from the North Atlantic ports on a lower level.

The meeting today was behind locked doors. At its conclusion the board announced that with the receipt of a formal complaint from the Boston Chamber of Commerce it would set a date for a hearing on the method of equalizing the rates.

ASK RAIL AND SHIP UNITY.

Railroad Men at Foreign Commerce Club Urge Cooperation.

More than 200 members of the Foreign Commerce Club of New York City attended the club's monthly dinner at the Hotel Astor last night to hear a discussion of "Trunk Line Cooperation with Steamship Lines" by a group of railroad men.

The principal speakers were N. G. Campbell of the Central Railroad of New Jersey and A. C. McIntyre and James Swift of the Lehigh Valley Railroad. All concurred in the opinion that steamship lines and railroads would profit from closer freight cooperation.

James Condon of the Munson Steamship Line, President of the club, presided at the dinner.

WOULD SHARE EXCESS GAINS

Hudson River Line President Suggests Method.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 21.—A proposal that excess earnings of railroads, steamship lines and other transportation companies be divided equally between employes and stockholders after the companies had earned 6 per cent. on their invested capital was made last night by Colonel Edward C. Carrington, President and Chairman of the Hudson River Night Line, in a speech before the Capitol District Traffic Club.

Such a division, the steamship head said, would result in inducing a larger measure of personal effort in building up the properties and avoiding accidents.

Friends Give Dinner for Col. Foran.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., March 21.—Colonel Arthur P. Foran, Controller of Customs of the Port of New York, was the guest at a dinner given last night at the Nassau Inn by the Annex Club of Princeton. Many friends of Colonel Foran came to pay tribute to him. R. K. Rochester, manager of the Long Island Railroad; W. E. McGuirk, head of the Yellow Taxi Corporation of New York; Governor Moore, Commissioner Page of Trenton, Judge Van Riper, the Rev. Joseph Connors and others made addresses.

Ship Men View Montauk Port Today

A group of officials of the French Line will go to Montauk Point today to view possible sites for steamship piers which may be necessary to accommodate the larger ships which the company plans to build. Pierre de Malgiave, President of the line, will head the party. The trip will be made at the invitation of the Long Island Railroad Company.

S-4 REVEALS FIGHT OF CREW TO ESCAPE

Hull Discloses Attempts to Cut a Hole Through the Wall With Chisels.

AIR LINE FOUND INTACT

Investigation Board Says Oxygen Could Have Been Pumped to the Forty Trapped Men.

BOSTON, March 21 (AP).—Evidence that the last hours of some of the forty men who died on the sunken submarine S-4 were spent in frantic attempts to batter a hole through the hull was uncovered today by the Naval Board of Investigation.

Cold chisels, hand wrenches and several other battering tools were found spread about the débris on the motor room deck, the compartment where most of the crew died. The walls were battered and scarred by many heavy blows and one spot indicated that an attempt had been made to cut through with a chisel. The walls of the small tiller room bore the same marks, as did the torpedo compartment, where Lieutenant Graham N. Fitch and his five comrades lived for seventy-two hours.

The men in the motor room, members of the board said, probably lived for some time after the submarine was sunk by the Coast Guard destroyer Paulding. Officers said the six men in the torpedo compartment left evidence which showed they had almost exceeded the limits of human endurance before death put them out of their misery.

One of the major discoveries of the day was the finding by the board that the submarine's salvage air line was in working order. This line was tested and functioned perfectly, although a small amount of water was found. This salvage air line runs to the various compartments and had an airline been connected to it air could have been pumped into all parts of the S-4 to maintain life until the collection of carbon monoxide reached a fatal degree.

Body of a Fish Found.

Commander Harold E. Saunders, who directed the actual salvaging operations, explained that the submarine's crew probably opened the salvage air line, and when it leaked water decided it was ruptured and closed it. This air line had no connection with the air line to the ballast tanks, which was found broken.

Near the spot on the deck in the torpedo room where Lieutenant Fitch's body was found were several small hand wrenches. Marks on the deck indicated that he had used these implements and rapped out signals until he lost consciousness.

Search of the engine room disclosed a torpedo watch stopped at 8:05 and the body of a large dogfish, which was believed to have entered the submarine through an opening and died trapped as did the crew.

Among the visitors today was James Rice, machinist mate, who is still carried on the navy records as a member of the S-4's crew. He was a patient at the Portsmouth Naval Hospital when the submarine started on its last voyage. Rice came here to furnish the investigation board with intimate facts about his dead shipmates.

Tonight the bodies of Seamen Snizek, Pelnar, Sterman and Stevens were placed on trains for shipment to their next of kin.

Fitch Funeral Today.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—Funeral services for Lieutenant Graham Fitch of the S-4 will be held at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at Fort Myer chapel with full military honors. Captain C. H. Dickins, Chaplain Corps, will officiate.

The body of Russell Crabb, torpedo man of the S-4, arrived this morning at the receiving vault at Arlington National Cemetery. Arrangements for funeral services will be announced later. His widow is Mrs. Mildred Crabb of Fall River, Mass.

WALKER ON YACHT SAFE FROM INTERVIEWS

Large Party on the Harmony Passes Rough Night Off Long Key, Fla.

Special to The New York Times.

MIAMI, Fla., March 21.—Mayor James J. Walker of New York tonight was in his "Paradise"—a place, according to a recent statement attributed to him, where there are "no telephones, office boys, clerks, department heads or reporters." He is aboard the yacht Harmony, lying off Long Key, seventy miles south of Miami, where the sail fish leap and sharks grow wild, but not beyond the twelve-mile limit.

The night promises to be a "howling" one for Gotham's chief executive, for a stiff northeaster was kicking up waves and making it merry for the Harmony, the yacht of William H. Todd of New York.

The Harmony put into Miami late this afternoon on its way to Long Key to allow its chief engineer to come ashore with mail. As soon as the engineer returned, the Harmony weighed anchor and headed south in Biscayne Bay. The yacht left Palm Beach shortly after noon today.

On landing at the municipal docks the engineer said:

"The reason why we are not stopping is that the Mayor wants to keep away from interviews and cameras. He's just going fishing and on his return will dock at Palm Beach, where he will board a private car for New York."

He denied reports that the Harmony had put in on account of rough seas. There was a large party on the Harmony and Mayor Walker was proving to be a good sailor, he said.

Only a few fishermen live on Long Key.

Jobs Asked for Gravesend Idle.

The Gravesend Civic Association has sent letters to the heads of fifteen concerns, appealing for employment for more than 100 men in the district who are out of work, it was announced at a dinner of the association in Teitelbaum's Restaurant, 2,928 Surf Avenue, Coney Island, last night, by William Wilmer, secretary. About 150 attended the dinner, which was followed by dancing and entertainment.
